BEAN STEW— From South Africa comes a recipe for a bean stew which requires two coupons for six servings. Stewing lamb, boneless stewing beef, chuck, flank or round may be used. The recipe requires 1½ pounds of boneless lamb (front quarter), three tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, two onions, sliced thin, four cups of boiling water, three cups of green beans and six medium potatoes, cut in halves ....Cut the meat into one-inch pieces. Mix flour, salt and pepper and roll meat in the mixture, coating it well. Brown the onion lightly in a little hot fat in a heavy skillet. Add meat and any flour which has not clung to the meat; brown well....Add boiling water, cover closely and simmer for about 45 minutes. Add beans, cook 10 minutes longer, then add potatoes and continue cooking until meat and vegetables are tender.

For Friday, July 9

POWERFUL astral configurations, predominant on this day, point up to the unusual, original, esciting and romantic. New projects of extraordinary propositions should advance with sudden force and with the aid of influential personages, impressed by novelty and originality. Mechanical skill is emphasized, although travel, change, art, law and letters command attention. It would be well to be cautious with all writings and contracts.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of surprising and thrilling opportunity for trying out their ingenuity, skill and practical ability in putting over bold, original and possibly unique creations, ideas or suggestions that attract promotional assistance from those in influential places. This may relate to inventions, scientific or mechnical, in connection with the air or other engines. Change, travel, and new contracts may be involved, with legal aspects, to all of which be alert to misunderstandings or treachery. Adventure and romance may have thrilling denouements.

A child born on this day may have unusual talents and skills, with original scientific and inventive genius, either in practical creative form or in the realm of ideas —dramatic, literary or unique. It should have a romantic and adventurous career, with fame and fortune.

Lace Muffin Hat

By ALICE ALDEN

LACE IS the mainstay of the milliner for her smart and really wearable summer hats. Lilly Dache, always fond of lace, has used it for some delightful hats coupled with matching gilets. This pert model is a muffin shaped hat of white Brittany lace with a band and bow of black velvet and a ruffled gilet to match.

Making Use of Cherries While They Are In Season

By MARY MOORE

When we were in a little northern town this week I discovered a genuine autocrat of a country Store. He wasn't old and grizzled or slow moving; he was fortyish and rosy-cheeked, but his store was by a small flag-stop station and the only store for 4 miles around.

He had some swet cherries freshly picked, and I asked for some. Then I saw 4 cans of pie pack cherries on his shelf and asked for one. He said "why don't you use fresh cherries for pie while they are in and leave this canned stuff for when we can't get them fresh any more?" I said "Okay" in a red-faced sort of way, for I was properly put in my place—and me a food writer. I'm glad he didn't know it!

Since then I've made two different kinds of cherry pie—I sure hesitate to open a can of pie fruit since I received that short-but-to-the-point lecture.

MEM'S CHERRY PIE

While this is only a one-crust pie I think it is good practice to make enough pastry to keep in refrigerator for another pie another day so this recipe will make two crusts:

Pastry: 2 cups flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening. Mix and sift flour and salt. Put the shortening into it with a knife. Add only enough water to hold the ingredients together. Do not knead it. Divide dough into 2 parts and wrap one half tightly in wax paper and store in refrigerator for next one-crust pie. Roll out other half and fit over bottom of large pie plate—perforate with fork and bake at very high temperature. Turn over on large flat plate to cool when baked.

In the meantime prepare cherries, but washing and pitting them—you should have 3 well-packed cups. To them add ½ cup water and bring to boiling point. Drain off juice and put well-drained cherries into pie crust. There should be about 1 cup juice left. To this add 2 tablespoons cornstarch mixed with ½ cup sugar and stir until thick, then cook over boiling water until there is no taste of raw starch—about 15 minutes. Sprinkle the cherries in pie with about 3 tablespoons berry sugar or fine sugar, then pour boiling hot juice over them—being careful to have the hot juice cover all the top cherries. Chill pie before serving, but do not make more than 2 hours ahead of meal time. A perfectly lovely looking and delicious Cherry Tart. If you want yours a little sweeter than this recipe will make it add 2½ grain saccharin tablets to the syrup just before pouring it over the pie.

CHERRY MERINGUE PIE

Line pie plate with rich crust. Fill with fresh but pitted cherries. Into - cup swet cream stir 2 egg yolks (top milk may be used if cream is not available), 1 tablespoon of flour, 1 cup sugar. Pour this over cherries, and bake 30 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. or until custard is set. Beat the 2 egg whites with 4 tablespoons sugar until stiff, then spread over filling—return to oven to brown meringue.

Two-Crust Cherry Pie

The orthodox two-crust cherry pie can be made using the whole recipe for pastry above, 3 cups of pitted cherries, ¾ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar with the cornstarch. Sprinkle bottom crust with the mixture. Put in cherries which should be well drained. Sprinkle top with remaining sugar Put on top crust, but be sure to seal edges well and to make big gashes in top. Bake at 450 degrees Fahr. for 15 minutes then reduce heat to 350 degrees Fahr. to finish —about 40 minutes in all.

Steamed Cherry Pudding

Four tablespoons shortening, 2/3 cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt. 2½ cups flour. 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg 2 eggs beaten, 1½ cups chopped stoned raw cherries. Cream the shortening and sugar. Add other ingredients and 1 cup cold water. Half fill a greased pudding mould. Cover tightly and steam for 2 hours. Serve with lemon sauce.

Lemon Sauce

One tablespoon cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter, nutmeg salt. Combine cornstarch, sugar, lemon peel and lemon juice. Boil 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Add butter. Season to taste with nutmeg and salt.

Cherry Compote

I like this method because it is very little trouble and a nice way of using cherries for dessert when they are plentiful.

Two cups pitted cherries, 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar. Boil water and sugar together two minutes, add cherries and boil in syrup 10 minutes. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Cherry Preserves

Select sour red cherries, discard any imperfect ones, wash and drain well. Remove stems and pits without tearing the fruit needlessly. For each pound of pitted cherries use ¾ lb. sugar. Combine the fruit and sugar in alternate layers and let them stand 8 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking. In morning stir over heat until it reaches boiling point and boil rapidly until syrup thickens somewhat, taking care to prevent scorching. Pour at once into sterile hot jars, and seal.

Perfect Potato Salad

Potato salad is good with just mayonnaise and a little onion but the additions to this one I think make it perfect. Four cups diced potatoes, 2/3 cup true mayonnaise 1 tablespoon each chopped, mint, peppercress, parsley, green onions 2 tablespoons sliced radishes, salt and pepper. Mix just before serving on well-cupped leaves of head lettuce.

The mint and the peppercress were additions I had never made to potato salad—if you have leftover cooked new green peas or a few raw ones to add be sure to remember them.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: I use your cooking hints and like them very well. I would like to ask you if you can let me know how to remove grass stains out of colored clothes. Mrs. Curtis H. F.

Answer: Wash the stained places in clean, cold soft water, without soap, before the garment is otherwise wet. Then remove the stain with ether, in which the coloring matter of grass-chlorophyll is soluble.

Or if you do not want to use ether a good pure soap may be dissolved into a little methylated spirits and used to take out the stain. Since the goods is colored you must work quickly and rinse the solution out of the goods as soon as the stain is gone.

Question: My little niece is living with me ruring the war—her home is in England and she often asks me for scones—but I hate to admit I do not know how to make them. If you have a good recipe I would like to have it. She says her mother made them with orange rind in them. I've used several recipes from your columns. "Blighty's Aunt".

Answer: I think she will like recipe for Cream Scones.

CREAM SCONES

Two cups flour, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, grated rind of 1 orange, ¾ cup light cream or top milk, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1 egg, slightly beaten. Sift and measure the flour. Sift again with baking soda, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening until it is fine as course corn meal. Add orange rind. Combine cream and vinegar. Add to flour mixture, stirring quickly to form a stiff dough. Knead slightly on slightly floured board. Roll out ⅝ inch thick. Cut in diamond shapes. Brush with egg. Place on floured but ungreased baking sheet. Bake 10 or 12 minutes at 475 deg. Fahr. (very hot oven). This amount makes 12 scones.

Question: We are fond of codfish but the doctor says my husband must not have so many fried foods, and I usually make codfish cakes. Is there any way to use codfish besides frying? Thanks for the answer to my last letter. Maritimer.

Answer: You are welcome.

CODFISH LOAF

This is made the same as codfish cakes; 6 medium-sized boiled potatoes, 2 cups shredded freshened salt cod, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup milk. Pare the potatoes and mash. Add codfish and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Add pepper and milk. Beat until fluffy. Pour into well greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until set. Delicious served with tomato sauce when baked in form of loaf.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers question put to this paper regarding Price Control and ration regulations.

Q—I have not yet received my canning sugar coupons though I sent in an application for them in April. What should I do about it?

A—Write giving particulars to the office of your local Ration Board. They will check your application in their files and let you know why you have not received your allowance.

Q—Tell me, are June canning sugar coupons good until the end of September?

A—Yes, and so are July and August canning sugar coupons.

Q—We are spending a week in New ork State and would like to know how to obtain rations.

A—You shold apply to the United States immigration office at the border or to the nearest American local ration board office in the community in which you holiday. They will give you an application form, which when completed will entitle you to a temporary ration card covering your length of stay.

Q—Isn't the ceiling price of potatoes in Hamilton area 58 cents per 15-lb. peck? Today I was charged 5 lb. for 25 cents.

A—You are quite right in making a complaint. Thank you for sending us the particulars. We have referred the case to the board's investigation department for prompt enquiry. Maximum prices for old and new potatoes now are: Toronto $2.57 per 75-lb. bag, 57 cents per 15-lb. peck; Hamilton, $2.58, 58c; St. Catharines, $2.59, 58c; Welland, $2.59, 58c; Niagara Falls, $2.59, 58c; Oshawa, $2.57, 57c; Peterborough, $2.55, 57c; Lindsay, $2.55, 57c; Orillia, $2.58, 58c; Bracebridge, $2.59, 59c; Parry Sound, $2.59, 58c. Potatoes sold in less than 15-lb. (or peck) quantity must conform to the per pound rate for pecks.

Please send your questions or your request for a Price Ceiling Record Book (the book in which you keep track of yocr ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this newspaper to: Wartime Prices and Trade, 406 Metropolitan Building, Toronto.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: I got the recipe I am sending from a magazine but I have changed it from the original and I think it is quite good and economical. The sauce is the part I var the most-it an be made of mushrooms, or cheese, or contain bits of leftover meat, or vegetables.

Egg Custard

(Contributed by Pailine Johns)

Beat 4 eggs thoroughly with ½ teaspoon of salt (there are only three of us but I use 4 eggs), add 1 cup milk and beat well. Pour into greased cups or moulds and steam until set—½ to 1 hour depending on size of dishes. Or bake by standing moulds in pan of hot water and baking at 350 deg. Fahr. When serving pour over a sauce.

White Sauce

2 tablespoons butter melted, 2 cups flour added, then stir in 1 cup hot milk until thick. To this add seasonings and something else interesting such as parsley, chopped tomato, mushroom (fried) or leftover meat or vegetables such as peas or asparagus. OR use tomato juice instead of milk and add chopped onion and green pepper. You need never serve this sauce twice the same and I serve an egg custard nearly every week.

That variety is my idea of good cooking—would you let me add my idea of lemon juice in the sauce and a little chopped bacon? Needless to say come again with more like above.

Favorite Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SIMPLE frock of well defined print persists right through the summer and will be worn until autumn is really here. Faye Emerson, who is addicted to this type of frock for all but formal events these days, wears this colorful print in aquamarine blue splashed with large white flowers. The one-piece frock fashioned on softened shirtmaker lines is a classic, and like all classics, is enduring.

IN MEMORIAM

HALL—In ever loving memory of a dear father, J. Warren Hall, who passed away, July 7, 1934.
The flowing stream of life rolls on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of him who once sat there.
His life was one long sacrifice,
His heart was true and tender
He toiled so hard for those he loved,
Then left us to remember.
—Sadly missed by his Family.

MARSHALL — In loving memory of George Edward Marshall who passed away July 8, 1940.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet happy memories cling round your name,
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.
— Lovingly remembered by his Wife and Family.

DETROIT —(AP) — Disapproval is evident among the fans who take their baseball at Briggs Stadium over the fact that the veteran outfielder, Roger Cramer, close to 38 years of age, has been left off the American League roster for the All-Star game at Philadelphia. Cramer's batting for the Tigers is still around the .300 mark.

NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE MUNICIPAL ACT AND IN THE MATTER OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH FOR THE STOPPING UP AND CLOSING OF AN ALLOWANCE FOR HIGHWAY AND SELLING THE SAME TO DONALD E. EPHGRAVE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, Pursuant to Section 498 of The Municipal Act, that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough proposes to consider and if deemed advisable to pass at its Regular Meeting to be held at the Council Chamber in the City Buildings, in the City of Peterborough, on Tuesday, the 3rd Day of August, 1943, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., a By-law to Stop Up and Close that part of Antrim Street in the said City lying immediately north of and adjoining the northerly limit of Lot Number 10 south of Antrim Street and west of George Street, bounded on the east and on the west by the northerly productions of the easterly and westerly limits of the said Lot and on the north by a straight line drawn westerly and parallel with the southerly limit of the said Lot Number 10 from a point in the northerly production of the easterly limit thereof distant 19 feet 6½ inches northerly from the north-easterly angle of the said Lot, subject and reserving unto the persons entitled thereto a right of way in, over, along and upon the westerly 12 feet of the said parcel, and to sell the said part of the allowance for road above described to Donald E. Ephgrave.

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE. That before passing the said By-law at its Meeting to be held at the time and place above-mentioned the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough shall then and there hear in person or by his counsel, solicitor or agent any person who claims that his land will or might be prejudicially affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

DATED at Peterborough, this 7th Day of July, A.D. 1943.

E. A. OUTRAM. Clerk.

Learn the Fundamentals of Home Nursing

Nursing Important

Everyone should know something about home nursing. Particularly in wartime is this necessary. You can never tell when you will be called upon to save a person's life, and a practical knowledge of nursing is immensely helpful.

Also, if you have a sick person in the house you may have to care for him yourself, so if you haven't any experience you should learn immediately!

Our 32-page booklet gives in clear everyday language the important do's for the home nurse. Remember, you mustn't try to diagnose or prescribe a case. Leave that to the doctor. What you do is carry out the doctor's orders in the care of the patient and perhaps alleviate his pain and make him more comfortable until the doctor should arrive.

The booklet gives a daily routine in the care of a bed patient. Tells how to care for a patient after an operation, and a patient with a contagious disease. It also tells how to nurse common ailments, like colds, heat prostration, and minor wounds.

Important too is the booklet's description of how to care for a baby.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SIZE OF SPOTS VITAL

WATCHING the size of the little spot-cards can decide the fate of plenty of hands Even the difference between a 2 and a 3 or a 3 and a 4 tells the careful observer what to do to make or defeat particular contracts. On the defense, if you can count on your partner to use orthodox methods in all fairly normal situations, you can read plenty of his holdings because of the denomination of a little card he uses on some apparently unimportant occasion, and consequently make winning decision

East guessed that South would have got away with a cheap sacrifice at his 4-Diamonds doubled, and did not want his side to be beaten out of the game which would complete a 700 rubber, so took out the double. He wound up glad that he did, for the contract got made, though it could have been set.

North opened the diamond 10, the A winning and the club Q going through at once to reveal the bad trump situation. West took the club A, returned to his hand with the spade K and led the club J, which North took This left North the trump 8, so he tried to put South in by leading the heart 3, which he feared to lead at the beginning because it might have set up the suit fortuitously for the declarer, and also because with his own long trumps, he wanted to pump out some of West's by making him ruff diamonds.

South won the heart Q with the A and then—love's labor lost—returned a diamond. West took this, dropped the final trump and, of course, scored the rest of the tricks to make his contract.

"I didn't know your heart 3 was a singleton," pleaded South afterward. But, when West played the 7 on it, and the 4 was out of sight, it should have been crystal clear If North had held the 4, his orthodox lead would have been the top of the doubleton. Had South returned the heart after winning the 3, the contract would have been set, of course.

If South leads the diamond 10 to the J, K and A, wins the heart return and then leads the diamond 5, what is East's soundest plan to try for 4-Hearts on this deal?

Allied Speakers To Discuss World Problems

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont., July 8— Henri Bonnet, Director of the Fighting French National Committee, New York, and Major Gabriel Bonneau, Canadian representative of the Fighting French National Committee, have both accepted invitations to speak at the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs, opening at Lake Couchiching the last ten days of August, it was announced to-day by R. E. G. Davis, secretary of the Institute.

Main theme of this year's Institute will relate to problems concerning "The United Nations Today and Tomorrow." Already a record breaking number of applications to participate in the Institute have been received from many points in Canada, as well as several United States cities, Mr. Davis said.

Problems of the Far East will hold an important part of the Institute's study this year. The future of empires, post-war problems of the Far East will e be discussed by Hugh Byas, New York Times correspondent for the Far East, and Sir George Sansom of the British Embassy at Washington.

Importance of India.

Word has just come that Graham Spry, who was with Sir Stafford Cripps on his mission to India, and is now in Washington, will speak on India, and will also take part in a discussion on post-war air power.

Canadian problems in the post-war years will not be forgotten. Hume Wrong, Assistant Under-Secretary of State, Ottawa; George Weir, Director, Vocational Training for Rehabilitation, Ottawa; Leonard Marsh, Committee on Reconstruction, Ottawa; and John Bracken, Leader of Progressive-Conservative Party, will speak on this topic.

Four round-tables will be held on the following subjects: Economic Problems of the Post-War World; the Soviet Union; the Far East; International Political Organization.

Other speakers will include: F. H. Soward, University of British Columbia, and Dept. of External Affairs, George H. C. Plant Workers Cause Traffic Hospital Jams

By T. N. MORRISON
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLAND, July 8 —(CP)— The steel city of Welland is truly a wartime boom town. Thousands of men and women have streamed into this industrial centre to answer the urgent employment needs of the varied heavy industries which have caused this robust city to be dubbed the "Birmingham of Canada."

Visiting here more than a year ago, Munitions Minister Howe said it was fortunate for the Canadian war effort that the country had in Welland "efficient management, labor and heavy industry already available when the war began." For this reason, he added, there was more government investment and more people at work in Welland than in any other Canadian centre twice the size.

There has been scant let-up in expansion of existing plants since Mr. Howe's visit. Biggest lay-out is that of Atlas Steels, Ltd., which spills out of Welland for a mile into adjacent Crowland township. Special steels produced by this firm are being shipping to all war areas. When the United States Navy began placing orders in Canada under an exchange agreement between the two countries, the first order went to Atlas.

Many Industries

Page-Hersey Tubes, Ltd., figures largely in the shipbuilding program by turning out miles of tubes daily in its modern seamless tube plant; Canada Foundries and Forgings specializes in marine forgings and dies; shells flow off the assembly lines at the United Steel Corporation plant and at the huge plant of the Electro Metallurgical Co. of Canada, Ltd., ferro-alloys are produced to meet the needs of many steel centres. Two large textile mills and countless small firms also are going at it hammer and tongs in the war effort.

The physical effect of such throbbing activity is reflected daily. Traffic jams are numerous and are aggravated by the fact that the Welland canal knifes through the centre of the city. Transportation systems, mostly bus lines, while expanded to the limit are inadequate. Restaurants are filled continuously and beverage rooms have hectic, although brief, operating periods.

Streets Broken Up

City streets are invariably broken up or in a state of excavation. Heavy truck and transport traffic to and from the plants has played havoc with the surfacing of many thoroughfares and others have been dug up to permit laying of new water and oil lines. Three underground feeder lines stretch miles from a new oxygen-manufacturing plant that serves a number of industries.

The housing problem, which for many months was more acute here than anywhere else in Canada, is slowly being mastered. A wartime housing colony of 500 homes has been erected and there are six staff houses to accommodate single workers. Additional wartime homes are under construction.

Health officials, given generous support by industry and the general public, have made notable strides in coping with the problems caused by the influx of more than 5,000 persons from other places. Under the leadership of Dr. W. K. Colbeck, M.B.E., the emergency has seen the formation of the Welland-Crowland branch of the Health League of Canada, the introduction of the Victorian Order Nursing Service and the formation of a Red Cross nursing service, fully equipped to cope with any emergency.

Hospital Overcrowded

A hospital expansion program involving an expenditure of about $170,000 now is underway. Beds are frequenly set up in the corridors of the local hospital, so great is the demand for service.

Social workers from government and church agencies are busy in the wartime housing area while the Health League is arranging a special recreation program of outdoor activities. Education authorities are facing increasing problems in caring for the hundreds of new pupils in schools which were overcrowded before the war boom began.

The district has met large quotas in all Victory Loan and patriotic drives. There are hundreds from Welland in the armed services, with the Navy drawing a particularly large number who had received preliminary training in the efficient local branch of the Navy League of Canada.

HAVELOCK

League Raises $51.90 For Sailors, Seamen

HAVELOCK, July 8 (ENS)—The annual Tag Day in aid of the Navy League of Canada held here on Saturday met with loyal support, which it so rightfully deserves.

The Navy League has made many contributions to the fighting naval men and the merchant seamen, and its 16 hostels and recreation centres have added greatly to their welfare and comfort. More than two million seamen crossed the threshold of the Navy League Seamen's Clubs, where good meals, comfortable sleeping accommodation, hot and cold shower baths, recreation and pleasing entertainment was provided.

The Department of Naval Affairs has proclaimed that the efforts of the Navy League have done much to keep up the seamen's morale and their courage undaunted, in great battle of the Atlantic and Pacific.

Havelock taggers in this clause were Misses Jean and Joan Quinn, Noreen Pollock, Joan Toms, Jacqulyn Puffer, Helen Anderson, Donna Rowat and Helen Peters, and their receipts were $51.90.

He'll Quit, If

Great Blows Loosened On Familiar Targets On Island Of Sicily

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 9 (AP)—Hundreds of Allied planes shuttled back and forth across the Mediterranean yesterday for the sixth consecutive day to rain explosives upon the Sicilian airdromes and ports which constitute Italy's first line of defence, it was announced today.

Heavy and medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters from Northwest African bases, Malta and the Middle East joined in the missions of destruction.

Hammer-blows were loosed upon familiar targets and the lighter craft also went on free-lance missions across the length and breadth of Sicily, shooting up trains, radio stations and troops. One Axis troop convoy was caught on a road.

Aircraft Nests Blasted

The aircraft nests above Gerbini were blasted again by day and by night, whipsawed from the southwest and the southeast. Catania, Comiso, Sciacca and Cap Passero, the latter at the southeast tip of Sicily only 65 miles from the R.A.F. base at Valletta, were hit anew.

Northwest Africa, Valletta and Middle East communiques told of the shooting down of 21 Axis fighters and the destruction of other enemy planes on the ground, against the loss of 11 Allied aircraft.

Cairo bulletins announced that U.S. 9th Air Force Liberators dumped 250,000 pounds of high explosives on Catania in a two-wave attack yesterday, this following up a flame-setting raid upon Axis barracks at that city by R.A.F. heavy bombers the preceding night. A United States communique pictured the destruction:

Railroads Wiped Out

"Many hi' were observed on the vicinity of the telephone and telegraph buildings, while other bombs fell in the railroad marshalling yards. The railway tracks were completely covered by bursts. The central railroad station was hit and set afire, as were also the freight depot and a large warehouse. An enormous fire was started among oil storage tanks and the whole industrial area was solidly covered by bursts." Eight enemy fighters were destroyed in this action and five others were damaged, four probably fatally, it was announced.

(The Italian high command said in a Rome-broadcast communique that 81 persons were killed and 209 injured at Catania in repeated raids which ruined buildings and started

London-Bound Raiders Turned

LONDON, July 9—(CP)—German raiders dropped high explosives on a town in southeast England and a southeast coast resort today while others gave London its first daylight alert since June 27.

The London-bound raiders were headed off short of the metropolitan area, the British reported

Anti-aircraft guns were in action in two districts of the home counties surrounding London and planes were heard overhead, diving and twisting out of the field of fire and then heading back toward the coast.

The London all-clear came 18 minutes after the warning. The alert was London's 650th of the war.

Canadian Bomber Squadrons See Action In Mediterranean

OTTAWA, July 9—(AP).—Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of air staff, announced today that "a number of Canadian Wellington bomber squadrons" have arrived in North Africa and have had "many exciting experiences" already.

Canadian airmen have been serving for many months in North Africa, but, except for one fighter squadron, they have been attached to R.A.F. squadrons. The squadrons to which the Air Marshal referred are R.C.A.F. squadrons, commanded by Canadians.

Air Marshal Breadner made his announcement in addressing a wings parade at nearby Uplands Air Station, home of No. 2 Service Flying Training School.

The exact number of squadrons which have joined R.A.F. and United States units in North Africa was not given.

It was indicated in other quarters, however, that all parts of Canada are represented in the new force, which includes some French-Canadian fliers from Quebec.

The Air Marshal's statement that Canadian squadrons have had "many exciting experiences" in the short time they have been in North Africa was taken as an indication that the squadrons have been taking part in the recent heavy attacks in the Mediterranean area.

Air Marshal Breadner presented wings to a class representing five Canadian provinces, three states of the United States, India and New Zealand.

"There is a bit of news concerning the R.C.A.F. that has not yet been broken to the public," he said. "I think it is fitting that you should be the first to hear."

Then he made his announcement.

U.S. Subs Sink Jap Ship Daily

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—United States submarines, slicing through Pacific waters in ever-mounting numbers, are knocking off Japanese ships at the rate of one a day.

This toll of what Japan needs most—ships to link her far-flung outposts of stolen empire—has promoted the Navy Department to issue three special bulletins in little more than a month on the activities of its undersea arm. Ordinarily, the doings of submarines are related only after long periods of silence maintained for security reasons.

Since June 1, American submarine packs, which Navy Secretary Frank Knox declared were augmented steadily, have blasted to the bottom 33 Japanese supply vessels, many of them big transports, and tankers, and three destroyers. Probably sunk were two more—a transport and a tanker. Nine more ships, including a destroyer, were listed as damaged.

Report Minimum

Sometimes vessels seen from a periscope only as being damaged sink later but submarine commanders long have adhered rigidly to the rule of calling them just as they see them. The submarine most likely to be back for another try at the enemy is the one that gets out of their without waiting for too much observation as soon as an attack has been pressed home.

Hence, the toll of ships sunk announced in Navy communiques is the very minimum.

Latest success of the submarine raiders was reported yesterday in an announcement claiming 10 more Japanese transport and supply vessels torpedoed. Four medium sized cargo vessels were damaged.

Production Board Has Supplies Donald Nelson Says

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 9 — (CP). — Members of the combined Production and Resources Board to-day gave assurance at a press conference that Britain, the United States and Canada are "ready to meet" the production needs of an all-out offensive.

"From our standpoint I can say we will be ready— we are ready," said Donald Nelson, chairman of the United States War Production Board.

"I think we can all say that," added Munitions Minister Howe, Canada's representative on the combined Board.

"I thoroughly agree," said Sir Henry Self, United Kingdom Deputy Member on the Board.

The press conference followed the first meeting held in Canada.

Discus Canadian Problems

Mr. Howe said at the opening of the press conference that general Canadian production problems had been the major topic of discussion.

Mr. Nelson described the major problems faced at the moment as supply of coal from the United States to Canada and supply of wood pulp from Canada to the United States.

"We will go back and see what we can do about it," Mr. Nelson said. "The problem is to get more coal to the ports to use navigation while the lakes are open."

The matter of "over-stocks" of war supplies was something that could not be determined until actual requirements in a major offensive were known. So far production had been based on the theory of requirements rather than actual practice.

"I don't see any danger of being caught short," he added.

Determining which of Canada's supplies to the United States had proven most valuable was "like saying which of your children you like

Cruiser Lames Tokyo Express; Sinks In Sea Of Oil, 600 Saved

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 9—(AP). — The 9,700-ton United States cruiser Helena just had turned her guns on a Japanese destroyer and watched it go up in a blinding flash in the Kula Gulf of the Central Solomons when "something hit her," but more than 600 aboard the Helena were saved from the oil-covered waters, war correspondents reported today from the South Pacific.

(The Helena was the only American warship lost in the Navy battle fought in the pre-dawn darkness July 6, earlier dispatches reported, against the certain loss of nine Japanese cruisers and destroyers. The number of Helena survivors never has been stated. A cruiser of her type normally carries between 700 and 800 men.)

Photographer's Story.

The story of the cruiser's destruction as related by Alan Jackson, American picture pool photographer who was aboard her, was sent to Australia by Osmar White, Australian correspondent. White estimated the number of survivors rescued at 600.

Jackson's story follows:

"We were told early in the evening we were going to intercept the Tokyo express (nickname first applied to Japanese ships supplying Guadalcanal forces, and in this case ships above New Georgia Island presumably bringing aid to the menaced Munda air base) and to expect action at midnight.

Harold Scott Is Chosen Tory Candidate

Harold R. Scott, president of the Scott Lumber Company, Reid street, was the unanimously chosen candidate of the Progressive Conservative Association of the constituency of Peterborough, comprising the city and county, at its nomination convention in the Canadian Legion Hall last night for the provincial elections on August 4.

With Lieut.-Colonel F. E. Birdsall presiding, Mr. Scott was proposed by Albert Juby and Alderman Adam Sands.

Seven others were also proposed as follows:

Alderman Sands, by A. R. Bennett and Fred Marshall.

Alderman H. I. Bradburn, by J. F. Strickland, K.C., and M. McWilliams.

Lt.-Col. F. E. Birdsall, by T. P. Lancaster of Havelock and George Mullen of Smith.

Drew Offers To Ease Tax Burdens

22-Point Program Is Outlined By Col. George Drew

TORONTO, July 9-(CP)— Lt. Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader, said last night in outlining his party's 22-point platform for the Aug. 4 Provincial election, that the mining industry will come in for special consideration, his party undertaking to place it under the direction of a Minister with practical knowledge of mining.

He promised lightening of the industry's tax burden and a more equitable distribution of the tax between taxing bodies— a larger share going to Provincial and Municipal treasuries. Prospecting in new mining areas will be encourager, and "every practical measure possible will be adopted to expand this basic industry."

Expansion of the mining industry, increased use of forest resources, an extensive Housing program under an Ontario Housing Commission, land reclamation and increased Agricultural activity all were included in the program's scope, and all were indicated to be a phase of a post-war readjustment plan.

Col. Drew planned a rehabilitation and social security committee "to assure social security for all our people, and also to provide for the rehabilitation and employment of members of the armed forces and munition workers after the war."

Important Election

Speaking over an Ontario-wide radio network, Col. Drew referred to the Aug. 4 election as "the most important election in Ontario since Canada became a nation."

"The Government you choose is almost certain to be responsible for meeting the tremendous problems which will arise during the period of readjustment immediately after the war... when you cast your ballot you will not be determining so much the fate of any candidate or of any political party, but rather you will to a great extent be determining the fate of those whose personal sacrifice has preserved for us the right to live as free people. Neither personal friendships nor old political affiliations can be balanced against that all-important fact."

The platform promised that the Hydro Electric Power Commission "wi'l be removed from political control," that Hydro rates will be revised "on a just and equitable basis," and that the service charge in rural areas will be done away with.

"Power," Col. Drew said, "will be extended to farms with full recognition of the fact that food production in war is hardly less essential to our success than the military effort."

A "sweeping revision of our whole system of real estate taxation" was promised, designed to remove the discouragement of "excessive taxation" from home ownership and improvement. Initial step will be the assumption by the province of at least 50 per cent of school taxes now charged against real estate.

Kiska Remains Threat To North America

OTTAWA, July 9 —(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the House of Commons that the aerial and commando assaults against Italy and Sicily, Sardinia and Crete, "are parts of a single strategy which the immediate future may be expected rapidly to unfold."

"The war in 1943 must be thought of as a vital part of the war of liberation of the oppressed countries of Europe, of which the liberation of the French Empire in Africa was both an essenital and a memorable prelude," Mr. King said.

The Japanese had made "determined efforts" to build and fortify bases for submarines, seaplanes and other aircraft at the Aleutian Islands of Attu and Kiska.

During May, Japanese forces had been driven out of Attu which now was under American control.

"Kiska remains a potential centre of attack upon our shores, and upon other parts of this continent," he said.

War In Russia.

Mr. King described the new German offensive along about 200 miles of the Russian central front, along with the intensified bombings of strategic targets over Europe, as "a place of new beginning in the war in Europe."

Organization of Free China and the maintenance of industries, education and social services had been one of the 'most resourceful answer to aggression in the history of the world."

Mr. King said "mounting successes" have marked the offensive warfare of the United Nations during recent months.

Opening a review of the recent world developments as external affairs department estimates came before the House, the Prime Minister as Secretary of State for External Affairs said that in the summer of 1942 battle forces were so evenly matched that in any particular theatr even a slight alteration of forces or slight accession of concentrated strength might have tilted the balance towards victory or defeat.

As late as mid-October, 1942, he had found it necessary to say there was no sign that the tide of battle

Fresh Troops Bolster Nazi Attack

German Armored Units Continue To Batter Wedge Forced In Line

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 9—(AP)—German armored columns led by 60-ton Tiger tanks battered again today at the Belgorod end of the Kursk salient, where they succeeded yesterday in driving a wedge into Russian defences at a terrific cost

Reports from the front tonight said the battle on the debris-strewn steppes of Kursk was growing in violence. Otherwise little was known of the fifth day's fighting in the new German offensive.

Both in the Belgorod area and against the unyielding northern sector of the Soviet line the Germans were said to be throwing fresh troops and new tanks into the battle.

The Russians also were bringing up large numbers of 50-ton "KV" tanks to combat the mammoth German Tigers in a deadly struggle which already has reached history-making proportions for the high German losses and low gains.

Seek Weak Spot

The Russian Army newspaper Red Star declared that the Nazi tank columns in the Orel-Kursk region had changed the direction of their attack several times in a desperate effort to find a weak point in the deep Russian positions.

The Nazis returned to the attack at 8 a.m. yesterday on the Orel-Kursk sector. On the narrow front where the 90,000 German forces were engaged, the battle had reached its peak by 2 p.m. The Pravda correspondent said one unit, however, withstood 13 subsequent attacks.

The correspondent said that, protected by swarms of aircraft, the Germans threw 250 tanks against the Russians. But not a single one got through, he said.

Dispatches from the front declared the German air force had failed in all its attempts to win supremacy over the battlefield. One batch of Russian pilots was said to have shot down 110 German planes during 81 dogfights throughout the day.

Prisoners Want To Do War Work

KINGSTON, Ont., July 9 (CP)—R. N. Allan, warden at Kingston Penitentiary, says prisoners at the institution are so enthusiastic about doing war work that many of them have volunteered to work after hours.

Since April, 1939, to April, 1943, he said in an interview, more than 171,000 articles of war work valued roughly at $125,000 have been completed by the prisoners. New materials involved in this work were along worth $101,849, he said.

"A man's feeling for his country is not generally affected by a prison sentence and in prison the chief outlet for patriotism lies in war work," the warden said.

War works at the prison is done under the supervision of chief trade instructors L. Walker and O. A. Earl. Among some of the articles made include swagg?r sticks for army officers, pastry boards, camp beds, army brooms, bags, shoes, military uniforms and safety nets.

Much of this work, Mr. Allan said, is done in addition to the prisoners regular chores.

He stated also that to date 400 men and 36 women have acted as blood donors.

No Free French Recognition

U.S. Not Recognizing Committee Governing Body

WASHINGTON, July 9 —(AP). As long as the French people are under German domination, President Roosevelt indicated today the United States cannot recognize the French Committee for National Liberation nor any other organization as the governing power of France.

Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference he did not think the question of recognizing the Committee for National Liberation had come up. He observed that currently there is no France except about five per cent which is outside of occupied France in Europe.

To a request for comment on reports in the press that the American attitude toward Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, co-chairman of the Committee, was "unduly interfering with French political affairs,' Mr. Roosevelt said he could assert only that he supposed 95 per cent of France was under the heel of the Germans in France.

As for his talks here with Gen. Giraud, the President said he and the general had talked at lunch yesterday about various military problems. He offered no elaboration.

Hitler's Russian Drive for Safety

Fears Allied Invasion Will Sandwich Him Between Two Mill Stones

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

When you weight all the evidence it looks as though Herr Hitler's new offensive against the Russians is aimed primarily at the biggest-scale mass-slaughter that ever titillated a paranoic mind,

Indications are that the all-highest is now bent on breaking through the Soviet line in the Kursk sector, of bloody memories, and executing deep turning movements which would encircle vast numbers of Reds for massacre. Russian reserves are said to be concentrated in that area thick as Winston Churchill's falling leaves of autumn.

If Hitler thus could cripple the Red forces he would be in a vastly better position to withstand the Allied invasions which are bearing down upon him. It might save him from being caught between two great mill-stones and ground exceeding fine. In this sense his offensive is defensive and calculated to give him a chance to achieve a stalemate in the war.

Smaller Objective.

Of course every commander-in-chief has as his goal to annihilate, or render impotent, the enemy armies. Hitler's previous offensives naturally have contemplated such destruction, but the matter of immediate concern to him has been the quick conquest of the golden petroleum fields of the Lower Caucasus which would keep his oil-poor war machine in top gear for battle on all fronts.

Now the Nazi Colossus no longer is figuring on his ability to straddle the world. He undoubtedly would voluntarily give up 90 per cent of his ill-gotten gains if the Allies would alow him to keep the other 10 per cent.

Fear Invasion

We get an indication of the working of the German mind in the Berlin broadcast which proclaims that "a synchronization of the Allied command with Moscow at the present moment would be a very dangerous experiment." In other words, the Nazi are worried about an Anglo-American invasion of the continent while their drive against the Russians is in full swing.

As matter of fact, it was a very daring thing for Hitler to begin his offensive while the invasion threat was so strong. Indeed the lateness of the start of his attack undoubtedly was due to his inability to guess just what was in the wind. Since he finally took the plunge it would seem that he must have been impelled by one of two things.

1. Decision that the Allies wouldn't invade Western France in the near future and thus place him between the mill stones. This would be his greatest menace.

2. Confidence that he could counter an Allied invasion attempt while still engaged with Russia. In that case his offensive on the Eastern Front would be the nature of a bold invitation to John Bull and Uncle Sam to attack and

Report Criticizes U.S. Army

Claims Too Many Types Machines Manufactured

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—A formal report criticizing the United States military forces for permitting continued production of planes it considers obsolete will be issued this week-end by the Truman War Investigating committee, an authentic but unquotable source said today.

The source said the report lashes at what it terms failure o' the military men to reduce the number—said to be 60—of various types of fighting, transport and trainer planes now under construction.

The source said he had learned that the report was strongly critical of some of the policies of the military forces.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Forces, recently told the Senate appropriations committee that the army had decided to concentrate on four models of fighters, instead of the six previously in mass production, and was constantly improving the performance of its planes. Since then there have been announcements that new types of super-fighters are in production, without any disclosure of the performance of these ships.

R.A.F. RETURNS TO ASSAULT GERMANY AFTER FOUR-NIGHT LULL

119th Attack Is Made On Cologne

Eight Bombers Lost In R.A.F. Raid On Great Nazi City

LONDON, July 9—(CP).—The R.A.F., returning to the assault on Germany after a four-night lull in the Allied aerial offensive, made a heavy attack on the Rhineland industrial centre of Cologne last night, the Air Ministry announced today.

Eight bombers were lost in the raid, the announcement said.

Mines also were laid in enemy waters during the night and British fighters on intruder patrols simultaneously attacked enemy airfields and railway targets in France and northwest Germany. Three German minesweepers were reported damaged in sweeps along the French coast.

The heavy British bombers had scarcely returned from their night foray over Germany when formations of Allied fighters swept out across the Channel in the direction of northern France to continue the offensive by daylight.

Britain, meanwhile, passed a raid-free night.

The attack on Cologne was the 119th on that bomb battered city, target of the first great 1,000-bomber raid a year ago. The big Rhineland industrial centre had been attacked twice before within the past two weeks — once on June 28 and again last Saturday night. Both assaults were highly concentrated.

The R.A.F.'s big bombers had not been out since last Saturday night's raid, when in co-operation with R.C.A.F. aircraft they also struck at Hamburg and targets in the Ruhr. Operations since then have been limited to comparatively minor forays against communications and airfields in occupied territory by intruder patrols.

Usual Line Given.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, following the usual line taken by Nazi propagandists, described last night's assault on Cologne as a "terror raid" directed against residential areas. The broadcast indicated that other targets in the Rhineland were hit in addition to Cologne, however.

The R.A.F. night raiders were favored by good weather, the skies clearing last evening after a day of thunderstorms.

Despite the unfavorable conditions yesterday, R.A.F. Typhoons and Mustangs carried out offensive patrols over northern France and the Low Countries. The planes were reported to have destroyed one German aircraft and damaged several locomotives. One R.A.F. plane was listed as lost in these sallies.

Yesterday R.C.A.F. squadrons also prowled over northern France on offensive patrols, destroying a number of enemy aircraft and damaging locomotives.

R.C.A.F. headquarters reported that all planes returned safely from their missions.

Captain G. H. Cutmore, by Gordon Monkman and W. R. Philp.

Mrs. J. H. Cridland by Mrs. F. E. Birdsall and Mrs. J. F. Strickland.

Of these eight receiving the prospective honor of ultimate choice as standard bearer of the party, two were absent, Warden Mather and Mr. Scott. As the other six requested the withdrawal of their names, G. K. Fraser, M. P., undertook to try to communicate with them by telephone, and the meeting proceeded with the principal address by F. G. Gardiner, barrister and Reeve of Forest Hill, a suburb of Toronto, who was introduced by Cecil G. Frost, Lindsay, president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Fraser announced at the close of Mr. Gardiner's speech, that he had failed to reach Warden Mather by telephone, but had succeeded in calling Mr. Scott, who was then present.

As with the others who were proposed, Mr. Scott was accorded the opportunity of announcing from the platform his decision. He said he was at home reading the Literary Digest when Mr. Fraser telephoned him.

"I have often said that too many of us are prone to criticize our municipal council and our local members, but we never do anything ourselves," Mr. Scott stated to the convention. "Just a day or so ago I read the report of the speech of a member of the Dominion Government about what he said was the necessity of changing our flag. That stirred me up, as I know it stirred up a lot of us especially those like myself, who are getting along in the middle years. If you see fit to elect me as your candidate in the coming elections, I'll do my very best for you."

Prolonged cheers from the audience that comfortably filled the Legion Hall greeted Mr. Scott's announcement of his decision of acceptance, and Mr. Fraser who had been acting chairman during the proceeding of actual nomination returned the duty to Colonel Birdsall with an appeal for whole hearted support of Mr. Scott as the Progressive Conservative candidate. He said Colonel George Drew was going to be the next Premier of Ontario, and Peterborough had to be represented in the government.

"Colonel Drew has to win, to save Canada for the Canadians," Mr. Fraser declared. "I appeal to every one of you to get out and work for Harold Scott. No one ever won anything by not getting out after it. In my election I had splendid support from the ladies. I want them to do as much for Mr. Scott as they did for me."

Veteran of World War

Mr. Scott is a veteran of the first World War. He was born in Shawbridge, Quebec, enlisted in Lindsay in 1915, returning in 1919 and was engaged for some years with the Gull River Lumber Company. He went to Millbrook in 1927 where he carried on a lumber and fuel business, and in 1930 moved to Peterborough, formed the Scott Lumber Company, and acquired the property of the former McDonald Lumber Company on George street, and is now conducting a lumber business on Reid street.

In the course of the nominations, and after several of the men who had been named had replied that they could not accept, Mr. Strickland interjected a reference to the fact that the Liberal candidate, Captain A. L. Elliott the present provincial member is on active service overseas.

"I admire Captain Elliott and endorse his action in joining the army," Mr. Strickland, a former local member of the Legislature said, "but he can't do two jobs. Let us wipe from our minds any idea that the Liberal candidate on account of service overseas should be an issue in this convention. The fact is that this election has been brought about by the Prime Minister of Canada, who is using the province of Ontario as a sounding board for the whole Dominion of Canada, a man whose administration is a stench to the people of Canada.

If Captain Elliott is re-elected, and if we don't bestir ourselves there is that likelihood, we are going to be without a representative in this riding. Conditions here are not the same as in England, where distances are short, and leaves permit attendance in Parliament, and it is an accepted practice that members of the armed services should also be members of the House of Commons, if they are elected. I feel that we should deplore any tendency to make a man in our active forces an issue in Ontario elections. The administration of the Dominion of Canada is on trial in this campaign rather than any arguments that may be advanced by the Hon. H. C. Nixon."

Mr. Fraser said he quite agreed with Mr. Strickland. "If the Liberals had by any chance a soldier candidate in every riding there would not be any election if they were not to be opposed. Colonel Drew was in the last war, and carries wounds in his arm. If we were not going to oppose Mr. Elliot, then the same should go for Colonel Drew."

Lt. Col. Birdsall also touched on this point in his remarks declining nomination. "I would like to endorse what Mr. Strickland has said. There is a lot of talk about the Liberal candidate being overseas, and it is to his credit. But, the fact remains from the business standpoint that if he was elected he would be out of the country to the end of the war, and he could not be of much value to the county and city of Peterborough. I think that is a serious thing to think of."

Mr. Gardiner added his approval to Mr. Strickland's counsel to the party, virtually urging the party to swing into action, regardless of Captain Elliott's absence overseas and a palpable feeling of relief swept through the audience at Harold Scott's subsequent announcement. Mr. Gardiner said that as a soldier in the last war and a representative of the Canadian Legion he wished to point out that the day had not arrived in Ontario that a civilian could not contest an election because his opponent was a member of the armed forces.

"Surely we have not arrived at the stage in this province where I for example, could not be a candidate, or would be handicapped as a candidate because I may not be wearing the uniform. It seems to me that this consideration should not be paid any attention whatever, and it should not be suggested by our opponent."

Tribute To Mrs. Cridland

Mr. Gardiner prefaced his address with a little compliment to Mrs. Cridland as a member of the committee on labor at the Conservative convention in Winnipeg, and a tribute to Mr. Fraser as a member of the Commons who was highly regarded not only by his associates in the Opposition but also by members on the treasury side of the House.

Recalling the provincial elections of 1934, Mr. Gardiner said the people no doubt remembered the Liberal party's criticism of the Conservative government because the budget had risen to $52,000,000. This year, the party which had been led by Hepburn brought down a budget of $125,000,000.

"They had advertisements in 1934 showing Old Man Ontario with a straw in his mouth and the words were 'how long can Old Man Ontario afford to spend $52,000,000 a year?' Well, Old Man Ontario is still here, and this year he has to afford an expenditure of $125,000,000. They came into power on a blaze of economy, and they are going out with an expenditure far exceeding anything we dreamed of."

The convention had spent its first half hour from 8.30 until 9 o'clock listening to the broadcast by Colonel Drew, his presentation of twenty points of policy which he was submitting to the electors of Ontario as an earnest of his party's performance if elected. Mr. Gardiner referred to the reported speech of Jas. H. Clark, Speaker of the Legislature, to a Detroit audience. "As Speaker you would think he had done enough talking, but as soon as the Legislature was ended he went across the river from Windsor and made a speech in which he was ready to sell down the river the British Empire and our participation in it... bear in mind when you hear any talk of liquidating the British Empire, no one is ever going to sell down the river our heritage in that Empire. One would have thought that Mr. Nixon would have disowned Clark and his statement in so far as the Liberal party was concerned, instead of trying to explain it away."

"Then we heard Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Mackenzie King's first Minister, suggesting out of the blue the other day, that we should have a new national anthem, a new flag, and a new redistribution of the seats in the House of Commons so that the glorious Province of Quebec would get more than the sixty-five seats they now have. It seems to me that you cannot dissociate Ontario from our national problems."

Mr. Gardiner said the people had not forgotten the "fiasco of the cancellation of the Hydro contracts when Hepburn was elected, and they were issued on a basis that was not so favorable as they had been. There had been some promises to the Roman Catholic people of the province, but they were put back in the position they had occupied before. Events move so quickly that many people are inclined to forget some of the things that have taken place."

Of the Liberal government's collective bargaining bill for labor, Mr. Gardiner said the general principle of the bill had been advocated at the Conservative convention in Winnipeg, and was eventually adopted in part by the government. "Our labor policy gives to any labor man the right to join any labor organization he sees fit. We say that right and liberty should be preserved for him whether he wishes to join the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., a shop union or whatever it may be. We say there should be mandatory collective bargaining. If that policy is accepted by another party, so much the better."

Mr. Gardiner said that Progressive Conservatives favored a labor relations board consisting of three or five members, giving equal representation to labor and industry and the public interest, instead of the Liberal method of a presiding judge. "It seems to me that with justice and a kindly disposition toward labor, and the Conservative party has always been that, we can quickly re-establish in this province, and by our example, in this country, confidence between employers and employees without which we cannot have satisfactory labor relations."

Proxy Vote

Speaking of the proxy vote for soldiers overseas and outside Ontario for the purposes of this election, Mr. Gardiner said the fact was that the soldier could not name the man he wanted to have elected or the part he wished to support. "All he can do, according to the information that has been available only in the last few days, is to sign the proxy ballot and send it to a relative here or some other person who will exercise the proxy for that soldier to that extent it interferes with the rights of our first citizens, because our soldiers are our first citizens, because they cannot designate the person they wish to vote for. Supposing some of the soldiers send their ballots to the Mayor of Peterborough. He can exercise only one; the remaining forty-nine would remain unexercised."

"These things seem to me to be relatively unimportant to the main issue," Mr. Gardiner continued. "The main issue as I see it is that Ontario should have a government that will put this province in the position of giving an example to the rest of Canada when this war ends in the next year or two; an example as to how our affairs should be conducted so that the people will be able to take advantage of the natural resources of this country, that they will have the opportunity of work, and that there will be no repitition of the conditions of that period out of which came in 1939."

Ontario Set The Lead

Ontario sets other examples in this country. Our quota of the Victory Loan was one half of the total for the whole of the Dominion. In 1867 we did not have the advantages of Quebec, then the financial centre, "but by industry and integrity, we have gained and given leadership to the rest of Canada. My view is that we should broaden our horizons, assume responsibility for pointing the way to the best use of our assets for the benefit of all our people. We must protect those rights the constitution has given to Ontario, and also the rights of our neighboring provinces who are not so fortunate as we are. That is what you should keep in mind when you are picking a candidate tonight, a representative of this riding of Peterborough in the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario who will give his contribution to Ontario and thereby assist in giving a new leadership to Canada that will make it the prosperous country it should be for all of us. In that respect the policies you heard Colonel Drew announce are not essentially different from the policies which were drafted at the Port Hope conference and the Winnipeg convention."

With a glance toward the C. C. F. Mr. Gardiner said its leaders had tried to obscure the fact of its Socialist ideology, but at the party's convention in Toronto this year Sam Lawrence of Hamilton "let the cat out of the bag" when he said the C. C. F. was definitely for Socialism.

"They were also definitely against overseas action in the war, but you don't hear Mr. Coldwell going around now saying as he once did that he would rather see his son in jail than in the service of his country overseas."

Mr. Gardiner said he could not determine what Socialism stood for; "some kind of free and classless society, is all I can find out about it." He asserted that examples of that idea in practice were provided in this generation in Germany, Italy, Spain and Russia where the so-called classless society promulgated by Karl Marx had been indoctrinated among the people with the results, on the whole, which the world could see for itself.

"I wish to pay tribute to Russia for the help they have been since they came into the war after the people of Great Britain had provided for them the time to get ready, but so long as they want to be collectivist that is their affair if they don't interfere with us'."

William Green, Leader of the American Federation of Labor, declared that the unions he represented preferred the democractic system of capitalism because it provided a better condition of employment, better wages and more and better jobs. He had stated that he would be strongly opposed to any change.

Prospector Dead

Alexander "Sandy" McIntyre, discoverer of the McIntyre Gold Mines, is dead in Toronto, aged 76. Known to miners everywhere, "Sandy's" name is legendary in Northern Ontario mining. He sold his original stakings at modest prices which later became wealthy. He never had great wealth, himself.

Abandon Ship.

"We saw a Jap destroyer standing in and fired a salvo at her which hit with a blinding flash. Then something hit us. The order to abandon ship was given. It was pitch dark and everything was covered with oil from the ship's vitals.

"I got my camera and went to the quarterdeck. The sailors were slashing rafts loose and jumping overboard, and I went over the side. The water was thickly covered with oil.

"I paddled five minutes and reached a raft on which were 30 other men. There wasn't room for me so I clung on lifelines in the water.

"I looked back and saw the ship like a gray ghost against the gun flashes. She was sinking and seemed to be dragging us back. We paddled and rowed madly. One man was crying out, 'Come on sailors, give it hell.'

"We cleared her and she settled quietly and disappeared.

"I heard fellows calling for help all around but there was little I could do. We sighted another raft and lashed both together.

Douse Lights.

"Someone saw the outline of a ship and rafts started flashing lights all over the place. Then the officer called out, 'Douse the lights, they may be Japs.'

"We saw searchlights. We were afraid o' going ashore on Kolombangara (island on the Kula Gulf above New Georgia) and paddled seawards. A destroyer's boat passed us, picked up an officer and said it would be back.

"We flashed the lights again. The whole sea was a mass of bobbing, floating lights. A destroyer passed within 50 yards and we called, 'Are you coming back?' Some one replied, 'Take it easy, we will be back.'

"A half-hour later, a destroyer came up and we climbed the rope to the deck. She immediately put on speed and started firing. At dawn, we ran into a Jap cruiser and gave her hell. I saw flames and smoke gushing from her. One hero was the waleboatman who volunteered to stay back and pick up more survivors. We left him."

Experts Probing Death Of Sir Harry Oakes

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, July 8—(CP)—Sir Harry Oakes, mining engineer who discovered one of the world's richest gold mines, was found dead in his bed yesterday and the presence of injuries on the body caused an extraordinary investigation.

Two Miami police officers who specialize in solving homicide cases were summoned by aeroplane to reinforce Nassau authorities.

The body of the 69-year-old baronet who accumulated a fortune through his Lakeshore Mine at Kirkland Lake, Ont., was discovered by a friend who called to keep an early appointment.

Inquest Is Ordered

A coroner's inquest was called behind locked doors.

Sir Harry, reputed to have a fortune worth as much as $200,000,000, had an appointment to take his friend for tour of his 1,000-acre sheep farm, latest of the many enterprises which made him Nassau's leading business man.

He had planned to go to the United States Tuesday, but delayed his trip to show the farm to Nassau newsmen this afternoon.

The body will be sent to Bar Harbor, Me., where Lady Oakes and three of the couple's five children received word of his death.

Sir Harry's eldest son Sydney, who inherits the title, is expected at Bar Harbor from Canada within a day or two, and the eldest daughter, Mrs. Alfred de Marigny, is on the way there from Bennington, Vt. With their mother were, Shirley William Pitt and Harry Philips.

Duke Gives Personal Aid

The Duke of Windsor, Governor of the Bahamas, cancelled appointments to take a personal hand in the investigation.

Capt. E. W. Melchen of the Miami homicide squad, a personal friend of the Duke who has been his bodyguard on his visits to Miami, was one of the United States Officers summoned. The other was Capt. James O. Barker, an identification expert.

Walter W. Foskett, Sir Harry's lawyer at Palm Beach, arranged plane passage to Nassau to take charge of the millionaire's affair.

Oakes came to Nassau in 1937 attracted by the low taxation in this British colony, and soon became the capital's leading business man. He owned more property than any other individual, bought the biggest tourist hotel, opened a bus line, and showed Nassauvians that vegetables and dairy products could be produced on an island once considered barren.

Sir Harry was a generous contributor to charitable organizations. In 1937 he donated £25,000 to St. George's Hospital in London for the hospital's rebuilding fund.

It is said he was riding in Rotten Row one morning when he saw a sign over the hospital which read, "We need £25,000 urgently to keep going."

Sir Harry is said to have stopped to write a cheque for the required amount immediately, muttering that the "ugly sign is spoiling the beauty of Rotten Row."

Nazi armor and infantry commanded by Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge carried the offensive into its fifth day, the Russians although admitting a new enemy tank penetration near Belgorod, declared "stiff fighting continues" in that southern sector.

304 More Tanks Lost.

A Moscow communique reported an additional 304 German tanks were destroyed or damaged in yesterday's fighting and 161 planes were shot down, raising the four-day enemy losses to 1,843 tanks and 810 planes. Nazi casualties were reported as at least 35,000.

Gigantic Tank Battle.

(The Friday German High Command communique, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press, declared that "the big struggle in the Belgorod-Orel area goes on with undiminished ferocity."

(It claimed that "since the day before yesterday a gigantic tank battle has been raging in the rear of pierced Soviet positions in which the Soviets are making every effort to check our tempestuously advancing armored spearheads."

(It said the Russians lost "another 400 tanks" and sustained high casualties. The German war bulletin also reported that the Russions lost 117 aircraft yesterday.)

Despite the enormity of the German effort to pinch off the Kursk bulge by drives from the north and the south, the situation of the defending Russian forces was regarded here as generally unchanged.

Praise for Red Army

The communique gave high praise to the Red Army men and commanders, declaring they "were displaying supreme steadfastness and staunchness."

Some of the day's fiercest fighting developed among the hills of one narrow section of the Orel-Kursk front. Three German tank and three infantry divisions beat against the Soviet positions in three consecutive attacks, the Russians announced, but the defenders withstood them all and killed some 5,000 of the attacking force of approximately 90,000 men.

The communique acknowledged indirectly for the first time that the Germans had made some gains along this northern section of the line.

"By counter-attacks our troops dislodged the enemy from various places which he took on the first day of the offensive," the war bulletin said.

Suffer Heavy Losses

The German gain in the Belgorod sector, the fourth reported by the Russians in as many days, was attained only after day-long fighting in which the Soviet troops inflicted heavy losses and hurled back enemy assault columns on several occasions.

"By the end of the day a group of German tanks succeeded in driving a wedge into our defences," the communique said.

(German propaganda accounts broadcast from Berlin told of "secret new weapons" in use in these great tank battles, one a "projector" artillery weapon whose fire was declared capable of leveling a forest. A "Super Tiger" tank, superior to the 60-ton Mark VI, also was said to be in action. Russian accounts made no mention of any such weapons.)

Great air battles raged along and behind the front. The Russian communique said Soviet bombers "caused heavy losses to the enemy" in attacks Wednesday night on troops trains, tanks and trucks.

Lit Through Lines

Red Army forces have destroyed many enemy tanks, the Russians announced, by the technique of allowing them to pass through the lines, then closing up the gap with infantry while artillery and anti-tank guns blast the tanks.

"Under the blows of our troops," the communique said, "the German troops are suffering enormous losses of manpower and equipment. Hundreds of disabled and burned out enemy tanks are left on the battlefield as well as many smashed trucks and German planes."

Fight For Survival

The first explanation looks like the more reasonable. Hitler has got beyond the stage of braggadocio and is fighting for survival.

So it's likely that the Fuehrer's offensive is aimed primarily at crippling the Reds for the sake of ensuring something like his present status rather than to acquire the resources which he needs so badly for further aggression. All he asks of fate is that he be permitted to hang on.

fires in the heart of the city. It declared 26 raiders were shot down over Sicily.)

Belatedly, Cairo authorities also announced that 9th Air Force Liberators also had broken landing surfaces, started fires and damaged grounded planes in attacks Wednesday on air fields about Gerbini, which have been the targets of frequent raids from Northwest Africa.

Bombers Escorted

Malta-based Spitfires of the R.A.F. assisted in escorting American bombers over Sicily, shot down three fighters of a German formation which was attempting to land at Comiso and then turned their guns upon the field, already marked by the wrecks of burned out or damaged planes.

Enemy opposition was scattered. Some crews reported meeting fairly strong forces. Others said they saw no Axis fighters.

This indicates the Allies have won almost complete mastery of the air over Sicily. Their numbers and the scope of the attacks are too vast for the enemy to meet them in strength at all points.

These new attacks followed a virtual bomb blanket spread the length and breadth of Sicily and Sardinia on Wednesday, with 19 assaults on the Sicilian airdrome network of Gerbini alone.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 9 — (CP). — Wheat and rye futures recorded their highest values in five years Thursday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on increases at Chicago and unfavorable crop reports from Western Canada.

Wheat advanced almost 2½ cents during the session with the May future touching $1.11⅛ cents a bushel, the highest price any wheat future has reached since the July option went to $1.12¼ cents in July 1938. Prices eased somewhat near the close.

American houses, shippers, mills and Eastern feeder interests made substantial purchases.

Rye jumped almost four cents above the previous close at one stage, July reaching $1.02⅞. Values followed the same trend as the wheat and eased later. American buying featured trade in the pit.

The main offensive phase began in the southwest Pacific with American landings on the Solomons in August, 1942; was continued in the offensive launched by the British 8th Army westward from El Alamein late in October; and received its greatest impetus from the Allied landings in Morocco and Algeria late last November.

Close of One Chapter

The successful North African campaign "marked the triumphal close of an all-important chapter in the war."

Campaigns which had been "holding actions" on a vast scale had been turned against the aggressors with increasing force elsewhere. In Russia what had looked like a "last-ditch defensive stand" was turned into an offensive of such proportions that the entire German 6th Army was annihilated at Stalingrad.

In the Pacific Japan's hold remained widespread. There had been some local gains by China, but the Chinese effort was limited by supplies available and even more by the length and difficulties of supply routes.

In the Southwest Pacific the power of Japan had been held at bay and losses inflicted on her shipping greater than her present capacity to replace it.

The United States had recently driven the Japanese out of some of their strongholds in the Solomon Islands.

"By a determined initiative, they have denied to Japan other bases and harbors which might be used to attack Australia and the Indian Ocean.

"Forces of Australia and New Zealand have joined in fighting the Japanese in New Guinea and other islands to the north of Australia."

U.S. Forces 3 Miles From Munda

New Blows Are Dealt Japanese Defenders New Georgia Island

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, July 9—(AP)—Only three miles from Munda, United States invaders are probing Japanese defences of that New Georgia island air base and over both the Solomons and New Guinea Allied planes have dealt new blows with nearly 100 tons of bombs; Allied Headquarters reported today.

On the other hand, the hard hit Japanese airforce, having lost nearly 200 planes over the Solomons within a week, has diminished the weight of its punches.

The pincers which American marines and soldiers began applying on Munda July 5 by landing both north and east of it pressed nearest at Elelo, on the east, where advanced patrols clashed Thursday with Japanese and defeated them. It was a feelout encounter with the big push obviously in abeyance while the main forces which stormed ashore above Munda at Rice anchorage and east of it at Zanana consolidate positions. The entrenched Japanese at Munda are believed to be in considerable strength.

Supply Depot Fired

Above New Georgia on Kolombangara island, Munda's big supply depot at Vila was fired and holed by 21 tons of high explosives unloaded by dive bombers and torpedo bombers.

Further up the Solomons, the Kahili airdrome was raided at the southern tip of Bougainville island by heavy bombers Thursday night. Their 23 tons of bombs started fires, one bomber wast lost.

On northeastern New Guinea, where Australian and American patrols are moving toward the enemy air base at Salamaua the Allied planes continued to virtually blast a path through the jungle with their bombs. Medium bombers directly supported the jungle fighters by dropping nearly 50 tons of high explosives on enemy buildings, ground installations and jungle tracks connecting vilages near Salamaua.

Other formations bombed and strafed Japanese while Australian ground patrols maintained pressure on enemy units between Mubo and Salamaua, points 12 miles apart.

Battle 14 Zeros

Australian and American-manned bombers yesterday fought off 14 Zeros, destroying three for certain and possibly two others as they bombed the enemy airdrome of Penfoei at Koepang on Dutch Timor. Fires started appeared to be burning Japanese planes. Timor is in the Timor Sea 400 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

Japanese air efforts yesterday were the weakest reported since the outset of the new Pacific offensive June 30.

In the central Solomons on Rendova Island, Japanese planes dropped two bombs on Allied artillery emplacements which caused only slight damage and casualties. Twenty Japanese troops tried to surprise Rendova's defenders with a landing

Mr. Nelson said he did not consider civilian supplies had yet reached a basic minimum and he expressed doubt whether that would be necessary. Large inventories had so far protected civilians from the full impact of war, but these now were being rapidly reduced.

He described the gasoline situation as "very serious" and warned that not until the war ended would there be sufficient petroleum products to meet all needs.

Police Chief Resigns

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—The Algiers radio reported today the minister of public works and chief of police at Athens have resigned as a result of street demonstrations by Greek patriots following upon American air raids on landing fields near Athens and Salonika two weeks ago.

The broadcast, heard by the Associated press, said the Axis occupation authorities had declared martial law in Greece.

COBOURG

New Collection Of Garbage Begins Monday

COBOURG, July 9—(ENS)—Regulations covering the municipal garbage collection which commences on July 12, have been announced by the Board of Health. Harry Jenkins has the contract and the period covered is for six months. Garbage will be collected on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The town is to be divided into three sections and these will be collected on the foregoing days beginning in the area south of King street and only for those residents and stores on the south side of the street at 7 a.m. Monday. The collection will begin in the business area of the town and will start at Spring street. The outlying areas will be collected later in the morning.

Different Collections

The Wednesday collection will be for the area west of Division street and no collection will be made on Division street that day, but—all the rest of the town north of King Street and west of Division will be serviced. The collection will begin in the business area and will include the north side of King street west of Division.

The Friday collection will cover the area east of Division street and North of King Street and will begin in the business area of the town and collect all east of Division and on both sides of Division street as well, as the area on the north side of King street between McGill and Division streets.

Garbage is to be wrapped and placed in cans or boxes and in case of cardboard boxes these will not be returned for further usage. Papers and boxes that are broken down and tied in bundles, together with ashes and glass will be picked up when placed on the property of the owner or tenant nearest his curb at the front or rear of the property, and in the case of the business district when placed on the boulevard.

The business district embraces King Street from McGill to Spring street and Division street from Albert to Chapel streets and Second and Third streets from Albert to King street, in which area the cans must be removed from the sidewalk by 9 a.m. All containers must be able to be handled by one man, and containers that are a nuisance must be replaced by others.

18 Japs Outsmarted By Island Chieftain

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

KIRIWINA ISLAND, Trobriand Group, July 9 (AP).—Outsmarted by the ruling chieftain of the Trobriand Islands, 18 Japanese were captured here by Kiriwina natives and turned over to the Australian army, it was disclosed today.

The Japanese were survivors of the battle of the Bismarck Sea and landed on Kiriwina last March.

The natives brought them to Omarkana, the capital of the Trobriand Islands and headquarters for Chief Mitakata.

The chief ordered the Japanese fed and then advised them they likely would be apprehended by Australians unless they split into smaller parties of three each. The natives led the Japanese parties on separate tracks. Native police boys then captured and took them to the Australian administrative officer, the only white man on the island, at Losula Government station.

Mitakata is one of the few Kiriwinas boasting the luxury of a harem and a food house containing 20 tons of vegetables.

U.S. Jap Battle

United States and Japanese warships have met in an engagement in the Kula Gulf (star) which separates New Georgia and Kolombangara islands in the central Solomons, after American ships bombarded Jap positions at Vila and Bairoko. Munda is under attack from U.S.-held Rendova Island taken recently.

Mrs. R. Kelleher Is Hostess To Red Cross

HASTINGS, July 9.—(ENS) — The Cobourg Road Red Cross met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Kelleher. There were sixteen ladies present and quilted two quilts out on the lawn.

The President, Miss Clara Williamson took charge of the business part of the meeting.

The treasurer reported how well pleased all were with the dance held on July 1st with Hasting's orchestra supplying the music. Proceeds were $65.00 at the door. The official receipts also for the Red Cross drive which took place in March were $46.75 for the district.

There were four boys shirts and two pair knitted gloves handed in completed for the month.

A letter was read from Pat Fitzpatrick (overseas) thanking the ladies for the cigarettes they had received.

The hostess served a most delightful lunch. She was assisted by her four daughters, Helen, Olive, Katheleen and Marguerite Kelleher.

Red Cross Meet.

The Fife's community held the regular Red Cross meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Benson.

There were thirteen ladies present and during the afternoon they quilted two quilts and made the top for another.

The next meeting will be held at the same place on July 21.

The hostess assisted by Margaret Lynch and Mrs. Beavis served lunch to the members present.

CAMPBELLFORD

Township Forms New Seymour School Area

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9-(ENS) —Despite opposition from a small section of ratepayers the Township of Seymour passed a by-law which brings into existence what will be known as the Seymour West School Area. This action was taken at the July meeting of the council on Monday afternoon and the result is that Sections 3, 4, 6 and 10 will be under one Board effective December 25, 1943.

Leading the group opposed to the plan were John Scott and A. Hatfield both of whom discussed the matter at a meeting on June 29. Other business of the session included hearing the final report of school attendance officer G. W. Anderson and the abatement of several dog taxes.

The following paysheet was passed: Ray McCulloch, S. S. No. 3, $100.00; G. W. Anderson, Attendance Officer, $5.00; D. T. Petherick, Road Supt. $99.90; Arthur Waters, labour, $82.11; John Petherick, labour, $62.70; Kenneth Buchanan, lab. $62.70; Geo. COBOURG

Western Scheme Helps Farmers Keep Going

COBOURG, July 6 — (ENS) — Northumberland County has not fared too badly in regard to farm labour but the heavy hay crop and late spring season has complicated work on most farm, stated R. C. Banbury, county agricultural representative. Mr. Banbury has placed 15 Saskatchewan farmers but this number does not go far in relation to the number of applications.

The names on file, at the Selective Service offices in Trenton and Cobourg when the policy was first announced were contacted and the remainder placed through the Agricultural War Committee. Since publicity has been given via press and radio, all offices in the county co-operating in this work have been flooded with applications.

Occasionally soldiers with leave, and others with spare time, are available from the Selective Service offices, and those who are near to Trenton and Cobourg, may secure some help by the day in this way. The Brighton village council plans to appoint a committee to canvass the community for volunteer help as requests have come in from farmers telling of the difficulty of finding assistants. Good progress has been made with the hay and fine weather will much assist with farm work at this season. In general, stated Mr. Banbury, the western scheme has helped Northumberland a great deal.

Utilities Plans For Post War Town Program

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9 (ENS). — Town planning was the major topic discussed at the regular meeting of the Utilities Commission here Thursday night.

Details were left with a committee to be named by the Mayor, and several projects under the heading of post-war developments in line with the Government program, were gone into. One long recognized need is a water storage tank which Chairman J. O. Benor pointed out would not only assure a supply of properly chlorinated water but would also guarantee pressure in case of failure of the pumping system for any reason.

Discussing the committee, Mayor Long voiced the opinion that the proposed committee should be made to include qualified local citizens as well as members of the municipal council since an election might cause the loss of a valuable member. Whether or not it receives any Federal support, the Mayor expressed the view that a civic park should be planned. Several sites for such a park were suggested but definite action was left with the committee.

Members reviewed the proposal to construct a wading pool this summer on the site of the former United Church sheds on 30-Foot Lane, His Worships said there had already been complaints of the choice of a site from residents of that vicinity who saw the peaceful atmosphere of that district broken. It was pointed out that no matter what site was chosen there would be possible objectors and any site was better than leaving no pool at all.

The chairman suggested that some legal means of creating a sinking fund for the Utilities be found. He foresaw a great deal of repair and construction work by the Commission after the war and felt that now was the time to be setting aside the necessary funds.

A comparison of revenues for the six months ending June 30 showed a slight increase over the preceding year in returns from the sale of domestic and commercial light and power.

OMEMEE

Council Seeks Advice About Petition

OMEMEE, July 9 — (ENS). — The Omemee Council met on Monday night with Reeve Bent in the chair and Councillors Parsons and Burgess present.

A letter was read from F. Weldon and a Women's Institute communication was filed. The treasurer presented the half-yearly statement showing a balance on hand of $430.16; R. E. Brooks reported on roads and police work. A petition was presented to Council asking the village to take over O.A.A. property. It was moved by Parsons and Burgess that legal advice be sought before taking action. It was moved that R. E. Brooks procure extra police help for July 12.

The annual statement of the Public Library was read and it was moved by Burgess and Parsons that a grant of $70 be given to the Library Board.

The following accounts were passed for payment:

Street lights, $82.17; Coronation Hall lights, $4.28; Fire Hall, $1.50; Dunlop Rubber Company, $509.60; M. D. Earle, $36.57; H. Fisher, $5; R. Price, $10.00; R. E. Brooks, $4.25; R. E. Brooks, salary, $65; Library Board grant, $70.00; total, $788.37.

Council adjourned to meet on August 2.

The meeting opened with Mrs. A. A. Inkster at the piano. The war prayer was read by Mrs. William G. Shearer and Scripture lesson by Mrs. W. Inkster, and the treasury report was given by Mrs. G. Shearer.

It was decided during the afternoon not to hold the annual strawberry festival, but instead each member would donate one dollar. The matter of replacing flowers in the basket at the church was also mentioned, and Mrs. H. F. McNichol said she would buy flowers for it.

Has Birthday.

Congratulations and good wishes were extended to Mrs. John Post of Havelock, who was 88 years of age. Her birthday happened to be the same day and she attended the meeting.

After the business was discussed a program consisting of a duet by Mrs. G. Shearer and Florence and two contests were enjoyed by all. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. S. A. Kemp, a former pastor. There were 44 people present and the proceeds amounted to $10.60.

TRENT RIVER

American Fishermen Hook 26-lb. Muskie

TRENT RIVER, July 9—(ENS)—Fishing near Steamill Island on the Trent River near Trent River village, Mr. Hadfield and Dr. Dorsey of Mulhill, Pa., with Jim Cook of Trent River as guide, hooked and landed a 26-pound markinonge recently. The big fish was knocked loose from the bait when hit in the water, and sank, but came up later and was recovered by the lucky fishermen. It was 50 inches long and had a 20-inch girth, and put up a terrific battle before being brought to the boat. The landing of this big fellow culminated an opening week of fishing in the Trent which has been the best in many years, during which an 8-pound pickerel was caught by Ross Webb of Toronto and a 17-pound 'lunge by Mr. Hall of Toronto, while all fishing parties participated in taking many fine 'lunge, pickerel and bass.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cook of Trent River have bought the John Armstrong cottage on Wight's Island from Mrs. J. Armstrong of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jewett of Toronto are holidaying at their summer home.

Miss Bessie French and Mrs. Mains of Toronto are holidaying at Trent River for a few days.

Guests with Mrs. A. Pordham and W. C. Inkster for the week included Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sanderson, Beverley, James and Joan of Oxford Station; Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Greenly, Sheila, David and Wayne of Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Inkster of Essex; Sgt. and Mrs. James Inkster of Prince Rupert, B.C.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

Notice to Certain Employers and Employees

Notice is hereby given that men now employed in certain specified lines of civilian employment must report for interview not later than July 15th, 1943, to an Employment and Selective Service Office. This refers to men who are in age and marital classes already designated under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, and also to men who are 16 to 18 years old (both ages inclusive).

A. Objective:

This Third Order makes available for essential employments the services of men in age and marital classes designated as callable for Military Training under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations and also all men from 16 to 18 years of age (both ages inclusive) who are presently employed in the non-essential employments now specified.

B. EMPLOYMENTS COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

Men, of the specified categories, are covered if now employed in any of the following:

(1) Any wholesale activity not here listed: farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste. (2) Raising of special livestock, such as race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets. (3) Flower growing. (4) Horticultural services, except tree surgery. (5) Leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning. (6) Brewing. (7) Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture; (h) rattan and willow-wares; (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

C. AGE AND MARITAL CLASSES OF MEN COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

(a) Every man born in any year from 1917 to 1927 (inclusive) who has reached 16 years of age.

(b) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, at July 15th, 1940, was: (i) unmarried; or (ii) divorced or judicially separated; or (iii) a widower without child or children.

(c) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who has, since July 15, 1940, become a widower without child or children now living.

(d) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, since July 15, 1940, has been divorced or judicially separated.

Note: Attention is called to the inclusion in this Order of men 16, 17 and 18 years old.

D. Procedure to be Followed:

All men as defined above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 15th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

E. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYEES:

When directed to accept employment, subsequent to the interview referred to, men described in Paragraphs B and C above are required by the Regulations to follow the direction given.

F. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS:

It will be illegal for an employer to retain in his employ after July 15th, 1943, any men referred to in Paragraph C above, at any of the employments set forth in Paragraph B above, unless a special permit has been obtained from a National Selective Service Officer, permitting such action.

G. Transportation:

Special provisions will be made for the transportation of men moved to work at a new place of residence.

H. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees within 7 days of receiving such direction.

I. Penalties in Case of Employers:

Penalties are provided for any employer who retains in, or takes into, his employ after July 15th, 1943, any man covered by the Order, except under special permit.

J. Penalties in Case of Employees:

Penalties are provided for failure on the part of any employed man affected to register under this Order, or to follow a subsequent direction to employment, and in addition to other penalties, refusal to comply renders a man liable to compulsory labour service in an Alternative Service Work Camp.

K. Special Request to Employers:

Each Employer with three or more men covered by this Order in his employ is requested to co-operate by getting in touch with the Employment and Selective Service Office, to arrange a time for the interviews of his employees.

L. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).

M. This Third Order is Additional to First and Second Orders:

Employments listed in Paragraph B above, to be reviewed under this Third Order, are additional to the employments listed in the First and Second Orders. The First Order required compliance by May 19th, and the Second Order by June 15th, 1943.

Men referred to above must present documents at the employment office, indicating compliance with Mobilization Regulations.

Any employer or employee in doubt in regard to the application of the First, Second or Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders, should communicate with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

The R.C.M.P. Takes Steps

The steps taken by the R.C.M.P. to investigate a supposed conspiracy on the part of highly placed National Selective Service officials in Toronto should give satisfaction to everybody. This incident should also silence the rumor that the R.C.M.P. is a political police force, strongly influenced by the party in power. Yesterday in these columns we enumerated a number of ugly beliefs about Quebec which are held by great numbers of people in this Province. Another ugly belief is that held by many that the R.C.M.P. is a "secret police", a tool of Ottawa (in a political sense), or a Gestapo. On Tuesday last the R.C.M.P. arrested and charged four prominent Liberals, and it is to be assumed that they did so with the full concurrence of the Hon. Louis St. Laurent, the Minister of Justice. It is no stroke of good fortune for the Liberal party that these men should be arrested at this moment, when the manpower issue is as hot as it can be; but it is very decidedly to the credit of our system of justice that these men have been charged. It is a proof that our legal system is above politics, and that our Minister of Justice is not "a party heeler", which the ineffable Agnes MacPhail said that all judges were. And it is also a proof that the R.C.M.P. functions impartially, whoever may be in power.

Divorce Courts For Quebec

Senator C. W. Robinson, the Chairman of the Senate Divorce Committee, has appealed to the Senators from Quebec to use their influence for the establishment of divorce courts in that Province. At present, as there are no such courts, it is necessary for every Quebec divorce case to come before the Senate Committee, and of the 108 petitions which the Senate Committee considered this year 92 were from Quebec.

Clearly there are a great many people in Quebec who would use the divorce courts if they existed there, and it is equally clear that the absence of such courts is no deterrent to their taking action for divorce when they want it. The Senate Committee on Divorce is composed of lawyers, and they are well qualified to examine the cases which come before them, but they are not a court. Because it will not establish divorce courts of its own the Province of Quebec virtually forces the Senate Committee to serve as a divorce court for it, a situation which only ministers to hypocrisy and does nothing to maintain the sanctity of marriage in Quebec. It also places a very heavy burden upon the Senate Committee, for investigations in divorce proceedings are long and complex, and the Senate Divorce Committee is one of the most hard-working committees attached to either of the Houses of Parliament.

If the people of Quebec desire so many divorces they should provide legal means of obtaining them within the Province itself. The present situation is farcical and has no effect save to overwork the Senate committee grossly.

Gas Rationing After The War?

In the June 19 edition of The New Statesman and Nation Professor C. E. M. Joad makes the surprising suggestion that rationing of gasoline be continued after the war as a measure of public safety. Although we think that there is little chance that it will be adopted, any suggestion from a man of Professor Joad's intellectual eminence deserves examination.

His chief reasons for suggesting a curtailment of motor travel are that there will be many more cars in the postwar period than there have ever been before, and they will travel much faster. Manufacturers have promised us cars at very low prices, and the new lighter engines, combined with the high octane gas which we have now learned to produce, will make a rate of 100 miles an hour not merely a possible, but quite a commonplace speed. It is at this point that Prof. Joad begins to quote figures.

In the year 1938 there were 6,596 people killed, and 226,855 people injured by cars in England. In the U.S. in the same year 36,000 were killed, 105,000 permanently disabled, and 1,150,000 injured. In the twenty years between the end of the last war and the end of 1937 there were more than 100,000 people killed, and more than 3,000,000 people injured by cars; this exceeds the number of casualties suffered by that country in the Great War. It is worth noticing also that of these numbers more than 20,000 killed and 600,000 injured were children under fourteen. Even since the war the slaughter goes on. In 1942 there were 147,544 casualties on the roads of Britain, or 2,000 more than were caused by enemy action (145,012).

The number of cars in the Brave New World also causes the Professor some alarm. This is what he says: "Let us suppose that in the world after the war all goes for the best. We have abolished war and under some form of benevolent Socialism, all workers are guaranteed comfort and a competence in return for some three or four hours machine-minding a day. In twenty-five years' time our roads, unable to accommodate the inundation, will be covered by a solid and stationary mass of metal composed of cars stretching from John o' Groats to Land's End in a single inextricable jam . . ."

In this country we need fear no such crowding, but we may well fear excessive speed. That is, we might fear it if we had not so many other things to deal with at present. That is one of our modern problems. We have no time to foresee anything; is that why our problems increase so rapidly?

Protecting The Dionnes

A dispatch from North Bay informs us that the Dionne quintuplets will no longer be exhibited to the public regularly, which we consider good news. There seems to be disagreement, however, as to why this decision has been made. Mr. Keith Munro, who is the business manager of the Callender enterprise, is reported first of all to have said that the little girls will not be shown because there are too few tourists to make it worth while; then, apparently as an afterthought, he is reported to have said that it was no longer fair to the children to exhibit them to the public. It would be interesting to know which idea came first, and which was more powerful in bringing about the decision not to show off the quintuplets to passing gapers.

The quintuplets are now eight years old, and they are wards of the King. It is high time that the unpleasant business of showing them off to the curious was stopped, if the children are to grow up with a normal and reasonable outlook on life. They are not in the same position as children who dance, or sing, or in some other recognized way amuse the public; such children can retain their self-respect because they are professional entertainers, giving something for the money which they receive. But the quintuplets are merely charming little girls, quite unremarkable except that they are five of a kind. They will always be interesting because of the strange nature of their birth, and they will always be of interest to scientists. But the impulse which leads tourists to gape at them is simply one of vulgar curiosity, and the children are now too old to submit to such treatment without being unpleasantly affected. We are vigorously opposed to any further exploitation of these children as a "tourist attraction".

Goering Is Reported Ill

Hermann Goering, who is second only to Hitler in the Nazi hierarchy and who is personally responsible for the defence of Germany against air-attack, is reported to be suffering from nervous breakdown. This news, coinciding with the information that 15,000 tons of high explosive were dropped on German-held territory—10,000 on the Ruhr alone—in the month of June, has a certain grim humour. Goering may well be ill. Many a man has had a nervous breakdown with less cause.

The Nazis have often shown their lack of experience in government, but never so egregiously as in Goering's promise that bombs would never fall on German soil. Our democratic politicians know better than to make such sweeping promises. That is why they last so long, and very seldom suffer from nervous breakdowns.

"Hitler, for all his global outlook, fails to see what is going on under his very nose", says a war commentator. Otherwise he would shave it off.

Remarks on Lord Halifax's Visit

By GEORGES BONIN in L'Eclaireur, Beauceville, Que.

DIPLOMATS are important cog-wheels in the political and economic machinery of nations. The long journeys necessitated by their functions provide them with a great deal of knowledge, probably more than all the books might afford. Their clearsightedness and their vast knowledge of peoples make them prominent and much sought after.

Their prominence is greatly increased when they have played and still play an important part in world affairs. That explains well enough why Lord Halifax's visit to Quebec City aroused so much interest.

However, we wish to direct your attention not so much on the man himself, but on his opinions and the way he has expressed them.

OUR distinguished visitor has deemed advisable to speak in French, the language of his listeners. Some time ago, Mr. Joseph Grew, former ambassador to Japan, addressed his listeners in perfect French during his recent visit to Montreal. Earlier, Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden had done likewise. A great many outsiders have, in the past, spoken to us in our own language.

These instances make us regret very deeply that so many of our English-speaking compatriots in public life seem to be so insistent in refusing to learn French. Here are people coming from a unbilingual country and who nevertheless speak fluently the "gentle language of France," while most of our English-speaking public men have to apologize for not being able to do the same when they are called upon to address a French-Canadian audience. And this happens in a country where the French language has not merely been granted complete freedom through the Pact of Confederation, but has also been declared an official language by that same pact. What a pity!

We strive to find remedies for the ills of the Canadian people. Well, if the English in this country would show half as much goodwill in learning French as the French-Canadians do in learning English, there would be much less confusion in Canada. Many obstacles would be eradicated if the leaders, in their willingness to set an example, would pave the way to better cooperation between two proud races.

We must not lose faith in the conversion of the sinner. On the contrary, let us hope that examples such as that given last Saturday shall finally open the eyes of those who seek a middle course resulting in peace and harmony.

THE speech delivered by Lord Halifax is a sort of masterpiece. We use this word intentionally because seldom do ambassadors rise to such heights in the definite realm of spiritual speculation.

Lord Halifax is a Protestant, but, as Reverend Father Lelievre said to a group of men following a retreat at the church of Jesus Ouvrier, "he is thinking like a Catholic." His words are those of a very fine Christian, who sees the world sinking into an abyss of ignorance and fallacy. "The world is filled with tragedy," said Lord Halifax. Have we ever heard any words more painfully true? God has forsaken the Earth, or rather men have driven Him away, and men shall not have Peace until they have found Him again. Men no longer know how to pray, and this is the cause of their misfortunes. The testing of the most ingenious systems shall always fail lamentably as long as the Christian refuses to consider his neighbour as a brother. The speech of Lord Halifax deserves to be read over and over again. We invite our readers to do so.

FINALLY, may we be allowed to recall the presence of the Honourable Richard Wood, third son of Lord Halifax, at the ceremony. This young man lost both his legs in the present struggle, when a bomb apparently fell near him without exploding. In his speech, his father spoke of heroic actions brought about by the war. If it had been appropriate, he could indeed have alluded to his son, crippled for life.

In order to destroy the legend created by envious people to the effect that sons of the nobility are slackers, a fact like this one is worth a hundred of the best speeches. In that class of society, there may be, and there are most probably some of these slackers, but they are compensated by the many fine examples set by other members of the same society. All have not paid the blood tax, and in order to defend it they have left what they held dearest. And they were allowed to go. Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill, Lord Halifax, and most of the ministers in Mr. King's cabinet, to name but a few, could speak about this from first hand knowledge. Yet they have not shouted it from the house tops.

In closing these hasty remarks, let us wish that visits like the one Lord Halifax paid us Saturday, may be renewed at regular intervals. They do us good, and help to right things that should be set right.

Advice From a Linguist

I found disembarkation at Lisbon to be a matter of considerable vexation; the custom-House officers were exceedingly uncivil, and examined every article of my little baggage with most provoking minuteness.

My first impression on landing in the Peninsula was by no means a favourable one; and I had scarcely pressed the soil one hour before I heartily wished myself back in Russia, a country which I had quitted about one month previous, and where I had left cherished friends and warm affections.

After having submitted to very much ill usage and robbery at the custom-house, I proceeded in quest of a lodging. . . . The next day I hired a servant, a Portuguese, it being my invariable custom on arriving in a country to avail myself of the services of a native, chiefly with a view of perfecting myself in the language; and being already acquainted with most of the principal languages and dialects of the east and west, I am soon able to make myself quite intelligible to the inhabitants. In about a fortnight I found myself conversing in Portuguese with considerable fluency.

Those who wish to make themselves understood by a foreigner in his own language, should speak with much noise and vociferation, opening their mouths wide. Is it surprising that the English are, in general, the worst linquists in the world, seeing that they pursue a system diametrically opposite? For example, when they attempt to speak Spanish, the most sonorous tongue in existence, they scarcely open their lips, and putting their hands in their pockets, fumble lazily, instead of applying them to the indispensable office of gesticulation.—From "The Bible in Spain," by George Borrow (1842).

Rebecca West To Hoover

(FROM THE WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

NO more scathing bit of critical writing has appeared during the war than the article by Rebecca West dealing with "The Problems of Lasting Peace," the book in which Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson set forth their views about the origins of the war and the means by which future peace can be secured. This article, which bears the title "The Hoover Frame of Mind," concludes with this paragraph:

"As I sit here I am somewhat appalled by the spectacle of an English citizen assaulting the former President of the United States. But I would remind the reader that the problems Mr. Hoover discusses are bone of my bone as well as his, and that in our common peril I believe it is my right to differ with Mr. Hoover in print as I did with Mr. Chamberlain over Munich."

It is not remarkable that feeling as she does Miss West should have written this article; what is remarkable is that it should have been published in the Atlantic Monthly without evoking a loud public outcry about the impropriety of an American magazine of the first rank opening its pages to a criticism, so direct and so severe, upon the ex-leader of one of the great American parties. The incident suggests that the English-speaking peoples are getting so near to one another, under the pressures of the war, that they can stand and even welcome the frankest exchange of opinion.

What Miss West does to Mr. Hoover is, in the popular saying, "plenty." She calls his book "a love-letter to the American electorate"; and proceeds:

"They (Mr. Hoover and Mr. Gibson) are attempting to suggest to the mind of the American voter that Woodrow Wilson led them into an unnecessary and unprofitable war at the behest of a cloudy and intemperate idealism, and that Franklin Roosevelt is doing the same thing a second time. Mr. Hoover presents himself as a sober and wise person, free from the experimental rashness of Mr. Roosevelt, certain to keep America out of trouble. He wishes to write, so that the reader can think, 'What a superior being this is and what a superior being I must be to see that he is superior.' To create this impression he employs many devices, many of them singularly disingenuous, but chiefly he relies on a certain terror of forthrightness which is common just now among people who are passively intelligent. . . .

"This lack of forthrightness Mr. Hoover continually exploits. By a wholesale sacrifice of the exact truth he tells the story of the last twenty years in Europe, and the rise of Nazism and Fascism in such a way as to suggest that nobody is really to blame. Nobody, according to Mr. Hoover, was entirely in the right, and that is possible; it is indeed almost certainly true. And nobody, according to Mr. Hoover, was entirely in the wrong; and that, in view of the persecution of the Jews and the martyrdom of the occupied countries, is not possible to maintain. . . .

"Mr. Hoover and Mr. Gibson have set themselves the heavy task of rigging up some sort of platform on which the old-fashioned Republicans could oppose Mr. Roosevelt, and this involves finding an alternative to his anti-Axis policy which is not pro-Nazism. . . . To do them justice they would be honestly revolted by straight Nazism, but they have not hesitated to take the risk of diminishing anti-Nazi feeling to a point which might well be incompatible with the successful prosecution of the war. If I were an American and had read this book and been persuaded by its argument, I should think myself a fool to make any sacrifice whatsoever in order to win this war."

"The Problems of a Lasting Peace," according to Miss West, is written in "pidgin English" and "to a degree probably never equalled by the work of two such eminent men, is meritless." Miss West, who is the writer of a recent work in which Jugoslavia and its virtues are greatly praised, is incensed at Hoover's disparagement of the succession states. They are represented in the Hoover book, she says, "as a welter of stupid and contemptible states." In this book, she adds, there is "a series of sour stories about the European people who had the impertinence to defeat the Germans in the First World War."

Miss West seizes the opportunity to apply her criticism to books, of similar tenor, published in England, with special attention to E. H. Carr. "Because Professor E. H. Carr's 'Condition of Peace' is written in a sober style by a professor with Foreign Office experience, readers ignore that it is packed with errors of fact and judgment based upon a thesis ultimately destructive of human liberties." Mr. Carr's book has been hailed by some as a profound deliverance in which a just understanding of the causes of the war leads to wise conclusions as to the future. Mr. Carr, on the very eve of the war, published a book in which he took issue with Professor Toynbee's argument that "international law and order were in the true interests of the whole of mankind." Of this view the professor remarked that it is an argument "compounded of platitudes and falsehood in equal parts," going on to explain that it is "a familiar tactic of the privileged" (Britain being the privileged) "to throw moral discredit on the underprivileged" (Germany!) "by depicting them as disturbers of the peace." No wonder Miss West, while on the warpath, added the professor's scalp to that of Herbert Hoover.

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 9—(CP)—You see him hustling down corridors of the Capitol, slipping into the offices of Senators and Congressmen, talking in low tones, always on the same theme: "No fourth term, no fourth term."

It is Jim Farley, the man who ran Franklin D. Roosevelt's presidential campaigns in 1932 and 1936 and was called by the president "My strong right arm."

Farley, now a business executive in New York, broke with the president in 1940 over a third term, broke vehemently and completely because he believed two terms in the White House are enough for any man. For months he has been touring the country as a man with a mission, talking, organizing, cajoling and beseeching.

Farley beat his old friend, the president, last November on the choice of a Democratic candidate for the New York governorship. He's out to beat him in 1944 if Rosevelt runs again for the presidency. Farley might be a candidate, himself, for the Democratic nomination.

Friendship between them is a thing of the past, despite the efforts of mutual friends and political agents.

When plans were being discussed here for a unified command of all services in the North African campaign, traditionalists in the British Navy objected to the Mediterranean fleet being placed under an army man, and an American at that, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. They said it never had been done since the days of King Alfred, there was no precedent for it and, therefore, it could never be a success.

Finally, in the midst of a protracted debate on the subject, one of the main objectors commented:

"Why, Nelson would turn over in his grave if he knew what is being proposed."

"Isn't it about time he did?" asked someone down the long table, in a quiet but firm voice.

This remark, almost irreverant to a traditionalist of the British Navy, clinched the argument by its implication that time did not stand still after the Napoleonic wars. The Mediterranean Fleet was placed uder the command of the American general and, due almost entirely to the personalities and fighting natures of Eisenhower and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham, British Mediterranean Fleet commander, the experiment has been a resounding success.

It takes 1,250 class hours, 250 hours of examinations and 3,000 hours of study—all in one year—to learn the Japanese language as taught by the United States Navy at the University of Colorado. It's a three-year course crammed into 12 months by the simple expedient of using a 13-hour study day.

The men, carefully selected for the course, actually spend more time during the year in lecture and study halls than they do in eating, sleeping and relaxation.

One way in which the Allies are saving a substantial amount of shipping is by declaring war on the locust.

The more Allied armies in the Mediterranean basin and the Middle East can depend on locally produced food and fodder, the more shipping space can be devoted to military supplies and reinforcements. The threat of locusts in these areas has led to vigorous and elaborate measures to control them on a front extending from Persia and Arabia to Northern Rhodesia, Ethiopia and the Belgian Congo.

Examples of the barbed wit that led Claire Boothe Luce to a successful career as a playwright and to the threshold of duplicating it in politics:—

"New Deal statisticians who draw mathematically precise lines from unwarranted assumptions to foregone conclusions."

New Deal coordinators "who have brought organized chaos out of regimented confusion."

The summer social register for 1943, black and red bound director of the elite of the United States, has only 535 pages, less than two-thirds the size of previous issues.

The editors, faced with paper restrictions, conserved space in a number of ways. One was to omit listing privately-owned yachts—which nobody can operate these days, nyway.

When Queen Wilhelmina was at Hyde Park with President Roosevelt, a group of actors in the army put on a play for them. Afterwards, before being introduced to the president, they were warned not to squeeze his hand—he has a lot of hand-shaking to do and his energy should be conserved.

After the president had shaken, heartily, the first five limp hands extended to him, he asked: "What's the matter with you soldiers? Doesn't the army feed you enough?"

A Bible Message

Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the hearts. (Prov. 21: 2.)

See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is. (Eph. 5: 15-17.)

Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it. . . .

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. (Matt. 7: 13, 14, 21.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Missionary: "And do you know nothing about religion?"

Cannibal: "Well, we got a taste of it when the last missionary was here."

A man was stranded on a desert island; he was afraid of cannibals, so he moved very cautiously. As he was climbing up a small hill he heard voices:

"Who in hell trumped my ace?"

The man lifted his eyes to heaven and said: "Thank God, there are Christians on this island!"

Youth Hostels Planned For This Area

Organization of Canadian Youth Hostels in the Peterborough district is being considered and a local division is likely to be formed.

"To help all, especially young people to a greater knowledge, understanding and love of the world and their fellow-men by providing for them Youth Hostels, bicycle trails, foot paths and by assistance in their travels." This is the aim of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association which has at present 105 hostels throughout Canada.

A hostel is an inexpensive overnight accommodation, usually set up in farm buildings with friendly farm folk who act as nouse-parents. There are separate sleeping and washing facilities for boys and girls but common kitchen and dining rooms. The overnight charge is 25c. Meals are provided at a standard rate of not more than 35c.

Hostels are usually located on secondary roads in scenic and historic locations about 15 miles apart in chains loops and networks so that one may bike or hike from one hostel to another. It is the hope that eventually there will be enough hostels in Canada that a hosteller may travel anywhere with a minimum of expense—usually not more than $1.00 per day.

In Ontario there are hostels surrounding Toronto in a net-work extending north through Muskoka to North Bay and south and west through Kitchener, Hamilton and Niagara Peninsula, at present the most easterly hostel is at Dagmar. Peterborough is a logical and desirable location from which to spread a network which may finally link up with the Ottawa and Montreal networks.

With bicycles so much in the fore these days, the Association is anxious to assist the young people of Peterborough in enjoying the scenic beauty of the district as much as possible. However, the success of a local division on the interest, assistance and administrative ability of the young people themselves. Those interested should contact Dick Scott, either at C. G. E. Aircraft Engineering or at 120 Lock Street, Phone 9983.

CBC Announces Political Hours

TORONTO, July 9 —(CP).—The C.B.C. today announced regulations governing radio broadcasts of political speeches during the Ontario election campaign along with a schedule of free broadcasts over the corporation's Ontario regional network.

The free network time totals seven hours with 2½ hours for the Liberals and 2¼ hours each for the C.C.F. and the Progressive Conservatives. There are nine half-hour broadcasts and 10 quarter-hour broadcasts.

(The Canadian Association of Broadcasters announced yesterday that independent radio stations in Ontario are co-operating with the C.B.C. in providing free time for election campaign speeches.)

The C.B.C. announcement said that broadcasting facilities available for election speeches would be: free time on the Ontario regional network; subsidiary hookups of privately-owned Ontario stations on a commercial basis and individual privately-owned stations on a commercial basis.

The announcement said that political broadcasting "must be restricted to strictly political addresses and announcements." Dramatized political broadcasts, interviews and question and answer programs are banned.

Following is the schedule of free-time broadcasts:

July 9—8:30-9:00 p.m., C.C.F.
July 12—8:45-9:00 p.m., Liberal.
July 13—8:30-8:45 p.m., C.C.F.; 8:45-9:00 p.m., Progressive Conservative.
July 15—8:30-9:00 p.m., Liberal.
July 16—8:30-8:45 p.m., C.C.F.; 8:45-9:00 p.m., Progressive Conservative.
July 20—8:30-8:45 p.m., C.C.F.
July 22—8:30-9:00 p.m., Progressive Conservative.

Mess Room Chatter

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 9 — (CP) — In the western desert, as in other theatres of war R.C.A.F. members formed a large percentage of air crews and earned a proportionate share of the glory and honors of aerial warfare.

From November until May, R.C.A.F. members of Gen. Montgomer's air support, which was known as the Western Desert Air Force as distinct from the North West African Air Forces, won 36 Distinguished Flying Crosses, five bars to the D.F.C., and 21 Distinguished Flying Medals. These are in addition to the awards won by Canadians in the R.A.F.

At the climax of the campaign there were in the Western Desert Air Force approximately 1,000 R.C.A.F. air crew members, again not including members of the R.A.F., and there about 600 R.C.A.F. ground crew and technical and administrative officers and other ranks.

During these same months from Alamein to Tunis 132 R.C.A.F. members in the Desert Air Force were reported killed or missing. Virtually all of these were air crew, and the proportion of loss shows only too well the vital and hazardous role Canadians performed in the elimination of the Axis from Africa. Many more were wounded or captured.

Not only do R.C.A.F. personnel thickly populate every R. A. F. squadron and crew room, dominating many fighter units, and being represented in practically every British bomber and flying boat in the air, but the ubiquitous Canadian wireless air gunner was to be found even in units of the United States Army Air Force.

One U. S. bomber squadron which had to borrow R. C. A. F. gunners when it first went operational now is battling to retain them permanently, and the American commanding officer has recommended the entire batch for commissioning.

Australian and other Dominion squadrons have also retained R.C.A.F. pilots despite the general trend towards nationalization of units in the desert, and Canadian air gunners have proved as popular in South African bomber squadrons as on American units.

Inevitably, as in any combatant force, individuals have risen to particular prominence among Canada's desert fliers. Most notable has been the career of Flight Lt. James Francis Edwards, D.F.C., D.F.M., of North Battleford, Sask., who, with a record of 10 enemy aircraft destroyed, and many others probably destroyed or damaged, is the top-ranking R.C.A.F. fighter pilot in this theatre of war.

Close behind him, with eight destroyed, is Flt. Lt. William Lawrence Chisolm, D.F.C., of Kentville, N.S., while many others are only a short way behind them in their list of claims.

Individual exploits have forced other Canadian fighter pilots somewhat reluctantly into the limelight, because the average Canadian flier, like his English pal, matches his keenness for a scrap with an equal degree of embarrassment when he finds himself a celebrity even for a day.

Council Changes Wages Of Road Workers

MILLBROOK, July 9 —(ENS)— Cavan Council met in regular session on Monday with Reeve W. W. Brown presiding and members all present except Councillor Harold Cathcart, absent through illness.

The council dealt with several communications from the Canadian National Railways Tax Department, acknowledging the adjustment made in assessment; from the Counties' Treasurer giving County and School rate for 1943 as $17,713.58; and from the Nicholls' Hospital Trust with an account for William Smith, admitted to the hospital, May 17, 1940.

Deputy-Reeve John Smith introduced a by-law to amend the grade of pay given the grader operator, to laborers, and the rental rate of tractors. The bylaw stated that the grader operator is to be paid at the rate 50 cents per hour; laborers, 35 cents per hours; and tractor rental $1.25 per hour.

Councillors Armstrong and Earle moved that the clerk be given permission to close the township office from July 10 to July 30, and the reeve be instructed to sign cheques for the following orders:

Temporary Farm Pay Has No Tax Deduction

OTTAWA, July 9 — (CP). — No deduction for income tax need be taken from the pay of temporary farm help if the total amount paid is below the taxable level, Revenue Minister Gibson said to-day in the House of Commons.

Answering a question by H. A. MacKenzie (Lib. Lambton-Kent), Col. Gibson said that all wages are subject to income tax, but that in respect to temporary farm help the deduction was not considered necessary.

Mr. MacKenzie said farmers would have to depend largely on part-time help from towns and villages and he wondered if the wages paid to such help would be subject to income tax.

SOLDIERS EXTEND LEAD IN CITY SOFTBALL LEAGUE TO FULL GAME

Army Wallops Switchgear By Score 24-4

Soldiers extended their lead in the City Softball League to a full game Thursday night when the hit the ball hard and took advantage of ten fielding slips to wallop Manager Chamber's Switchgear club 24 to 4.

The Military Training Centre club won the affair in a canter; in fact, they scored enough runs in the first inning when they trotted five in to have taken the decision without going to bat again. They came back with five in the second to make it a rout and kept banging away until they had run up two dozen markers before the sad affair ended.

The Switchgear defensive system fell apart at the seams, the losers being charged with ten errors and with the Soldiers teeing off all night runs came in clusters all the way through.

Starting in with a lead of five runs in the first innings, Tom Parsons, Soldier pitcher, coasted for the distance. He allowed ten hits and walked a couple but never had anything to worry about. In fact, he was getting more effective as the game went along and blanked Switchgear in the last four innings, yielding but one hit after the fifth.

Hit Reynolds Hard.

Gene Reynolds started for the losers but his slow ball which bothered the Soldiers in his previous effort against them was just to their liking. They stepped into his Sunday ball with a vengeance and between hits and his shaky support they had him out of there before the second inning ended; getting ten runs before he was yanked. Taylor's homer down the left field foul line was the final blow and Harrison was sent to the mound, stopping the slaughter for the time being.

However, the Military Training Centre team trained their guns on him for a three runs in the fourth, four in the fifth, three more in the sixth and another trio in the seventh, winding up with a single marker in the final frame.

Taylod Soldier catcher, and Tony McIlveen, left fielder led the assault with four blows each. Taylor had three doubles in addition to his home run and provided transportation for six Soldier runs. McIlveen had two of their runs in the third when Abraham walked with one out and scored on Jamieson's long triple to left centre. Parsan's wild pitched Jamieson in with the second run.

A single by Holmes, an infield out, a pass to Whitehill and Harrison's infield single gave the losers another marker in the fourth and they ended their scoring in the fifth on singles by Carpenter and Ashmore and Maloney's fly to Herrick in centre.

Best fielding play of the engagement was contributed by Harry Morgan, manager and first baseman of the Soldiers who went high in the air to pull down a line drive and rob Doug. Abraham of a double.

To Defend His Title Here

Whipper Billy Watson, British Empire wrestling champion, who has agreed to make the bout here Monday night with Irish Pat Flanagan a championship affair instead of an exhibition. It will be the headliner attraction on Frank Tunney's card next week.

Whipper Watson Stakes Crown On Bout With Flanagan

For the British Empire Wrestling Championship. That's the title of Monday night's main grappling battle at the Brock St. Arena when Irish Pat Flanagan gets his chance at Whipper Billy Watson's Empire Crown.

Watson has agreed to lay his title on the line for Monday night's bout and while admitting that Flanagan is a top notch grappler, stated today that he had every confidence he would come out still Champion.

The Whipper is a remarkable young man in more ways than one. In the past eighteen months he has flashed across the fistic horizon in Canada and the U. S. and has made a tremendous impression. Watson is big fast and can wrestle, clean, rough or what have you, but prefers the clean scientific type of fight. Since he won the British Empire Title the sensational young Torontoian has swept all before him and is in big demand in Montreal, Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo and other big cities.

However even the British Empire Champion will have to be at his best if he expects to get past the clever Flanagan. Irish Pat is also improving every time out and in recent weeks has shown that he knows as much wrestling as any man on a mat to-day. This bout should be a real classic.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 9 — (AP). — The Southern California Public Links Golf Association is undertaking an ambitious program this summer with a War Workers Division, which functions through recreation directors of about 100 war plants, and a junior golf instruction program, which helps to look after the kids whose parents have war jobs.. ...President Alfred H. Mauer reports that the professionals, including such big-name players as Olin Dutra, Willie Hunter, Joe Novak, Harry Bassler and tSan Kertes, are especially enthusiastic about the junior work....Ten courses around Los Angeles, Pasadena, and Long Beach are holding classes and they plan to wind up the courses with a tournament.

Plenty of punch:

Speaking of golf, Sgt. Joe Louis, who is visiting here, reports that his current ambition is to reduce his handicap from six to scratch.. .."I don't know whether I'll still have the old zing in the ring after the war," Joe confesses, "but I still have zing in that golf club."

One-minute sports page:

As soon as he heard of Si Johnsons "resignation" from the National League all-star team, old Bobo Newsom phoned Ford Frick to ask for the batting practice assignment. That would have made him the first player to make the all-star squads in both leagues, but the call was too late and Ace Adams already had been given the job.... Judge Landis' 736-page book "Baseball," which subs for the official guides, finally is off the press. At a glance it seems to contain everything.

Future book:

Phil Terranova, who KO'd Jackie Callura in non-title bout, will get his shot at Jackie's N.B.A. featherweight title at New Orleans, on August 16, according to Manager Bobby Gleason.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

At a meeting of the tournament committee Thursday they made two important changes as regards open tournaments. The first one is changing the men's open rink tournament from Aug. 4 to July 28th. It was felt that election day being held on Aug. 4th would not help the tournament—hence the change.

The other change, or correction we should say, is the one dated Aug. 18th. We believe that this was a misprint. It should read "mixed rinks" instead of ladies' rinks. The bowlers are asked to note these changes. We'll have more information later on.

There was some mighty good bowling seen all across the greens on Thursday night, and maybe some of the scores do not bear out that statement but nevertheless it is correct. You could look to any game and see some well played shots and see some beautiful ends built-up. The scores do not always tell the real story.

Don't forget the mixed tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

C. Giroux, T. Doughty, Judge S. Smoke and G. Gimblett are taking in the annual tournament tomorrow held at St. Matthews Club, Toronto.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Both roaring along on the strength of a two-game winning streak and with a chance to climb up near the top of the heap offered the winner, 4th Battery and Genelecs will clash in a City League game at Riverside Park at 7 o'clock tonight. It should be a wow. After a three-game slump Ted Johnston's club from the big south-end plant has vanquished Cardinals and Soldiers while the Gunners have been cleaning up on the Switch Gear and Combines. The victory march of one of the outfits is due to end tonight and each is determined that it will be the other who will slip back. With Dave Wilson still away the Battery is expected to send young Bob Crowe in against the Genelecs while Manager Johnston has Ronnie Akers, Terry Woods and Bill Moorhead for mound duty against the Artillerymen. After a slow start the Gunners have been pounding the ball hard and running wild on the bases. They have scored 42 runs in their last two games and it will be interesting to watch how they get along against Genelec pitching on this occasion. Both clubs have been playing good ball recently and with so much at stake they should come up with their best brand. Last time the two met the Genelecs won 10 to 7. Gunners claim they are going to get revenge for that beating while the Genelecs declare they will repeat the dose. No matter which proves to be right it should be a sweet struggle.

Two of the younger clubs in the Girls' Softball League who have been showing consistent improvement, the Brintons and Johnson Motors teams will clash tonight in a league fixture at the Ashburnham Bowl and it should prove quite a tidy argument. Brintons came through with a neat win their last time out while the Outboard Marines also showed their best ball of the season on their last appearance so that the two should stage a close battle when they clash tonight. Dot Laver, southpaw pitcher will do the throwing for the Brinton girls while it may be Lillian Fowler for the Johnson outfit. The game is called for 7 o'clock sharp and both camps announce their strongest lineups of the season. The Outboard Marines have been pointing to a win for the past couple of weeks and would be the happiest gang in the loop if they could come through on this occasion.

The Title At Stake

When Whipper Billy Watson and Irish Pat Flanagan meet here Monday night in the main bout of Frank Tunney's weekly mat tourney at the Summer Gardens, Peterborough fans are going to get more than they were expecting. This is to be no mere exhibition battle as most of these bouts are. It is to be a championship affair. The Whipper is the British Empire champion, and he has agreed to lay his title on the line for Monday's bout with Flanagan. In other words if the Toronto Irishman can knock off Watson on that occasion he will be the new wrestling champion of the British Empire. Frankly this column does not think that Flanagan is good enough to do it. Watson has come along fast and is a top-notcher right now. He should dispose of the popular Irishman. But it will be no pushover. Flanagan has a lot of the same kind of stuff as the Whipper. He is big, speedy and courageous. With a chance to grab off Watson's title and lineup for head-liner bouts there is no doubt that he will toss everything he has in Monday night's battle. We believe that it will be a case of too little and too late. But we also believe that the British Empire champion should not make the mistake of under-rating his opposition. He will probably find that he has to come up with some of his finest wrestling to defend his title. With two other good bouts arranged Monday night's show is the classiest Promoter Tunney has presented. It rates a real crowd.

To clear the bases without an error being made on a bunt down the third baseline is one of those freak happenings that make baseball the game it is. Vic McKenty of Kitchener tells about it in this interesting paragraph in his sport column: "It's not very often that a bunt cleans the bases but it happened in last night's game at Waterloo. In the big fourth frame the sacks were crammed and the batter rolled a winging bunt down the third baseline. The pitcher elected to force a man at the plate but his throw was late. Then the catcher got the idea that he could pick the hitter, who had rounded first, off the bag. The runner got back safely but in the meantime the man on third broke for home. He scored standing up so the catcher threw to third to try and stop a man advancing from second. The play failed so the third baseman fired to second to try and get the original hitter. While this was going on the runner on third run home on the play. There wasn't a bad peg or error on the whole play, the ball just arrived at each station a second or so after the runner."

Congratulations

Congratulations are in order to the George Street Church teams upon their feat in winning both sections of the Church Softball League this season, the bantams defeating St. John's in the finals while the George Street juveniles won out over All Saints. Both teams played good ball. Congratulations are also due to the executive of the league on completing another successful season against odds. There is need of coaches and umpires, if the loop is to continue. The Church League has been a nursery for players for years and this season it provided organized ball for 13 teams and around 160 players. It is worthy of note that Peterborough's juvenile O.A.S.A. team of last season was made up with one exception of Church Leaguers and that a number of Church League graduates are making good in this year's City League. Many former Church League players are of course in the armed services.

Once upon a time the name of Grove dominated the list of American League pitchers. That was in the palmy days of the great "Lefty" of that ilk. Now there is another Grove who is rapidly achieving greatness. He is right-handed Orval Grove, 23-year-old twirler of the Chicago White Sox who almost won himself a no-run no-hit game last night when he blanked the New York Yanks 1 to 0. There were two out in the ninth when Joe Gordon slammed a double for the only hit yielded by the young star. The win incidentally pulled the White Sox to within three games of the top and the second-place Detroit Tigers who won their tenth win in 12 starts, gained a full game on the Yanks. In the National League features were Rip Sewell's 12th victory, and 8 to 2 win over the Dodgers, and a 14-innings battle between the Phillies and Reds which the former took 1 to 0 on pinch-hitter May's timely hit.

Baseball news takes the sports spotlight with the St. Louis Browns heading the parade of items. George McQuinn, star first baseman of the Browns, reports for Army induction at Arlington, Va. Pitcher Jack Kramer of the Browns, who retired from baseball last year, hopes to return to active playing. Howard Pollett, one of the younger Cardinal pitchers, has applied to his draft board for voluntary induction to enter the Army Air Forces as an aviation cadet. George Jeffcoat, rookie pitcher of the Braves, has been sold to the Indianapolis club of American Association.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

The Balata ball that baseball men cae to despise is by some tests giving the golfer more distance this summer on his booming drives.

This was on the authority today of Jimmy Demaret, Detroit pro., whose tests have changed doubting duffers into cheerful contributors of old golf balls into the reprocessing hopper.

Before club members at his Plum Hollow course Demaret stepped to the tee with half a dozen ball—three from the pro shop shelves and three reprocessed ones. His longest drive of 255 yards was with an old pellet. The reprocessed ball averaged eight yards more in distance.

A few days later Demaret repeated his experiment and got the same weight-yard difference.

"Pre-war golf balls, if you can find them, have lost a lot of punch," Demaret explained, "while the Balata cover on the renewed balls adds a lot of distance. I've been playing with the old ones all year and boy, do they carry."

A father-and-son act has been featured in the Fort Erie Municipal baseball leauge this season Eby Morrow, a member of the customs staff at the border point, had been playing second base for the MacMorran team but was succeeded at the sack by his son Danny. The latter has enlisted in the Royal Canadian Artillery and now dad Morrow has had to resume his place in the line-up.

Fails Again.

Arne Anderson, Sweden's up-and-coming track speedster, has failed to do it again. Last week he sped the fastest mile on record but, yesterday at Stockholm in the presence of 20,000 spectators, he fell short by three seconds of equalling the world's record of 3:45.8 for the 1,500-metre run held by Gunder Haegg. Anderson said the track was too heavy.

The Fernleigh rink skipped by J. M. Smye won 18-8 in the O.B.A. final at Hamilton last night, the runners-up being another Fernleigh four with William Hardman in the role of skip. John Gordon skipped his Dundas rink to a 16-8 victory for the Buckingham Trophy aaginst J. B. Blackwood of Ontario Hospital.

Harness Racing.

The unfinished National Stake race in the Grand Circuit at North Randall yesterday had a different ending for Attorney which won the first heat on Wednesday before the weather halted the card. Winner of both miles carries over from the previous day proved to be Good-Bye, owned by Mrs. James B. Johnson of Rochester, Mich., and driven by Sep Palin. The $3,000 Harriman Cup trot for two-year-olds was won by Eva's Boy, an outsider by Wayne Smart.

George Street Cops Both Championships

The championship of the Juvenile section of the Peterborough Church Softball League was won by George Street United Church on Wednesday night when they defeated All Saints by a score of 12 to 5, to win the third game in a two out of three final series. Consequently George Street won both sections in the Church League, the bantams having won from St. John's last Thursday.

Wednesday night's game was well played and showed that most of the boys have developed considerably during the schedule. The pitching of McDougal for All Saint's was outstanding. He struck out 13 of the George Street batters, but a couple of wild throws on the part of the his team-mates accounted for their down-fall in the second innings. when George Street bunched their hits to get seven of their twelve runs. Burrows for George Street did not strike out as many as McDougal but kept all the hits well scattered.

Carpenter, Gaskell, and Bedford were the best hitters for George Street while Ellis went best for All Saint's. The George Street team was coached by Bill Greatrix and showed the result of players pulling together.

The teams were as follows:

George Street: Bedford, ss; McNaught, 3b; Gaskell, c; Nicholls, lf; Carpenter, 1b; Griffin, rf; Burrows, p; Marshall, 2b; Delahaye, cf.

All Saints: Menzies, c; Chamber, ss; McDougal, p; Ellis, 1b; Burns, cf; Outram, 3b; Sisson, lf; Filer, 2b.

The executive of the Church League wish to take this opportunity to thank the players, coaches and others who contributed in any way to the success of the year. The league had 13 team participating this year with approximately 160 boys between the ages of 12 and 18 taking part. Anyone who is interested, is urged to make plans to help out next year as some of the teams found it hard to keep going without coaches. Umpires were very hard to get and in fact out of 15 older fellows, who were asked to handle the final game it was not possible to get one. A job which eventually fell to the members of the executive. If this league is to function next year, it will certainly need some help both to coach teams and to umpire.

Montreal Splits Doubleheader With Rochester

(By The Associated Press)

Bill Webb, the Atlanta boy whose first major league pitch for Philadelphia Phillies was hit for a homer by Pitcher Mort Cooper of St. Louis Cardinals, popped up with a three-hit shutout in the International League last night.

Webb, sent down by the Phillies for seasoning, worked in masterful fashion as he gave Montreal Royals an even split with Rochester in a doubleheader. The Red Wings took the opener, 4-3, on Earl Naylor's triple with two out in the eighth and were blanked, 9-0, as two Rochester twirlers were pounded for 15 hits.

An inside-the-park homer by Rochester's Al Schoendienst, the league's leading hitter, kept the Royals from taking both ends of the twin bill. It came in the seventh and tied the score at 3-3. In the extra inning Naylor socked a long drive to the scoreboard in deep left center scoring Walt Alston from first with the winning run.

Jim Hopper also twirled a three-hitter for the first place Toronto Maple Leafs, but he had the misfortune of all three coming in the third inning and losing to Buffalo, 4-3. The Bisons got all their runs in the one inning, the big blow coming on Eddie Kobesky's 13th circuit swat with two on.

Sparked by Shortstop Don Savage Newark Bears won their third straight game by beating Baltimore 4-3. Savage drove in three runs with his 10th homer with none out in the second and a three-bagger with two on in the sixth. He then scored the winning run as Pitcher Steve Roser singled him home.

Red Bartelson, Syracuse right hander, turned in a four-hitter in beating Jersey City, 6-2, for the fourth time this season. His teammates helped him with a 14-hit attack off Bobby Coombs and Bobby Wells.

Phillies Set Up Rival School Of Rejuvenation

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

For years baseball's fountain of youth has reposed in Yankee Stadium and joining the perennial American League champions has made almost any ordinary ball player into a star, at least temporarily.

Now Philadelphia Phillies have set up a rival clinic in rejuvenation that is producing just as spectacular results.

Schoolboy Rowe, Si Johnson, Babe Dahlgren and other veterans have responded to the treatment of Dr. Stanley Raymond Harris this season and the newest Phillies' patient to take the cure successfully is Richard O. (Kewpie) Barrett.

This 35-year-old righthanded pitcher who was cut loose a few days ago by Chicago Cubs after losing four games without winning one, came up yesterday with a 14-inning shutout against Cincinnati Reds to win a gruelling 1-0 battle for the Phillies after they had been battered 7-5 by a 17-hit assault in the first half of a doubleheader.

Flashy Indeed.

Considering that it came from a stumpy old-timer who had failed to make the grade not only with the Cubs this year, but previously with the Athletics, Braves and Reds, the performance was flashy enough to share attention with the one-hit game pitched by Orval Grove of Chicago White Sox last night as he beat the Yankees 1-0 for his seventh triumph without a defeat this season.

Barrett kept nine hits scattered, fanned five and walked five to outlast Ray Starr, who was pitching for Cincinnati on one day's rest.

John Van der Meer went the route in the first game to win after giving up four runs in the first three innings.

Grove, pitching the season's seventh one-hitter, came within one out of reach of the no-hit hall of fame. The spoiler was a double by Joe Gordon (batting average .214) but the disappointment of 31,019 Chicago fans was somewhat assuaged by the fact the third-place Sox captured their ninth victory in 10 games.

10 Wins for Tigers

Second place Detroit Tigers extended their spurt to 10 wins in 12 games by beating Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 on six-hit huring by Paul (Dizzy) Trout. All the Tiger's runs were scored on four singles in the third inning.

Cleveland Indians made seven of their nine hits for extra bases and beat Washington Senators 5-2 in a morning contest with Allie Reynolds scattering seven blows. It was Washington's sixth loss in seven games.

St. Louis Browns rebounded from their losing series with the Yankees to whip Boston Red Sox 5-2 with Steve Sundra pitching seven hit ball.

In the National League the only action aside from the Philadelphia doubleheader was at Brooklyn, where Pittsburgh Pirates punished Brooklyn Dodgers 8-2 for Rip Sewell's 12th victory against two defeats.

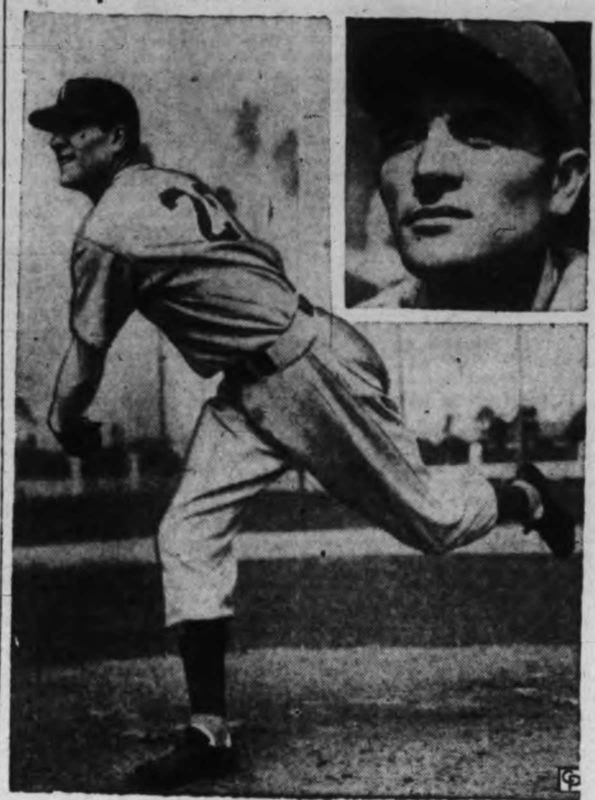
Southpaw Returns To A's



Southpaw Herman Besse, once rated a future major league star, is coming back to pitch for the Athletics again. Besse, winner of only two games for the A's last year, left the club to work on a war job, but now he is rejoining his team. Recently classified 1-A in the draft, Besse will be in line for military service. He began his pitching career with Jackson in 1936, winning eight games against 12 losses. He then moved on to Jacksonville and Greenville before he hopped up to the Southern Association. With Memphis in 1939 he won 17 games against 11 losses. In 1940, he pitched for Atlanta and then joined the A's late in the season. He divided the 1941 season with Toronto and the Athletics.

Baseball's Big Six

(By The Associated Press)

Steve Mesner, Reds and Kewpie Barrett, Phillies — Mesner made three hits and scored two runs in leading winning attack in first game and Barrett kept nine hits scattered over 14 innings to win nightcap 1-0.

Elbie Fletcher and Pte. Coscarart, Pirates—Former hit three-run homer and latter tripled with bases loaded to overpower Dodgers.

Allie Reynolds, Indians—Kept seven hits spaced and struck out nine to beat Senators.

Ned Harris, Tigers—Drove in two runs with single and made spectacular shoe-string catch to stymie eighth-inning rally by Athletics.

Don Gutteridge, and Mike Chartak, Browns—Former made four hits including a triple and latter drove in three runs with pair of singles against Red Sox.

Orval Grove, White Sox—Pitched one-hitter, going till two were out in ninth before Joe Gordon doubled, to shutout Yankees and remain undefeated with seven victories.

cational system "so that every child will have an opportunity to be educated to the full extent of his mental capacity," was included in the program. So, too, were measures providing medical, dental and other health protection to all. Organization and administrative control of price and supply of fuel, milk and other basic necessities, by boards representing labor, veterans organizations and the consuming public, were further points.

Col. Drew said the basis for the program was the conviction that "under a strong Government the vast resources and producing capacity of this province can assure employment and good wages for all who will work and security for those who find themselves unable to work because of sickness, unemployment, physical disability, or old age."

The 22-Point Program.

In detail, the Progressive Conservative Party's 22-point platform as enunciated by its leader is:

1. We will maintain British institutions and strengthen the British partnership by every means within the constitutional power of the Government of Ontario.

2. We will at all times work in effective co-operation with the Dominon Government and with all other governing bodies in Canada in all activities which will assist in the prosecution of the war to a successful conclusion, and in establishing a sound basis of social security, health insurance and protection in their old age for all our people. At the same time we will insist that the constitutional right of the people of Ontario be preserved, and that the Government of Ontario exercise full control of its own Provincial affairs.

3. The farms the factories the mines the forest, and personal services which constitute the five major groups of employment will be supported by appropriate legislation in their efforts to increase employment at good wages. In every field of employment individual initiative will be encouraged and hard work rewarded by reducing taxes and removing bureaucractic restrictions.

4. Farming will be organized in every county under committees of outstanding farmers who will be given authority to plan production, and regulate the processing and distribution of their output. Cheese boards, creameries, milk distributors, central produce markets, and other marketing organizations will be under the supervison of outstanding farmers in each line of production.

Will Take Over Stock Yards.

Stock yards will be taken over by the Government and operated as a publicly owned enterprise so that speculation and manipulation may be stopped and fair prices assured. A conference will be called immediately of leading farmers from the whole Province to assist in drafting effective plans for the organization of food production.

5. Legislation will be introduced assuring the workers and employers of this Province the fairest and most advanced laws governing labor relations, following an inquiry to be undertaken immediately by a committee of at least 15 members to be known as the Ontario labor Relations Committee, upon which there will be equal representation of labor, employers, and the general public. Recognizing at the outset the right to proper and enforceable legislation regarding collective bargaining, this committee will be asked to examine the laws dealing with labor relations in other countries and draft for Ontario an act which will establish that basis of justice, co-operation and responsibility which is son necessary for the welfare and security of all our people.

6. The mining industry will be assisted in every way possible and placed under the direction of a Minister with practical knowledge of mining. The tax burden will be lightened and there will be a more equitable distribution of the tax between the different taxing bodies A langer shore of the taxes will go to the Provincial and municipal treasuries. All restrictive measures which deney prospectors and others the inducement to find and develop new mining properties will be repealed and every encouragement will be given to geologists and prospectors to discover new mineral areas. Every practical measure possible will be adopted to expand this offer the widest opportunities for employment when our armed forces are demobilized.

Long-Term Forest Policy

7. Our vast forest resources which under proper administration are capable creating employment for hundreds of thousands of new workers, will be placed under the control of an Ontario Forest Resources Commission which will operate under long-term policies of conservation, reforestation and soil control. Immediately after its formation it will review all existing contracts, will cancel those which have disposed of great areas of forest resources without proper consideration.

8. An Ontario Housing Commission will be created to plan a great housing program throughout the whole Province for the purpose of creating employment in the period of readjustment and at the same time bring to an end the unsatisfactory housing conditions in many parts of Ontario.

9. There will be a sweeping revision of our whole system of real estate taxation so that the owning and improvement of homes and farm land, which are the very foundation of our society, will not be discouraged by excessive taxation. As an initial step in that direction the Provincial Government will assume at least 50 per cent of the school taxes now charged against real estate. It is, however, to be clearly understood that this change will not affect the authority of the local school boards.

10. Our educational system will be completely revised so that every child in this Province will have an opportunity to be educated to the full extent of their mental capacity, no matter where they live or what the financial circumstances of their parents may be. Vocational training will be made a much more important part of the school work, so that children may be prepared to earn a living by practical vocational instruction. The important place of our teachers in each community will be fully recognized.

11. Steps will be taken to assure that every child is given the greatest possible opportunity to face life with a healthy body and mind. Health measures will be established so that medical, dental and other health protection will be available to all.

12. Steps will be taken immediately to prepare plans for great public undertakings which will create employment in the period of readjustment immediately after the war.

13. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission will be removed from political control. Recognizing that the publicly owned Hydro-Electric resources of this Province belong to all our people, there will be an immediate adjustment of the rates for electric energy upon a just and equitable basis. The service charge in rural areas will be removed. Power will be extended to farms with full recognition of the fact that food production in war is hardly less essential to our success than the military effort.

14. Plans will be made for land reclamation throughout the Province, so that all areas which can be brought into production will be fully developed. These plans will be drafted immediately, but the actual development of most of the areas will be deferred so that they can be placed under veterans' organizations in the period of readjustment. This will open wide opportunities for immediate employment when the war is over and will also offer to veterans and their families the chance to settle in organized groups in areas where their economic security can be assured.

15. Taxation will be reduced and efficiency of Government increased by the elimination of all Provincial departments and services which duplicate those of the Dominion Government and are not necessary for the purpose of preserving fundamental constitutional rights.

16. An efficient and permanent civil service system will immediately be put into effect which will protect civil servants from political dismissal or interference, thus increasing administrative efficiency by giving to all civil servants a greater sense of security and pride in their work.

17. All legislation will be repealed which denies any individual the right to defend his person and property before the courts.

Revise Pension Scales.

18. There will be an immediate increase in mothers' allowances and old-age pensions in keeping with the increased cost of living. There will be an immediate repeal of the shameful provision that old people who have a home of their own, which they have established by their savings throughout long years must dispose of that home before they will be granted the very limited allowances which the are entitled to receive. In future the old people who have played their part so well in making this great Province what it is to-day must not be forced to mortgage their homes before they can receive their small pensions.

19. Adequate supplies at reasonable prices of fuel, milk and other basic necessities will be assured by effective organization and administrative control. Representatives of labor, veteran organizations, and the consuming public will be appointed to all boards dealing with these matters.

20 Men and women who have served in the armed forces will be assured priority in the public service and protection in their employment.

21. During the war those who are in military service will be given legal protection against the economic consequences of their service. In all cases where the ability of those in military service and their dependents to meet their financial obligations have been materially reduced by such service, effective legal protection will be given against seizure of property for arrears of taxes, forfeiture of instalment contracts, cancellation of life insurance policies up to $10,000, judgments or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service, and other embarrassing financial obligations. These provisions, however, will be subject to the express condition that those able to pay will not be permitted to evade their obligations by this device, and that just protection will be assured to creditors under simple and effective procedure before the cancellation of obligations, but merely deferment with justice to all concerned.

Social Security Plan.

22. A rehabilitation and social security committee will be appointed immediately with instructions to draft plans which will assure social security for all our people, and also provide for the rehabilitation and employment of the members of our armed forces and munition workers after the war.

"That is our program. It does not deal with questions of administraon of justice, juvenile delinquency, liquor control, highway construction, provincial finances, or a number of other matters which have to do with the enforcement and interpretation of existing laws. I will discuss such subjects at another time," Mr. Drew said.

"I pledge myself, as Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party in Ontario, to carry out each of the proposals contained in this program when you entrust us with the power to do so. Each of them is practical. Each is based upon careful examination of the facts. May I ask you to examine this program in detail and if you agree that it would be good for the people of Ontario to have these proposals put into operation, then I urge you to support the Progressive Conservative candidate in your riding."

Social Security Talk Held Over Week-End

MONTREAL, July 9 — (CP). — Authors of social security plans and social security experts from a number of countries will meet here on Friday through Monday in a "social security consultation" convened by the International Labor Office, it was announced to-day.

An I.L.O. announcement said purpose of the meeting was "to afford an opportunity for an exchange of views on new trends of social security policy for the mutual guidance of the participants and to assist the International Labor Office in ascertaining the common features of the movement."

Among those taking part in the consultation will be Sir William Beveridge and Dr. Leonard Marsh, author of Canada's social security plan.

Rev. W. Millson Dies In Oshawa

OSHAWA, July 9.—Rev. Dr. Walter Millson, 72, who for several years has served as superannuated supply for Northminster United Church, Oshawa, died Thursday at the Toronto General Hospital. Mr. Millson was for 14 years field secretary for the Department of Evangelism and Social Service, United Church of Canada.

Born near London, Ont., he was ordained in the ministry in the former Methodist Church and had held charges in Saskatoon, Kingsville, Welcome and Oshawa. While serving field secretary he resided in London, Ont., and Saskatoon. He had held the office of secretary of Cobourg Presbytery and was a member of the Masonic Order.

Surviving are his widow, Julia Wellington Millson, and two sons, Ray of Oshawa and Douglas of Chatham. The funeral service will be held Saturday afternoon at Northminster United Church.

Orange Lodges Plan Church Service

Celebration of the 12th of July at the week-end is again restricted by the effects of another year of war.

A. W. Millen, county L.O.L. secretary, announces a church service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Riverside Bowl, to be conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland, assisted by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Church and Major A. Dixon of the Salvation Army. Members will meet at the Orange Hall, Brock Street, at 2.15 and proceed to the Bowl by way of the Cenotaph, where a wreath will be laid. The Salvation Army Band will accompany the parade. Dispersal will take place at the conclusion of the service and there will be no return march to the hall.

Has Two Days In One.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., July 9 — (CP).—FO. Douglas Sargent, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Sargent, of Georgetown, writes home that he saw two sunrises and two sunsets in a single day in Iceland. His plane took off just after the sunset, climbed into the disappearing sunlight and saw the sun sink beyond a second horizon. Returning to his base, he saw the sun rise far away, landed before light had pepped over the mountains, and saw a second sunrise.

Car Owner Fined On Two Counts

Allowing his car to be driven by some one else has proven an expensive proposition for Hugh J. Buchanan, service station operator.

Buchanan pleaded guilty in police court this morning to permitting his automobile to be driven by a person who was not the holder of a license and also to driving or permitting his car to be driven carelessly.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., imposed a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs in each case.

Giving evidence, Provincial Constable Llyod A. McClure, who had the charges, said that there had been an accident in which the accused's car had been involved. It had got over the centre line of the highway and came into contact with another automobile travelling in the opposite direction. As a result damage to the amount of $150 had been done to the two cars.

"Has he ever been in trouble before?" asked Magistrate Langley.

"Not recently," replied the officer.

"Not recently is not good enough" said His Worship in imposing sentence.

Conserve Tinned Foods

OTTAWA, July 9 —(CP) — Stanley Knowles (C. C. F. Winnipeg North) in House of Commons last night requested that the Prices Board conserve available supplies of tinned fruits and other foods needed by infants and young children to ensure that they may be obtainable for the children rather than left open to purchase for adult use. Finance Minister Ilsley said he would give the matter consideration.

Librarian Is Appointed To Collegiate

Three applications for the position of librarian at the Collegiate were received at the Board of Education Thursday night and after some consideration, Miss Genevieve Fowler, who has been charge of the Boys and Girls' department at the Public Library for nine years, was appointed at a salary of $1,000 a year, her duties to commence August 1.

Miss Fowler is a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate and got her honor matriculation in 11 subjects, and is also a graduate of the Toronto University Library school. Her duties as outlined by the principal, C. S. Browne, will include recataloguing the library and put it in shape for ordinary work before school begins. After that she will be in the library all day with senior pupils and it will be her duty to direct and help them with reference books, to supervise senior pupils and to appoint assistants among the pupils to help in the giving out and taking in of books during the periods. Applications were also received from Miss Vera Hyland and Mrs. Mildred G. Corneil.

The former acting principal of King Edward School, Capt. J. G. Nicholls, now on active service with the Prince of Wales Rangers, has written asking that the Board give full consideration to matters which have arisen since he was given a leave of absence.

Since he entered military service a position of vice principal has opened up, and as acting vice principal he would have been in line for an opportunity at the job, which would have made a considerable difference in his salary and superannuation by the end of the war. The matter was turned over to a special committee considering adjustments to consider and the secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter and tell Capt. Nicholls that his request was receiving full consideration.

The value and scope of the home instruction classes was outlined by Inspector Wightman, who said that through the year there had been an average of from six to eight students, who were unable to come to school for a period of months or years. He explained that the teachers got $1 a lesson for their tutoring, and that this general work was assuming too much importance to leave as a spare time job for too long in the future.

Wartime Housing

The form of agreement received from the Wartime Housing dealing with educational costs contained two clauses not stipulated in the Board's form. The Wartime Housing included secondary schools in their agreement and stipulated that children from the Hatton property should not pay fees which other public school students pay. The secretary was instructed to send a copy of the Wartime Housing proposed agreement to the city clerk, asking, since the council were nearer to an agreement of their own if they wished to consider the matter as a whole, or that the Board handle it separately. The secretary was also instructed to send along the information about the average cost of a pupil per year.

Teacher Appointed

A new junior mathematics teacher was appointed at the Collegiate in the person of J. D. McNabb of Midland, who will commence at a salary of $2,200 a year, and the salary of Miss Margaret Westbye was increased by $100 a year.

The A.R.P. room was assigned to election board to be used as a registration office on July 22, 23 and 24, and the fee was left to the secretary and the chairman.

Since this was the last meeting of the Board till September, the chairman of the Property committee secured approval for the purchase of three exhaust fans for use in the gymnasium at a cost of $375.

These fans clear the air 2½ times every hour, and one is to be placed in the girls' gym and two in the boys'. During the inspector's visit, they recommended an improved ventilation system.

The board then adjourned until the second Thursday in September, unless called together for a special meeting.

Burleigh Man Charged Following Accident

A long adjournment was ordered this morning when Robert Wilson, Haultain, Burleigh Township, was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court with having allowed two horses to run at large on Highway 28 on the night of July 3.

The charge arose out of an accident near Haultain in which an automobile rolled over when the driver attempted to dodge two horses wandering on the road.

The crown was not ready to proceed with the case, "I have a number of witnesses here from the north, said Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., who appeared for Wilson. "They are busy on their farms and anxious to get back to work."

Defence council suggested a long adjournment and Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure who laid the charge was agreeable. Accordingly the hearing was deferred until August 9.

By JEAN STENTON

Lieut. David E. Conroy, nephew of Mrs. P. J. Doris, 282 Stewart street, and son of David Conroy of Vancouver, a former Peterborough resident, has been reported killed in action while fighting with the African Army in North Africa. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Conroy, used to live in Ashburnham for many years. Lieut. Conroy was born in Edmonton, Alta. and was 26 years of age. Some years ago he became an American citizen and he joined the United States Army in Flint, Michigan in 1941 and went overseas in 1942. Besides his father, who resides at 1201 West Georgia street, Vancouver, Lieut. Conroy has one sister and one brother surviving in Flint, Mich.

After hearing Capt. Allen Piper of Barriefield, a Dieppe casualty, who spoke to the employees of the C.G.E. and Genelco during the Victory Loan, Robert Stickle decided that his place was in the armed forces and he tried to enlist in the Army. When he was not accepted there he applied to the Navy and for a little over four weeks he has been stationed in Kingston and is a Stoker 1st class. His wife lives at 697 Park street. Although he was born in Glasgow, Stoker Stickle was educated at Hastings, and he was employed as a welder in Genelco for 2 years, 3 months. He had spent a total of 3 years in the C.G.E. and the Genelco.

In his opinion the Navy is the best service and he has enjoyed his work thoroughly and is looking forward to more offensive action when he complets his training. Robert Stickle has one brother-in-law, David Martin, who enlisted in the Navy ahead of him and a second one, Barney Dundas, formerly in the office in the payroll department at Genelco, who is station in Toronto with the R.C.A.F.

There are a number of Peterborough boys stationed with him and he declared that they were well looked after. The Y.M.C.A. gives a dance every Monday night to which they are invited, and they have shows once a week in the Navy Barracks. He had just seen "In Which We Serve."

Word has been received that Pte. Wilbert Corrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Corrigan, has arrived overseas. He was employed at the DeLaval until he enlisted in December, 1942, and for some time he was stationed at Camp Borden.

Soldiers try to keep in touch with other men from their home towns when they are overseas, according to Pte. W. F. H. Baker of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, who hails from Campbellford. He wrote that he heard from friends in other regiments including Harold Lloyd, George Field, Max Free, Red Brown and a Nicholas boy from Healey Falls. Pte Baker also wrote that he generally ran across Campbellford boys on some of the schemes.

Ireland is one of the most picturesque and contradictory countries in the world in the opinion of one soldier serving in the American Army "in the land of Pat and Mike." He writes that he has never seen a greener country and that almost all objects such as stones, the boards of the fences, and tree trunks have a greenish tinge. He has found Ireland and Newfoundland somewhat alike, both with a rainy climate which makes plant life flourish.

"The British, both English and Irish, have heard more about our country from the films than we knew about their country before our arrival. It is greatly to be regretted that we permit films to be exported which convey an utterly distorted impression. After the first American troops arrived here in 1942, the impression that many Americans were gangsters, albeit minor ones, or rolling in wealth, soon wore off. But the fact that our troops are much higher paid than the comparable rank of the British Army is not at all forgotten. It is to the credit of the British civilians and British Tommies that they do not exhibit any jealously they may naturally feel. The pay for a 1st lieutenant in the U.S. Army is somewhere like that of a major in the British Army."

The writer said that the people on this side of the Atlantic can consider themselves fortunate because the average wage earner pays a 50 per cent income tax, and he expressed his high admiration for the British system of justice and police administration.

The mystic land of the Emerald Isle has many gypsies who look the part. Their caravans are more gypsyish than the most garish musical comedy stage setting. Their horse drawn wagons either are smaller editions of the old covered wagons of the gold rush days, or are as elaborately picturesque as a circus wagon, this American soldier related, and they are soon travelling along, from where gypsies come from, to the place where gypsies go to. There are also dirty clothed and unkempt children, uninhibited dogs, chickens without coops and a goat or two to complete the picture.

Two more Peterborough boys have arrived overseas, according to word received here in the last few days. Cpl. R. O. Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Benson, 57 George street, and Pte. Fred Brand, Jr. of the 1st Midland Regiment, are now ready for more action. Pte. Brand's brother, Ronald has also arrived in England.

Lieut. Dorothy M. Adcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Adcock of Cobourg, who is Recruiting Officer for the C.W.A.C. in Military District No. 3, has been promoted to Captain, according to an announcement made in Kingston.

She was one of the first Canadian girls to join the Women's Army in November 1941, and after a period of basic training at Ganonoque, Capt. Adcock became the driver of Brig. F. Logie Armstrong, O.B.E., District Officer Commanding, M.D. 3. Then she was promoted in successive stages to corporal and sergeant, and in June 1942 was sent to Ste. 'Anne de Bellevue, where she graduated with the rank of second-lieutenant.

Following her graduation, Capt. Adcock was posted to No. 7 Company C.W.A.C., Barriefield, and the next month was appointed Recruiting Officer at District Headquarters. During this period she has made several visits to Peterborough checking on recruiting.

Keenly interested in competitive sports, this officer has taken part in slalom and downhill ski meets at Mont Tremblant, the Seigniory Club and Lake Placid.

"The pet of the hospital" is the description Sister Margaret P. Gallaway in a Glasgow Hospital used to describe Tpr. Cyril (Bud) Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cooper, Nicholls Oval, who was seriously injured in a motorcycle crash some weeks ago.

The nurse wrote that although they had despaired of Bud's life for a time, he was now coming on nicely though he is still weak. She said that boxes arrived for his birthday, June 17, and the staff had put them away until he will be well enough to enjoy the contents. However Sister Gallaway remarked, he had been able to eat some of the candy and his buddies polished off some too.

His older brother George, also overseas, almost lived at the hospital until about the middle of June when he returned to his unit, and he and his wife call on Tpr. Cooper every night, the letter continued. There is one other Canadian soldier in the same ward with a broken leg.

"Mail has been accumulating for your son and the other day, he read me part of one of your letters. But we are saving most of them till later because he is still too weak to concentrate."

Sailor Joins Up With Rangers

Leonard Neil Burns of 39 Edgewater Boulevard enlisted in the Prince of Wales Rangers (RF) this week.

Born in Ottawa and 17 years old, Leonard was in the Merchant Marine for nine months last winter. He survived a torpedoing in which his ship was lost off the coast of Newfoundland, and was rescued from a lifeboat. Altogether he made four round-trip crossings of the Atlantic, sailing from Halifax and various United States ports.

His feelings about his experience with the Merchant Marine are mixed. The adventure and the training he remembers with pleasure, but the memory of two buddies he lost in the torpedoing is a source of sadness.

Leonard has joined the Rangers and will work in Peterborough until he reaches his 18th birthday, at which time he hopes to be accepted for enlistment in the active army.

Bridge Club Makes $25 For War Victims

The story of how a bridge club of only eight ladies made their meetings together the opportuntiy to turn it into a 100 per cent war effort is revealed to-day in a contribution of $25.00 which came from them through Mrs. Arthur Malby of 303 Rubidge Street to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

This group only began last November to meet once in every two weeks at the homes of the members, assessing themselves 25 cents a time for their evening's enjoyment, from which two war savings stamps were bought and given to the winners as prizes, with those who won on that particular night dropping out of the running for next meeting, in this one particular.

With the advent of hot summer weather, this group decided to recess for a while, and then it was found that they lacked a little of the amount of $25 named above, so friend husband was cornered and importuned or something of that sort to make up the deficiency, with the result that speaks for itself. This true story is one of the many such examples that demonstrate just how well pleasure may be turned into the unselfish project of giving to help others with which the annals of the fund abounds, and there is no doubt that in so doing, it must give the participants a greater amount of pleasure and satisfaction than they would otherwise have attained.

Church Group Helps.

At All Saints Anglican Church they have what is known as the Womens Church Year, formed to be of particular assistance to the Church, and this has been eminently successful that in spite of the demands upon it for church service they have been able to spare a donation of $5.00 to extend a helping hand to others in need which is recorded in to-day's list reflecting the true work of all such organizations which will gain all the more in many ways because they can look beyond their own sphere and give a helping hand to others outside of their own immediate circle.

In the Ready-to-Wear Department at the Canadian Department Store they have a penny box which on occasions is utilized as a sort of penalty affair although it wouldn't do to say just what for, but if you are curious enough, the young ladies might be induced to tell you all about it, if you are cautious enough so as to avoid being penalized yourself.

This box has, with the contribution of $4.80 noted to-day now contributed on four different occasions, yielding a total of $17.45 for the fund, then by far greater portion of which has been in the lowest coins of the realm.

Made Acting Major

Capt. Douglas D. J. C. Hay of Hastings, a former dentist, now with the C.A.D.C. overseas, has been promoted to the rank of Acting Major, it was announced today. He is the son of the late Gus Hay, a former Peterborough man, and he enlisted in 1940. Major Hay was one of 18 captains to become acting majors and was part of a group of 61 officers and 10 other ranks to receive promotions.

Youth Is Held For Car Theft

Arrested by Hamilton police on Thursday and brought back to Peterborough early this morning by local officers, Norman Robert Bookout, 22-year-old Castleton resident, was arrainged in police court this morning on a charge of stealing an automobile owned by Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick. The stolen machine was recovered in Hamilton.

Bookout elected summary trial and when asked to plead said that he was guilty of taking the car but technically not guilty.

"I can't take a plea of that kind," said Magistrate Langley.

"We are asking for a remand in any case," stated Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, KK. C., and accordingly the youth, who was recently discharged from the Canadian army, was remanded until next Thursday.

Farmer Charged With Having Loose Coupons

John Andrews, young Dummer Township farmer, was arraingned in police court this morning on a charge of having been in possession of loose gasoline coupons in the village of Norwood on May 3.

This charge, laid under the Wartime Industries' Control Board regulations, is the first of its kind to be tried in Peterborough.

Andrews pleaded not guilty and when W. F. Huycke, K. C., prosecuting for the Oil Controller, asked to have the information amended, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., who defended the accused said that the request of the prosecution entitled him to ask for an adjournment.

Defence counsel intimated that he would prefer a long adjournment as he expected to be out of the city for some time.

Mr. Huycke said that the cases were piling up and he would like to get ahead as soon as possible.

Magistrate Langley adjourned the case until Monday warning both sides that they would have to be ready to proceed then.

New Formality In Lace

Mainbocher

Pale blue lace, sheer but not too frail, is made into a short dinner dress quite suitable for afternoon weddings or other formal galas. Black suede belt and blue flower corsage.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ONE of the greatest designers of all time created this Summer dinner dress .. and it reveals the truth in that ancient adage which insists that simplicity is the best in the long run.

If you are up on your L 85, the government ruling which shapes our silhouettes, you'll see that the fabric yardage is as perfectly in line as the style of the frock. It is a graceful minimum in fashion, a distinguished model to be starred for hot evenings when the Summer sun seems to linger on in town and country incredibly after dark.

DOROTHY DIX

NO BOY 19 OR GIRL 17 KNCWS ENOUGH ABOUT LIFE TO MARRY

Service Men Dragged Into Rush Nuptials Could Give Sound Advice to This Lad

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a boy 19 years old who is in the army. He has met a girl and after a three week's acquaintance he has gotten engaged to her. Of course, at his age, with his limited acquaintance with the girl and without his having any money or way of supporting a wife, we made him promise that he would not marry the girl until after the war was over. He was perfectly willing to do this but now we have received a letter from him saying that he wants to get married right away, because his girl writes to him in all of her letters that she cannot wait so long to marry him for she loves him and thinks about him all the time. She is just 17 years old.

Our son has lots of studying that he should do, but her letters importuning him to marry her keep his mind off of his work. What can we do about it?

A WORRIED MOTHER AND FATHER

Girls Eager to Marry

ANSWER: Unfortunately there is no way of putting old heads on young shoulders and making boys in their teens see that the girls who are trying to force them into marriages, for which they know they are not ready, are simply playing them for suckers. If there were, it would save about nine-tenths of the foolish, hurry up, war marriages that are taking place, and the subsequent misery and divorce that are bound to follow.

If the lads who have fallen for strange cuties and gotten engaged to them after a two or three weeks' acquaintance, and who are being pushed by them into marriages that are against their better judgments, could read some of the innumerable letters that come to this column from their fellow soldiers and sailors who have been practically dragged to the altar by girls of whom they are already tired, they would turn a deaf ear to the voice of the siren and refuse to be taken in by her wiles.

These letters are almost of a pattern. A young boy who knows nothing of the world, who is out on his own for the first time, meets a girl who gives him the high sign. He is lonesome, he is homesick, he is girl-crazy, and it is no trick at all for her to make him think he is in love with her, and to believe every word she says when she tells him how much she loves him. And the first thing he knows they are engaged.

He tells her he has no way of supporting a wife and she agrees to wait until after the duration. But almost immediately she begins pressing for a marriage. She tells him that she loves him so much she can't stand not to be with him. She will die of loneliness when he is gone. The boy is flattered to death and is wax in her hands, and what he doesn't even suspicion is that the chances are that what the innocent little thing is thinking of is the part of his allotment she will get and what she will do with his insurance if he should be killed.

Separation Brings Regrets To Boys

So they are married and the boy is sent to another camp or maybe overseas, and he soon begins to find out that there are other girls better - looking and more attractive than the wife he left behind him, and he wants to know what is the quickest and easiest way of getting a divorce, and how is he going to get out of the mess he got into.

Any boy of 19 is capable of committing any sort of love folly but he should also be capable of using a little common sense, and that should tell him that no boy of his age and no girl of 17 are ready for marriage. They don't know their own minds, or what kind of husbands and wives they are going to want as life partners. Nor can they possibly know on a three weeks' acquaintance anything about each other's dispositions, or tastes and habits, or whether they will be able to get along together, or fight like cat and dog.

Nor have they, as a rule enough money to finance a marriage that will have a chance of success. After the war is over every boy will have to come back and tackle the job of learning how to make a living, and it is going to a terrific handicap to him if he has a wife and maybe a child to support. He should, at least, give himself a fair chance by keeping free.

And no man should marry a woman who tries to force him into it. No woman does that unless she is looking for a meal ticket. A happy husband is one who feels that his wife conferred a favor on him by marrying him. He wants to feel that he walked triumphantly to the altar, not that he was dragged there by the scruff of the neck.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a very sweet and intelligent girl and until about six months ago we were very happy together. Then trouble started when she discovered that she can never have a child, and since then she has been very resentful towards my young daughter by a former marriage. Even in the past I noticed that she was always very cold and unfriendly to the child and always seemed ill at ease even when we had her over for a week-end. This was so marked that I often felt sorry that I had the child over to our house.

Now, as conditions are, matters are worse. I don't know how to make my wife realize that it doesn't make an difference to me whether she can have children or not. Maybe she thinks that I will leave her, but I love her dearly and would never think of parting from her. Do you think that if we have my little daughter over oftener that my wife will overcome her resentment against her and will perhaps learn to love her as her own? She is only five years old and I think she deserves some consideration, but I don't want to make my wife unhappy.

WORRIED

Childless Wife Resents Step-Daughter

ANSWER: Evidently your wife is one of the jealous and monopolistic women who cannot bear to think of sharing her husband's love with anyone else, and she is trying to cut you off from your child. She is no second wife material and would probably be a cruel step-mother to your little girl if she had to have her about.

If the child is with relatives who love her and are tender to her you had better let her stay with them.

There are women who feel that it is some sort of disgrace to them, as women, if they cannot have children. I would say that your wife belongs to this class and that her resentment to your little girl is based on this feeling as well as her fear that it might make a difference to you in your feelings towards her. Doubtless as time goes on and she sees that it does not matter to you, she will learn to take the matter philosophically.

In reality, she is worrying about the wrong thing, for you are bound to be hurt by the knowledge that she is so small and selfish and loves you so little that she is not willing even to have your child pay you a visit. A stepmother separates her husband from his children at her peril.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 10.

SATURN'S day holds pledges of substantial and enduring rewards for service well rendered, fidelity to duty and responsibilities, together with determined and patient effort to achieve sensible ends. Industry and application are virtues bringing their own rewards. If the way seems blocked in one direction, there should be hearty and solid encouragement from friends, intimates and those in influential positions. The personal element and finer equipment of mind and heart may prove attractive for desired attention and support in business or purely private ambitions or relations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of solid growth and advancement, not only through their singular personal charm, their superior mental and perhaps spiritual qualities. Tact, courtesy and personality should attract in business as well as in romantic appeal. Grace and culture are factors for enduring success and happiness.

A child born on this day may have much stability of character, sound mentality and capabilities, with the subtler attractions of a gracious personality and spiritual force to win friends and supporters of worth.

His wife and family reside at 48 Brioux Avenue. His brother, Pte. Emerald Post, has been overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders for two years. He was only with the unit for six weeks before they went over. Leonard drove a city bus before he enlisted and Emerald, whose wife and son live on Elm Street, drove a truck for Herb. Payne.

Ensure Co-operation

OTTAWA, July 9 —(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in a statement that appointment of Ray Atherton of the U. S. State Department as the new U. S. Minister to Canada will "ensure the continuance of the close and cordial co-operation which has characterized relations between Canada and the United States."

County Demand On Emily $5,198

OMEMEE, July 9 — (ENS). — The Emily Municipal Council met in the Farmers' Club Rooms, Omemee on July 6. Members present were Paul J. McGuire, reeve, in the chair and councillors Vincent Fee, George Magee, Thomas Morrisey and M. J. Thurston.

The following communications were read and laid on the table.

From F. L. Weldon enclosing list of Old Age Pensioners and those on Mothers Allowance for consideration of Council.

Also enclosing a copy of County by-law confirming assessment for 1944.

Also notifying Council that there will be required from the Township of Emily for County purposes in 1943 the sum of $5198.78 for general County purposes and House of Refuge $537.21.

From H. W. Hill, secretary-treasurer, Emily Municipal Telephone System asking for an advance of $500.00 until the tolls were collected.

From D. M. McMann, relating to a drain at the western boundary and calling a meeting of those interested.

A number of letters were read from W. R. Grosskurth re: steel culverts and also in regard to the propect of securing a 4-wheel drive truck for the use of the use of the Township.

The Reeve reported that he had attended the meeting of those interested in the above mentioned drain, and had refused to admit any liability on the part of the Township.

A letter was received from the Canadian Automobile Service Association enclosing letter from Earl Milloy claiming compensation for injuries to tires sustained on the 8th Concession Line.

The Clerk reported that W. C. Veals had drawn his attention to a dangerous situation at the north west corner of his farm, where visibility was reduced by bushes growing at the roadside, and offering enough land free to make a better turn and eliminate this dangerous condition.

The reeve reported that a representative of the W. H. Harvey Co., of Kingston had met with members of the Council since last meeting and had agreed to crush, deliver and spread gravel for 85 cents a yard.

Motions Passed:

That the sum of $500.00 be advanced to the Emily Telephone System until the end of the year and that 5% be charged for the same.

That the Council approve of the agreement made with the representative of the W. H. Harvey Co. of Kingston, since last session of the Council.

That the Roads Accounts as presented by Walter Herlihey, road superintendent be approved, and the same paid by the treasurer. Amount $53.35.

Payment, live stock

Elmer Hickey, two lambs killed by dogs $20.00; Mrs. Moncrief, one lamb $12.00, one sheep $18.00, $30.; Elmer Hickey, valuing sheep of Mrs. Moncrief. $1.50; Albert McGinness, five lambs killed, $58.00, one injured, $3.00, $61.00; Alex. McGahey, valuing sheep of A. McGinness $1.50.

Schools:

School section No. 5, V. Bulbeck sec. treas., $150.00; school section No. 6, V. Perdue, sec. treas., $200.; school section No. 7, F. Crough, sec. treas., $95.00.

Miscellaneous

The Municipal World, supplies, $4.39; David Weir, second quarter salary, $100.00; H. W. Hill, sec.-treas., Emily Municipal Telephone System, advance, $500.00; John Anderson, L.T.D., funeral expenses of Mrs. Russell, $50.00; Vincent Fee, transportation, 50 miles, $5; T. H. Laidley, stamps, $1.98; D. W. Wilson, surveying gravel pit, $3.00 transportation $1.00, $4.00; S. B. Carew, surveying gravel pit $3.00; David Weir, surveying gravel pit, $3.00.

The Clerk was instructed to convey to W. C. Veals their appreciation of his generous offer to give the land free of charge to make a better turn at the northwest corner of his farm, and to state that they had viewed the situation, but that owing to the withdrawal by the Dept. of Highways of any subsidy on road construction, and for other obvious reasons, they must of necessity defer assuming any projects of this nature until the post war period, when conditions may be more favourable for this undertaking.

Prior to enlisting he was employed in the Structural Steel department at the C.G.E., and then at the Robertson Construction Company.

BANCROFT

American Hurt In Car Crash

BANCROFT, July 9—(ENS). — A car driven by Carlton Davis of Pennsylvania with two passengers, Lily Vardy and Mary Hiltz, of Coe Hill, crashed into a car in which William Embury and Max Mawson of Steenburg were driving, at a Steenburg intersection. The American car was completely wrecked, and the three people were thrown clear, but Davis was injured.

The accident occurred at Steenburg, 20 miles south of Bancroft on Highway 62 Thursday night around 9 o'clock. William Embury and Max Hawson were approaching the intersection, and after assuring themselves that there was no traffic in sight they proceeded on to the main road. The car had only travelled about six feet when they were struck with terrific force by an oncoming car which tore off the front wheel on the Embury car, swinging it around.

The American car went into a roll, and rolled for 270 feet, coming to rest a complete wreck, even the tires. The driver, Mr. Davis, was thrown 40 feet clear of the car, landing in a water hole with head and shoulders submerged. He was later rescued by the occupants of the other car in an unconscious condition, and removed to the Red Cross Hospital at Bancroft. Mr. Davis regained consciousness early this morning and appeared to have broken no bones. Hospital authorities said that he will recover.

The two women passengers in the American car were thrown from the car, landing in a swamp. Mary Hilts has a broken collar-bone and cuts on her arm. Lily Vardy was badly shaken up. Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft attended the injured, and Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer of Bancroft investigated the accident.

Liberal Charges Packed Meeting

TORONTO, July 9 — (CP). — For the first time in Toronto, a Liberal convention last night ousted a sitting member of the Legislature in favor of a new candidate when Fred Hamilton, a member of the Toronto Board of Control, was nominated Liberal candidate in Toronto St. Patrick constituency for the August 4 election.

Mr. Hamilton was chosen over Lt.-Col. F. Fraser Hunter who held the seat since 1934.

Col. Hunter, in a brief speech, protested against the credentials held by delegates and said "many accredited delegates were waiting downstairs, but were refused admittance." He added that the meeting was "packed and undemocratic," and many Liberal voters of St. Patrick riding "never gave sanction to this meeting."

Mr. and Mrs. A. Laws, 45 McDonnel street, announce the engagement of their daughter Theresa Beatrice to Mr. Hugh Welch Heaslip, son of Mrs. Heaslip and the late W. Heaslip of Peterborough. The wedding will take place at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on August 7, 1943, at 2.30 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

BELL — In loving memory of Thomas Bell, who died July 9, 1939.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Ever remembered by his Wife and Daughter.

CARR — In loving memory of Creighton James Carr who passed away July 13, 1942.

Some day we hope to meet again,
Some day we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
— Lovingly remembered by his Wife and Family.

McCALL—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Marietta McCall who passed away two years ago July 11, 1941.

Silent her voice and vacant her chair,
Sweet are the memories that linger there:
We miss her and mourn her in silence unseen,
And live in the memory of days that have been.
— Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

TULLY — In loving memory of David Willis Tully who passed away July 11, 1942.

Passing out of the shadows,
Into the pure light,
Stepping behind the curtain,
Getting a clearer sight.
Laying aside the burden
Of toil and daily pain,
Tired of earthly pleasures,
Our loss shall be His gain.
Passing out of the shadows,
Why should I mourn or weep?
Why do we call it dying,
This quietly going to sleep.
—Remembered by his Daughter Olive.

WALL — In loving memory of Doreen Ethel Wall who passed away two years ago today, July 9, 1941.

A bud the Gardener gave us,
A pure and lovely child,
He gave it to our keeping,
To cherish undefiled.
And just as it was opening,
To the glory of the day,
Down came the Heavenly Father,
And took our bud away.
—Fondly remembered by Mother Father and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late H. P. Panter wish to thank the nurses and doctors of Nicholls Hospital, C. G. E. Company, Colonial Weaving Company, J. C. Poolman Company, R. B. Rogers Gas Station, Patrol Guard, Lightening Arrester, the many friends who sent floral tributes, those who kindly used their cars and Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints Church during their recent and sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McPhate wish to thank the many friends for their kindness and sympathy and for the use of their cars. Also the kind neighbours who assisted in any way possible at the passing of their dear son, Ronnie.

Cubs Triumph Over Knights

In a lively tustle in Memorial Park last night the Cubs came from behind to defeat the Knights of Columbus 14-8.

Heffernan started for the Cubs, but retired early with an injured leg. Hayes who took over, pitched smart ball the rest of the way. Sheehan on the mound for the losers pitched fair ball but weakened in the latter stages.

F. O'Toole again paced the Cub attack with a homer, double and single followed by Driscoll with 3 singles. Harrington cracked out 2 doubles for the Knights.

C. O'Donoghue patrolled centre field in grand style for the Cubs, pulling in several long drives.

Don't Always Stumble for the Right Word

APT PHRASES

Often you hear expressions "run like a deer," "fleet as a deer," "strong as a moose," "white as snow," and you realize how they add to the effectiveness of the person's speech.

Perhaps subconsciously these people cultivate their speech, but it is more likely that they have tried consciously to improve themselves and made their conversation more interesting.

It is not difficult to develop bright phrases. Instead of saying just plainly "straight" you might say "straight as an arrow"—it seems so much more vivid and explicit.

Learn how to combine adverbs and verb phrases such as "laugh uproariously" or "laugh silently." These help make your speech effective as do striking adjective-noun phrases, for example, "considerable ability" or "startling ability."

All these and many other examples are included in our 32-page booklet, which shows you how words can be combined into phrases which are appropriate and effective. Using the right phrases lend force and color to both speech and writing and helps you get ahead both socially and in business. Learn to express yourself.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of EFFECTIVE PHRASES FOR ALL OCCASIONS to Peterborough Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of the booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISCARD ON A LOSER

YOU MAY have noticed the stress placed in this department on the avoidance of ordinary mistakes of bidding and play, as against the making of fancy or complicated moves. The reason is that more than nine-tenths of the difference between winning and losing bridge is found in the non-spectacular performance of those players who accept their share of gifts from the opponents' errors and give back a minimum of them by their own slips. One very simple, but important, play in this category is the discarding of a sure loser on a trick an opponent is certain to ruff with a high trump.

North: ♠ 7 3 2 ♥ K Q 4 ♦ K 8 4 ♣ A 7 6 3
West: ♠ A K 6 4 ♥ 10 9 ♦ Q J 3 ♣ Q 9 5 4
East: ♠ Q 8 5 ♥ J 8 7 6 5 3 2 ♦ A 7 2 ♣ None
South: ♠ J 10 9 ♥ A ♦ 10 9 6 5 ♣ K J 10 8 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	4 ♥

South led his diamond 10, which brought forth the J, K and A. East led the heart 2, the A winning, and South returned his diamond 5, hoping North had the 8, which he did, so that East played the Q from dummy. Now came the vital error. The heart 10 was led, the Q won and immediate return of the diamond 8 assured defeat of the contract, as the heart K remained out for the setting trick.

East pleaded that he hoped the two outstanding trumps would fall when he led the heart 10—very unsound, because South surely would not have played his A on the first heart lead if he had held either the Q or K. East should have counted North for both the K and Q. On that foundation, he had a play for his contract, which would have worked. It was to avoid a second trump lead, take in the spade Q, K and A, hoping North would have to follow suit, and then on the 6 discard the diamond 7.

North would have ruffed the spade 6, but then his side could not have taken any diamond trick, and the contract would have been safe, with the loss of only three trump tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 7 5 4 3 ♥ A K 3 ♦ 6 3 ♣ A K J
West: ♠ A J 10 6 ♥ Q J 9 4 2 ♦ Q 5 4 ♣ 9
East: ♠ Q 2 ♥ 7 5 ♦ J 10 7 ♣ Q 8 6 5 4 3
South: ♠ K 9 ♥ 10 8 6 ♦ A K 9 8 2 ♣ 10 7 2

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What lead would you prefer against North's 3-No Trumps on this deal, if he had bid spades and South had bid diamonds twice during the auction?

BAILIEBORO

United Church Conducts Jubilee Service

BAILIEBORO, July 9 — (ENS). —The first service of the Diamond Jubilee of the United Church of Bailieboro was held on Sunday with Rev. M. Rowland and Rev. H. J. Mahoney as speakers.

Bailieboro Methodist Church originated from a class held at McCamus School House west of Bailieboro in 1880. Rev. Thomas Manning was the minister under whom negotiations and the building of the church was carried on.

It was opened July 1, 1883 with a membership of 35 which has grown to a present membership of approximately 100. Since then 18 pastors have ministered to the congregation. Rev. Morgan Rowland is the present minister who has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. chaplaincy service and is now awaiting his call.

Rev. R. M. Patterson of Omemee a much esteemed former minister was to have been guest speaker for Sunday but owing to illness was unable to be present but sent a letter of greeting as also Rev. W. M. Leigh of Kingston a minister of former years sent a letter greeting being unable to attend in person.

Its Principles

The morning service was conducted by the present minister, Rev. Morgan Rowland, who preached on what the Church stands for. Special choir numbers were a solo by Miss Cora Charlton of Lakefield, a duet by Messrs Gordon and Murray Bickle of Bethesda South and a solo by Mr. Gordon Bickle.

The evening service was conducted by Rev. H. J. Mahoney, B. A., B.D., of Knox Church, Peterborough who spoke from the text "Behold, I stand at the door and knock." Choir selections were a solo by Miss Cora Charlton, a duet by Messrs. Gordon and Murray Bickle and a full choir anthem "The Heavens Declare Thy Glory Lord."

Next Sunday will see a second service of the Diamond Jubilee with Rev. Manson Doyle as guest speaker and special choir selections.

U.S. Army Buildings Lost In $20,000 Fire

EDMONTON, July 9 (CP)—City firemen and United States Army personnel battled a two-hour blaze which broke out just after midnight last night and destroyed a nearly completed warehouse and repair shop being built for the U.S. army engineers. Damage was estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000.

Two firemen narrowly escaped injury when one of the walls of the structure, bordering the Canadian National Railways tracks, collapsed.

The fire was set off by lightning at the height of a brief but violent electrical storm.

BANCROFT

Ontario Bishop Confirms Twenty-three Candidates

BANCROFT July 9 (ENS)—The Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M. A., D. D., Bishop of Ontario and resident of Kingston, conducted the solemn right of Confirmation for a class of twenty-three candidates at the eleven o'clock service in St. John's Anglican Church Bancroft Sunday morning.

The Rev. W. L. Simmons, rector of the Bancroft parish presented the candidates to the Bishop for the laying on of hands. Preceeding the Confirmation Service there was a short dedication service in which a special stained window representative of "Suffer little children to come unto me" was dedicated by the Bishop in memory of the late Mrs. W. George and presented to the church by her daughter Miss Gertrude George.

During the service the Bishop gave an inspiring talk addressing the newly confirmed candidates explaining the part they were expected to play in the new step they had taken in the church. The choir although depleted somewhat through having some of its members in the confirmation class ably carried out its task of leading the singing during the service. The church was very beautifully decorated with white persian lilacs, and wild orchids.

Sunday evening the Bishop accompanied Rev. W. L Simmons to Holy Trinity church at Maynooth where a confirmation service was held for a class of eight candidates. The Bishop complimented the Rev. W. L. Simmons for the splendid work he had carried out in this parish in such a short time both in confirmees and attendance.

Conference Held

The annual Brethern Conference was held in Bancroft Sunday during morning and evening Services. Mr. McConkey had charge of the Bancroft congregation with Mr. J. Tatham of Lakefield and Mrs. W. Belch of Stirling assisting in the services Despite the downpour of rain throughout the whole day a very large attendance was present.

Three Accidents

A slight accidennt took place Saturday evening on main street Bancroft when a truck driven by Steven Gloster of 42 Dennison Stret west Weston sideswiped a car driven by Reginald Wiggins of town, resulting in damage to a rear fender and bumper of the latter's car. Charges are pending against the Weston driver.

A second took place Saturday on Highway 62 about six miles East of Maynooth when a car driven by James Yantha went out of control and swerved to the side of the highway mounting a wooden guard rail and riding straddled along this pole for over a distance of thirty feet and finally toppled over on its side. Yantha and Roy Vallier both of Princes Lake were injured, Yantha more seriously and he was brought into Bancroft admitted to the Red Cross hospital where he received severa lstitches in his lower lip. Yantha is charged with being drunk in charge of a car and also with careless driving. Vallier is charged with having liquor in a place other than a residence.

An accident also took place on Main Street in Coe Hill on Saturday when Glen Gunter was driving down the street accompanied by his 74-year-old father David Gunter. Mrs. Margaret McCaskie of Clydesdale backed her car across the road dircetly in the path of the Gunter car. Gunter could not avoid the collision which threw his father to the roof of the car and he received a severe gash in the head. He was treated in Coe Hill hospital by Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft and later brought back to Bancroft for further treatment as the flow of blood could not be stopped at the time. Mr. Gunter returned the following day to his home in Coe Hill.

Dental Officer Examines 366 Students At King Edward School In June

There were 366 pupils of King Edward School examined during the month of June, 90 of whom were treated at the school clinic, Dr. S. J. Graham, dental officer, reported to the members of the Board of Education Thursday night.

In addition, there were 102 students treated at their family dentists, and 98 students were found to be all right. The report stated that there were 288 cases of filling work and 54 extractions, and this completes the work at this school.

Attendance at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School during the month of June maintained a high average of 98.96 per cent. The Academic side averaged 98.79 per cent and the Vocational slightly higher with 99.42 per cent. There were 782 pupils enrolled.

The Public School average was considerably lower standing at 93.24 per cent. Central attendance averaged 92.8 per cent; King Edward 91.8 per cent; King George 93.4 per cent; Prince of Wales 93.16 per cent; Queen Alexandra 93.9 per cent and Queen Mary 94.15 per cent. During this time, six pupils received home instruction and War Savings stamps were sold to the value of $906.75, Inspector K. S. Wightman related. The school attendance officer, F. R. Revoy, reported that in June 26 were absent through illness and 24 absent for home help, and 6 boys were granted permission to work for market gardeners the last week of school.

The Board of Education received a letter from L. R. Briggs refusing the offer of a position on the Collegiate and Vocational staff. He said that he had been informed that his present services are required as a contribution to the war effort.

Miss Verna W. Burgess, of the Collegiate and Vocational School staff reported that she had spent June 14 and 15 in Toronto at the Danforth Technical School observing Mr. D. M. Brown's methods of teaching. Miss Burgess said that his organization was impressive and that the instructor volunteered many helpful suggestions.

ALLIES INVADE SICILY

Canadians Form Large Part Of Force Assaulting Italy

Great Force Gathered Very Quietly

Canadian Press Writer Ross Munro Is With Invasion Forces

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent who sailed with the Canadian force from Britain, left this story with Canadian military authorities telling of the departure of the Dominion force which to-day invaded Sicily. At the time the dispatch was filed, Munro was still to be heard from on his newest and greatest assignment.)

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, (Delayed) — (CP Cable).—Secretly, quietly, and in orderly fashion, this gigantic, combined operations force—they told us it was against "X"—was mustered aboard a multitude of ships in great invasion armadas at anchor in a number of British ports.

Thousands and thousands of Canadian and British troops rolled to the docksides in troop trains that came from all over the United Kingdom. There were Canadians from Southern England and others from a dozen camps in other parts of the island where they had been doing special training.

There were Scots from the Highlands and Lowlands, English and Welsh units.

We saw assault infantry come aboard their ships, loaded down with small arms and other weapons and looking husky and fit.

Special Equipment.

There was an immense amount of especial equipment and there were many diverse units on the beach at the base: Special artillery units such as airfield construction units, mine-clearing sappers, road construction units.

There were also signals and supply and ordnance services and all the panoply of an expeditionary force of major importance.

I was at the port where there was the largest concentration of shipping, and it was a grand spec-

Parachute Units Are Being Used

NEW YORK, July 10 — (AP).—The Italian High Command announced today that fighting was in progress "along the south and east coast of Sicily" as the Axis defenders engaged Allied invasion forces spearheaded by parachutists and strong air and sea formations.

The High Command communique, broadcast from Rome, was recorded by The Associated Press.

"Fighting is in progress along the coastal southern and eastern strip," the communique said.

The text of the enemy summary:

"The enemy started last night, with support of strong air and sea formation, and with dropping of parachutist units, the attacks against Italy.

"Axis armed forces are decisively counter-attacking the enemy's action. Fighting is in progress along the coastal southern and eastern strip.

"In the course of raids carried out yesterday over inhabited localities of Sicily, German and Italian anti-aircraft defences destroyed 22 enemy planes; 15 of them over Porto Empedocle. Eleven more were shot down by German fighters.

"In Tunisian waters our torpedo planes hit and heavily damaged three steamers totalling 29,000 tons."

Germans Claim Casualties Suffered By Invaders Very Heavy In Early Stages

LONDON, July 10—(CP).—Military circles in Berlin presented initial details of the Allied invasion of Sicily to the German people at noon today in a broadcast which said the operation was launched with "considerable forces" and that it began with "the support of strong naval and air force formations."

By now Allied forces have landed in the southeastern part of Sicily, said the broadcast. It added that fighting was proceeding but said it could not be stated whether attempts to land at other points on the island had been made.

"The invasion forces were immediately engaged in heavy fighting which proved extraordinarily costly for them," one Berlin broadcast said, quoting a dispatch of the International Information Bureau, German propaganda agency. "The parachutists were encircled and rendered harmless.

Transport Sunk.

"Coastal batteries and Axis bombers sank a number of landing transport manned with troops and laden with material. Thirty-three enemy aircraft so far have been brought down in aerial combats. Enemy parachutists who bailed out during the dawn were wiped out."

The German High Command itself, in its communique, said merely: "On the night of July 9, the enemy with the support of strong naval and air forces began an attack on Sicily. The enemy immediately encountered strong defences on the ground and in the air. Fighting is still progressing."

ACCORDING TO PLANS

LONDON—A radio broadcast from Algiers at 6 p.m. (12 noon E.D.T.) today said that "everything is going according to plan" in the Allied invasion of Sicily. The broadcast was recorded by Reuters.

Bruce Johnston CCF Candidate

Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township of North Monaghan, is the provincial candidate of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, chosen last night in three-cornered contest with William S. Johnson and Percy Edwards at the nominating convention in Paragon Hall.

The vote of the members was not mentioned by Wm. C. Grant, secretary, in announcing the result of the second and final ballot on Johnston versus Johnson after Mr. Edwards was eliminated in the first round which gave Bruce Johnston 35 votes, W. S. Johnson 25 and Mr. Edwards 15.

Probably to the general public the entry of Mr. Johnston into the field of provincial politics will be as pronounced a surprise as the selection of Harold R. Scott Thursday night by the Progressive Conservative Association.

Both these candidates approach the barrier as 'dark horse' in the political race now heading off toward the wire on August 4. At least nothing in pre-convention gossip mentioned either of them, and presumably the list for the riding of Peterborough is complete with these two contestants lining up against Captain Alex L. Elliott, present Liberal member of the Legislature, with the Canadian Army overseas.

Eight of the members of the C. C. F. were proposed last night, but five withdrew, leaving the party's choice to the three whom Mr. Johnston emerged with the determining majority.

They were as follows:—

Assault On Sicily Is Biggest Show For Canada In War

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10—(CP)—A Canadian force, believed here to be the greatest assault force Canada has ever assembled as such, went into action today beside Britons and Americans on the shores of Sicily.

It was the culmination of months of planning and preparation, and the case-hardened Canadians, longing for three long years and more for just such a chance, were in great fettle as they started out from Britain for the adventure which was known to them only as "Operation X."

An announcement this morning, terse and to the point, said only that Canadians were participating in the assault with British and American forces.

No Statement As To Size

While there was no statement of the size of the Canadian force, there were indications in Britain that their number may be considerably.

(Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent who accompanied the troops, said in a dispatch left in Britain for publication today that "thousands and thousands of Canadian and British troops rolled to the docksides in troop trains that came from all over the United Kingdom.)

Further details were awaited. But it can be said these Canadians, who must be expert at coastal assaults if ever troops could be so classed, have had the benefit of all the lessons of the past year since their reconnaissance in force at Dieppe—a year in which combined operations headquarters has gone a long way in developing new tactics.

Successful Commando Raid Staged On Burma Stronghold By British And Indian Troops

NEW DELHI, July 10 —(CP)— British and Indian troops staging a major raid deep into Japanese territory on the western coast of Burma, seized Maungdaw Thurs day and held the enemy stronghold several hours before withdrawing "as planned," British communique said to-day.

"They inflicted casualties on the enemy, gained valuable information, and captured some equipment" in the expedition to the town, about 50 miles north of Akyab, a major Japanese base on the coast, the communique added.

Akyab was a prime objective of the British drive during the winter and spring that penetrated into Burma but was turned back after difficult jungle fighting.

Describing the Maungdaw raid, the communique said "in the first stages of the operation our units had to overcome some stiff enemy opposition in taking up positions at different points outside town.

"The enemy was driven out of Maungdaw itself Thursday afternoon, July 8, after a machine-gun position had been stormed and its crew wiped out.

"Our troops held the town several hours and finally withdrew as planned.... our own casualties were very light."

Can Expect No Easy Victory Or Quick Success Is Warning Of Premier King

By JOHN DAUPHINE—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP).—Canadian troops, backed up by Canadian airmen and possibly some Canadian naval personnel, landed in Sicily early today in what Prime Minister Mackenzie King described as an attack which "has as its ultimate objective the unconditional surrender of Italy and Germany."

It was the third major action of the war for Canadian soldiers following last August's raid on Dieppe and the unsuccessful defence of Hong Kong in December, 1941.

Before the terse announcement that the landing had been made, rumors circulated that something big was in the offing. Mr. King gave a hint himself just before the House of Commons adjourned on Friday.

But the Prime Minister had left his office for home and rest when the actual word of the landing reached Ottawa a few minutes after midnight.

Statement Issued.

His office issued a statement which the Prime Minister had prepared in advance—a statement which gave scarcely any information about the Sicilian landing.

"The news we have received marks for Canada the beginning of a new phase of the war," it said.

He warned Canadians that "in this new phase of the war for Canada, the Army will share with the Navy and the Air Force, the heat of combat, and, also, inevitable sufferings and losses.

"We can expect no easy victories and no quick successes," the Prime Minister said. "Rather must we be prepared for fierce fighting and for a long struggle."

He called on Canada for "all the strength that comes from a deep feeling of unity" for "we must not fail our fighting men."

"I repeat, we must not fail our fighting men. In the name of Canada, I give to them the assurance that Canada will not fail her fighting men."

There was no immediate indication what part of the highly-mechanized Canadian Army Overseas —five divisions in all—is involved in the Sicilian operation. There

Navy, Army And Air Units Join In Pulverizing Base At Munda

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, July 10 —(AP). — The reduction of Munda's defences by pulverizing blows from warships, bombers and artillery of Allied invasion forces is now under way.

Japan's air base on New Georgia Island—the key to conquest of the Central Solomons — was raked on Friday by the thundering guns of United States naval units; rocked by 2,000-pound bombs dropped from more than 100 torpedo and dive bombers; and blasted by bursting shells of artillery on nearby Rendova Island.

The powerful three-way bombardment, reported in to-day's communique from Allied Headquarters, presumably is the prelude to a landing assault by troops already on New Georgia.

More than 70 tons of bombs concentrated on bivouacs and supply dumps in the Munda defence area yesterday were said by a spokesman for Allied Headquarters to constitute the heaviest air blow yet to fall on that much-bombed air base.

Prior to the daylight air raid, United States destroyers moved into treacherous waters just off Munda before dawn yesterday and poured deadly accurate shells on the target area.

Great Guns Of Naval Units Bombard Enemy As Fighting Men Pile From Barges To Storm Gun-Studded Shores Of Sicily

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 10—(AP)—Allied armies invaded Sicily today and, with planes and warships in support, battled through coastal mine fields, barbed wire and gun emplacements in an effort to consolidate bridgeheads for the second European front.

Canadian, British and American forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command struck from landing barges by night, opening the big push they had awaited since they cleared North Africa of the Axis two months ago.

Swarms of Allied bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters—engaged only yesterday in the final massive blows of an aerial offensive that had rocked Sicilian targets for weeks—roared across the Mediterranean narrows at dawn and formed an aerial umbrella for the fighting men aground.

AXIS CLAIM PARACHUTISTS USED BY ALLIES

(Axis broadcasts said the Allies, spearheaded by parachute units and strongly supported by sea and air, landed on both the southern and eastern coasts of the bomb-battered island which is a segment of metropolitan Italy. The Italian high command said "Axis armed forces are decisively counter-attacking."

(A German dispatch implied that the invasion was mounted from Malta and Pantelleria, saying the heaviest of the Allied concentrations between Gibraltar and Cyprus had been observed at those islands in the Sicilian Straits.)

The long-heralded Battle of Europe was under way.

Naval bombardments covered the snub-nosed, shallow-draft landing vessels as they slipped from convoys a mile or more offshore and headed for the rocky, precipitous coast.

BRIDGEHEADS EARLY SEIZED BY INVADERS

Through wire and hot machine-gun fire the Allied forces cut out their bridgeheads and then, with hardly a moment's pause, began battering their way toward the interior of the island.

Official details of the first phase of the invasion were expected to be issued later.

Allied bombers striking from middle east bases by daylight yesterday, smashed the general headquarters and "nerve centre of Axis Sicilian defence forces" at Taormina, a Cairo communique announced.

Taormina lies on the Messina Strait, which narrows northward to separate Italy and Sicily by only two miles. The target area was declared "reduced to rubble and left in smoke and flame."

Hundreds of tons of explosives were dumped upon Axis strongholds in this attack and other final pre-invasion missions. The raiders said they believed many grounded aircraft were destroyed. Twenty Axis planes were shot down by middle east and north African airmen. Eleven of the raiders failed to return.

(The southern wing of the invasion may have to depend on beaches as supply inlets for a while, since the five best harbors—Trapani, Palermo, Messina, Catania and Syracuse—are all on the other coasts. Licata is suitable only for small vessels and Gela provides anchorage only.)

REINFORCEMENTS RUSHED ACROSS MESSINA STRAIT

The Axis in the past has boasted of mobile reserves kept at central points to be hurled into any threatened breach in Hitler's "fortress of Europe." (A Reuters dispatch from North Africa said some Axis reinforcements were moved across Messina Strait last night.)

Close friends say Gen. Eisenhower has always considered an amphibious attack the toughest problem a general could face because the weather was added to all other uncertainties. But the weather in the western Mediterranean proved favorable.

Competent military strategists said that in an amphibious invasion the first three days—not the first three hours—are the critical period. The physical act of getting troops ashore is a lesser phase, they say, and the success or failure of the whole attempt really depends on deepening of bridgeheads so services of supply and air fields can be establishd behind the fighting men.

As the alert fighting men piled from barges and other landing craft, booming guns of naval units offshore bombard-

Invasion Of Sicily Is No Boy's Job

First Stage Of Liberation Of European Continent Is Now Under Way

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As the first smoke of the great battle of Sicily begins to lift we can see that what really matters is that at long last the Allies have flung themselves boldly into what Commander-in-Chief Eisenhower describes as "the first stage in the liberation of the European continent."

Sicily is the first stride in our new seven league boots. Beyond that craggy island lie vast reaches of strongly-held enemy territory. History records nothing like the amphibious operations which we must carry out in order to achieve our goal.

The invasion which was inaugurated in the early hours today, when finely trained Canadian-British-American troops stormed their way onto the rocky shores of Sicily in the face of blazing resistance, mark the grand opening of the crucial period of the Hitlerian conflict. A few weeks from now we may know pretty well how long it's going to take to smash the Nazi Fuehrer.

Mind you, while this inaugurates the continental offensive in a general sense, we shouldn't jump to the conclusion that the Allies are going to race from Sicily to the bigger phases immediately. There may be some other tidying-up operations among the Mediterranean islands first. We aren't likely to clamber aboard the continent tomorrow.

Still, the conquest of powerfully-held Sicily will in itself be a major triumph. This is a moment of exultation, though I think we shouldn't let this make us overlook that our joy is likely to be tempered with some tears. This job is going to be costly, you know.

General Eisenhower told a press conference in North Africa in June that the Allies might be "riding for a bloody nose," but he thought the job could be done. Early enemy reports today indicated that the invasion forces were encountering heavy resistance.

Sicily had been surrounded by mind fields, submarines lurked all about it, and strong coastal batteries had been set up to meet the impending invasion. Last night heavy German and Italian reinforcements were rushed from the mainland to the island. It was no boy's job which the Allied men tackled as they raced ashore from their barges and clambered over the terrorizing barbed wire in the face of heavy fire.

Still, they are as fit and well prepared for their bloody task as any men could be. Many of them—perhaps all—are either Commando trained or have undergone a similar fierce preparation over a long period.

The Canadians, for instance, have been undergoing intensive training for invasion for a long period.

One of the most important lessons which thus far have come to us from this offensive is that air power can indeed render large areas of heavily fortified territory sufficiently impotent so that amphibious operations can be carried out. Such landing of troops and equipment from the sea is perhaps the most difficult of all military operations.

Enemy Expects Many Losses

Lack Of Transport Given As Excuse

BERNE, Switzerland, July 10 —(AP)—The Nazi press began to prepare the people for the loss of Italy's Mediterranean islands today as dawn found Allied forces invading Sicily in the first big push against European territory.

Even before Europeans learned of the Sicilian landing German newspapers told readers they believed the Allies would make no large-scale invasion of the continent but would limit the fighting this summer to smaller targets, especially the Mediterranean Islands.

Then they added that the Axis was confident of Italian and German defences—"if fighting on the mainland is not again thrown onto an endangered sea connection as was the case in North Africa." In other words, the Axis have prepared an out is the islands are lost—transport.

The Germans are confident, they can equal Allied opponents "providing they have normal transport facilities for supply lines," the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung wrote.

Restrict Cotton Imports

Fabrics For War And Special Industries

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP). — Canadian imports of cotton textile fabrics from Britain will be restricted to those necessary for war requirements and special industrial uses under an arrangement announced simultaneously to-day by the Prices Board in Canada and the Cotton Board in England.

J. P. H Turner, Prices Board Cotton Administrator, said that under arrangements approved by the combined Production and Resources Board. Production of cotton textiles for supply from the United Kingdom to Canada will, while present circumstances prevail, be restricted to highly essential yarn, with a limited poundage of fabrics for war requirements and special industrial uses which cannot be obtained or substituted domestically in Canada or the United States.

The supply of United Kingdom cotton yarns to Canada will be maintained as in past months. Only those types of fabrics which cannot be supplied on this continent may still be imported.

RED ARMIES HOLD FURIOUS AND PERSISTENT GERMAN ATTACKS

Canadians Had 4 Years Hard Training

Role Canadian Army Is Playing May Not Be Disclosed For Some Time

By FRANK FLAHERTY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 10 (CP) — Nearly four years of hard work, study, accumulaion of weapons, training and patient waiting is behind the Canadian army as it moves into Sicily with British and United States forces on one of the biggest ventures yet undertaken by the armed forces of the United Nations in the present war.

While the role of the Canadian army in this venture may not be fully disclosed for some time it is a self-sufficient, heavily-mechanized and fully-trained force ready for any type of operation, capable of hitting hard and travelling fast.

While the circumstances of war favored the building of the Canadian army to its present size and state of efficiency, its creation out of the youth of a practically demilitarized nation has been the full-time job of thousands of the keenest and boldest commonder, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, down.

When war broke out in Sepember, 1939, Canada had a permanent army of 4,500 men with a non-permanent militia organized in units across the country and endowed with more willingness than military training or experience.

The growth of the fighting force overseas to proportions of some 200,000 men proceeded from the beginning, along with the growth in Canada of facilities for enlisting, training and equipping soldiers.

The 1st division was organized on the outbreak of war and was drawn from both the militia and the permanent force. With units selected from military districts across Canada, it was representative of the whole country.

Gen. McNaughton led the troops overseas as divisional commander but ahead of him went Brig. (now Lt.-Gen.) H. D. G. Crerar and staff to set up Canadian military headquarters in London.

As the 1st division moved off, back in Canada the second was in process of organization. At scores of points across Canada carpenters were hammering and sawing as training centres took shape to accommodate the thousands of would-be soldiers.

After the establishment of a system of basic, advanced and specialist training centres came creation of officers' training centres, first overseas and later concentrated in Canada along with provision for the training of staff officers.

Overseas the war moved to a swift and disastrous climax for the Allied forces in the spring of 1940, with the German push in the west. A Canadian force was designated to fight the enemy in Norway but the order was cancelled just before sailing. Again, as France was about to collapse, a Canadian brigade moved 200 miles inland but withdrawal was decided upon.

Through part of the long, grim summer of 1940 the 1st Canadian Division was the only full-equipped division in England and stood in a strategic area ready to counter-attack any invading force.

But the expected invasion did not come and in the later summer Gen. McNaughton stepped up to command a corps formed of the 1st Division, with British and New Zealand formations. In the same year the 2nd Division arrived overseas, completed its training and in December joined the corps, replacing the British and New Zealand formations and making it an all-Canadian outfit.

The Canadian Army now on the move has been described by Defence Minister Ralston as "probably the most highly mechanized and mobile army in the world," for its size. The final stage in mechanization—the introduction of tank or armored formations—took shape in 1941 when formation of an armored division was ordered.

The 1st Army—Brigade reached England at the end of June last year and a month later the 3rd Division arrived. The 5th (Armored) Division was on the ground in November and in a year the overseas army had doubled its strength and been liberally padded with armor.

During this period the enemy air force carried out its blitz on Britain. It failed, but the Canadian Army, in common with Britain's civilian population, suffered casualties.

The army's one offensive operation up to then, the expedition to Spitzbergen for the destruction of coal mines and radio facilities, was carried out with success but without opposition.

The development of the military establishment overseas into an "army" in the technical sense was the big organization development in 1942. It was accomplished by converting the 4th division, already organized in Canada as an infantry formation, into an armored division and its dispatch overseas.

Then came creation of an army headquarters under Gen. MacNaughton and a new corps headquarters in addition to the one established before. The corps commanders appointed were Lt. Gen. Crerar and Lt. Gen. E. W. Sansom who previously commanded the 3rd division and later the 5th (armored) division.

The 4th (armored) division under Maj. Gen. Worthington joined the overseas army in the summer of 1942 and the overseas organization reached its projected goal, the largest so far announced, except for the arrival of the 2nd army tank brigade then in progress of organization.

The raid on Dieppe, one of the bloodiest bits of fighting produced by the war in Western Europe, took place in August, 1942. A Canadian infantry brigade supported by a tank battalion and British commandos crossed the English Channel with powerful naval and air support and landed on one of the strong points of the enemy-defended coast.

The casualties in killed, wounded and prisoners were very heavy; but the enemy, too, suffered. The raid was officially appraised as the first large-scale test of the feasibility of combined army, navy and air force operations in effecting a landing on a defended coast.

The early part of 1943 was marked by the rounding out of the army formation by provision of ancillary units, the building up of the pool of reinforcements overseas, and large-scale operational training in which the co-operation of the air force to serve as a covering umbrella and an advance hitting arm for the army was stressed.

With the growth of the army went the development of the munitions industry in Canada. When the 1st Division went overseas it had to look to Britain for some of its standard fighting weapons.

Soon, however, Canada was manufacturing weapons and equipment, not only for its own forces but for many thousands of other United Nations troops. In mechanical transport Canadian production first became effective. Out of Canadian factories came the trucks for the British forces in North Africa.

From Canadian factories came rifles, machine guns, field pieces, tanks, signal equipment, clothing sufficient for the whole of the expanded army and with much left over for the forces of other nations.

In the Canadian army's movement across the seas through submarine-infested waters and in the delivery to it and to other United Nations forces of supplies and equipment the Canadian navy played a major role.

From the start of the war the sea-going force concentrated on the main job of defeating the submarine in the North Atlantic. Steadily Canada's role in that operation increased until this year Canada assumed control of North Atlantic convoy operations in virtue of the fact that the Canadian navy was the largest force engaged in that operation.

"Let Us Go Forward Together"

To all Ontario people who want our province to make its greatest possible contribution in the war effort . . . and who are also concerned about what will happen after the war, the CCF now says:—

"Let us go forward together during the war and after the war.

"Let us keep faith with our men overseas by giving them our utmost support now.

"Let us keep faith with our men overseas by making sure that there will be jobs and security for all when the war is over."

The CCF is close to the problems of labour and agriculture—so vital to our war effort. To these and to their allied problems such as health and housing, the CCF will bring new and vigorous action.

Hundreds of thousands of Ontario people suffered in the last depression and are fearful today of what the post-war period will bring. A post-war depression must be prevented. The CCF alone presents a clear-cut, constructive program for after the war.

The steady swing toward the CCF, reported by the Gallup polls, shows that an ever-increasing number of people look to the CCF for the solution of today's problems. Later advertisements will set out the points in the CCF program.

Outstanding men and women have already been nominated in most Ontario ridings and further nominations are being made. With Edward B. Jolliffe as CCF provincial leader, these men and women are prepared to form a government now and introduce a genuine new deal for Ontario.

The CCF depends upon the work and dollars of the people. It urgently needs YOUR work and YOUR dollars. Write the Provincial Office, 2 Berti St., Toronto or your local candidate.

Let us go forward together for a better war effort . . . and for a better province in which to live when the war is over.

tacle to stand on the top deck of our infantry-landing ship and look over a harbor thick with vessels.

At one anchorage there were ships of the Royal Navy, including destroyers a cruiser, several battleships, flotillas of corvettes and motor launches and sitting on the surface like gigantic half-built liners were aircraft carriers. In the distance the flight decks of the flat tops made a flat line against the horizon.

Occasionally planes of the fleet air arm growled past us.

The invasion force was gathered amid the most confusing and wildest rumors about future operations ever heard in Britain since the start of the war. Talk which went the rounds about a possible German invasion of Britain in 1940 was nothing compared to what could be heard this time in London and in towns and ports of England and Scotland.

Only a handful of high authorities in Whitehall knew the full importance of the expedition—its target and its composition. Only a few people outside the actual force knew it was being collected.

Fleet Street, centre of London's newspapers, buzzed with rumor. It was just that—rumor.

Inevitable Speculation

Rumor seemed as this was being written to have confused everyone. And among the Canadians themselves there was inevitable speculation.

The Canadians I am with here were in the South of England on regular duties. Then they disappeared, and meanwhile staff officers were "missing" or "engaged on special duties." People seemed to be making strange trips around the country to strange places.

Canadian officers and men did not let speculation get out of hand as far as I could see. I heard most of it in quiet corners of messes or in privacy of headquarters offices and probably knew as much as anybody else who was not "in the picture," and even I knew practically nothing. I sensed there was an operation in the making—that was all.

The public relations unit with which war correspondents work was a soul of discretion. It had to make full arrangements for press facilities, communications, transportation and attachment to units, but we could see the P.R. chief every day and not get a glimmer of an idea of who, what, when or where.

Then it started. I was dining one night at Army Headquarters when the P.R. officer said privately, "Get your kit ready for there are some interesting manoeuvres to cover."

I followed instructions, rounded up kit in a hurry, and left a comfortable billet without even a good-bye to the English family who had been so hospitable for three years.

I did the ordinary things I had been doing for months on weekly visits to London, and played dumb when it came to speculation about the future of the Canadian troops.

The next day I joined a Canadian force which had completed its training at a concentration point.

The atmosphere around Headquarters was electric. These Canadians had every right to be fed up with the long-drawn grind, now were on the crest of the wave. From the preparations being made and the types of training they had done, the troops themselves felt it was quite probable they were going into an operation.

Gradually I was put "into the picture' to a degree, and special equipment issued.

Tropical Uniform.

A tropical uniform first. It shook me a little as I went into the quartermaster's stores to be fitted for khaki shorts and longs with bush skirts and the rest of tropical paraphernalia. This certainly cannot be manoeuvres, I thought.

There was some mention of anti-malaria precautions to be taken, but even then I was not entirely convinced. One never is until "briefed" — told of the plan of attack and the target and details, and the briefing was still evidently some time off for me.

I was attached to one of the assault infantry regiment which was scheduled on "manoeuvres' to storm a beach at a vital point and help establish a bridgehead for the invading forces to follow up.

Nearly a year ago I vowed I would avoid assault units in the future . . . .

(Editor's note: Although Munro did not mention it in this dispatch, last August he was attach- to a Canadian assault unit that went on the bloody beaches of Dieppe, and returned to Britain to write an eye-witness account of that battle that was published by newspapers all over the Allied world.)

. . . . but here was a definite attachment which could not be altered without difficulties. Besides it looked like a good spot to cover the landing, and when you get chances like that you get a "what-the-hell'" feeling and hope your luck will stretch just this once more.

The next day I joined my unit. There were several conferences on board before departure, all officers attending, at which the commanding officer of the unit, who came from Guelph, Ont., and who is operational commander aboard the ship, outlined plans for practice landings.

Practice Landing

For several days we lay off the British coast and at one stage went ashore for a brisk route march in a rain storm. One practice landing was carried out in miserable weather.

Troops were soaked going ashore when they waded the last 50 yards or more, and it rained most of the day. But they were in high spirits and singing as they returned to the ships to dry out.

Infantry landing ships like the one we were aboard were anchored all around. In a slight mist obscuring the harbor most of the time you could not determine how many there were, for the line of ships extended far off into the distance.

Between practice landings and route marches there was plenty of time to lounge around and talk of what the future held.

One's conviction swayed from belief that perhaps the whole thing would be cancelled—an awful thought—to speculation on the target. There was not a soul aboard our ship who knew the target, or even the area, with the possible exception of the colonel.

I heard it mentioned in all seriousness that an attack on Singapore was a probability and also that this force would strike right at Japan with other co-ordinated task forces.

The Balkans were a favorite target for our cabin strategists and we considered a landing on the mainland of Italy, her Mediterranean islands, somewhere on the south coast of France, in Greece, or even a long voyage to attack the Japanese in Burma or an operation out of India.

Then we thought of the northern coast of France and I would even recall a little of the Dieppe raid as we argued about the difficulties.

There is "no" best unit in the army but the infantry assault force which I accompanied certainly in the top bracket of infantry battalions.

The combined operations nature of this operation was emphasized aboard our infantry landing ship which had been in the original North Africa landings, with the skipper winning the Distinguished Service Cross for handling the ship with gallantry and skill east of Algiers during an intense bombing.

On the decks were Canadian and British soldiers in battledress (their tropical uniforms were hidden in their packs) as well as well as naval ratings and officers and some R.A.F. officers.

Along the sides of the ship were assault landing craft slung on special davits. It is these small craft, 40 feet long with a 10-foot beam, carrying 35 men in addition to a crew of four, which carry assault infantry to the shore.

The British and Canadian troops were side by side in the mess decks and most officers were lucky enough to get cabins, four in each.

Majority of Officers Canadian

The first night aboard ship in port a meeting of all officers was called.

The majority were Canadians but there were some British officers too, Royal Navy officers in blue battle dress with "R.N. Commando" flashes and air force officers, as well as commanders of special service units, experts in combined operations.

A Dutch officer aboard the ship made a moving speech directed to the Canadians in which he spoke with emotion of the gratitude of the people of the Netherlands for the hospitality Canada had offered "our Princess and her children."

Then he said: "I hope this operation will bring great glory to Canada, Holland and the Allied Nations."

Before the Canadians embarked they had taken down their patches and "Canada" shoulder flashes. From appearance they might have been British troops. But when they shouted to girls on the streets of the towns through which they marched or made passing comments to civilians they sounded pure Canadian.

Wait Became 'Tedious

The long wait before sailing eventually became tedious. Finally we were told we had just one day to get final letters written. These letters were taken ashore, censored and mailed when the expedition reached its destination. Everyone aboard was permitted to write three letters concerned with private and personal matters.

The commander of the naval force came aboard to speak with the naval crews. He told them they would like going on the operation —he described it as a "raid" — and wished them luck.

A few days before leaving Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of combined operations, said good-bye to the naval crews.

Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Overseas Army, and Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of a Canadian corps, visited a number of Canadian units.

Among the Canadian units are field artillery regiments, an anti-aircraft regiment, an anti-tank regiment and service formations—Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

Settled Down to Routine

During the long wait before sailing we settled down to routine ship board life. The men ate regular army food in the mess decks and there was beefing, as there usually is about army food. But the men seemed as happy as most troops. They played cards or shot dice.

Each morning the officers had them on the outer decks for physical training or lectures on a variety of military subjects, including weapons, platoon and company tactics, treatment of prisoners of war, field hygiene and medical practices.

The two war correspondents aboard were put to work. Peter Stursberg of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation did a nightly radio broadcast over the ship's public address system of news heard from the BBC in London. In addition Stursberg and this writer gave talks to the troops. I talked to them half a dozen times on the campaign in Tunisia.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 10 — (CP). — Wheat prices eased on Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange with considerable profit taking and selling by American houses. Values at the close ranged ⅝ cent higher to unchanged. Good support was offered by shippers, exporters, and commission houses.

There was no export business in Canadian wheat or flour reported, but indications Eire was still making inquiries for wheat.

Shippers took a small round lot of No. 1 Northern in the cash wheat market. No important transactions were confirmed in the cash coarse grains.

Rye futures eased in sympathy with wheat and price declines at Chicago. Values dipped 2⅞ to 2⅛ cents a bushel with July finishing at 99¼, October $1.00¼, and December 99⅛ cents.

Combined Power Said Only Hope For Security

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP)—Recommendations for Canadian foreign policy—ranging from closest alliance with the British commonwealth to a policy dictated only by Canada's self-interest—were heard in the House of Commons in a debate on external affairs.

The discusion was set off by Prime Minister Mackenzie King when he presented his external affairs estimates to the committee of the whole and urged, in a statement, the wisdom of a definite United Nations organization to deal with problems of war and peace.

Throughout the morning, afternoon and evening sittings the House debated foreign affairs, and not an item had been passed when adjournment was reached.

Urges Close Alliance

Howard Green (Prog. Con. Vancouver South) spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party, urged closest possible alliance with the British Commonwealth and United States. The same stand was taken by John Diefenbaker (Prog. Con. Lake Centre).

But Brooke Claxton (Lib. St. Lawrence-St. George), Parliamentary Assistant to Prime Minister King, declared that Canada's foreign policy should be dictated by Canada's interest, and warned that other nations of the world might be suspicious of a policy that placed the Commonwealth of British Nations as one unit against the world.

Mr. Claxton advocated collective combination of power as the only hope for future security and said he would prefer to have behind him the collective power of all the Nations than the British Commonwealth alone.

Keep Refugees

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) supported this viewpoint and his party's leader, M. J. Coldwell, made a plea for a policy that would offer haven to the refugees from Nazi aggression.

John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, urged a policy that would make Canada independent of other nations, with capacity production and distribution of purchasing power among the people.

Hold Together.

Mr. Claxton defined the British Empire as the United Kingdom and the Colonial Empire, while the British Commonwealth was the United Kingdom and the self-governing Dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

The Commonwealth of Nations worked together when it was their interest to do so and it usually was. They were held together by a common interest, an effection, tradition and common political institutions. This was much better and finer than if all had an identical policy arrived at in some other way.

He said Canada had "no distinct interest in the British Commonwealth at this time which differentiates us from the United States with regard to doing the right thing throughout the world."

The purpose of a national policy should be "to serve the interest of that country" and in Canada that interest was security and prosperity.

All Nations Unite.

For future security, Mr. Claxton said he wanted to have behind him not only the strength of the Commonwealth of Nations but the strength of all the nations of the world "because there is no other way to prevent aggression." In that combination of power for security Canada should play more than her full share because "we have a fine country and we want to preserve it."

A feature of Mr. King's statement was his declaration that some concrete form of international organization should be set up by the United Nations, based on "functional representation," to deal not only with the problems of war but also those of peace.

Mr. King said Canada had reached the stature of nationhood "from our recognition of the needs of humanity," and had become 'a world power' not on material grounds alone or due to political considerations.

2,036 German Tanks Been Destroyed As Russians Hold Line

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 10 — (AP). — The fifth day of Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's offensive on the Kursk salient brought further disastrous losses for the attacking Germans, the Russians announced today declaring that since the start of the drive 2,036 Nazi tanks had been destroyed or damaged, 904 aircraft shot down and about 40,000 Germans killed.

There was little change in the situation yesterday, according to a Soviet communique, which said that the Red Army was continuing to battle enemy tanks which previously had penetrated the Russian positions at Belgorod.

In one engagement in the Belgorod area yesterday, the bulletin said, 30 to 160 attacking German tanks were destroyed.

(Berlin broadcasts declared that German forces had penetrated 36 miles northward toward Kursk in a thrust from the southern anchor of the battle front at Belgorod.)

While the German armies pushed hard against the Russian line from Orel to Belgorod, the Red Army reported that it had held its own.

Plenty of Trouble in Air

In the sky battle, the Russians said, the German air force was paying heavily in planes for its attempt to roll back the Russian artillery to clear the way for the ground advance.

From front line dispatches it appeared that it was just south of Orel, where the battle line bends to the west, that the Nazi army

Christianity Will Break Down Barriers of Race and Tongue

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Jacob Dreamed, And Behold A Ladder Set Up On The Earth, And The Top Of It Reached To Heaven: And, Behold, The Angels Of God Ascending And Descending On It. Gen. 28; 12.

How fascinating a dream is especially to children. From the earliest days men have endeavoured to discover the inward meaning of dreams. Jacob's dream is one of the most famous in the Scriptures. The dream pointed to the future. More than fifteen centuries later the dream was fulfilled. You can understand how this story passed from father to son. The finest story tellers thrilled their listeners. It is a pattern for simplicity and clearness of writing. You were thrilled by it as a child. It is written in the Book of Genesis, the Book of Beginnings of men, families and nations.

A young man has fled from his father's house and laid his tired head on a stone and slept. For the second time he had deceived his brother Esau; truly he was a supplanter.

We live in an age of the study of the mind—psychology. Jacob has left his father's house and shelter. His uppermost thought that night is:—"Does my father's God care for me"? It is an all important question. Centuries had to pass before the Jew realized that Jehovah is the only living God and the creator of all men. To Jacob Jehovah was his family God; the God of Abraham and Isaac. That night he made the great discovery that Jehovah was in that place. It was a new revelation to a man whose character was not even honourable. Yet in his heart there was a spiritual faculty—a germ of spiritual knowledge. He had a deep sense of the invisible God. This was the particular gift of the Jew. It was from such people that the prophets sprang; men who had developed a deeper sense of God than their fellows. Jacob was a true son of Abraham, the Father of the faithful. He had faith to believe in a Spiritual Being greater than himself.

This knowledge of Jehovah was a progressive revelation; here a little, there a little, line upon line and precept upon precept, according as they were able to bear it. We apply this principle in scientific education to-day. From time to time the prophet would receive a new revelation of the character of Jehovah through his personal experience, which he would pass on to his people. Isaiah taught the truth that Jehovah is morally Holy and His worshippers are to be morally pure.

Then in the fulness of time by the operation of the Holy Spirit Christ was born of the Virgin Mary and was made Man. It was His privilege to reveal what God is like. Jesus Christ is the exact image of God. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father" is His tremendous claim.

The Babe born in Bethlehem grew to Boyhood and Manhood. As a mature Man of thirty He began His ministry. At His Baptism in Jordan He received the full out pouring of the Holy Spirit and the revelation that He is the Son of God. He mets Nathanael, an Israelite in whom is no guile—in contrast to Jacob.

To Nathanael the Lord developes the ancient dream:—"Verily, verily, I say unto you; hereafter ye shall see Heaven open and the Angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man". The Master speaks of His ascension to heaven when He took His perfect Manhood into the Godhead. He is a real Man. As such He must pass through all the experiences of man and die upon the Cross. He died and rose from the dead because He is both God and Man. In Him was fulfilled the ancient Scripture:—"Let us make man in our own image".—Jesus Christ is the New Man; the Head of a New Creation; a New Race. He is the perfect Man. "This is my beloved Son in Whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him" is the Father's statement. This is the mystery of the Gospel. This makes Christianity an universal religion and breaks down the barriers of race and tongue. "Ye are all one Man in Christ Jesus Our Lord". That is why as Christians we offer our prayers to God the Father through Jesus Christ Our Lord.

THERE IS ONE GOD, AND ONE MEDIATOR BETWEEN GOD AND MEN, THE MAN CHRIST JESUS

Moses and the burning bush

"Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth My people the children of Israel out of Egypt." —Exodus 3:10.

God Calls Moses to Lead Israelites Out of Egypt

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 11 is Exodus 2:1-3:1-12, the Golden Text being Exodus 3:10, "Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth My people the children of Israel out of Egypt.")

GOD CALLED a leader for His afflicted people, and this leader was one who, according to the Pharaoh's order, should have been killed when he was born.

"And there went a man of the house of Levi," we read in the second chapter of Exodus, "and took to wife a daughter of Levi." These people had a son, and when the mother saw her fine baby, she hid him much longer, she made an ark out of the tall bulrush or payrus reeds that grew in the shallow water by the banks of the Nile. The light, strong stalks of these reeds were used by the Egytians in making boats to be floated on the smooth river, and the inner rind was made into paper. This ark she set in the rushes at the river's brink, and she told the baby's sister Miriam, to watch and see what happened.

Maybe this mother knew that at this place the Pharaoh's daughte frequently came to bathe with her companions, and this day she came, and when she saw the ark and looked into it, the infant cried. Few women can see a baby cry and not want to pick it up and comfort it, so the princess "had compassion on him," saying, "This is one of the Hebrew's children." Miriam then stepped forward and asked if she should get a nurse for the child. The princess agreed, and Miriam naturally got the child's mother, so she had the pleasure of taking care of her own dear baby and being paid for it.

Calls Child Moses

Later the princess adopted the child and called him Moses, "because," she said, "I drew him out of the water." So Moses grew up to manhood and as he looked at the other Hebrews he saw their sufferings and his heart burned within him. One day he saw an Egytian beating a Hebrew, and Moses killed him. He thought no one saw the act as he hid the body, but next day he interfered in the quarrel of two Hebrews, and asked the one who was in the wrong why he struck the other. The Hebrew answered impudently, "Who made thee a prince and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou killed the Egyptian?" Moses was afraid then, because he realized that the murder he had committed had been seen. In fact, the Pharaoh heard of it, and so he would have killed Moses, but the latter fled from court and went to Midian, where he sat down by a well.

To this well came the seven daughters of the priest of Midian, Reuel, to draw water for their flocks. Shepherds sought to drive them away, but Moses took their part and helped them draw the water. Their father asked them why they were home so early, and they told him about the man who had helped them; he asked where the man was and why they had not brought him home with them, and told them to call him. They did, and Moses stayed with them and married one of the daughters, Zipporah, and had a son called Gershom.

Tends Priest's Flocks

Moses was 40 years old when he went to Midian, and for 40 more years he lived there, tending the flocks of his father-in-law, living in the open air, doubtless communing with God and growing in stature until he was the leader his Maker had been unconsciously training to lead His people out of bondage.

One day Moses drove the flocks back of the desert to Horeb, when suddenly a lowly bush near him burst into flame but was not consumed with the fire. "The angel of the Lord appeared to him in the flame," and Moses said, "I will turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt."

When the Lord saw him turn aside to watch the bush, He called to Him out of the bush, saying, "Moses, Moses," and Moses replied, "Here am I." And the Lord said, "put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground."

Then said the Lord, "I am the God of thy father the God of Abraham, the God of Jacob." Moses hid his face because he was afraid to look upon God. The Lord further spoke of the affliction of the people of Israel and told Moses that He would send Moses to deliver them and bring them to a land "flowing with milk and honey." "I will send thee unto Pharaoh that thou mayest bring forth My people, the children of Israel out of Egypt."

Moses was a modest man, and an aged one, and he said, 'Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt." But God answered, "Certainly I will be with thee."

W. C Grant, by Stan Atchison and T. Littlefair.

William Wiggins, by Bert Steuland and W. J. Whibbs.

W. S. Johnson, president of Peterborough C. C. F., was chairman, and conducted the meeting with a smooth and close adherence to the agenda of preliminary business leading up to the featured nomination.

Mr. Johnston's Acceptance

In accepting the assignment of his associates' Bruce Johnston said his immediate reaction was a mingling of pleasure and sharp feeling of concern as he realized the responsibility that was placed upon him.

"I think you wanted some one who is well known in this riding," Mr. Johnston said. "I hope that I will be able to satisfy you in the days that are ahead of us, perhaps not completely, because no one can do that. I am anxious to be worthy of your confidence, and I hope that you will all co-operate with me to the fullest extent, especially in getting out the vote. If we do that, I have no doubt of the result.

I know the two other gentlemen in this campaign very well. I count them friends of mine, and they are fine men, too. If you organize in your factories it will require work, in the city and throughout the country. With your assistance and your votes we'll win the day."

In his turn, William S. Johnson, resuming the chair which he had left to Mr. Grant during the voting period, said: "Ladies and gentlemen you have delivered your verdict. You have named the candidate of Peterborough C. C. F. Now let's get on with the job because there will be lots of work for everybody."

Municipal Experience

The candidate also spoke briefly in the period allotted to those who were proposed to the convention.

"I was born in this part and lived here all my life, and my parents before me," Mr. Johnston said.

"I may say that I am well acquainted in the country and city. I haven't had any experience in politics. In fact I have been very independent in my views. The policies of the old parties have not appealed to me at all. When I came here tonight I made up my mind that I would not solicit any influence because I believe the office should seek the man and not the man seeking the office. The result is not entirely a surprise because in the last few weeks some of the members suggested that I ought to let my name go to the convention; but I did not expect to be chosen.

I have had a great deal of municipal experience and in dealing with the public generally. It seemed to me that governments followed too much a policy of appeasement, of vote-getting. They didn't seem to care much except about getting the people's votes. We are never going to get anywhere that way. We won't be able to change the system until we get down to a sane basis of doing things."

Mr. Johnston mentioned his work as municipal clerk of North Monaghan, now with a population of 5,000 persons but running on the same system as thirty years ago. "The township has had for a long time the benefit of my office being in my own home.

"I am not a trained speaker like Mr. Grant, who is a lawyer. But, I think our people want a representative who will work for them. If you choose me tonight I'll do my utmost to carry out the policies of the C. C. F. and work in the interests of the laboring class, and that includes the farmers. That may be a big order, but it is what I felt for a long time that has been needed.

This country has had pretty fair representation in both our provincial and federal parliaments, but there have been too many representatives of the bar elected, and I don't think that is representative of the people as a whole. I hope we will be able to work out policies from the best interest of the mass of people."

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Edwards spoke briefly in their turn, and the members proceeded with the balloting.

Seven C. C. F. Clubs

Alfred Birkhoff reviewed the local expansion of the C. C. F. in the organizing of component clubs, two in North Monaghan and five in the city. "We haven't felt yet the true meaning of democracy. We need the people to realize that they should join a C. C. F. Club, propose their ideas there, and pass them on to a convention. Then if they are acceptable and are approved, they could become part of our laws. We have only a few weeks for this campaign, and our chairman will have to be active."

Speaking as his proponent, Mr. Grant said Mr. Edwards had been a member of the C. C. F. for a considerable time, and through days that were faced with adversity, "when things were not going so well with our party as they are now. If Mr. Edwards is chosen candidate I feel that he would make a worthy representative at Queen's Park."

Maurice Ketcheson discussed the detail of organization, and Mr. Wiggins concluded the convention with emphasis on the importance of adequately financing the C. C. F. candidate in this riding.

"I believe we have a great opportunity in this election," Mr. Wiggins said. "I think every one here tonigth feels that Peterborough can be taken, certainly much easier than in the past."

God Calls a Leader — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 2:1—3:1-12.

"And there went a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi," and these were the parents of Moses.

Moses kept his father-in-law's sheep, his wife's father being Reuel, priest of Midian. Moses led the flock to the mountain of Horeb.

At Horeb Moses saw a bush burst into fire, but not burning, and said, "I will turn aside and see why the bush is not burned."

Out of the fire came the voice of the Lord telling him he was to lead the Israelites out of Egypt.

Action In Russia

The long-expected German offensive in Russia has begun, and at the time of writing the attackers are reported to have lost two thousand tanks, in a mighty tank engagement, more than eight hundred planes, and an estimated thirty-five thousand men; for all this loss they have only a minor break-through in the Belgorod sector to show. How the record will stand when this appears in print we cannot possibly say, but if by that time the Germans have increased the balance in their favour we shall be greatly surprised. They are striking to the uttermost limit of their strength, but every sign tells us that the Russians have so increased their power to resist that the German forces are wearing themselves out, without a hope of making the major breach in the Russian lines which would give them the advantage in the months to come. The engagement now is of the most ferocious kind, and cannot long continue at this level; shortly the Russians must give way or the Germans must retire to recoup their strength.

While the Germans are throwing themselves furiously at the Russian forces in the central sector of the Eastern Front, the Russians may make counter-attacks either in the North or South. The North seems the more likely point for such action, as the shortest route to Germany lies in that sector. The selection of the time and place for such a counterblow will be a matter for the nicest judgement, for it might be the means of wrecking the whole German plan if it is well handled. We can hardly doubt that Hitler has been forced to weaken his Northern and Southern forces in order to build up his offensive machine in the Centre. Could weakened forces hold a determined and well-planned Russian drive?

It seems very likely that the establishment of a second front in Europe is in some way tied up with the German attack on Russia. Perhaps it is scheduled to come as soon as the Russians have stalled the German offensive; perhaps a Russian counter-offensive and an Allied invasion are to be started at the same time, in order to bring about as much confusion and disorganization among the Germans as possible. Speculation on the subject is as fruitless as it is unavoidable. We can only wait for things to happen, and be wise after the event.

Meanwhile speculation knows no bounds, and many warnings have been given that we should neither be confident in our victory nor should we expect that the war will end soon. Nevertheless, public confidence and hope are higher than they have been in a very long time. In London the Stock Exchange, which was offering 6-to-1 odds against Germany's surrender in 1943 a few months ago, has altered its odds to 5-to-4. And the Belgian government in exile has broadcast to its homeland a confident assurance that Belgium will be liberated this year. So long as it does not become foolish, we cannot see that this confidence does any harm. Meanwhile all the United Nations will watch the Russian struggle with the keenest attention, for it is highly probable that all the high strategy of this year hangs upon the outcome of that great battle.

Death Of Two Prospectors

Two prospectors died during the past week, and one of them died an immensely wealthy man and the other died almost destitute. Sir Harry Oakes was certainly one of the wealthiest men ever to make his money in Canada; he was reputed to be worth something like $200,000,000, and to have made most of this great sum from the Lake Shore mine, in Northern Ontario. In 1935 he moved from Canada to Nassau, for he found Canadian taxes on income oppressive; he is reputed to have said that if he were to die his family would owe the Government of Canada $4,000,000. In Nassau taxes are much lower, and income tax does not exist. At the time Oakes was harshly criticized for this move, but his great wealth enabled him to be indifferent to public opinion. And, as his taxes were between 80 and 85 per cent. of the gold he mined, his action is understandable, and many of those who were ready to blame him would have acted as he did if they had been in his position.

The other prospector was Sandy McIntyre, who died in Christie Street Hospital in Toronto. He struck it rich twice, but both times he sold his claim for a trifle of its real value. He had a hand in discovering the Porcupine Mines, the Teck-Hughes Mine, and the Kirkland Lake development, but he never made more than a few thousand dollars from all his discoveries. He served ably in the First Great War, with the Machine-Gun Corps.

These men, though of widely differing fortune, lived as few of us do. Their lives were made up of adventure, serious risks, great gains and disastrous losses. Whatever else may be said about them, they saw life, and they made life give them at least a part of what they wanted. Nowadays, when there is so much fearful chattering about "security" and the necessity for assuring everybody of a competence whether they can support themselves or not, it is refreshing to read about prospectors who took their chance, and accepted the luck which came to them. Whatever their sins of omission and commission may be, it is men of the type of Harry Oakes and Sandy McIntyre who make the world go 'round, for they are not afraid to give it a push every now and then. Too many of us are mere passengers on the globe, eagerly legislating for somebody else to feed and care for us.

Attacks On Hitler's Transport

Of late months we have been inclined to congratulate ourselves on the excellent work which the United Nations' air forces are doing in disorganizing the German transportation system. Fighters and fighter-bombers have attacked locomotives and freight-trains in short-range sweeps over the Channel; light and medium bombers have hit at rail centres, engine sheds and repair shops; the Flying Fortresses have bombed great rail centres, marshaling yards, and big locomotive works. But the Germans have not been idle. Latest reports tell us that their production of locomotives in 1942 was 80 per cent. greater than in 1941, and that an even more ambitious program is being carried out in 1943. This work goes on east of the Elbe and the Oder, where our bombing expeditions do not reach. What is more, the Germans acquired, in the countries which they have occupied, ten times as much rolling stock and locomotives as we have wrecked in a single year. If we hope to disorganize Hitler's communications we shall have to do better than we are doing now.

All rolling stock and locomotives are produced to conform to a rigid "austerity" pattern. They are not well built, but they are not intended to last. The saving which has been made in this way is reckoned as 35 per cent. in materials and 25 per cent. in working hours. Apparently German railway workers regard the new articles as tin, but if they serve the purpose they need not be either handsome or lasting.

Our bombing of locomotives, though dramatic, is not so important as dislocation of railway terminals. In three months we may wreck 50 locomotives, which makes very little difference to German communications; but if we disorganize train schedules and delay deliveries we do far more real harm. The very heart of the German transportation system is in the Ruhr, and Allied concentration on that area has had a crippling effect on all German industry.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is noticeable that Toronto's anti-noise campaign will end on July 12.

Writing of the last war, a contemporary reminds us that we had the Italian army with us then. We've got quite a bit of it with us now.

Disturbing rumours reach us of thefts of drugs from doctor's cars. Particularly as the bottles are labelled "Not To Be Taken".

An African veteran says that breaking in mules can be most enjoyable work. We always knew you could get a kick out of it.

A worker complains that his foreman discharged him when he was found smoking on the job. Doesn't he know that there is no smoke without a fire?

We learn that football is played a good deal in Japan. And of course there is keen competition to score a few goals before the kick-off.

Attempting to get our watch repaired, we found that all the experts in the trade were swamped with work. Spring-cleaning, presumably.

A History In Pictures

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

FUTURE ages will be able learn much about us from contemporary photographs. The features of Adolf Hitler, for instance, will be as familiar to them as they are to most of us. They will be able to look at all the photographs of Hitler speaking, and walking and smiling; they will see him in the famous railway carriage at Compiegne where he imposed terms of armistice on the French; they will have a far more accurate record of what he actually looked like than they will have, let us say, of Napoleon. And yet a single fine portrait of Napoleon tells us more about him, in some important respects, than the folios of photographs will tell the future about Hitler. For a photograph—particularly a news photograph—is no more than a record of the outward appearance of a man or an event; a picture is all that, and in addition it is a comment on the man's character and an explanation of how he impressed his contemporaries.

DURING the past weeks I have been looking through a book called "Currier and Ives, Printmakers To The American People," which has been compiled by Mr. Harry Peters, who knows more about Currier and Ives prints than any other man alive, and who has a superb collection of them himself. Nathaniel Currier and James Merritt Ives produced, and sold, pictures of all sorts between 1835 and 1907, and their work gives us a wonderful insight into a great period of American history. The development of the continent, social habits, notable political events and mental attitudes are all reflected in these pictures with that extra emphasis, that artist's flair for capturing what is significant, which the camera cannot hope to achieve. For the greater part of a century the firm established by these gifted men sold cheap pictures to people who wanted something with which to decorate their walls. For a time the pictures were disregarded as crude and outmoded, but soon they were recognized as having both historical and artistic merit (for they are very skilfully printed) and are now collectors' pieces of value. Before the war a rare example sold for $3,000—a great price for a lithograph.

THE appeal of the prints was wholly popular; they were not produced for a public of delicate aesthetic sensibilities. The print of "Flora Temple," the trotting-horse, gives full information about her many triumphs and the stakes she won, and shows her in action, so that sportsmen might profitably study it. Of like appeal is "A Correct Likeness of Mr. H. Rockwell's Horse Alexander," apparently a favourite in 1840, the date of the picture. Another part of the public would want the picture of "The American Fireman—Always Ready," or "An American Railway Scene at Hornellsville, Erie Railway," a lively depiction of three trains with formidable cow-catchers and a great quantity of black smoke. For boxers there is a picture of the match between the Benicia Boy and Tom Sayers; the champion of England, a great combat of the bare-fist days. And a picture of a steamboat race on the Mississippi, between the Natchez and the Eclipse also served to advertise the popular melodrama "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

FOR decorating the front parlour a portrait of Queen Victoria was offered, for as a living symbol of respectability she would be especially appropriate to that room. Lincoln, as Republican candidate for sixteenth President of the United States is also a popular print, though its attempt to make that rugged countenance conform to the standards of male beauty of that day produces a rather comic picture. George Washington, unaccountably blue in the face, is another patriotic print. Suitable as a wedding present is "The Marriage," which shows a couple of almost other-worldly purity and elegance being united by a clergyman of radiant spirituality. The ingenious partners also produced a richly engraved Marriage Certificate, with a picture of a wedding, a space for the relevant entries, and two tables of Requirements of the Husband and Requirements of the Wife, the latter including an injunction to "submit yourselves unto your own husbands as unto the Lord." Indeed, Currier and Ives supplied printed matter for every possible event. A death in the family might be solaced by the reception of a print in which a bereaved couple weep over a tombstone, left blank for the name of the deceased to be written thereon. It is fair also to say that the more rowdy side of life was provided for, with pictures of "The Bloomer Costume," and "The Highland Fling" in which the ankle, then considered a highly erotic joint, is shamelessly displayed.

THERE are plenty of political pictures also, showing Lincoln boxing with Jefferson Davis, and beating him (for sale in the North), and Lincoln being fawned upon by upstart negroes (for sale in the South). Sarah Bernhardt is engraved for theatre lovers, and "The Bad Man At The Hour of Death" (threatened by a skeleton with a salmon fork) for the serious-minded. There are many pictures of fires, wrecks and disasters. Currier and Ives missed no opportunity, and, strictly in the way of business, produced a record of their time which would be hard to equal for comprehensiveness and liveliness.

This New World

We know, we Americans—Canadians and citizens of the United States alike—we know, not by instruction of books or by theoretical implication but by the American experience common to us both, that the basis of our lives on this continent is a moral basis. We know by our own seeing, of our own knowledge, that the community of attachment which creates a nation in America is a community not of common race and blood, for there is no common race or blood, nor of common economic or material interest for the economic and material interest is divided in itself, but only of attachment to a common principle—what Jefferson would have called a Proposition—and idea. We know, that America, whatever it may seem to those who think of it as cities or as farmers or mines or roads or grain or goods or metals, is in truth and in reality an idea. And that America—the idea which is America—the new world which was and is America—exists in the moral order of a moral world or nowhere.—From "A Time to Act," by Archibald MacLeish. Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, July 10 —(CP)—Probability that steps will be taken soon after the war ends to provide for amendments to the Canadian constitution without reference to the British Parliament are seen in statements this week by spokesmen for the four major political parties.

It is generally acknowledged that now is not the time to go into the problem. But the resolution adopted by parliament with a view of postponing redistribution of federal constituencies brought the matter into parliamentary debates.

These are extracts from the speeches of representatives of Liberal, Progressive Conservative, New Democracy and C.C.F. groups:—

Justice Minister St. Laurent—"I trust that there will be a system devised whereby it will be possible for us to deal here in our country with the problems which concern us....I hope ....a system (will be) found and made operative whereby things like this will not require even to be registered, for that is what it really amounts to, as the statute of another parliament."

Senator J. T. Haig (Prog. Con. Manitoba)—"What I have to suggest....is that at the beginning of next session we should appoint a committee of, say, 40 members....to discuss what amendments are needed in the British North America Act or any of its principles to make our efforts at reconstruction effective."

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D. MacLeod)—"....we now are a nation capable of running our own affairs; we should not therefore have to go to the parliament of the United Kingdom to change our constitution. That is my own view."

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader—"This (resolution) is a roundabout and dilatory way of doing something which we ought to be able to do in a direct way. The procedure of passing a resolution by this House and then by the Senate praying His Majesty to do something now is outmoded and entirely out-of-date."

Those taxes....

The page boys in the House of Commons don't think much of Finance Minister Ilsley's increased tax schedules. It's cut down their earnings.

Not their pay from the government, of course, but their tips have suffered. One young lad whose name we won't mention told us that tips used to average a couple of dollars a day for each page and now the're down to about 50 cents.

"Shucks, it isn't like it was in the old days," our informant moaned. "Back in '39 was good times for us. Up goes the income tax and down come the tips."

He volunteered the information that the "best tipper" in the House is G. G. McGeer (Lib. Vancouver Burrard).

When the House of Commons reconstruction committee met the other day, one of the witnesses was R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways. Paul Martin, parliamentary assistant to Labour Minister Mitchell and member for Ontario's Essex East riding, thought it a good time to campaign for a new station in Windsor.

Mr. Martin—"The one we've got is a damned disgrace."

Chairman Gray Turgeon (Lib. Cariboo)—"Do you want that on the record?"

Mr. Martin (with emphasis)—"Yes!"

One member who believes in advertising his home constituency is G. K. Fraser (Prog. Con. Peterborough West). Every year—this one was no exception—he sends every member of the press gallery a copy of the Peterborough Examiner's Annual Vacation issue, full of stories and photographs of that section of Ontario.

Sicily In History

(MANCHESTER GUARDIAN)

IF strategy brings British soldiers to Sicily it will not be for the first time. Behind the shield of the navy they, as Mr. Churchill might say, kept Sicily free of the infection of revolutionary principles and Napoleonic tyranny. In Egypt, in Cyrenaica, in Libya, and in Tunisia our men have been in intimate contact with antiquity, but none of these lands is richer than Sicily in historic memories. Geography for her has been destiny. An island and an island in the centre of the mother-sea of our ancient world, a bridgehead between Europe and Africa, the races, the faiths, and the civilizations of three continents have fought to possess her. The Phoenician merchant adventurers (so like our own of a later age) feeling their way towards the Atlantic planted their factories on the Sicilian coasts. Their daughter city Carthage turned factories into colonies and took over the burden of empire. It was with Greek rivals rather than with the natives that the conflict came, for the Greeks, if less of merchants, were even more of colonists. But until the torch passed to Athens, Greek Sicily was in the forefront of Greek achievement in art, in philosophy, in science. Sicily is studded with monuments of architectural beauty, and the long roll of Sicilian sages bears names illustrious even to our day: Empedocles, a precursor of Darwin—his name lingers in a port our bombers know; Pythagoras, the founder of a school of mathematicians and physicist; Archimedes, the type of the absorbed scientist. Even Plato came to Sicily to learn that it is easier for a king to be a tyrant than a philosopher. Nor was Sicily's political influence on the life of Old Greece less than her intellectual influence. It was at Syracuse that Athens sustained her mortal wound and the tyrants of Sicily helped to ruin Greek democracy.

After the Greeks came the Romans. They blotted out Carthaginian power and they made the island the prey of plundering proconsuls, her people a horde of slaves, her fields a granary for the conquerors. The decay of Rome brought in Gothic and Vandal rulers, these latter a kind of revenge from Carthage, the seat of their power; but the connection with the Hellenic Roman Empire of Byzantium was restored when Belisarius won Sicily for Justinian, and Sicily remained Greek under the new dispensation for many a century until the Saracens, with a brief interlude, put an end to their fitful rule. But the last word was not to be with the East. The Normans drove out the Saracens and made world history there. The subtle policy of their king made their state a fief of the papacy, a devise bodeful to mankind and ultimately fatal to his dynasty. Decisive battles in the struggle between Pope and Emperor were fought over Sicily and there in a sense the first Reich bit the dust. These Norman rulers were men of receptive genius and they tried to assimilate the various civilizations. Eastern and Western, Greek and Latin, which had fought for the soul of Sicily. It was fitting that that final effort should be made, however fleeting, before Spaniard and Bourbon established a tyranny which it needed a Garibaldi to break.

Highlanders have the habit, when speaking English, of interjecting the personal pronoun "he" when it is not required. A reverend gentleman in the North began his discourse thus:

"My dearly beloved brethren, you will find the subject of our discourse in the First Epistle General of Peter, the fifth chapter and the eighth verse: 'The devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about seeking whom he may devour.' Now, my brethren, with your leave we will divide the subject of the text into four heads. First, we shall endeavour to find out who the devil he was. Secondly, we shall enquire where the devil he was going. Thirdly, we shall ask ourselves who the devil he was seeking; and fourthly and lastly, we shall try to find out what the devil he was roaring at."

A Bible Message

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes....

As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread....

Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. (John 21: 2-6, 9, 13-17.)

Verbal Gymnastics

It used to be said that a speech that was eloquent in delivery would probably make dull, unconvincing reading, and that a speech that read well was no doubt a bore when delivered. Such dogmatic generalities are always suspect to the critical mind but they once had more truth in them than they have today. There was, for one thing, a much greater contrast between spoken and written language. The looser, colloquial manner of talk was considered altogether inappropriate for books and articles. These had a tradition of formality, dignity, and more complex sentence structure. Today, print is almost as conversational as talk, although it still should be more exact, discriminating, and varied in style....

Oratory and eloquence still exist, even in the grand manner with which they have been associated. What greater speaking has this generation heard than the majestic rhythms of Winston Churchill? And Daniel Webster and all the other great orators of previous generations may still be read with wonder and awe at their remarkable facility with the thrilling organ tones....

Nevertheless, the modern temper is one of intimacy, informality, directness, and practicality. Its language is sometime feeble, dry, and thin compared with the more ceremonial literacy of the past. On the other hand, the simpler language and short sentences of our day often achieve a sincerity, realism, force, and beauty that move us more than the striking verbal gymnastics of the old-time orators.—From "The Speaker's Notebook," by William G. Hoffman. (New York: Whittlesey House.)

Wild Mink Summer Sole

Esther Dorothy

Wild milk, its pelts worked wide and vertically, makes this knee length stole. More pelts are used for saddle lacing details which border the entire model.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A SHOW piece among new furs is the stole of wild mink which one woman designer who works with precious pelts recommends for Summer evenings when a chill breeze springs up.

Luxurious and even novel, this stole nevertheless is a practical possession, for fine mink is an investment very good to make when you can afford it, and a stole is just as warm and just as handy as the more familiar short fur jacket. This stole is shown here with a brown lace dinner dress.

Chiffon Dinner Dress

Chez Ninon

The top of this frock is black chiffon, the skirt canary yellow... both in double layers. The zigzag flounces adorning the skirt are of narrow frilled black lace.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

DOUBLE layers of chiffon give a shimmering softness to this dinner dress which has its own "jewelry" attached to it at wrists and high neckline, in the guise of gilt embroidery stitched in concentric circles with an Ubangi effect.

With its severely simple bodice and slim skirt which gives the appearance of much frou frou, this is a gown to be dressed up, or down, according to the formal demands of a gala evening.

Bride Wears Heirloom Lace At Stewart-Selkirk Wedding

TORONTO, July 10 — A lovely midsummer wedding took place on Thursday afternoon in Grace Church-on-the-Hill in Toronto, when Virginia Gloria, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Selkirk, became the bride of Captain Athole C. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Malcolm Stewart, of Lakefield, Ontario.

The church was decorated for the occasion with motifs of snow-white blooms, the Ionic pillars banked with masses of white delphinium, larkspur and shasta daises, and the urns filled with the same white flowers. Col. the Rev. Cecil Stuart performed the ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Godfrey Rideout.

Preceded by her sister, Mrs. Willian Winchell, as her only attendant, the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of ivory satin was modelled on slim-waisted princess lines with long sleeves and heart-shaped neck edged with needle lace. On each wrist was a tiny oak leaf of precious lace from a gown worn by Queen Victoria. Her veil was traditional, made of century-old Limerick lace and capping her hair with a narrow fillet of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of Joanna Hill roses, swansonia and stephanotis.

The maron of honor wore a floor-length gown of mist-rose crepe with cape sleeves, small hat clustered with roses and haloed with veiling. Her bouquet was of blue delphinium and pink roses. Mr. Donald Selkirk, brother of the bride, was the groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 5 Glenwillow Place, where a marquee was set up in the garden. Receiving with the bride and groom were their parents, the brid'es mother wearing a becoming floor-length gown of French coral crepe with small grey hat with veil, and corsage of Joanna Hill roses and blue delphinium. Mrs. Stewart chose a powder blue gown with white hat, and had a corsage of pink roses and white bouvardia.

The bride's table was decorated with low bowls of pink and blue flowers.

The couple left later for a short wedding trip, after which the groom will rejoin his regiment. For travelling the bride changed to a smart navy blue frock patterned with large white coin dots and topped by a fitted coat of matching crepe. wtih it she wore a small calot hat of navy grosgain with a winged bow across the front, and her accessories were in the same navy blue.

Members of W.V.S. Hear Reports Of Convention

Mrs. W. S. Fanning was appointed delegate from Peterborough to attend the first conference to be held by the W. V. S. in Ottawa, and the local W. V. S. met on Wednesday evening to hear a report of the proceedings.

One of the highlights was the address given by H. R. H. Princess Alice, wife of the Governor General, who spoke of the W. V. S. in Great Britain, and of its growth and value to the nation. Emphasis was placed on the co-ordiniation of volunteer effort through W. V. S. centres and the training of volunteers. The speakers suggested that the volunteers would not only do their present job better, but would be better fitted for post-war activity if trained.

Papers wer given on The Consumer Branch of the W. P. T. B. and "Nutrition Services." In a talk on wartime day nurseries and their value to the nation, the speaker held that where there are 20 mothers engaged in war industries and requiring care for their children, a day nursery should be established.

Post-war planning was discussed and many of the programs for the rehabilitation of men and women in the armed services, were discussed. The working of the "Block Plan" was also discussed. It is hoped that through the co-operation of Lady Reading, founder of the W. V. S. in Great Britain, a few W. V. S. members will go to England in the not distant future and study the British methods at close range.

Sterilization Is Important In All Canning

The chief points emphasized by Miss Rogers, of the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture, in her canning demonstration at lecture on Friday evening at the Y.W.C.A., were that sugar does not preserve fruit, that everyone should try at least some preserving without sugar; that jams and jellies, as a means of preserving fruit, were out for the duration, because of their sugar requirements; and that everybody should can or preserve fruit in some way because we need to save as much as possible.

Miss Rogers said that canning, always an important part of the housewife's program, had become doubly important due to the necessity to preserve as much of the fruit crop as possible, and the impending scarcity of commercially canned goods, due to the shortage of labour and tin. The question of how to stretch the 10 pounds of sugar per person as far as possible creates many problems, and spoilage of preserves, which was once merely a disappointment, has become a tragedy.

She said that proper sterilization and processing, not sugar, preserved fruit. Sugar preserves the color and flavor and is mildly antiseptic but it is most important to be sure that containers are properly sterilized and air-tight in order to preserve the fruit, in addition to preserving the color, flavor and food-value.

The equipment needed for fruit preserving is not elaborate, the most important being a means of sterilizing the jars. Miss Rogers recommended two methods of sterilization. The oven method, in which the jars are placed dry in a pan in the oven which is heated to 275 degrees, and the boiler method, in which the jars, half full of water, are place in a kettle in which water reaches half way up the jars, and boiled on top of the stove. In the latter method, the water in the jars should be poured out but the sealers should not be dried, as the touch of even a clean tea-towel makes the glass unsterile. A rack in the bottom of the kettle keeps the sealers from the bottom and prevents cracking through over heating.

Miss Rogers used screw-top sealers, the most common type for her demonstration, and she left the glass tops and zinc rings on the jars while sterilizing them, in order that each ring might be returned it its own jar. She issued a warning about the war-grade rubber rings, saying that they should not be stretched, as they do not return to their original size; and should not be boiled, but should have boiling water poured over them and be allowed to stand for five minutes. She did not recommend using the rings a second time, but said it had been done successfully, and that if a housewife wished to do this, she should wash and dry them, and lay them flat in some container. Hanging them on a hook stretches them out of shape.

The ordinary method of canning fruit, has always been to use a syrup, but Miss Rogers once more emphasized the fact that sugar does not preserve the fruit. Two syrups were recommended, a thin and a medium. Thick syrups, which require a great deal of sugar, are naturally not practical just now. Fruit should be garden fresh, as fruit which has been picked and allowed to stand around before being preserved, is exposed to the micro-organisms which cause spoilage, and has lost some of its vitamin content, which is one of the most important reasons for preserving it, through exposure to the air. Fruit for canning should be free from bruises and blemishes and should be neither green nor over-ripe.

There are two chief methods of processing fruit, the pre-cooking and the cold-pack method. Miss Rogers recommended the pre-cook method for larger fruit such as plums, peaches and pears, as it ensured the fruit being cooked properly, which is essential to preservation; and the cold pack for small soft fruit, such as raspberries. One advantage of the pre-cook methods is that it shrinks the fruit slightly, thus permitting a closer pack. To prove this, Miss Rogers had two sample jars of cherries, one done by each method, and the difference was surprising.

Miss Rogers demonstrated three canning methods yesterday evening. A jar of raspberries was done by the cold pack method, and cooked in the oven. A jar of cherries, also cooked in the oven, was done without sugar, the only liquid in the jar being the juice pressed from the fruit itself. Although pressed, and not suitable for table, fruit preserved in this way is excellent for pies and puddings. A jar of tomatoes, cold-packed in tomato juice was cooked by the boiling method, the jar being placed in a kettle large enough to permit the water to be one inch deep over the top of the jar. All the fruit remained whole in the jars, and was beautiful color after flavouring. It was noticeable throughout the demonstration that Miss Rogers kept all her equipment sterile and took care not to handle the sterilized rubber rings or touch the inside of sealers or their glass tops.

Miss Rogers did not recommend home canning of vegetables other than tomatoes, unless the canner possessed a pressure cooker. She said, however, that it had been done successfully, but warned that home-canned vegetables, even when canned in a pressure cooker, should be cooked for 10 minutes or more before even tasting.

Interesting bulletins issued by the Department of Agriculture were given out, containing complete table and instructions for canning, but there were unfortunately, not enough to go around. More are expected from Ottawa, and when they arrive will be placed at the Y.W.C.A., the W.V.S. and Red Cross headquarters, and several grocery stores. The demonstration was sponsored by the Red Cross and the W.V.S. and Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president of the W.V.S., introduced the speaker.

PREDICTION KIND OF HUSBAND MAN WILL MAKE REAL PUZZLE
Romeos Turn Into Grouches; Pampered Son Never Thinks Wife Appreciates Him.

A girl wants to know how she can tell, before she takes him on for better or worse, what sort of a husband a boy will make. Well, there are no certain rules for judging the critters, for a sweetheart is one thing and a husband is another, and often there is so little resemblance between the two that they seem to belong to different species of fauna. In the end every woman who gets married does it at her own risk, and the most she can do is to make a guess at what she is getting and keep her fingers crossed for luck.

A girl may, for instance, think that she is getting her heart's desire when she marries a chap who is a great lover, and that she will spend the balanace of her life swathed in romance and fed upon honeyed words of endearment. He may have spent hours upon hours telling her how beautiful and wonderful she is and how different from all other women, and how she fills his every ideal of feminine perfection. He may have sworn his devotion by all his gods, and told her that if she would marry him he would spend the balance of his life worshipping at her feet.

Marriage Causes Change.

And then, as soon as the marriage ceremony was said over them, he may have suffered a change and become one of the husbands who take their wives for granted and expect them to know that they are still loved because they don't get fired.

Plenty of Romeos turn into grouches as soon as they are married and instead of quoting passionate poetry to their wives bat them for the kind of coffee they make, and tell them they are getting fat. Maybe they use up their whole available supply of sentiment in the days of courtship. You never can tell. But a lot of married women never get a compliment unless a strange man pays it to them.

Every girl wants a husband who

Allison-Stevenson Wedding Pretty George St. Ceremony

Delphinium and lilies adorned George Street United Church, Friday evening for the wedding of Evelyn Isabelle, daughter of Mr. William H. Stevenson, 506 Charlotte Street, to Mr. Harvey Thomas Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Allison. Rev. H. L. Roberts performed the ceremony, for which Miss Lenore Skitch was at the organ, and during tht signinig of the register, Mr. Art Jones sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of blush satin with a shirred bodice, sweetheart neck-line, and a full skirt falling gracefully to a train. Her embroidered silk net veil hung from a Dutch halo and she carried a shower bouquet of bettertime roses and bouvardia. Mrs. J. Phillips, wearing a floor-length dress of pink with satin bodice and a full double net skirt, was matron of honor, and Miss Shirley Thorndyke was bridemaid in a similar gown of apricot and satin and net. Both wore matching Dutch haloes and carried bouquets of delphinium and briarcliff roses.

Mr. Fred Allison was best man and the ushers were Mr. Ross Stevenson and Mr. Warren Smith.

At the reception held at Hooper's, Mrs. Henderson, a friend of the family, received in a gown of dusty rose with a black velvet hat. She was assisted by Mrs. Allison, mother of the groom, who also wore dusty rose and black.

For the wedding trip to Niagara and Toronto, the bride wore dusty roses, two-piece suit with white accessories. They will live at 506 Charlotte Street.

Brintons Are Too Much For Marines

Scoring in every innings and climaxing their attack with an 11-run splurge in the seventh, the Brintons swamped Johnson Motors 42 to 10 in a Girls' Softball League game at the Bowl, Friday evening.

The Outboards were shy a couple of regulars, including pitcher Lillian Fowler and they hadn't much of a chance against the Brintons who were hitting the ball hard and taking advantage of every slip.

Led by Marg. Batley who cracked out half a dozen hits and scored eight runs the winners opened out with two runs in the first inning and when they added five in the second and six in the third, the game was gone beyond repair so far as the Johnson girls were concerned. Brintons kept on scoring, getting their peak innings in the seventh when 11 runners crossed the plate and adding eight more in the ninth to make the thing complete.

The Outboards had a little fun anyway in the sixth when they managed to score five runs off Dot Laver who pitched most of the game for Brintons. They finished up by getting three more in the ninth at the expense of Doris Walker who wound up the game for the winners.

Gunners Are Held To Seven Hits

Catcher Holly Mowry of Genelecs staged a one-man blitz at Riverside Park, Friday evening as Ted Johnston's team slapped down the 4th Battery to the tune of 11 to 4 in a City League game. All the big backstop of the Genelecs did was to slam Genelecs' pitcher had the losers unbash a long triple, to score another run in the second and plant a Texas Leaguer double into left in the sixth to drive in two more markers.

Winning his second game of the week Ronnie Akers held the hard-hitting Gunners to seven blows, no two to any one player. With fine support from his teammates the Gelelecs pitcher had the losers under control most of the way and blanked them the last six innings.

Bob Crowe went the route for the Battery and although he only yielded two more hits than his opponent, he gave six passes and extra base drives were mixed with fielding lapses by Crowe's supporting cast to pile up the score.

Mowry with three hits in four offical appearances led the winners, his blows being good for a total of nine bases and driving in six runs, Holmes and Akers came through with two hits each. None of the losers had more than one safe rap.

Galloping catches of two short flies to centre field by the veteran Jack Playford were a fielding feature. Joe Stewart also fielded smartly in centre for the losers while the work of Hawks at third for Genelecs and Heal at short for the Gunners stood out. L. Burton, after a tough night, finally wound up with a fine grab of McNabb's long drive in the seventh with the bases loaded.

Mowry opened up the assault in first inning. McNabb walked and Holmes singled to left. Tucker rolled to Heal who tagged NcNabb on the line. Then Mowry crashed a homer down the right field line sending Holmes and Tucker in ahead of him.

Playford walked and Akers was safe on Jones' fumble. Hawks rolled to Heal who got Playford on the line and Giardino flied to Stewart.

Battery came back with a pair in the first of the second. Starr opened with a single to right and Stewart cut a single into the same field, Starr going to third and Stewart taking second on the throw. Ellis was out on a good stop by Holmes at first, the runners being held. Vitarelli singled to left, scoring Starr and Stewart but Jones struck out and Crowe popped to Holmes. The winners got those back in their half. With two out Holmes doubled to left and scored when Tucker's roller got away from Vitarelli. Mowry promptly tripled to left centre to send Tucker in. Playford was tossed out by Vitarelli.

In the first of the third Battery closed the gap a bit. Heal singled to right, Pryde walked and Burton was safe on a nerror on his bunt to fill the bases.

Starr hit to Holmes who fired to the plate to nip Heal. Akers cut loose with a wild pitch scoring Pryde and Stewart's fly to Playford in centre allowed Burton to score. Ellis popped out.

A stolen base enabled Genelecs to score a single run in the third. With one out Hawks doubled to left. He caught the Gunners having a nap and stole third with the result that he was ready to score when Giardino lofted to Stewart in centre.

A walk to Tucker and Burton's error on Akers' single to left gave the winners another marker in the sixth to make it 7 to 4 and they added two more in the seventh on walks to McNabb and Tucker and Mowry's double.

The scoring ended in the seventh when Genelecs ran their total up to eleven by registering twice. Akers was safe when Heal threw high to first and Burton muffed Hawks' liner to put two on. Giardino singled to centre filling the bases, Crowe walked Moorhead to force in Akers and Hawks came home on NcNabb's long fly to Burton who made a fine catch. Holmes forced Giardino at third and in turn was forced at second by Tucker.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The executive of the City Softball League, when they set out to stage a benefit game, go the whole distance and always designate one of the feature contests in the schedule. Last season over $150 was raised for war charities in this way. The opening game of the present campaign was named as a benefit for the British War Victims' Fund and that splendid cause received $50 as a result. Now the executive has set apart next Tuesday night's battle between the Military Training Centre and the 4th Battery for the Greek War Relief Fund and every cent of the proceeds will be turned over to help our gallant allies. This game which will have an important effect upon the race for the leadership shapes up as likely to be one of the hardest-fought and most exciting games of the entire season. Last time out the Gunners took the Camp team but the latter hope to reyerse the decision in Tuesday's tussle. There is keen rivalry between the outfits and the whole setup stamps it as one of the highlights of the campaign. With a chance to help in a most worthy effort and at the same time see one of the best fixtures of the season, the summer's biggest crowd should be at Riverside Park when the two outfits tie into each other. It is a natural and the Greek War Relief Fund should cash in handsomely.

Monday night's softball menu calls for the Genelecs to meet an improved Cardinal team in the Men's Softball loop at Riverside Park and the Brinton and Johnson Motor girls who clashed last night to go back at each other in a league fixture in the Girls' loop at the Bowl. The Cards have been practicing faithfully all week in preparation for their argument with Ted Johnston's team and they predict they will give the Genelecs a much tougher battle than on the last occasion. The C.G.E. team, of course, need the win and they are not selling the Cards short. The game in the Girls' series is one that should have been played earlier in the season but Johnson Motors had to ask for a postponement at that time and the Generals filled in the date in their stead. The understanding was then that the Motors would substitute for the Generals in Monday night's fixture to keep the schedule straight. Both these games are billed to start at 7 o'clock sharp.

Best Card Of Season

Frank Tunney is evidently out to make next Monday's wrestling card the best bill of the season. Not satisfied with matching Whipper Bill Watson and Irish Pat Flanagan in a bout for the British Empire title he has secured roughhouse Al Bunny Dunlop to meet Toar Morgan the fighting Marine and will send Doc Felice, rowdy Yugo-Slav grappler in against the new Golden Greek, George Tofalos. And, neighbors, should provide all kinds of action from the first skirmish to the final fall. The leatherneck who saw action at Guadalcanal won one of the most popular triumphs of the season here last week when he threw big Jerry Monohan and there is no doubt he will be a favorite against Dunlop who acts mean enough to toss his grandmother over the ropes. Felice who meets the Greek star had little chance to show his stuff against the Blimp but he will propably provide plenty of thrills in his clash with Tofalos who comes with a high reputation. As for the main bout that spells class all the way. With Whipper Billy Watson defending his title against a challenger who has the qualities to make the champ exert himself all the way, the fans should see some of the fastest, most skilful and toughest wrestling yet uncorked here. The general opinion is that Flanagan will need more than a mule kick to deprive the Whipper of his British Empire championship but it is admitted that the Toronto Irishman has power and deception and that he will make the champion produce his best stuff to take the bout. All of which makes for a formidable argument.

Sport Scribe Bill Walshe of Kingston has the following interesting comment on the hockey situation where it has been announced there will be no army team next winter: "There may be more in the disbanding of hockey at the Cornwall army camp than is noticed in the declaration by Col. Larose that the soldiers of his settlement would not play senior next season. A few days before Col. Larose issued his order Lex Cook, coach of the Cornwall soldiers, was quoted in Ottawa as favoring a grouping with Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa and other Ontario teams. The rush of James McCaffrey and Clare Brunton, Ottawa hockey bosses, to Cornwall for a conference hints there may be more startling news. Cornwall's disappearance from the Quebec hockey loop is important to Kingston and until further information on puck plans is learned it will be impossible to guess if the future will be good or bad. Cornwall was co-operating with Kingston in many ways to promote hockey for the troops, in fact Red McAtee, Cornwall's spare goaler last season, transferred for training in Kingston when Kingston was fresh out of goal-tenders. Other service switches, that would not interfere with regular army training, were hinted for next winter, but now with Cornwall out of hockey it may be all different. Col. Larose was quoted as saying that "it was bad taste to build a hockey club in a Canadian military establishment now that the war is approaching a more serious phase." There would not appear to be any need of building a team in Cornwall with the following already stationed at the basic training camp: Bas Bastien, Jack Church, Jack Riley, George Ritchie, Steve Latoski, Bud Poile, Jerry Brown, Punch Imlach, Red Hamill, Nick Knott, Chuck Corrigan, Johnny Shewchuk, Red Tilson, Ron Nelson, Frank Mario, Sammy Fasano, Bobby Laurent, Johnny O'Flaherty and several others."

Cooper Back In Form

Brooklyn staged a fighting finish by scoring four runs in the tenth innings to beat the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday but in spite of the fact that the Bums did pull that game out of the fire it was not an especially good day for them. The reason? Well Mort Cooper after a little spot of trouble in a couple of games recently gave emphatic notice yesterday that he is right back in form by pitching a master-piece of a shutout against the Boston Braves. The Cardinal ace only allowed three hits in applying the whitewash and that means that the pitching end of the famous Cooper battery is hot again and that will scarcely be recorded in Brooklyn under the heading of good news. Brooklyn had quite a game with the iPrates by the way and until they suddenly came through with that rally in the tenth the game seemed to be securely in the Pittsburg bag. Chicago Cubs and the Giants had an extra inning argument, too, the Cubs winning 5 to 3.

* * * * * *

Detroit Tigers, about the hottest club in the American loop right now gained half a game at the expense of the idle Yanks yesterday by blanking the Athletics 4 to 0 on the strength of a neat four-hitter by little Hal White. The victory leaves the Bengals only two games behind the leaders. Tex Hughson, Boston Red Sox ace made the mistake of tossing a home-run ball to Mike Chartrak in the ninth innings and the St. Louis player's circuit clout gave the Browns a 5 to 4 win, after Boston had come through with a three-run rally in the ninth to tie the score. Another hard luck pitcher was Jim Bagby of the Cleveland Indians. Bagby pitched shutout ball against a relay of Washington pitchers for 12 innings and finally was beaten out in the 13th with the Pirates by the way and until they suddenly came through with ning run.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Sarnia Imperials, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions for nine consecutive years, announced their withdrawal from competition for the duration of the war three years ago to-day. The Imperials produced many outstanding players including Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, and Ormond Beach, killed in an accident in 1936. They were Dominion champions in 1934 and 1936.

Whipper Rates Among The Big Stars

Whipper Billy Watson will defend his British Empire championship against Irish Pat Flanagan in the Brock St. Arena on Monday night. And that means a high-class wrestling bout in the real meaning of the phrase. Watson has been the sensation of the Eastern mat circuit during the past year or so, and has climaxed a thrilling run to the top by annexing the Empire Crown. The Whipper is regarded in most of the expert mat circles as the coming choice for the next world's champion. He has the build, speed, and wrestling sense to mark him out as a great wrestler and in his recent trip down through Boston and the New England States and New York the Whip smashed down all the opposition the American promoters could throw at him.

But good and all as Watson undoubtedly is, he will find a mighty tough nut to crack in Flanagan. The Toronto Irishman has been begging for a match with the Empire champion for some time and his recent successes both in Toronto and Buffalo have indicated that he will give Whipper Billy a stern test. With both men the very ideal of clean-cut fast moving wrestlers it should be a classic.

That Fighting Marine, Wilbur Toar Morgan will be back on Monday's card and this time takes on the obstreperous Bunny Dunlop. Morgan disposed of big Jerry Monohan the other night in fine Marine style, and the Guadacanal hero is quite willing to try out against Strongman Dunlop.

Doc. Tony Felice will meet the new "Little Golden Greek" George Tofalos in the third match.

With the new price policy it looks as if the Brock Arena will be a popular place next Monday night.

HEAT LOSS. .DOLLAR LOSS. .WAR LOSS!

Heat waste is an unpleasant extravagance at best. Today it's a costly drag on wartime production and transportation. And it's an extravagance your Bond-buying budget can't afford.

Save fuel for your country and money for yourself by installing JOHNS-MANVILLE Insulation. This fine insulation will cut your fuel consumption as much as 30% . . . it soon pays for itself in fuel savings alone!

By insulating now, you get the added benefit of a more comfortably cool home this summer!

Notice To Users Of . . .
Boorman's Beverages

We ask your kind indulgence if, the next time you call for Kist Beverages or Pepsi-Cola, you find your dealer all out. Rationing of sugar has limited us in meeting the tremendous demands for these favorite drinks.

The Sugar Administrator has limited the sugar that can be used in manufacturing beverages to substantially less than that was used in 1941. Since the demands for Kist and Pepsi-Cola has increased far beyond 1941 sales, this means that we find it impossible to fill the demands for your favorite drinks.

We will continue to supply all the drinks that government regulations on pure sugar will allow. The great demands for Boorman's Beverages may, however, occasionally cause your dealer's stock to run out. Whenever this occurs, we ask you to kindly bear with us in the same patriotic spirit that we all undertake to support necessary war measures.

Remember that whatever happens, the present high quality of our drinks will not be impaired.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM BUFFALO BISONS

Take First Game Score 2-1 Second Game 5-3

By The Associated Press.

George Barley was back at his Buffalo war job this morning— as he has been without fail on virtually every work day this spring and summer—after having put in a full day there yesterday and then pitching a nine-inning International League contest after work.

Barley is one of the few war workers who is making a success of spasmodic appearances in professional sport although he was charged with Buffalo's 5-3 loss to the league-leading Toronto Leafs in the second game of last night's doubleheader. The Leafs took the first game, 2-1.

He was defeated last night by a two-run Toronto outburst in the ninth after Harry Davis homered in the seventh to tie the score at 3-all.

Many Close Calls.

The battling was nip and tuck from start to finish. Umpires Solodare and Kennedy had their troubles as a flock of close decisons bobbed up through the elegance of fielding form shown by the Bisons.

George Barley was foiled in an effort to capture his fourth victory in five starts since opening his comeback and still maintaining his defense plant post. The Leafs broke through for victory in the ninth of the second game after a home run smash by Harry Davis gave them a deadlock in the seventh.

Dewey "Dood It".

A double by Dewey Williams, with one away in the last frame, led to Barley's demise. Gus Dugas batted for Luke Hamlin and begged a pass. Zak drove a safety to left and Williams scored while Dugas raced to third when Deweese fumbled the ball. Dugas finished the journey after Kobesy hauled in Handley's long fly.

Hamlin held the Bisons to six hits, two of them dotting the opening inning when the Bisons galloped off to a two-run margin. He also issued his only walk in this round to Eddie Turchin first to face him. Outlaw followed with a double and after two hands were retired, Smith also stroked a two-bagger to score both mates. The final run off Hamlin was unearned due to an error by Davis in the sixth.

Jack Tising, although limping visibly from a recent leg injury, gave Nick Strincevich a valiant tussle before the Toronto hurler edged out his 10th victory of the campaign and his local foe was prevented from reaching the same total in the opener, which the Leafs took by a 2 to 1 margin.

Strincevich allowed only six hits, two of them by Tising, who also drove in the lone local tally, and failed to issue a single pass.

Tising had more than his usual share of trouble in the early stages as the Leafs grouped seven of their 10 blows in the first four heats, and his principal grief was caused by the bats of Harry Davis and Al Rubeling, each of whom enjoyed a perfect game.

Alert and brilliant support by his mates saved Tising more trouble as the Leafs sought to take liberties on the bags during scoring chances popping up in the early frames.

Davis smashed three singles in as many tries, while Rubeling coupled a double and single with a sacrifice to keep his record immaculate. A walk to Ripple led to the first enemy marker in the second. Rubeling sacrificed, and two successive singles by Davis and Williams brought the tally.

While Toronto added two more victories to its win column, Newark kept in the race by downing Baltimore, 2-1, but Montreal lost distance when Gerry Burmeister homered with two mates on in the seventh to give Rochester a 6-3 decision. Syracuse's Milard Howell stopped Jersey City with three hits, winning 1-0, over Ken Trinkle.

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP). — Another Edmonton softballer could not resist the chance to be a glammer girl. Kay Heim, 25-year-old catcher, has signed with the All-American Girls' Professional League operating in the Chicago suburbs. This one should be easy for Kay. She started her career at the tender age of 12 as a catcher for the Edmonton Eskimos girls' hardball team......It's a terrible shock to discover that Porky Levine is sipping the dregs and at the comparatively early age of 35. Porky came out of Timmins, Ont., in 1929 to make quite a name as a professional hockey goalkeeper. He withdrew gracefully from hockey, took a job in the Vancouver shipyards. Now perish the thought, Porky is reported to be sports columnist of the Boilermakers' Weekly. A sports columnist? Shudder. Shudder.

Ah, woe.

Baz O'Meara, deft word-wielder of the Montreal Star, labels the write "Cassandra of the CP" for a recent off-day sob that sport is dead in Canada. Is it an omen that Baz apparently forgot old Cassie was never wrong?

Incidentally:

Alberta sports writers squelch flatly the rumors that Edmonton and Calgary may enter a revised Western Interprovincial Football Union this fall. They say senior football is definitely "out" for this year....Johnny Mielko of Hamilton, Ont., signed a professional baseball contract with the Hamilton Pony League club last season. Now he's back home—because he's too small. He played a few games this year with Jamestown, then went to Batavia in the Pony League. In his first game there he played third base, collected one hit in three attempts. Not bad. But it was his last game. Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland scout, was in the stands and informed the Batavia manager Mielko was too small for big league ball....How to be happy though rich: Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette, reports the eminent railway president, D. C. Coleman, lines up with the two-dollar punters at Montreal tracks. Obviously there is more pleasure in losing two skins than $200.

Detroit Tigers Threaten Yankees' Lead

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Detroit Tigers, in a drive reminiscent of their surge to the 1940 pennant, may oust New York Yankees from first place in the American League this week-end.

Victorious in 11 of their last 13 starts the aroused Bengals have zoomed into second place only two games behind the pace-setting Yanks. With the New Yorkers and the third place Chicago White Sox listed to slug it out in doubleheaders to-day and to-morrow, the Tigers could take over the lead by sweeping the three-game series with Philadelphia even if the Yanks win one.

Led by Manager Steve O'Neill, the Tigers already have beaten the A's twice, their latest conquest over Connie Mack's hirelings being a 4-0 shutout last night. Hal White twirled a four-hitter, permitting only two Mackmen to pass first.

In the National League, meantime, Mort Cooper of the first place St. Louis Cardinals set down Boston Braves with three singles for a 7-0 shutout.

Brooklyn temporarily staved off Pittsburg's challenge for second place by coming from behind twice to beat the Pirates 8-7 in a wild and woolly game.

Squeeze play brought Washington a 1-0 13-inning triumph over Cleveland after Dutch Leonard and Jim Bagby hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel for 12 innings.

Manager Joe Cronin again socked a homer as a pinch hitter, but his effort went for naught when Mike Chartak connected for ninth inning homer to give the St. Louis Browns a 5-4 win over Boston Red Sox.

Ernie Lombardi, husky Giant catcher, went on a rampage at the Polo Grounds, hitting four singles and a homer in five times at bat. All his effort accomplished, however, was to force Chicago Cubs to go 12 innings before winning, 5-3, on Bill Nicholson's triple.

Cincinnati whacked out six runs in a big sixth inning to come from behind and beat the Phillies 11-4.

Yankees and White Sox were idle.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10—(CP)—It wasn't announced at the time, but Jackie Paterson, midget Scot with the Canadian equivalent of $10,550 as his share of the purse when he won the world's flyweight boxing crown. Peter Kane, the one-time Liverpool blacksmith Jackie knocked kicking in 51 seconds, excluding the final 10-count, pocketer a fraction more than $7,000 for his brief appearance.

Held in gigantic Hampden Park football grounds in Patterson's home town of Glasgow, the fight attracted a crowd of 30,000, including several hundred who paid $23. each for ringside seats. Proceeds, barring purses and expenses, were turned over to war funds by the Glasgow Corporation which ran the tournament.

Neither fighter had much to say to newspapermen in their dressing rooms after what probably was the shortest world title bout in history. "I thought it would be quick, but not that quick," said peaky-faced Paterson, who not only took the world championship but retained his British and Empire titles. Said Kane: "I'm sorry."

The fight was recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission and the British Boxing Board of Control as for the world championship.

In normal times 23-year-old Jackie would be able to make a highly-successful financial tour of the United States and Canada. Now he'll have to wait for the end of the war and for discharge from the Royal Air Force where he's a sergeant physical training instructor. He never has fought outside of Britain.

Hardest hit of all games in Britain by restriction is tennis. Dozens of clubs are closing because balls just can't be had and there'll be little civilian tennis this summer.

Utmost manufacturers can do now is to clean and reinflate the old ones. But since the cloth may not be renewed—and it's the cloth that wears first—the life of a ball isn't prolonged much.

About the only high-class tennis in Britain nowadays comes in Red Cross matches where several of the best players in the coutry, including Canada's former Davis Cupper, Flt. Lt. Walter Martin of Toronto, meet up. Even then they're allowed but three balls a court.

The moral is that a tennis-minded fellow coming over from Canada should stick a few tennis balls in his kit bag.

Score one for the ladies: Pam Barton, British Women's golf champion, hit a 280-yard drive in a charity game to outdrive W. J. Cox, Wimbledon Park professional and a noted long hitter, and Percy Alliss, another of Britain's good linksmen. Cox admitted rather ruefully that it was the first time he had been outdriven by a woman.

Here and There in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

"I think baseball should continue by all means," declared Tyrus Raymond Cobb who, as the Georgia Peach, served the Detroit Tigers in a brilliant playing capacity and later for two decades manager. Cobb, one of the greatest of the great in the diamond sport, declared he saw no reason why the game should not survive in wartime.

The immortal Ty was taking exception to a declaration by an old opponent, Herman (Babe) Ruth, who recently expressed the view that major league baseball might fold before the current season is ended and the two circuits could not operate next year in any event.

Now the 56-year-old former Tiger, in an interview at Detroit, comes out with the statement that at least some of the clubs would make more money this year than under normal conditions, pointing to the saving effected, in one respect alone, in training the teams close to the home base last Spring.

Turned Down

For the third time, 22-year-old Frank Hiller, pitcher of the Newark Bears, has been turned down for service in the U.S. armored forces, the reason being described as a derangement of the left knee. Previously he had tried to enlist in the Navy and the Marines.

Heavy Entry List

The annual Hamilton and district ladies two-ball foursome to be held Monday at the Glendale Golf and Country club has brought many entries from Guelph, Burlington, Ancaster, Dundas and St. Catharines, as well as Hamilton. One of the favored contenders is Mrs. Clifton Shuttleworth who will be playing on her home course.

Joining Army

Bad news hit the Stratford Nations, in the Intercounty Senior Baseball Circuit, once more with the notification that Robert (Zeke) Burt was departing for service with the Canadian Army. Burt, right-handed mound recruit, had made good in this, his first season with the Nats.

Three Pirates on Lineup

Another change has been made in the picked team of the American League for the all-star contest at Philadelphia Tuesday night in the replacement of Frank McCormick of Cincinnati, through injury, by First Baseman Elbie Fletcher of Pittsburgh. With Vince DiMaggio and pitcher Rip Sewell, there are now three Pirates on the N.H.L. line-up.

After Big Purse

The five-year-old Market Wise, once picked up by Lou Tufano for $500, is making a bid for another big purse at Jamaica today in $30,000-added Butler Handicap against nine other starters. The son of Broker's Tip last Monday grabbed the Massachusetts handicap at Boston which gave him $39,650—or about four times more than he had earned previously in his checkered career.

One War Settled

"So sorry," was the pith of a statement from President William D. Cox of the Philadelphia Nationals yesterday with reference to his complaints against President Ford Frick of the National League in respect to the latter's method of interpretating baseball rules in game protests involving the Phillies. Previously Cox said he had no faith in Frick. Yesterday the club prexy declared: "I have the highest regard for Mr. Frick's personal integrity and would be the last person to question it." One war has been settled.

16-0 Win

In a Niagara senior hardball session at Niagara Falls, the locals trounced Crowland Union Jacks to the tune of 16-0, touching three visiting moundsmen for 16 hits. Pitcher Jiggs Rufrane of the Cataract crew permitted but two of the Jacks to reach third base.

Britons Warned Be No Walk Over

LONDON, July 10 — (CP Cable) —Coincident with publication of first news of the Sicilian invasion by Canadian, British and American soldiers, London evening newspapers to-day editorially warned that the attack may be costly.

"We must be prepared for losses" said the Star. "There must be no deluding ourselves with hopes of speedy occupation of Mussolini's front-door island. For though this is Italy, it is also Hitler's outer gateway and the Nazis have shown every determination to hold it."

New Phase Has Opened.

An entirely new phase of the war has opened, the paper added, for now the defenders of North Africa have become the invaders of Europe with a task dwarfing that which Rommel failed to do.

"We now have shouldered the supreme task," the Star continued. "We have the strength and faith to see it through. Here far from the new battlefield we can but work for the men enshrined in our hearts."

The Standard declared: "We are committed to an historic, hazardous adventure in which there will be setbacks to mourn as well as successes to praise, and from which there can be no turning back."

Sicily in terms of population was rated by the Standard as important to Italy as Scotland is to Britain.

Dedicate Everything.

The Standard added: "To the gravest, grandest cause in mankind's story, the cause of freedom's survival to which they (the fighting men) give their lives, we now dedicate all we have and are."

The News said: "No easy victory lies ahead. Let us get that conviction firmly into our minds. This is a stern business of invading a large country, well defended and alive to a prospect with which it now is faced. It is a hazardous and complicated duty."

Subsidy Plan Becomes Law

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 10 —(CP). —United States' 78th Congress was free today after a lengthy session historic for its unity on mustering the country's resources for war but hectic in its ability to see eye-to-eye with the administration on domestic problems.

Close of the session for the first long recess since the United States entered the war was marked by the termination of the biggest Congress-versus - the - President fight in years. And it ended with a resounding Presidential victory.

Clashing over the President-backed subsidy plan, similar to the one that in Canada has helped keep down the cost of living, Congress last night, with only a few minutes of their session remaining, gave in and allowed the subsidy measure to become law.

This retreat from their previous stand—one of outlawing subsidies—my mean a great deal to Canada and the Canadian price control system. Had the administration failed in its fight to control food prices by means of a subsidy, the whole price system of the United States might have been placed in jeopardy, with subsequent repercussions on the Canadian economy.

7 Young Airmen Are Killed In Training

CALGARY, July 10 (CP)-Seven Royal Air Force students were killed and one R.C.A.F. student injured in three plane crashes in the last 24-hours, No. 4 Air Training Command announced here today.

The next-of-kin have been notified and names of the airmen will be issued shortly.

Will Meet For Summer

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10. — (ENS). — The 10th Line Victory Club made up solely of farm women in Seymour West is carrying on during the summer despite the pressure of farm work. "We are doing a little and marking time till winter comes," declared Mrs. Geo. Brown following their meeting on Thursday afternoon. The ladies met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Outwater and made a quilt which was sold and the proceeds put into their war fund. Mrs. John Brown offered her home for the August meeting.

New Generation

Successful Vacation Schools Being Held In Peterborough

"We must plant a victory garden in ourselves and help the good seeds grow," she told the children. "We must do a little every day to help them grow, and make sure that weeds do not choke them. And we should do these things without having to be told."

The boys and girls who sat in rows of chairs in one of the Kiwanis buildings at Jackson Park listened attentively to their teacher, Miss Bess Ketcheson, Superintendent of the Church Vacation School in the park at the north end of town. The boys and girls are all children who live in the Jackson Park War Housing area.

Miss Ketcheson, a member of the staff of the Toronto Public Schools, is connected with the War Production and Camp Community Committee of the United Church and has come to Peterborough to conduct this summer school in the lovely setting of the park.

The Church Vacation School began its session on July 5 and will be held each week day morning from 9 to 11:30 until the 15th of July. Miss Ketcheson is in charge, and Miss Jean Somers, also a teacher, is her assistant.

Two Sections.

The children, who in age range all the way from 3 to 12, are divided into an older and a younger section, and games and instruction are arranged to fit the interests of the different groups. For the very young there are seesaws, swings, singing, folk-dancing and ring-games like The Farmer in the Dell. Among the older ones, relay races and baseball games are popular pastimes, and various handicrafts are cultivated wth lots of enthusiasm. The boys show a particular fondness for working with tools and making things out of wood, while the girls lean towards more delicate achievements, such as sewing and making articles like serviette rings and bookmarks from oilcloth samples. But whatever they are doing the kids are happy, and this is evidenced by the fact that attendance has increased each day since the course began. On Thursday there were 108 and not a sour face to be seen anywhere around.

The period of devotional instruction which comes sometime each morning is by no means unpopular either. Generally it begins with a song or two and ends wtih a hymn or simple prayer which the children repeat after their teacher. In between there will be a reading of a story from the Bible and a discussion of its meaning and its application to little boys and girls. There is continuity in the series of instruction pursued from day to day through the two weeks time and the course is even given a name, "Living Like Jesus." Accent is placed upon the building up of admirable qualities, following the precepts of His life, and the children are reminded to watch and see that the good things in themselves grow, and that they are ever careful to be helpful and kind. Instruction and devotion are non-denominational.

The children volunteer an offering of 10c a week to the cause of Madame Chiang's War Orphans. This they either put in the collection box in a lump sum or contribute bit by bit as they can at the rate of 2c a day. Some of the articles made by the boys and girls will be put to good and charitable uses too, for they will be sent to missionary houses in various places throughout the country.

South-End Classes.

The Church Vacation School at Jackson Park is not the only one of its kind in Peterborough. The same work is being done in the south-end of town, and the entire program is sponsored and planned by the Peterborough Ministerial Association, with Rev. H. J. Mahoney of Knox United Church filling the position of director.

One hundred and fifty boys and girls are attending the school conducted in three of the churches, and the outline of a typical day's activities follows much the same pattern as in the case of Jackson Park. The ages are the same, from 3 to 12, and the children are divided into three sections, according to age, with the three churches each caring for one age group. At St. James' the kindergarten ages, 3 to 6, at Knox United the "primaries" from 7 to 9, and at All Saints' the "juniors", who are 10 to 12 years old.

Each morning one of city ministers visits each of the schools, and a number of women are volunteering their services to help make these two weeks a delightful time for all concerned, something the children are bound to appreciate and long remember.

The public is welcome to come to any of the gatherings.

The superintendent of the kindergarten school is Mrs. E. N. Davis of the primary, Mrs. Ross Williamson, and of the juniors, Miss Marion Wray. Mrs. Davis is assisted by Mrs. Wm. Gasken and Mrs. George Wallace. Mrs. Williamson is assisted by Jacqueline Ballantine, Elinor Glover, Bernice Garside, Mrs. Stanley Adamson. Miss Wray is assisted by Mrs. C. H. White, Mrs. Stanley Richardson, Barbara Scott, John Wray and Alfred Bass.

Ex-Premiers Meet

ST. THOMAS, Ont. July 10 (CP) — One former Provincial Premier was welcomed by another here Thursday when Mitchell Hepburn introduced John Bracken at a luncheon meeting attended by 200 members and guests of the local Kiwanis Club.

Assuring his hearers that his remarks were without political significance, Mr. Hepburn paid a high personal tribute to Mr. Bracken, and added, "Never let it be said in this country that government of the people for the people has been supplanted by government by a party for a party."

200-Bed Sanatorium Possible In Kingston

KINGSTON, Ont., July 10 (CP). —Mayor H. A. Stewart of Kingston said today "favorable consideration is being given" by the Ontario Department of Health to a proposal to construct a 200-bed or larger tubercular sanatorium here.

The sanatorium would serve the area comprising the counties of Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox-Addington and Leeds, Mayor Stewart said, and be administered by the Provincial Department of Health through the co-operation of the Kingston Board of Health and city of Kingston.

Red Cross Women Assemble Quilts

NORWOOD, July 10—(ENS). — The June meeting for Red Cross sewing and knitting was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. J. Ford for the group of the community.

One large quilt was tied and two crib quilts were quilted. Mrs. W. J. Kane assembled the blocks for a large quilt top. Mrs. H. B. Peters donated a "Dresden plate" design crib quilt top and the lining. Miss Phyllis Kane turned in knitting. Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Ford had 15 blocks finished for a large quilt top and Mrs. Ford donated a crib quilt top. A good selection of materials were on display for making quilt tops, and plans will be made for designs at the next meeting.

The members were very pleased to welcome Mrs. Robert Elliott back to the group, and Mrs. M. Patterson as guest. A report from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board meeting was given by Mrs. Ford.

The meeting ended with the serving of afternoon tea and a social time. The tea-table was arranged with a cutwork cloth centred with a silver bowl of roses and silver holders held white tapers, and the rooms were decorated with bouquets of roses and rose and white peonies.

Milkweed Crop Showing Vigor

Some of those farmers of the district who usually "are on hand" when a job has to be done responded promptly and actively to the federal government's appeal for the planting of rape this season for the purpose of harvesting its seed for its content of lubricating oil required for marine engines. Most of them were mentioned chiefly as a little recognition of their spirit, although they are not concerned about group personal publicity.

It seemed at the time that there might have been a few more take on that special work even in small acreages, but farmers on the whole were well satisfied with the response.

Another contribution in the same direction was the milkweed sowing, something like six hundred acres all told, for a crop in 1944 to be used in the making of synthetic rubber.

F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, has been visiting some of the fields and getting reports from others. William Newman of Lorneville, who is assisting Mr. Paterson in supervising this work, planted 20 acres at his own farm, but he reported yesterday that eight of these acres would have to be cancelled. Bindweed was almost in full possession of the field, which had been rented, and Mr. Newman decided that he could not conscientiously go through with that part of his contract. He is breaking up that field, and concentrating on his other acres of the sticky week. Most of the sowing in eastern Peterborough is making satisfactory progress, Mr. Newman reported through Mr. Paterson.

Some of the fields seem to have been planted perhaps too lightly, and there are indications too that the seed in places has been slow in germinating.

"But, the most of it is growing and farmers are doing their part in scuffling, and we are learning as we go along," Mr. Paterson said today. "Nobody knew anything about it when we were asked to take on this job. Dr. Senn is coming here from Ottawa next week to look over our first crop of milkweed, and we shall all be interested in his comments."

Even Alderman Floyd Curtis reports his milkweed enterprise showing signs of vigor, and calling for scuffling attention. His field of five acres was the second one to be sown.

Prosecute Employers If Books Not Changed

A change in policy has been adopted by the Unemployment Insurance Commission in regard to the exchange of unemployment insurance books which should have been made on April 1, it was stated to-day by W. H. L. Mellis, local manager.

Heretofore, Mr. Mellis stated, in order to give employers an opportunity of becoming familiar with the Act, prosecutions were not entered against employers who delayed unreasonably or failed to exchance the insurance books of their employees.

But this year prosecutions are being carried out and already six convictions of delinquent employers have been reported from various points across Canada. Magistrates in some cases levied minimum fines which are $10, and costs, but in other instances penalties were severe; and several magistrates issued warnings that further offences would be treated more seriously.

Mr. Mellis said that he is informed from Ottawa that a number of additional cases, where failure to exchange insurance books is alleged, are now under review and that some of these at least are sure to come before the courts.

In this district, it was added, there are still some employers who have not yet complied with the requirements on the Unemployment Insurance Act in regard to the exchange of books.

Pictures Wanted Of Enemy Lands

OTTAWA July 10 (CP)—The intelligence directorates of the armed forces appealed today to Canadians for pictures showing views of enemy country, particularly coastal or inland photographs of roads, railways, canals, bridges, power stations, harbors, beaches, hills, valleys, industries and utilities of all kinds.

The joint announcement said Canadians could give "untold aid" by submitting pictures or postcards collected in their pre-war travels, or sent to them by friends, to the secretary of the Naval Board (for photographic library), naval service headquarters, Ottawa.

The naval photographic library is a pool for the intelligence branches of the services, and copies of worthwhile pictures of enemy terrain are submitted to the intelligence heads of the British armed services, as well as to the United States.

When Taken.

Any such pictures, the announcement said, should be in the form of snapshots, postcards, scenic strips, travel folders, scenic calendars or accurate drawings and etchings. Persons sending in such items are asked to write a covering note explaining when they were taken or when they were possessed, and incorporating any additional knowledge they have concerning the scenes depicted.

Future campaigns, the statement added, depend on "good photographs of targets, landing places and communications."

"By such pictures, camouflaged positions in enemy or enemy-held countries could often be detected by comparing earlier photographs or pictures with those taken by reconnaissance parties," it said.

All items sent to naval service headquarters bearing addresses of the senders will be returned immediately after being photo-copied. Pictures taken before 1925 should not be submitted, the announcement said.

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES

J. A. BATTEN,
Treasurer, County of Peterborough.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 8 — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1943

MAIN STREET TOPICS

GIVES A DOLLAR.

Mrs. H. Alton, Mark Street, has helped the Greek Relief Fund active to-day by her contribution of one dollar.

ENTERTAINING HELPERS.

The Rotary Club will have as its guests on Monday the workers who helped to put over last month's successful carnival. There will be a special musical program for the occa- .on.

GRADUATES.

L. G. Smith of Peterborough was one of a class of wireless air gunners to graduate from No. 7 Bombing and Gunnery School, R.C.A.F., at Paulson, Manitoba, on Friday.

DEPTH CHARGES.

Mrs. Gertrude Kennedy of the Canada Packers has done an extraordinary job of helping the depth-charge campaign on its way. Selling to drovers, farmers and cream and egg patrons coming to the Packers' office, she has succeeded in completely filling two posters. Mrs. Kennedy is achieving the results that a whole group of people might be proud to have had a share in, and she is doing it by herself.

A LOSS TO ROTARY.

Al. H. Lewis, who was manager of the Rotary Club's successful carnival recently, and who was a director of the club, has accepted a position in Toronto as sales and service manager with the Bear Services and Equipment Company. Mr. Lewis was also closely connected with the work of the Peterborough Squadron, Air Cadets, sponsored by the Rotary Club.

MILK FOR BRITAIN.

The North-end War Workers, through Mrs. E. H. Brown and Mrs. Gordon Puffer have contributed $25.00 to the Milk for Britain Fund thus supplying enough money to purchase 250 quarts of milk for those who need it in Great Britain. With the North-end donation the funds total now stands at $11,-680.41.

UNUSUAL SIGHT

M. Marsden of Lakefield, who was visiting A. H. Sutton, 610 Bethune street on Friday, had the unusual experience of seeing a white robin in a yard across the road. This pure white bird was being fed by one of ordinary colors, about the same size.

POULTRY THEFT CHARGED.

Amos Lindsay, 39, a laborer living near Apsley, was arraigned in Police Court this morning on a charge of having stolen 14 chickens and a turkey from H. Terrill of Chandos on the night of July 6. Lindsay was arrested early to-day by Provincial Constable L. A. McClure and Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded when the Crown was not ready to proceed.

FALLS ON HIGHWAY.

Taking a weak spell, Peter Munro, elderly Lakefield man, fell on Highway 28 near Springville Friday and bruised his face. He managed to crawl off the roadway into the ditch and there was found by Silverwood's driver, Wilbur Pulford, who notified Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure. It was thought at first that Munro had been struck by a car. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for attention.

Listing Names For Voting Personal Duty

The electors of this riding, urban and rural, are reminded that the inclusion of their names in the voters list for the Provincial election is a detail of democractic procedure that rests largely with themselves.

Enumeration in the city is expected to be completed to-day, and the first draft of the list will be published in neighborhood places next week.

Responsibility of the elector to make sure of his or her name is on that list devolves to the individual. The public naturally hopes that the enumerators will do a thorough job, but as some of them are new to the work, women replacing men, there may be some inadvertent oversights.

Further information as to the subsequent steps providing a last chance of enlistment will be reported next week.

The fact which is now emphasized stresses the personal obligation of doing something about this registration of names. For instance, remember to look on the posted lists which will appear shortly, and it is pointed out that these copies most of them nailed on posts are the property of the Crown. Any person damaging them, tearing off a page or more, is inviting trouble.

Two Young Girls Raise $14.35 For War Victims

The open season for bazaars conducted by school children is now on, made more possible through the recess from school duties, and the first of its kind to be reported on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund since that time, turned out to be very successful affair through the initiative of Barbara Luther and Doreen Goodfellow both living on Park Street North, who held such an event last Saturday at the home of the latter at 583 Park Street.

Starting off with a contribution of a Luncheon set given them by the management of Dickson's Store, they sold tickets for a draw, and then from the stall they sold knitting and shopping bags which they had made themselves, together with a cake donated by Northam's Bakery, Cookies made by Mrs. Goodfellow, and Oranges and Lemons given them by the fruit stores, which in all made the nice sum of $14.35, which is credited in their name to-day.

The draw for the luncheon set was made by Mrs. Hood, and this resulted in Percy Blade being the winner. Both these girls held similar events for the fund a year ago, and when the call came for help with the tag day held recently, both responded and took their turn at duty for that event.

Then, three other young girls all living in the same district, and probably inspired by the lead given by the former two girls also held a bazaar during this week and turned in $2.37. Their names are Joan Parnell, Jean Forsythe and Margaret Anderson.

Much has been said in this column for the fund about the steady work that the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. have done to help things along, and much more might still be said for they certainly of all people have been remarkably steadfast in their ideal of helping others, for few can approach their record of having made fifty-eight donations, whchi from that very fact establishes the reason why their per capita giving is approaching the $3.00 mark, their total counting the $8.00 listed in their name to-day standing at $783.00.

This Friday a raid on a south-east coast town in Britain saw a bomb hit a Theatre which was crowded at the time with children forming part of the audience. From reports given out, a considerable number of casualties occurred, so it would seem almost providential that the fund will be in a position to cable over another £500 to help them in the early days of this coming week, and it will perhaps be recalled that practically the same situation occurred just as the fund was able to send the two foregoing contributions of a like amount, a fact which has fully justified the keeping of the fund going.

Previously acknowledged	$60,824.02
Proceeds of Draw and Bazaar held by Barbara Luther and Doreen Goodfellow	14.35
Proceeds of Bazaar held by Joan Parnell, Jean Forsythe, and Margaret Anderson	2.37
Employees of Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., Ltd., (58th donation)	8.00
Total to date	$60,848.74

Orange Parade Monday Night

Peterborough Orangemen will celebrate the Twelfth of July on Monday with a parade through the city at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, starting at the C.P.R. Station.

All members of Peterborough County L.O.L. and L.O.B.A., as well as juvenile lodges and visiting Orangemen are expected to participate. The route of the parade will be north on George to Brock, east to Water, north to London, west to George and south of Brock, breaking up at the Orange Hall.

Diamond Lodge L.O.L. will visit Omemee on Monday, taking part in the walk there, and the members will be back in time to walk here at night.

To-morrow the Orangemen are holding a service at Riverside Bowl at 3 o'clock, with Rev. E. W. Rowland conducting the service, assisted by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' and Major A. Dixon of the Salvation Army.

W.A. Holds Social For Church Fund

CAMPBELLFORD,, July 10. —(ENS). — A Strawberry and ice-cream social sponsored by the Rylstone W.A. attracted a large gathering to the Union School House on Wednesday. The event was staged as a means of raising money for church purposes and in addition to the refreshment there was a miscellaneous program. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend of Stirling assisted with the program, as did Mr. and Mrs. Holden, the parents of the pastor, Rev. J. R. Holden. Mr. Holden led in community singing during the evening.

Ready For Service

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Morrow, 535 Aylmer Street, that their son, Pte. Roy J. B. Morrow, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, has arrived safely in Great Britain. He was employed at the Outboard Marine until enlisting in November, 1942.

Dr. R. A. Kelly Assumes M.O.H. Duties

Resumption of the work of the well baby clinics and immunization of children is a first result of the activities of Dr. R. A. Kelly, acting Medical Officer of Health who has taken the place of Dr. D. B. Avison in the absence of Dr. G. Murray Fraser, who is on active service overseas.

The baby clinics are held at Central School on Friday afternoons from 2.30 to 4 o'clock, and on Wednesday afternoons at the same hour at All Saint's Church.

Immunization treatments are on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 to 11.30 o'clock.

Tuesday at the Immaculate Conception School, and Thursdays at Queen Mary School.

Dr. Kelly told the Examiner this morning that the "Queen Mary Hospital is rather quiet."

Renewal of the special work for children, the babies and those of more advanced years, is again brought to the attention of parents. The Board of Health was anxious about preventing any lapse in this community service, and to that end the Board appointed a successor to Dr. Avison as quickly as possible.

Parents are asked to make a note of the hours of these clinics and immunization work, and to do their part in taking full advantage of this means of improving the health of the city's youngest generation.

600 Miners On Strike

FLORENCE, N.S., July 10 (CP). Strikebound for three days, the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company's Florence Colliery remained idle last night and indications were its 600 men would not resume work before Tuesday at the earliest.

Blood Donors Clinic Prepares To Mark First Anniversary

The week commencing Monday, July 19th will be celebrated as anniversary week at the Blood Donor Clinic. It will be a year since the Clinic opened the first blood taken from residents for shipment overseas. Since that time the Clinic has been enlarged to accommodate the donors who have been responding each week in increasing numbers.

When the Clinic opened the Peterborough quota was placed at 100 donors per week, it was afterwards increased to 200 donors and now there is no limit to the number of blood donations that will be taken at the Connaught Laboratories.

As many as 235 have given blood in a week but due to the holiday season the number has been less and that is one reason by the request has been made for the registration of more donors.

The Clinic is endeavoring to secure 100 donors at least for Monday the 19 and 100 for Wednesday the 21, and for Thursday's Clinic sufficient to break the former record of 235 for the week. If you are not a donor call up the Clinic 8284 and register for that week, or if you are past due on your second or third donation telephone you would like to ocme that week.

Monday being a holiday there was no Clinic that day. Following is the list for Wednesday and Thursday.

The men from the Training Camp who came up on Thursday made the week a fairly good one considering the holiday.

Wednesday's list of donors were: C.G.E.: J. Herbert Lush 3; Mrs. A. G. Warren 3; Miss Helen Smoke 3; Miss Dorothy Turner 3; John Yelland 4; Miss Anna Kay; Charles W. Thomas 4; John Taylor 3; Elmer Tighe 3; Edward Allen 3; Squire Winterbottom 3; George Scholey 2; Vern Janesway; Arthur E. Walter 2; Jack Whittaker 3; T. Charge Withdrawn

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10. —(ENS). — A charge against Lloyd William Partridge of Morganston of failing to report for parade was withdrawn when the accused youth appeared before Magistrate O. A. Longley, K.C., in Campbellford Police Court on Friday afternoon. Capt. N. Alex MacColl, officer commanding B. Company, Midland Regiment (RF) placed the charge, but asked to have it withdrawn when it was shown the youth was in quarantine at the time of the alleged offence.

More To Be Told

MONTREAL, July 10 (CP)—FO. Fred Backhouse, public relations officer with the R.A.F., said in a broadcast from London last night that "the full story has yet to be told of the big part French-Canadians are playing in the battles of liberty and the part they will play in the greater battles yet to come."

Kiwanians Buy Depth Charge

Members of the Kiwanis Club at their Friday luncheon subscribed the full amount of the cost of one depth charge, $90. They bought 360 War Savings Stamps from Walter Pridham, one of the Examiner's staff of enterprising young carriers, son of Kiwanian Ted Pridham, 204 Birdsall Street.

Walter has the Burnham's Point route, delivering the Examiner to residents of that Wartime Housing area. In his round of customers on Thursday evening he sold them $30 of War Savings Stamps, or as he would say, his customers bought them from him. He devoted two hours and a half on that special appeal to boost sales for the purchase of depth charges this month.

Burnham's Point residences are employees of C.G.E.-Genelco or other local war industries, and are buying War Savings Stamps at the plant. However, they responded generously to the canvass by Walter Pridham, and share with him in the extra contribution for the cost of depth charges that will be aimed at German submarines.

Carriers, Bank Tied In Sale Of Depth Bombs

Examiner News Carriers and the Bank of Montreal are tied for first place in the sale of War Savings Stamps to fill the $90 depth-charge posters, it was announced Friday by the War Finance Committee.

In a report that brings results in the current drive up to date, the following institutions and groups have reported the filling of a half or more than a half of a poster. Examiner News Carriers, 3; Bank of Montreal, 3; Post Office, 1½; Bell Telephone, 1; Bank of Commerce, 1; Bank of Nova Scotia, 1; Dominion Bank, 1; Bank of Toronto, 1; Royal Bank of Canada, 1; Stamp Out Hitler Club, Empress Hotel, ¾; C.N.R. ticket office, ½; Demos Shoe Shine Shop, ½. The life insurance companies together have reached a total of $274.50, which means over three sold, with the Great-West Life Assurance Co. in the lead and the Dominion Life Assurance Co. holding second place.

In addition, the Miss Canada girls who sold stamps on George Street in the old fire truck last Saturday accounted for $70 worth.

Oakes Murder Laid At Door Of Son-in-Law

NASSAU, Bahamas, July — (AP) — The arrest of Sir Harry Oakes' son-in-law brought a startling climax to-day to the mystery which grew out of the death of the Oakes' eldest daughter Nancy, was immensely-wealthy British baronet.

Alfred De Marigny, husband of held on a formal charge of murder although he flatly denied that it was he who clubbed the 68-year-old knight to death.

Mimai officers helped colonial police make the investigation which led to the accusation against the yacht racer and sportsman.

Four Wounds on Head.

Shortly before De Marigny was taken into custody at Sir Harry's home it was revealed that the body of the multi-millionaire was found Thursday morning on his charred bed, and that there were four serious bludgeon wounds on the head.

Attorney General Eric Hallinan reported that the bed had been afire, causing burns on the body.

While her husband remained in custody, 18-year-old Nancy Oakes De Marigny, whose marriage in May, 1942, incurred the displeasure of her father, ended a vacation in Vermont to join her mother, Lady Oakes, at the family's Bar Harbour Me., summer home.

Capt. E. W. Melchen, one of the Miami detectives, said the charge against the beared De Marigny was based on "hair analysis, fingerprints and interrogation."

An inquest will be resumed Tuesday.

Davis Seriously Ill Taken To Toronto

BANCROFT, July 10 — (ENS). —Carlton Davis, American driver who was injured in an automobile accident at Steenburg, 20 miles south of Bancroft on Highway 62, Thursday night, was removed Friday night to the Toronto General Hospital by Martin's Ambulance of Belleville. He was in an unconscious condition suffering from blood in the fluid of the spine. Mrs. Davis, his wife, is on her way to Toronto from Emporium, Pennsylvania, their home.

is a good provider and who will go fifty-fifty with her on the family finances but the way a man acts about money before marriage gives her no line on what he is going to do after marriage. Many a spender suitor turns into a tightwad husband. Many a man who wooed a girl with costly presents, who kept her smothered with flowers, who took her to the most expensive places of amusement, puts a Yale lock on his pocketbook as soon as he gets here and thereafter, begrudges her even a basement bargain marked-down dress, and never takes her to any place that costs more than a ten-cent movie

Many a girl thinks she is playing safe when she marries a lad who always accompanies his mother to church and escorts her to symphony concerts and waits upon her hand and foot. But the old saying that a good son makes a good husband is a tip upon which multitudes of women have gambled and lost their shirts.

Wise Girl Avoids Lad With Mother Complex

For the overly devoted son is always more married to his mother than he is to his wife, and even a Patient Griselda doesn't enjoy playing second fiddle to her mother-in-law. Hence the wise virgin steers clear of the lad with the mother complex.

Another youth who is a poor prospect as a husband is Mama's spoiled darling. He never grows us. He never gets adult. He never learns to take life as it comes. And he always expects his wife to baby him the way his mother did and, no matter how hard she tries, she never succeeds in being the perfect doormat that Mother was. And he always pities himself for having married a woman who never understands him.

Of the folly of marrying a man to reform him, whether he is a drunkard or a philanderer or a ne'er-do-well, it is needless to speak. All of these expendables have their price tags written all over them and any girl who is foolish enough to take one on, knowing what he is, or conceited enough to believe that she is a miracle-worker and can change a man from what he is into what he ought to be, gets what she deserves.

What, then, is a poor girl to do? How is she to tell what sort of a husband any man will make? She can't. The best she can do is to guess at it. She can only use her head as well as her heart in picking out the man with whom she expects to spend the next thirty-five or forty years, and let her choice fall on one who comes up to her ideal as well as fires her fancy, and whom she is ready to take "as is," as the shipping manifests say, instead of thinking that may be she will like him after she has made him over.

And may the Lord have mercy upon them both!

THE STARS SAY . . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, July 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds signs of a very lively and exciting condition although these may not be deemed of much profit, gratification or happiness. The beneficial aspects may be negated by a tendency to reckless extravagances of the energies and emotions as well as funds. With restraint, conservative conduct and thrift there may be pleasant relations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively and exciting year, in which the energies and substance may be squandered in lavish or excessive indulgence, bound to beget resentment, jealousy, strife and reprisals. Shun emotional outbursts, over indulgences and prodigality if happiness, success and personal equanimity are to be preserved.

A child born on this day may be energetic and progressive but may be defeated in its progress by its own tempestuous, extravagant, impulsive and indulgent behavior. This may seriously becloud its domestic happiness.

Develop Your Talent for Fashion Drawing

Fashion Drawing

Is your ambition to be a fashion artist? Many girls and men also have become interested in this, especially in more recent years, because of the increasing popularity of the profession.

The fashion artist's objective in most cases is to sell merchandise. You must learn, therefore, to present a piece of merchandise as attractively as possible so that many women will want it. An example of fashion art is pictured above.

You must idealize and dramatize the figure underneath a garment.

Of course it must be realized that it is not a profession that one can step right into without any ability whatsoever. You do need an observant eye, a good imagination, good taste, accuracy, a sense of proportion and balance, plus a strong ambition to succeed.

You may not have excessive talent, but if you have a little you can develop it with work and patience. Our booklet helps the beginner, showing how to draw all sorts of fashion figures with diagrams clearly illustrating. The simple instructions are not at all difficult.

Sends 15 cents in coins for your copy of FASHION DRAWING MADE EASY to Peterborough Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name and address and name of the booklet.

F.D.R. Promises To Equip French

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, disclosing that President Roosevelt had promised to equip a French North African Army of 300,000 men, pledged today that French forces will help fight the Japanese after defeat of the Axis powers in Europe.

Giraud told a room-full of correspondents, gathered in Secretary of War Henry Stimson's conference chamber:—

"I give you the following pledge:—

"France will be at your side to liberate the Pacific from Japanese domination, even as she will remain with you to build a peace that will be lasting and just but also realistic."

Gen. Giraud spoke in French to the press conference. He avoided discussion of the political situation in North Africa, where he shares the chairmanship of the French Committee of National Liberation with Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Steal 85,000 Coupons

HAMILTON, July 10 — (CP).—Thieves entered the office of the British American Oil Company, Burlington Street East, last night and stole 85,000 gasoline coupons, police said today.

A few weeks ago, a robbery occurred at the same premises in which 90,000 coupons were stolen. Last night's theft represents 255,000 gallons of gasoline.

FAVOR UNBID MAJORS

MORE AND more strong defensive players are favoring the lead of an unbid major suit against a No Trump game, in preference to their own long minor suit, especially if the minor is headed by a king or queen Leading away from it may give the declarer the one trick he needs to make his contract The unbid major doubleton or trebleton is pretty likely to be their partner's suit, and pays frequent dividends if your own hand is weak enough so that your partner probably holds some honor strength for re-entries

Identical bidding was done at both tables of a team match where this hand was dealt, and the result depended entirely on the opening lead It is quite obvious that a spade lead cannot be considered, with North bidding that suit, and neither could a diamond, in view of South's bid and rebid; so the choice lay between hearts and clubs

At one table East opened the club 5, making the J a winner A diamond trick was ducked to West, and after the heart return North ran game, scoring four tricks in diamonds, three in clubs and two in hearts

East of the other team opened the heart 7 Of course that put his partner's holding "under the hammer," which would have killed off any single honor or unhappily-placed tenace But the difference between this and the club lead is that there was a good possibility of consecutive high cards there, much better than that West held some solidifying clubs Now, no matter how North played, he could not find a ninth trick, as a club finesse was doomed to fail, and the spade K lay under the A. Consequently, he was set a trick.

Assault On Sicily

Canada's Great Test.

There is no doubt that this great test of Canada's soldier —first full-scale action for them since Dieppe last August —was a hazardous operation.

Further news was not expected for some hours, especially an indication of where the Canadians may have landed.

There was every indication that the presence of Canadians in the offensive had caught the Axis by surprise for they had not been mentioned in any of the long stream of Axis broadcasts which made assorted forecasts about the invasion zero hour.

Announcement that Canadian troops participated followed by less than a day disclosure that Canadian Wellington bomber squadrons of the R. C. A. F. bomber group in Britain had been shifted to the Mediterranean area.

Well Fortified.

The island of Sicily, while only one spot on the "under belly" of Hitler's Europe, was undoubtedly well fortified by the Axis. It has taken an aerial pounding but there can be no doubt the task of the invading forces will not be easy.

A layman's look at a detailed map suggests that in all probability the landings were made on the south side of the island, but there was no official information on this point. There are no big harbors on the south side, but there are a number of beaches where landing barges could be grounded.

Such a procedure, too, would tend to ease the Royal Navy's task to some extent. Barges could be taken across the Sicilian narrows where, with British command of the sea and air, the risk would be lessened.

At the same time larger Allied naval forces could be disposed in northern waters around the island to deal with any part of the Italian fleet which might attempt to sally out for harassing activities.

Fraught With Danger.

At this early stage, London sources warned against indulging in any unduly optimistic speculations. They stressed that any large-scale operations of such a nature on such a large island must be fraught with grave dangers in the early development.

It was not immediately known what part Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian Army, was taking in the invasion. In the Dieppe raid, Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts went into action with the Canadian troops while Gen. McNaughton remained with the main body of his army.

But the assault on Sicily is a much bigger show, likely to demand close contact from the Canadian Commander.

Preparations for movement of the Canadians from Britain had been known to be going forward for weeks. Every effort was made to protect the security of the troops and details were not known, but war correspandents "disappeared" from London a good while ago.

Four Canadian Press correspondents have left London, Ross Munro went first, followed by Louis V. Hunter, William Stewart, and Maurice Desjardins. They have not been heard from since, which is only natural in view of the secrecy surrounding the entire operations.

was no word as to the Canadian senior officer with the troops in the Mediterranean.

Mr. King's statement merely repeated the earlier announcement from Washington and elsewhere that British, United States and Canadian armed forces had landed.

No Canadian Ships

The Royal Canadian Navy was the first service to make its position in the operation clear. A headquarters spokesman said no Canadian ships took part in the landing on Sicily, but added that did not preclude the possibility R. C.N. personnel on Royal Navy ships were helping out.

The Navy had a number of ships in the Mediterranean for the North African landing late last year but apparently none were in position to take part in the latest Allied offensive.

R.C.A.F. headquarters in Ottawa said it had no information on the part Canadian airmen played; but in a broadcast early today from North Africa, recorded here, Flt. Lt. Leslie Powell of the R. C. A. F. public relations staff said "several squadrons" of Canadian Wellingtons bombed Sicily "tonight."

Presumably this was a reference to Canadian participation in the preliminary bombardment which preceded the landing of ground forces.

Received Communication.

Late last evening Mr. King received a communication in the House of Commons. He discussed it at once with Norman Robertson, his Under-Secretary of External Affairs, who was on the floor of the Chamber as an adviser. Then he handed it to Defence Minister Ralston, who sits near him.

Later the Prime Minister left the House for a few minutes. He came back with a document in his hand and he referred to it frequently, consulting with Col. Ralston and Mr. Robertson.

Press Gallery men started betting Mr. King would make a momentous announcement of some kind before the House adjourned. They were wrong.

Defence Minister Ralston was in the Prime Minister's office when the news was announced, with Walter Turnbull, Mr. King's secretary. Col. Ralston said he would have no statement to make immediately and declined to comment in any way on the landing. Mr. Turnbull issued the previously-prepared statement.

New and Vital Phase

"The war for the liberation of the conquered and enslaved countries of Europe has just entered upon a new and vital phase," it began.

"Armed forces of Britain, the United States and Canada now are in the forefrost of an attack which has, as its ultimate objective, the unconditional surrender of Italy and Germany.

"All Canada will be justifiably proud to know that units of the Canadian Army are a part of the Allied Force engaged in this attack."

After the fall of France, the Canadian Army was held in Britain as a shield against possible invasion. For a time the Canadians were virtually the only land force in Britain equipped to meet an invasion.

Since then, the Overseas Army has grown to five divisions, two of them armored. Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton who took the 1st Division overseas near the end of 1939 is its commander. The two corps are commanded by Lt.-Gen. H. G. D. Crerar and Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom.

The role of the Army, said Mr. King's statement, was in accordance with the strategy planned "by those who have had the supreme direction of the war."

"The news we have received marks for Canada the beginning of a new phase of the war," Mr. King said. "The Canadian Army has had few opportunities for active combat with the enemy. This has not been through any fault of its own or because of any policy of the Canadian Government.

"From the outbreak of war, the Government of Canada has adhered to the position that Canadian forces in whole or in part should be used where and when they can make the best contribution to the winning of the war."

Mr. King referred to the Canadian share in Hong Kong and Dieppe and said that at both places "the courage and the daring of Canadian soldiers reflected undying honor upon themselves and upon our country."

Soldiers Well-Trained.

The soldiers of Canada had gone into battle "exceptionally well-trained, superbly equipped, keen and a full of spirit, ready for offensive warfare."

"The fighting men of Canada—on land, at sea, and in the air —are risking their lives to preserve everything that all of us hold dear ....

"Of one thing we may be assured. They will not fail us. We must not fail them.

"They will fight better for the assurance of the support of a united Canada. We, too, shall need all the strength that comes from a deep feeling of unity.

"I repeat, we must not fail our fighting men. In the name of Canada, I give to them assurance that Canada will not fail her fighting men."

Car Kills Steer

MILLBROOK, July 10—(ENS). — While driving home at 10 o'clock on Friday night, George Thorne of Carmel ran into cattle belonging to Charles Gardner of Millbrook, killing one steer and breaking a headlight on his car, and damaging the fender. The cattle were being driven to pasture without a light, when the car hit them. The accident was investigated by J. J. Kellett of the Millbrook police.

Canadians Form Large Part Of Assault Force

ed enemy defences in a thunderous accompaniment and swarms of aircraft kept up the attack they had begun before the landings started.

Canadian, British and American troops made up the landing forces.

The news of the bold stroke was first told in this terse announcement:

Anglo-American-Canadian forces, under command of General Eisenhower, began landing operations in Sicily early this morning (July 10, North African time). Landings were preceded by an air attack. Naval forces escorted the assault forces and bombarded the coast defences during the assault."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the commander-in-chief of this first major land blow to crush enemy Europe, informed the peoples of the occupied and enemy countries of the attack in a statement read from the Algiers radio.

The announcer followed up the statement with these dramatic words:

"The Battle of Africa is over; the Battle of Europe has begun."

There was no immediate official report of the progress of the fighting or where it centered.

(A Reuters News Agency correspondent, however, cabled from North Africa to London that "the first line of Allied troops are this morning locked in combat with the enemy after clambering over mines and barbed wire fences to attack pillboxes and machine-gun nests.")

The lightning-quick landings were begun in good weather in full moonlight.

The troop ships and their escorting naval vessels defied minefield and strongly-placed enemy shore guns to reach the objective.

MOST HEAVLY DEFENDED PART OF ITALY

Sicily, only 260 airline miles from Rome, is believed here to be the most heavily defended part of Italy.

Although it may prove a tough nut to crack, Gen. Eisenhower had powerful land, air and sea forces—steadily increased since the British-American landings in French Africa last year—to sustain his offensive.

Some of the newest weapons in the Allied arsenal are believed receiving their first battle tryout.

Allied air power, which forced Italian Pantelleria into submission just a month ago tomorrow, payed the way for the landings by "saturation bombing" for several weeks. Yesterday was the sixth consecutive day of almost constant around-the-clock air attacks, officially described as almost comparable to the mighty air blows against Pantelleria, one of the greatest air offensives in history up to that time.

The Italians, expecting the invasion for weeks, already had inaugurated a scorched earth program in Sicily by destroying harbor installations at Trapani, long the main base for the Italian fleet and nearest important Sicilian port to Africa.

(A broadcast by the Algiers radio to North America, recorded by United States government monitors, said landings had been carried out on the rock-studded western tip of Sicily near that port.)

ISLAND OFFERS FEW ACCESSIBLE BEACHES

The triangular-shaped island offered few accessible beaches to the invaders except along the 180-mile southwest side, where the shore spreads back some distance before the first hills appear. High cliffs protect most of the northern and eastern shores.

Gen. Eisenhower's personal message announcing the start of the offensive was first read in French by Allied radio announcers and advised the people of France that this was "The first stage in the liberation of the European continent." It urged them to remain calm and avoid exposing themselves to Nazi reprisals.

The general indirectly promised the French they eventually would get their chance to help strike back at their Nazi conquerors.

"When the hour of action strikes we will let you know," the commander-in-chief declared.

The statement later was read in Italian, German and English.

(Radio Algiers said in a broadcast heard in London by the Associated Press that it would keep repeating the announcement all day and all night. To the Italian version, it added this postcript:

("The words of Roosevelt and Churchill have now become a reality. Italy, dragged in this German war by Mussolini, has become a battlefield. The German rearguard action will now be fought on Italian soil.")

In addition to their North African bases, the Allied attacking forces had two major strongholds in the Mediterranean from which to spring against Sicily—captured Pantelleria, some 60 miles southwest on the direct route across the 90-mile wide Sicial strait from Tunisia and the impregnable British naval stronghold of Malta, even closer due south of the eastern end of the island.

2 MONTHS AFTER SUCCESSFUL TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN

The invasion came two months after Allied forces had crushed the resistance of a quarter of 225,000 Axis troops in Tunisia. Ever since then, Axis broadcasts have talked nervously of transports, warships, and supply vessels moving in a steady stream eastward past Gibraltar.

In weeks of feverish preparation for defence, the Axis had strung rings of minefields around the island, installed strong coastal batteries, and submarines constantly lurked in its waters.

Another hazard confronting Eisenhower's amphibious offensive was the nearness of enemy bomber bases on the mainland. Many of these, however, like the many airfields on Sicily itself, have been pounded steadily in recent weeks.

Sicily, densely populated with 4,000,000 persons in peacetime, was denuded of many of its residents as the invasion became more imminent, Axis reports saying they had been evacuated to the mainland.

The Italian mainland itself, less than two miles away across the narrowest point of the Messina Strait at the eastern corner of the island, would be the next logical step for the Allied armies.

Sicily, 9,860 square miles in area, roughly the size of Vermont, is mountainous and hilly. Its western and southern coastlines, nearest Africa, are mostly flat, although there are few points where other shallow-draft vessels can approach.

Good harbors abound in the northern coast, but it is steep and cliff-bound, difficult to assault. Along the east, also fringed by bold cliffs, Mt. Etna towers into the sky.

The major part of Sicily's transportation system skirts the coast, making it subject to crippling attack. Mountainous tracts, with many natural defences, spread through the interior and there are comparatively few transportation routes.

(The Germans, in a propaganda broadcast, told of "ferocious fighting" in the Orel area and said Nazi troops could gain ground only inch by inch.)

The Russians said a German thrust by tanks, air and infantry along a narrow front on the Orel-Kursk front had been stopped dead, although the Germans had brought up reinforcements consisting of nine divisions of infantry and a tank division. Meanwhile, it claimed that its own airforce had ranged far behind the German line to bomb German supply lines and troop concentrations.

Soviet air activity, the Russians said, had been highly successful, Red Army fliers escaping without the loss of a single plane for the second successive night.

(A Berlin broadcast said the Soviet airforce had lost 1,000 planes. The German broadcast also claimed that Nazi troops had destroyed 1,100 Russian tanks.)

FISH OF THE ROMANS

In the Roman Empire, small catches of mullet were sold for fabulous prices.

Heavy Raid Is Made On Ruhr

LONDON, July 10 (CP).—R.A.F. bombers made "a very heavy attack" on the Central Ruhr last night, it was announced today and swarms of Allied fighters and bombers followed this up with day light assaults on European targets.

Heavy bombers of the Canadian Bomber Group took part in the Ruhr attack last night, just as they have flown with the R.A.F. in practically all the massive smashes against that industrial stronghold since the aerial offensive began. In addition, scores of Canadians flew with R.A.F. crews.

An Air Ministry communique said Gelsenkirchen, 27 miles west of Dortmund on the Duisburg-Hamm railway was among the Ruhr targets hit.

Ten Planes Missing

Ten of the big bombers were listed as missing from the Ruhr assault.

Among the great forces of daylight raiders heading out across the Channel were many heavy United States bombers and fighters.

Several hundred planes passed over one district alone, and observers declared the formations may constitute one of the greatest daylight attacking forces from Britain.

Thus, combined British, Canadian and American aerial might concentrated on bases in Britain kept going an air offensive that helps provide proof of the ring of powerful armament the Allies are forging around Europe — a ring that landing forces bent inward against the shores of Sicily this morning.

Oil Refinery Centre

Gelsenkirchen has been hit 44 times previously, last on June 25. The town is an oil refinery centre and also has iron furnaces, and tin, steel and boiler works. Three coal mines are located in the neighborhood.

The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack was the second major air assault on Germany in as many nights, more than 1,000 tons of bombs being cascaded on the Rhineland city of Cologne the previous night.

Today's daylight raiders set out shortly after 7:30 a.m. the first formations flying at an altitude of between 20,000 and 30,000 feet, took a half hour to pass over one coastal point. Other formations followed in relays. As one group of fighters returned, others set out.

An enemy bomber dropped a load of explosives on a theatre in a British southeast coastal town yesterday while an audience of children was watching a cow-boy movie. Twelve were known dead. Workers digging into the debris expected to find other bodies.

CWAC Will Recruit At I.O.D.E. Carnival

Two local girls have been added to the ranks of the Canadian Women's Army Corps in recent days by enlistment at the Peterborough Recruiting Center, it was stated today by L/Cpl. Betty Turner, in charge of recruiting. They are Clare Bradshaw of 159 Hunter street, and Ann Rae of 744 George. A number of inquiries have also been received.

On the evening of July 16 and 17 at the I.O.D.E. Carnival in Riverside Park there will be a C.W.A.C. Recruiting booth open for any girls who wish to get information about service in the Canadian Women's Army.

At the present time fully 9,000 girls are urgently needed to fill vacancies as stenographers, drivers, storewomen, telephone operators and in other capacities, and for the purpose of releasing men for active duty overseas. All women between the ages of 18 and 45, who have completed Grade 8 or have equivalent education, and who are medically fit and have no dependents, are eligible for service in the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

Russian People Acclaim News

MOSCOW, July 10—(AP).—The Russian people joyously welcomed news of the Allied landing on Sicily today.

Even before the newspapers had time to comment editorially, the people entered into excited discussions, calling the new offensive "a fine gift" for the Red Army, now striving to block the summer offensive of the Nazis.

"It is not the second front, of course," they were saying. "But it is another important blow to the Axis."

The public apparently recognizes the potent possibilities of the Sicilian landing as another step toward a continental invasion and as an important action in making the Mediterranean still safer for Allied shipping.

The Russians are vitally interested in any development which can increase and quicken the supply ships of the Allies.

RCAF Bombers Strike Sicily

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP). — Flt. Lt. Leslie C. Powell of the R. C.A.F. Public Relations staff in Algiers reported early to-day a broadcast that R.C.A.F. Wellingtons, "several squadrons," participated in the bombardment of Sicily "to-night."

Presumably this was a reference to the preliminary bombardment from the air before the landing on Sicily early to-day by British, American and Canadian forces.

The broadcast was recorded by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

He said Allied planes had kept up a round-the-clock bombing of the Sicilian bases, concentrating on airfields and on the two ends of the Italian railway service. The attacks on airfields served the double purpose of damaging enemy planes on the ground and making others get into the air to fight, which several did "to their cost."

Very Heavy Assaults.

San Geovanni and Palermo were among the targets hit by the bombers. Heavy Allied bombers had participated in the attack and the R. C.A.F. Wellington squadrons had lunged into the attack during the night.

The enemy island was suffering "a heavy assault" from the air, Flt. Lt. Powell said.

Allied naval forces had pounded enemy coastal strongholds.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

Notice to Certain Employers and Employees

Notice is hereby given that men now employed in certain specified lines of civilian employment must report for interview not later than July 15th, 1943, to an Employment and Selective Service Office. This refers to men who are in age and marital classes already designated under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, and also to men who are 16 to 18 years old (both ages inclusive).

A. Objective:

This Third Order makes available for essential employments the services of men in age and marital classes designated as callable for Military Training under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations and also all men from 16 to 18 years of age (both ages inclusive) who are presently employed in the non-essential employments now specified.

B. EMPLOYMENTS COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

Men, of the specified categories, are covered if now employed in any of the following:

(1) Any wholesale activity not here listed: farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste. (2) Raising of special livestock, such as race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets. (3) Flower growing. (4) Horticultural services, except tree surgery. (5) Leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning. (6) Brewing. (7) Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture; (h) rattan and willow-wares; (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

C. AGE AND MARITAL CLASSES OF MEN COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

(a) Every man born in any year from 1917 to 1927 (inclusive) who has reached 16 years of age.

(b) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, at July 15th, 1940, was: (i) unmarried; or (ii) divorced or judicially separated; or (iii) a widower without child or children.

(c) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who has, since July 15, 1940, become a widower without child or children now living.

(d) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, since July 15, 1940, has been divorced or judicially separated.

Note: Attention is called to the inclusion in this Order of men 16, 17 and 18 years old.

D. Procedure to be Followed:

All men as defined above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 15th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

E. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYEES:

When directed to accept employment, subsequent to the interview referred to, men described in Paragraphs B and C above are required by the Regulations to follow the direction given.

F. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS:

It will be illegal for an employer to retain in his employ after July 15th, 1943, any men referred to in Paragraph C above, at any of the employments set forth in Paragraph B above, unless a special permit has been obtained from a National Selective Service Officer, permitting such action.

G. Transportation:

Special provisions will be made for the transportation of men moved to work at a new place of residence.

H. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees within 7 days of receiving such direction.

I. Penalties in Case of Employers:

Penalties are provided for any employer who retains in, or takes into, his employ after July 15th, 1943, any man covered by the Order, except under special permit.

J. Penalties in Case of Employees:

Penalties are provided for failure on the part of any employed man affected to register under this Order, or to follow a subsequent direction to employment, and in addition to other penalties, refusal to comply renders a man liable to compulsory labour service in an Alternative Service Work Camp.

K. Special Request to Employers:

Each Employer with three or more men covered by this Order in his employ is requested to co-operate by getting in touch with the Employment and Selective Service Office, to arrange a time for the interviews of his employees

L. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).

M. This Third Order is Additional to First and Second Orders:

Employments listed in Paragraph B above, to be reviewed under this Third Order, are additional to the employments listed in the First and Second Orders. The First Order required compliance by May 19th, and the Second Order by June 15th, 1943.

Men referred to above must present documents at the employment office, indicating compliance with Mobilisation Regulations.

Any employer or employee in doubt in regard to the application of the First, Second or Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders, should communicate with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Tank Thrust Broken By Red Army

400-Tank Assault Is Smashed In Orel-Kursk Sector

LONDON, July 122 — (CP). — The German army continued to hurl its steel-tipped battering-rams at Red Army defences on the 200-mile Orel-Kursk-Belgorod front to-day as the Nazis' 1943 summer offensive went into its second week without appreciably denting the Soviet line.

The Russians announced in a midnight communique they had smashed a 400-tank assault in the Orel-Kursk sector, probably the greatest tank battle of the war, and had hurled the enemy back from two populated places. The futile assault cost the Germans 162 tanks and 31 planes, the Russians said, bringing the week's bag to 2,500 armored units and 1,068 planes.

No Headway Made.

It was apparent from both German and Russian sources that the Germans had made little headway in their desperate effort to pinch off the salient which curves westward just below Orel and bends back to the line of the Upper Donets River at Belgorod.

The Russians admitted in communiques during the past week that the Germans had driven a wedge into the Soviet line at Belgorod north toward Kursk, but they say the Red Army is counter-attacking. The most optimistic German claim placed the depth of the wedge at 36 miles, but the Russians have constantly minimised the importance of their withdrawals.

Montgomery Is In Command

VALETTA, Malta, July 12 — (CP). — Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery is commander-in-chief of British forces in Sicily, an official statement said to-day. Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton commands American troops there.

The full list of senior officers commanding the combined operation in the Mediterranean under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower follows:—

Commander - in - chief of the Mediterranean — Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham.

Naval commander—Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay.

Deputy commander - in - chief, Allied forces — Gen. Sir Harold Alexander.

Commander - in - chief, British forces — Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery.

Air commander-in-chief, Mediterranean Air Command — Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder.

Commander United States naval forces — Vice Admiral Henry K. Hewitt.

Commanding general, American forces — Lt. Gen. George S. Patton.

Commanding general, Northwest African Air Force — Lt.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz.

Commanding Northwest African Tactical Air Force — Air Marshal Sir Arthur Cunningham.

Commanding general, strategic air force — Maj.-Gen. James H. Doolittle.

Air officer commanding Northwest African Coastal Air Force — Air Vice Marshal Sir Hugh P. Lloyd.

Where Allied Troops Invaded Sicily

With ten major towns and ports, including Syracuse, already captured by the Allied High forces in their lightning invasion of Sicily, continued progress was reported by the Allied High Command. The towns captured are Pachino, which was taken by the Canadians, and already emergency landing ground is operating; Licata, 80 miles to the west on the south coast; Gela, on Cape Passero at the extreme southeastern tip of the island; Avolo and Noto, between Syracuse and Pachino; Pozzallo, site of an important air base on the south coast; Scoglitti; Ispica and Rosolino.

Canadian Casualties Light

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST, July 11—(Delayed)—(CP Cable). — Canadian assault troops with a crack British formation on their right flank over-ran Pachino peninsula on Sicily within 24 hours after their landing had established an invasion bridgehead.

It has been one success after another in this Canadian-British sector as the greatest combined operation in history is developing.

Canadians now have advanced into hilly country northwest and west of the fishing town of Pachino and major engagements are expected with probably more determined resistance than that put up by the Italian coastal defenders who staged only a mild fight when the Canadian and British forces first landed on the Pachino peninsula, which is tipped by Cape Passero.

The past night and day have been one incredible series of incidents.

I landed alongside the first wave of assault companies of a famous Canadian regiment on a sandy beach at Costa Dell Ambra, four miles southwest of Pachino, at 5.15 Saturday morning.

The Canadian troops have been rushing ahead ever since. It is a tough job keeping up with them on two feet.

Casualties for the first day were very light. A colonel who heads a divisional medical service said that less than 40 casulaties had been reported to him so far. During my trip around the battle zone I saw only three wounded soldiers who had been hit while cleaning out a pillbox just before the beach defence collapsed.

Hospital Ship Sunk

There is a British hospital ship in our convoy now. It is lighted up at night.

(Allied headquarters in North Africa reported Monday that a lighted British hospital ship had been sunk by enemy bombers but that the wounded had been rescued. There was, of course, no indication whether or not this was the same ship Munro reports as being with the Canadian convoy.)

The Italian beach defences which folded up like a concertina were merely barbed wire and some mahine-gun posts which fired a few bursts and then gave up. On our beach the enemy was evidently counting on a sandbar 15 feet off shore as a natural defence. But the Canadians surprised them completely by coming in in heavy surf and battling ashore through

Four Japanese Bases Are Pounded By Allied Planes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 12—(AP).—Allied bombers pounded four widely-separated Japanese bases in the southwest Pacific Sunday, striking most heavily at Munda, the enemy's key defence point in the central Solomons.

More than 176 tons of bombs were loosed on the Japanese strongholds and at least nine Zeros which attempted to interfere were shot down. One Allied bomber and two fighters were lost.

Torpedo and dive-bombers smashed 52 tons of heavy bombs upon anti-aircraft positions and bivouac areas near Munda despite stormy weather. The communique from Allied headquarters said results of the attack were unobserved.

Drop 40 Tons of Bombs

Bombers over Bougainville Island dropped 40 tons of bombs on Kahili, the enemy's largest air base in the Solomons. Several large fires were started. Three Japanese night fighters attempted unsuccessfully to intercept.

Heavy bombers also made a night assault against Vunakanau airdrome at Rabaul. Their 35 tons of bombs started five large fires, two of which were visible 60 miles away.

In the Salamaua area, bombers dropped down almost to tree-top levels to deliver a devastating attack on villages along the trail from Mubo to Salamaua. Forty-nine tons of bombs were dropped and the Malolo village area was heavily strafed. Five enemy fighters were shot down but two Allied fighters are missing.

A heavy bomber was lost in a daylight raid on the airdrome at Bobo, Dutch New Guinea, but others in the formation started extensive fires in the bulding area and shot down four of 10 Zeros that rose to intercept.

Allied surface units intercepted and sank four loaded supply barges off Cape Gerhards, east of Lae on Huon Gulf.

Work Its Own Future

LONDON, Ont., July 12—(CP).—John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative Leader, yesterday told a Canadian Club meeting that Canada should not be content with the Old World, nor follow blindly such designers of the New World as Hitler or Stalin, but should work out its future in line with its own needs and circumstances.

Tank Attacks Of Axis Are Repulsed

Seven Counter-Attacks Are Beaten Back In Drive On Messina

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 12—(AP).—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British armies raced toward Catania from captured Syracuse in a tremendous push up Sicily's east coast today after Allied forces had captured nine other important ports and towns, turned back seven counter-attacks by enemy tanks and captured 2,000 prisoners, mostly Italians.

Heading units of his famous British 8th Army—with which the Canadian forces are associated for this operation—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery plunged toward Messina and the strategic straits some 80 miles northward after securing firmly the advantageous port of Syracuse, a city of 53,000 and potential spring-board for invasion of the Italian mainland.

Axis Attacks Crushed.

Leading the western crescent of the Allied attack, Americans under Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, crushed heavy enemy armored counter-attacks in the Licata-Gela area, some 80 miles west of Syracuse, and advanced northward of Gela.

(The Americans were holding a bridgehead 25 miles long and 10 miles deep after taking Licata and Gela on the south coast, said a dispatch from the Allied command post of Edward Gilling, representing the combined British press. Their equipment was being unloaded at these ports.

Florida, eight miles inland from Syracuse, is in British hands, said another dispatch.

Allied planes were sweeping the skies from airfields captured in Sicily.

They had left Catania, the next objective of the British march, aflame, and they had dive bombed columns of Axis troops being brought up for counter-attacks, destroying 400 or more of the enemy's vehicles.

Pour in Men and Supplies

Allied naval forces, unhampered by the Italian fleet, continued to pour men and supplies into the bridgeheads stretching for 100 miles along Sicily's southeastern coast for the rapid push up Sicily's eastern shore, and hurled shells into the enemy's communications and defences.

American troops in the Gela area beat off counter-attacks by the Italians' fourth Livorno division and 45 tanks in the heaviest of all the seven counter-blows.

The 54th Napoli division was driven out of Syracuse by British troops — a lightning blow at the end of the second day of the Allied invasion which appeared to be a serious handicap to the enemy in bringing up reinforcements to meet a rapidly swelling penetration into the interior of the island.

The civilian population "seemed more pleased to see us than they had been to see the Huns," said one observer.

Visited England

London, July 12 (CP Cable)

IT was disclosed today that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of Britain's famed 8th Army of desert fighters, visited Canadian military leaders in Britain recently before leading the British-Canadian force into Sicily.

Plans for Canadian participation with the 8th Army in the Sicilian attack were believed to be one of the main objectives for the visit, made after the windup of the Tunisian campaign.

First Critical Period Passed Premier Reports

OTTAWA, July 12 —(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King today said in the House of Commons that the "first critical period has passed" for Canadians engaged with the Allied Forces invading Sicily, but "the most critical period is to come."

A hint that the Sicilian campaign is not officially expected to end quickly was given by the Prime Minister when he referred to Canadian interest "in the coming weeks" centring in the battle for Sicily."

"We should remember, too, that Sicily is only an outpost of Europe," he said. "Many other bridgeheads will have to be established before the final struggle even begins."

Mr. King said reports indicated counter attacks had already commenced.

He said Canadians should be proud that their men were engaged in the forefront of this first assault upon Europe.

The Canadian force engaged was "substantial," Mr. King said, but he could give no details.

Read the Newspapers.

The newspapers were the best and quickest source of information in this campaign, Mr. King said, and he did not propose to give progressive bulletins on a regular schedule.

"We should not lose sight of the fact that in the present operations British and United States troops also are engaged," said Mr. King in speaking of information from the scene of fighting.

Security considerations had to be observed in giving out information, but war correspondents were with the forces.

Press Is Best Informed.

"There is no way in which we can be better informed than by the press," said Mr. King.

The correspondents were able to transmit information which military authorities believed could be released.

From time to time, as circumstances warranted, statements would be made in the House by himself or Defence Minster Ralston, in the same way as statements were made t the United Kingdom Parliament, Mr. King said.

Effective arrangements had been made to send out information on the fighting as soon as security permitted.

Mr. King referred to a broadcast from North Africa early Saturday morning by Flt. Lt. Leslie C. Powell of the R.C.A.F. public relations branch within an hour of the announcement of the landings on Sicily.

Syracuse, Important City On Eastern Coast Nine Others Fall To Allies

Task Of Disembarking Troops And Supplies Continues According To Plan Enemy Putting Up More Opposition In Air

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 12 — (AP).—Smashing forward in co-ordinated land, air and naval assaults Allied forces have captured 10 major towns and ports, including Syracuse, in their lightning invasion of Sicily, now in its third day, Allied headquarters announced today.

An Allied headquarters communique said:

"Few details are available of the work of the Navy during the past 24 hours.

"The task of disembarking troops and their supplies on all beaches continues according to plan.

"On the whole, weather conditions have improved though enemy interference from the air has been on a slightly increased scale.

"Defended areas near the coast town of Pozzalo, 12 miles west of Cape Carrenzi, and the railroad line between Syracuse and Ragusa were bombarded last night by our destroyers.

"The surrender of Pozzallo was accepted by the commanding officer of a destroyer, during the early afternoon Sunday.

"Our ground forces have continued to make good progress.

"During the course of the day heavy enemy counter-attacks which were being made with tanks have been repulsed and at least 2,000 prisoners have been taken.

"It can now be stated that the following major towns and ports have been captured by our forces: Syracuse, Avola, Pachino, Pozzallo, Scoglitti, Gla, Licata, Ispica.

Fleets of fighter-bombers swarmed over the contested areas yesterday in increasingly violent attacks on Axis troops, an Allied air communique announced today, and headquarters advices said about 400 Axis vehicles loaded with soldiers and supplies were destroyed or damaged in the fiery onslaught.

While swarms of fighters roamed the beachheads protecting British, Canadian and United States troops and maintained effective air control, formations of heavy and medium bombers smashed at Cantania's communications on the east coast, the airdromes of Sciacca, Milo and Gerbibi and hit heavily at two others at and near Reggio Calabria on the Italian toe.

Attack bombers swarmed to their furious assault when several hundred Axis vehicles were attempting to rush soldiers and supplies to check the rapid Allied advances into the interior of Sicily after Canadians and British troops gained control of an airport at Pachino and the Americans seized two airfields at Gela.

(The Italian communique, recorded by the Associated Press from broadcasts, asserted "Italian and German troops decisively went over to counter-attacks."

(The German communique said at one place the Axis counter-attack "drove the enemy back at first contact," but German military quarters were quoted in other Berlin broadcasts as admitting that the Allies "in other places were able to hold their positions."

(Algiers broadcasts, recorded in London and rebroadcast by the BBC, said a violent battle was raging between Allied troops and 30,000 Germans for possession of the town of Ragusa, a little over 20 miles inland and approximately mid-way between the Americans on the Allied left wing at Gela and British and Canadian forces on the

Plan Is Offered To Stabilize World Exchange

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP). — Canadian financial experts have put forward a plan for an "international exchange union" with a potential capital of $12,000,000,000 and a certain initial capital of $8,000,000,000 as an approach to solution of the problem of fluctuating values of money in the post-war world.

Their draft proposals were tabled in the House of Commons today by Finance Minister Ilsley in answer to a motion for return of papers sponsored by Victor Quelch (N.D., Acadia).

Objectives of Plan

The main objectives of the Canadian plan are:—

1. To provide for stability in exchange rates with an orderly method for their determination.
2. To provide a convenient clearing mechanism to settle balances in international payments.
3. To provide to all countries access to foreign exchange resources.
4. To aid in the achievement of international equilibrium.
5. To contribute to the re-establishment and development of a multilateral trading system and to elimination of discriminatory trading and currency practices.

The proposals represent the contribution by the Government's advisers in the Finance Department and the Bank of Canada to the more or less informal discussions which have been going on for months between experts of various countries seeking a means of stabilizing exchange rates.

No Commitments.

Mr. Ilsley, in a preliminary statement to the House, emphasized that the document "does not necessarily represent the views of this Government by which it has not as yet been considered and involves no commitment whatsoever."

The plan of the Canadian experts is the third to be placed before the economic and banking experts of the nations involved. While it differs in detail, the plan has the same objective as those made public last April by the British and United States Governments. The British and American plans were put forward on the same basis, not as government policy or proposals but as suggestions from experts.

Each member would be required under certain conlitions to loan the union another amount equal to 50 per cent. of its quota, thus giving a potential capial of $12,000,000,000.

In this the Canadian proposal differs from the other two as the United States plan provided for a capital of $5,000,000,000 while the British plan had no fixed contributions from members.

Greatest Amphibious Attack of History

Allied Boot At Long Last Is Jammed Into A Door Of The Continent

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The light-lipped Allied high command is doing much and saying little about the Sicilian invasion but our information is sufficient to tell us we have established our bridgeheads along a 100-mile stretch of the southeast coast of the island and thus have successfully inaugurated the greatest amphibious attack of history.

Through these all-important gaps in the Axis defences are pouring the reinforcements, machines of war and supplies which will enable the troops of the United Nations to reduce one of the most important defences of Southern Europe.

It's quite likely we have a fierce and bloody struggle ahead of us before we master this battle ground of the ancients, but we would seem to have broken the back of the job already, for establishment of the bridgeheads was the crucial task.

So the Allied boot at long last is jammed into a door of the continent. To Messrs Hitler and Mussolini this must signal strongly the approach of retribution, for the forces massed in the vast North African camp for invasion operations comprised not only Americans, Britons and Canadians, but men from occupied countries where the Axis has murdered the raped and plundered — France, Poland, Greece, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Allied troops are astride the peninsula which forms the southeast tip of Sicily, ending in Cape Passero. One German military analyst asserts Commander-In-Chief Eisenhower apparently is bent on establishing a front across this southeastern corner, between the city of Gela on the west and Syracuse to the north. One would say that the general not only intends to establish such a front but apparently has done so already.

At least three Axis airfields were early in the invaders' hands—two at Gela and another at Pachino, near the Cape. Those fields should be invaluable to the attack in its early stages, and they likely are in use already. Latest reports from headquarters in North Africa say fleets of Allied bomb-fighters have been slashing steadily at Axis troops and positions along the invasion front.

There naturally are no official figures for the forces involved. However, London observers placed the Axis strength in Sicily at about 400,000 men, including considerable German reinforcements.

Berlin is toying with figures which indicate they believe the Allies are drawing from a reservoir of close to 1,000,000 men in Africa and that there may be 450,000 effectives involved in the actual assault. The Nazis also place the Allied Air Force in the Mediterranean theatre at about 4,000. The invasion fleet of 2,000 ships is the greatest ever assembled.

We're likely to find it a costly business before we are through, for the rugged terrain of Sicily provides the setting for a fierce battle. It is a mass of mountains, slashed by valleys, and there are plenty of strong natural positions for Axis defence.

Battle Is Only Beginning

Enemy Must Guard Against Other Landings

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 12—(CP Cable)—Completion of the initial phase of the Allied landings in Sicily was hailed by military experts here as well as by morning newspapers but at the same time warnings were sounded that the battle was only beginning.

Most newspapers stressed, too, that the Sicily operation was just part of a vaster plan to storm the Continent itself and linked the invasion with the battles now raging in Russia.

"This atack must be put in its proper setting," said the Daily Telegraph, "though a blow has been delivered at Sicily, the enemy is very far from being able to denude other vulnerable points in order to repel it, for official communiques clearly indicate that nothing like the whole force available in the Mediterranean is being used for the invasion."

Military analysts said they were surprised at the comparative ease with whch the initial stage of the Sicilian invasion had been completed and cautioned against the belief thta the next step would be similarly easy.

Cargo Fleet Intercepted

U.S. Bombers Batter Four Jap Vessels Off Kiska

WASHINGTON, July 12—(CP)—American bombers, battering four Japanese cargo vessels apparently attempting to supply the enemy base at Kiska, sank one Japanese ship, left a second in a sinking condition, and badly damaged the other two in the group.

The Navy, reporting this today, said U. S. army heavy and medium bombers and navy patrol bombers intercepted the cargo fleet 280 miles southwest of Holtz Bay, Attu Island. That location would put the ships on a direct line from Japan to Kiska.

The Navy also reported a new bombardment of Japanese positions at Gertrude Cove on Kiska and on Little Kiska Island Sunday morning.

The enemy did not return the fire from the guns of a single United States surface vessel.

The sinking of one cargo vessel and damaging of others, raised to a total of 60 the number of Japanese ships sunk, damaged or probably sunk in Aleutians campaign. That total includes 17 sent to thebottom, seven probably sunk and 36 damaged.

BEACH DEFENCES SMASHED BY CANADIANS IN VER Y SHORT ORDER

Easy Landing Is Made By Canadians

Canadian Smashed Beach Defences In Very Short Order

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 10 — (Delayed) — (CP).— Behind an enormous naval and air night bombardment, the Canadians practically walked into Sicily today, meeting very little determined resistance on their beaches four miles southwest of Pachino on the southeast tip of the island.

The Canadians smashed through beach defences as soon as they were ashore, and the infantry attacked inland, establishing an extensive bridgehead which was the Canadians' initial task in the 8th Army invasion plan.

Stubborn Resistance

Some stubborn resistance has been put up by the Italians north and west of Pachino, and along other sectors of the front there were heated engagements.

Big battles probably will come before long, but meanwhile large numbers of prisoners are being captured. They have been coming back from the front since dawn in batches of 50 to 100 guarded by one or two Canadians.

So far Canadian casualties appear to be very light. On one beach where two assault units landed there were only half a dozen men wounded.

I landed at 5:15 this morning from a naval launch which guided the assault infantry to the beach. There was scarcely a shot fired as I passed through the wire and the troops infiltrated into the countryside.

Two companies had got in shortly ahead of us on our beach and they and some sappers seemed to have a sharp engagement, but broke through the weak

Thousands Of Troops Are Landed In North Africa

LONDON, July 12 — (CP). — Canada's troops, fighting on the island of Sicily since Saturday morning, are being backed up by the arrival in Africa of thousands of reinforcements, it was disclosed over the week-end.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent, who landed with the Canadian troops on Sicily, reported back Sunday in a dispatch written Saturday afternoon, that the Canadian troops met "very little determined resistance on their beaches" and that "so far Canadian casualties appear to be light."

He revealed that troops from Western Canada, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were among the soldiers who poured off landing boats as the "Battle of Europe" got under way.

Re-inforcements Landed

Almost two days after his dispatch was written no other eyewitness word of casualties had arrived back in London. His dispatch was followed up last night by one from William Stewart, Canadian Press War Correspondent in Africa, that a troop convoy had landed thousands of reinforcements from Britain in North African ports, ready to support the first Canadians to see action in the new theatre of war.

Munro's eye-witness dispatch was a world beat. In it he reevaled that the Canadians on Sicily apparently formed part of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's famed desert fighters, the 8th Army.

Some hours after receipt of his account, other dispatches told of a juncture having been formed by Canadian troops with British forces, the combined troops having won full possession of the area that includes the fishing town of Pachino in Sicily.

Coastal batteries shelled the landing boats but the fire was erratic. The Canadians went through the beach defences in a matter of minutes and struck inland, mopping up groups of Italians en route. More than 700 prisoners, including 15 officers, have been captured by the Canadians.

Prisoners Happy

All day columns of prisoners poured down from the front, a happy-looking crowd, guarded by one or two soldiers.

The Royal Navy has been giving the troops magnificent gun support, and big and small warships lying close in to shore bombard their targets with thundering salvoes which shake the peninsula.

During the day we saw no enemy aircraft. It seemed eerie not having any about.

The beach looked like a big traffic jam with tanks, guns and trucks plowing through the sand to roads leading inland. It was almost unbelievable to Canadians that this first stage could be so easy. But once the Axis armies get organized to try to cope with this surprise descent on the coasts, there may be stubborn fighting.

There are some German formations in Sicily and the enemy has some tanks. The Canadians realize they met poorer Italian soldiers on the beaches and around Pachino—men of a coastal defence division—and they are not being misled that the road ahead will be easy. But everyone keeps asking themselves: "Where are the Italian navy and air force?"

I started this story of the first day in a slit trench on my clifftop position and it is being finished now in the early morning aboard a headquarters ship. This is the story now of my trip onto the beaches, the assault and the follow-up.

Tried To Hit Ships

Last night bombers attacked the troops near the beach and tried to hit our ships under the glare of dropped flares. The raid lasted only about 30 minutes and was not effective. Our ack-ack from ships and shore was terrific, filling the sky with red balls of tracer.

The troops were well dug in ashore and the bombers could not touch them except by direct hits. I watched the raid from the clifftop overlooking the bay, lying in a slit trench under a fiery curtain of flak.

The R.A.F. has been giving us fighter protection and you could hear the drone of Spitfires practically all the time during the day. Our ships have their barrage balloons up and look like part of the London scene.

Thousands upon thousands of troops poured on the bridgehead after the successful assault and vehicles, guns, stores and ammunition have been rushed to the beaches.

Men Well Prepared.

The attack was the stuff the men had prepared for an intensive combined operations training in Britain. Immediately after the exercises the convoy carrying assault troops sailed for the Mediterranean and they went right to these Sicilian beaches without being attacked by aircraft.

The entire 2,000-mile trip was made without any trouble—fantastic considering that we sailed in daylight right through the Sicilian Channel and the Malta Channel towards Pachino Peninsula with the whole invasion armada concentrated in one gigantic convoy.

The day before the attack we started to head in the general direction of Sicily and everyone was keyed to a high pitch. In the morning the wind started to kick up the whitecaps on the Mediterranean which up till then had been as calm as a millpond.

The wind rose steadily until by afternoon it was of gale proportions. By that time we could see Malta. Our spirits sank for we thought the operation would have to be postponed. Our small boats could not live in that sea, but no message came telling us the job was off.

A colonel told us the attack was to go on. At last we were definitely on our way. There was quite a strong surface swell, though, and it wasn't going to be any sinecure landing on what everyone knew to be a tough beach with a sandbar stretched across the face of it.

Tactical Surprise.

During the evening (Friday, July 9) we learned from the Headquarters ship that the Pachino airfield had been plowed up. Some thought perhaps the Italians had got wind of our attack. But security had been maintained 100 per cent. The attack was definitely a tactical surprise, according to Headquarters staff officers.

Preparing For Landing.

Down in the mess decks the Canadians were preparing for their landing. They got their kit together dabbed a little more oil on their weapons sorted out grenades and loaded up with ammunition. They were having a whale of a time. In the Sergeants' Mess some N. C. O.'s were playing cards and drinking soda pop —our ship was "dry" all the way. In the officers' lounge a British tommy played a piano expertly playing some lively tunes and a few melancholy ones.

The officers met in the lounge and were addressed by their Colonel. Similar meetings were held aboard the other ships as the zero hour approached.

"We are on the eve of a night in history that will never be forgotten" said the Colonel. "We will look back on this night, and our children will. We will look back on it as the night we started to put the skids to the enemy."

Then everyone repeated the Lord's Prayer and shook hands all round The meeting broke up. I went on deck and watched our convoy in the moonlight.

There was still no air attack. Unbelievable. At midnight we saw great flashes in the distance where Sicily lay. Our bombers were hitting their targets. Tracers reached into the sky. There were some coastal searchlights playing over the sea. We were too far out then to be bothered by them.

Earlier we had all been getting a litlte jumpy for it looked like suicide to try to land in the wild sea. We had the evening meal and were becoming reconciled to a possible postponement. But when darkness fell we were still heading for the southeast tip of Sicily.

Hundreds upon hundreds of other ships and warships were around us —the greatest convoy ever to sail to the attack. There were ships as far as you could see. About 10 p.m. the wind suddenly dropped and the whitecaps disappeared.

The High Command gambled on the wind falling undoubtedly it had the weather 'tapde"— and won. Then the big convoy broke up. The Americans headed off for the Gela beaches. We sailde right ahaed under a first-quarter moon tnat gilded the ocean. The sky was clear and crowded with stars.

I could hear our bombers droning over towards Italy. Some flares shot up from the shore. They were unnerving and lingering. I was going in with the naval commander in a naval motor launch which was to guide the assault troops to the right beaches.

At 1 a.m. we went down the side of our ship in an assault landing craft and hit the swell which lifted us high in the air. We rocked about and moved among the ships which now were anchored a number of miles off Pachino Peninsula. Finally we located our motor launch and clambered aboard. Slowly the assault landing craft gathered around us for the run in. Many of the troops were seasick in them.

Through a megaphone, our commander on our little, leaping motor launch told the flotillas destined for our beach to follow him, and we started off. Other flotillas sped off noiselessly for other beaches. British Commandos were on the Canadian left flank and another British formation on the right.

Pachino Set Ablaze

Crack units were to land first and destroy a coastal battery. Ahead of us we could see a glare in the sky. The air attack and naval bombardment had set Pachino ablaze. Wooden buildings in the town of 15,000 population were burning.

To the left I saw tracer bullets and could hear the bang of machine-guns. Troops were landing. We crept in closer until we could see the low, dark coastline of Sicily in the shadows. Some red flares shot up, lingered and snuffed out. The enemy was doing some kind of signalling. Tremendous explosions boomed out in the night. I think it must have been bombing far inland. We could see gigantic flashes..

On our right there were more flashes, but this time from seaward. Warships of the Mediterannean fleet were shelling positions on the peninsula. The noise was ear-splitting, though the ships were miles away. When the flashes occurred you could see the gleaming gun barrels lit up even at that distance. Tracers started to criss-cross our beaches.

Some Royal Canadian Engineers from Nova Scotia and two companies of an Ontario regiment were touching down ahead of us. There were spurts of machine-gun bullets at their boats. Then I heard our Bren guns. The Brens have a distinctive knocking sound like a stick striking an oak door.

Canadians were in action.

Dawn was creeping up as I transferred from the motor launch to a landing craft for beaching. Just then tank landing craft bringing up the first wave of an Ontario regiment came up and in we went. Naval craft were laying a smoke screen for us, and gunfire from destroyers, a cruiser and a monitor dinned in our ears.

Some beach defences were still pegging away with their final shots before being wiped out. A coastal battery halfway between the beach and Pachino was firing with six-inch guns. Shells crashed in the sea around us. They were too close for comfort but did not hit a thing.

Hit Sandbar

Canadians were swarming over the beach and our craft leaped through the surf in smoke, confusion and noise. The landing craft hit the sandbar and stopped short. We piled over the side and plunged into four feet of water. My typewriter was dunked. I suddenly thought of Dieppe and wondered who would be writing this story for it looked plenty hot here.

But we waded frantically through the breakers and ran onto the beach. The troops swarmed off their craft and went through a tap in the wire defences which had been cut by sappers a few minutes before. Infantrymen were already spreading out in the sand dunes on the other side of the wire.

Not an enemy beach machine-gun was in action right here. More gaps were cut through the wire which stretched the whole length of the beach which was sandy and 50 yards wide from the sea to the dunes where the wire was located.

Canadians were firing to the right and left and an occasional burst of enemy fire was heard from several hundred yards island. The Canadians went for them. Beach organization now was being set up with navy and army personnel working speedily.

I cleared off down the beach with one tought in mind—digging in for dive-bombing which, on the basis of a past disagreeable experience, I thought was certain to come. I had no spade so I scooped out sand with my hands and my tin cup.

The sun was now up. Infantrymen with fixed bayonets were prodding bushes on the dunes. The first prisoner had been taken—a soldier in a pillbox. Apparently his comrades had run for it.

Occupied Hill.

Canadians moved up a hill to the right of the beach and occupied it. Others scouted north and west. There was some firing from farmhouses among the vineyards on gently-rising land. There were stone walls around most of the fields. It was miserable farm land, through, with many rocks.

For half an hour we waited tensely for enemy planes but they never showed up. The beach was organized now, and special British beach groups had the whole situation in hand.

Canadian infantry were racing up the road leading to Maucini, a mile and a half from the beach. Maucini is an old monastery on a hilltop and served as an Italian barracks and ammunition dump. The troops surprised nearly 200 Italian soldiers there and captured the lot of them. The infantrymen went on to a coastal battery a mile farther north on the same road. This was the one that blasted at us on the way in.

Attacking with grenades, the Canadians stormed the gun positions and knocked the battery out, taking more prisoners. Troops of an Ontario regiment by now were also about three miles inland and pushing ahead at top speed. The R.C.E. and British sappers were going through fields with mine detectors. They located several large minefields and dug up scores of the latest model German mines. On the right flank a British formation had equal success in landing and taking out beach defences. They occupied the tip of the peninsula and then, I believe, captured Pachino town. (The capture of Pachino was confirmed Monday, some hours after Munro wrote this dispatch and was unofficially credited to British and Canadian forces.)

At any rate, Pachino, burned to a crisp, fell during the morning.

Similar success was achieved on the beach adjoining on the left, wherever Vancouver and Winnipeg Regiments assaulted.

They practically walked in standing up and infiltrated inland, cleaning out pockets of resistance and occupying high ground with British troops on their left.

Lived Once in Toronto

After half an hour on the beach I began to trudge up the Maucini Road. At the first turn I met a batch of Canadians who had done the initial assault and they told me the first civilian they ran into was a Sicilian who had lived in Toronto for seven years. I went to his hovel among knee-high grape vines and confirmed this. He claimed he could speak very good English, but would not tell me his name.

Bren-gun carriers were ashore now and they clattered along hard dusty roads up gentle hills on the way to the Pachino area. Long columns of troops marched along following up the assault infantry. The beach was a conglomation of soldiers, vehicles, landing craft, wireless set and hand carts of supplies.

Just behind our beach were two salt marshes. They had dried out a little but the surface was still slimy. Here mosquitoes bred and we remembered our anti-malaria precautions.

Four hundred yards from the beach I went around a sharp turn in the road and saw the first prisoners. They were six short, swarthy Italians dressed in soft forage caps and flimsy gray uniforms. One carried a sachel with food and wine in it. He seemed to have been prepared for capture. They looked anything but good soldiers and when the Canucks gave them the odd cigaret to see what happened their faces lit up.

They were evidently quite content with their lot and as we passed they grinned, said hello in Italian and gave us a Fascist salute. There were also two horse-drawn Italian army ammunition carts, filled with ammunition, and the Canadians took them over immediately to carry mortar bombs to the forward troops.

There were still a few snipers around and we walked along the road cautiously. Bren carriers passed us at top speed. At Maucini a handful of Caandians was in charge. Outside the courtyard of the white stucco building were piles of Italian steel helmets, ammunition pouches, rifles and machine-guns.

Meets Opposition

The area around Maucini was quiet but ahead there was firing of small arms and we heard the deep crump of mortar bombs. The advancing troops had met some opposition. Two hundred Italians taken at Maucini were marching down the road with three Canadians escorting them. The guards were having no trouble at all. One Canadian commandeered an Italian army car and after fumbling with the gears got it rolled and rushed his section to the front. Between Maucini and Pachino I passed two Italian dead lying by the roadside.

It was now eight A.M. and I was three miles into Sicily already, pursuing the forward infantry. I stopped then with Press Relations Officer Dave McLellan of Halifax, who was with me all the time, to make a cup of tea. We sat under an olive tree in a grove and settled down to breakfast, such as it was. The Canadians were attacking the Pachino airfield a mile ahead of us by now and the sound of furious firing reached us.

On a hill 500 yards from our olive range enemy mortar fire banged down. It was off range.

Tanks Advancing.

Just as I was about to sip the first mouthful of tea I looked across into the next field and there were three tanks. They were moving in our direction. Dropping the tea, I yelled "German tanks"—they looked like Mark IV's at that distance—and scooted for cover.

Mac crouched with a tommy-gun. Then I got out my binoculars and identified them as British. They were with the British forces on our right. With relief we went back to our cold tea and we had scarcely started properly into our breakfast of biscuits when we heard the crack of a rifle. It went off twice and seemed close. Some sniper perhaps had spotted us.

So at this stage we left the olive grove, walking back to the beach and passing hundreds of Canadians going forward.

This is inhospitable-looking countryside here on the undulating ground about Pachino. Tenant farmers are poor and live in miserable shacks, scraping a living somehow from rocky soil. Vineyards predominate and melons are getting ripe. With water one of our big problems in this dry part of Sicily, the troops picked and ate them by the roadside during the breathers in their march.

Ontario Unit Pressed North

The tanks which had given us a scare crawled up the slope where mortar bombs were bursting and fired down into the valley beyond. They then disappeared in the direction of the airfield. Bren guns were firing at a dozen points as the regiment I went in with captured the airport and an Ontario regiment pressed north.

Canadian and British troops, in their tropical kit and wearing shorts, looked like veterans by noon, all covered with white dust. A frequent comment to us as we passed the mwas, "Say, where is the war." This whole advance seemed so unreal and it was nothing like what the troops had expected.

While the Canadian intelligence had the thing doped out exactly right, there was a tendency during the voyage out to expect far more trouble than there was. But the boys were not kicking that the assault had been a soft touch.

Axis Fearing New Thrusts

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, July 12 (AP)—The entire fortress of Europe was on the alert today for new lightning Allied thrusts as Axis leaders in Germany and Italy anxiously watched the progress of the battle for the Mediterranean island of Sicily.

Dispatches reaching here today from Berlin and Rome conceded that the Allies had established at least four bridgeheads in Sicily and looked ahead glumly to a day not far distant when they expect invasion barges to grate upon other shores along the Mediterranean.

Of the two Axis capitals Berlin took the news of the invasion more calmly, pointing out it had long been expected and declaring advance Allied parachutists and airborne units had been annihilated or surrounded and captured. Axis sources gave few details, however, on the progress of the fighting in Sicily.

Mounting Tension

There was mounting tension in Rome and on the mainland of Italy.

One dispatch from Milan said Mussolini and King Victor Emanuel had made a point of being seen publicly in Rome, where the "atmosphere is heavy," and private sources revealed Mussolini had presided over a cabinet meeting yesterday.

It was also reported there had been further expulsions in the Fascist party in an effort to bolster crumbling morale and Italian newspapers were enlisted in a campaign to whip up enthusiasm for the fighting ahead.

(The London Daily Mail reported Mussolini had appealed to the King to address the Italian people in an effort to ease the tension which followed reports of the Sicilian invasion.

4th Compulsory Manpower Order Affects Youths 16, 17, 18 Years

OTTAWA, July 12 —(CP) —Labor Minister Mitchell to-day announced the fourth compulsory employment transfer order which lists specifically a wide range of work from which youths of 16, 17 and 18 will be transferred to more essential jobs after July 24.

The specific jobs mentioned are those contained in the first and second transfer orders issued some weeks ago. The minister announced some time ago that he had been given power to transfer youths covered by those orders. The fourth order is the one putting that power into effect.

There was no official indication how many youths of 16, 17 and 18 would be affected, but the number was believed to be large since it covers even those who plan to return to school next autumn.

The third order, issued recently, applied to youths as well as to men of age groups subject to compulsory military service and so the occupations listed in it are not included in the fourth order.

Occupations Listed.

Following is the list of occupations to which today's order applies:

"1. Any ocupation in or associated wtih the following: (a) barber shops and beauty parlors: (b) distilling alcohol for beverage; (c) dyeing, cleaning and pressing, baths, guide service, shoe shining; (d) entertainment, including but not restricted to theatres, film agencies, motion picture companies, clubs, bowling alleys, pool rooms; (e) operation of ice cream parlors and soda fountains; (f) manufacture of feathers, plumes and artificial flowers; chewing gum, wine, lace goods, greeting cards, jewelry.

"(g) Retail stores; (h) factory production of statuary and art goods; (i) retail and wholesale florists; (j) retail sale of confectionery, news; (k) retail sale of motor vehicles or accessories; (l) retail sale of sporting goods or musical instruments; (m) service stations (gasoline- filling stations); (n) taverns, liquor, wine and beer stores.

"2.Bus boy; charman and cleaner; custom furrier; dancing teacher; dish washer; domestic servant;

The LINE PATROL keeps Ontario's Power Flowing

● Maintenance of Hydro transmission lines presents a tremendous challenge to the men whose job it is to keep Ontario's power flowing. For, in war or peace, the factory, the farm, and the home, depend upon an unfailing supply of electricity.

● During the winter, when deep snow blankets the province, line patrol and maintenance is particularly tough. In the north . . . when, at many times of the year, roads are impassable . . . line patrols of men and dogs, fight their way through the drifts . . . battling blizzard, ice and frost. In summer too, the patrol must continue. Where economically possible this is done by car or truck, but in many remote places it must be carried out on foot or by canoe. In fair weather or foul, the year around, Ontario looks to Hydro for power . . . and Hydro men see that they get it.

● From one end of the province to the other . . . from the great lakes to the wilderness of the far North . . . Hydro patrol men and crews of skilled linemen are on the alert, day and night, ready to meet the onslaughts of nature in the raw . . . ready to combat the havoc wrought by any storm. And . . . when disaster strikes . . . they stay on the job until the power is flowing again, so that Ontario's war-geared industries can keep running full-tilt, producing on round-the-clock schedules.

COBOURG

U.S. Flier Made 41 Raids Against Japs

COBOURG, July 12—(ENS)—Captain John C. Ruse, decorated U.S. Army Air Force flyer, who has seen 41 combat raids against Japan, spent the week-end in Cobourg where he visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ruse. His grandfather was formerly chief of police of Cobourg, retiring some years ago. Captain Ruse was accompanied by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ruse of LaGrange, Illinois.

Captain Ruse was a frequent summer visitor to Cobourg when a boy and is well-known here. He has been in the service for four years, flying in China before Pearl Harbour.

Got Two Planes

Bomber pilot and flight leader, he is a veteran at 25 years, of 41 raids over Japanese territory in the last 13 months, and has downed two Jap planes. After a smashing attack on Canton, the Japanese government announced over the Tokyo radio that it would give $10,000 for Ruse's capture and those who were with him. He was decorated with the silver star and air medal and just before leaving his base in China for home he received the distinguished service cross. The citation told of 41 trips over enemy teritory for a total of 203 hours, from June 3, 1942 to May 30, 1943, in Japanese-occupied China, Burma and Indo China.

"His cool aggressiveness and determination contributed materially to the successful completion of these missions; his work has been excellent and his actions are characteristic of the highest traditions of the Army Air Forces," the citation read.

Of his many flights, Captain Ruse declared: "some were thrilling; some scared hell out of me and some were routine."

It took 13½ days for him to make his 15,000-mile trip from his base in China to his home at LaGrange and in one day he made 3,500 miles. India, he found dirty and hot; China was much better as far as climate was concerned but nothing could touch the United States—and Canada he added.

Landed In Jungle

Captain Ruse recalls that on his trip from India to headquarters in China he participated in his first bombing raid catching the Japs by surprise at Lashio. Later he was forced to bail out when he ran out of gas in bad weather and injured in his landing he had a long trek through mountain wilderness until friedly Chinese natives helped him to his base.

He had one close call while on a mission to bomb a truck on the Burma road. Unable to locate the convoy he dumped his bombs in the Salwene Valley area but Jap cross-fire knocked out an engine and he found himself with only 6,500 feet altitude on the Japanese side of a 10,000 feet high mountain range. He was able to get his plane to 10,000 feet altitude but no higher. He found a gap in the range and got through. Capt. Ruse found his landing field blacked-out and landed through the aid of the headlights from two trucks showing him the edge of the field.

At the air base, where he was stationed, the men lived in one-story buildings known as hostels, with 30 men to a hostel. Food was nourishing but the diet was monotonous and sometimes the men went to a nearby town to eat, where they paid $5 and $6 for a meal.

1,400 Excursionists Come From Rochester

COBOURG, July 12 — (ENS). — Ideal weather brought many excursionists over from Rochester to Cobourg yesterday. Over 900 came on one car ferry and about 500 on the other. Annual Shriners' excursion from Rochester will be held on July 30.

Cobourg fire department answered a call around three o'clock Sunday morning when an army staff car caught fire back of the new Royal Hotel. A defective wire is believed responsible for the blaze. The inside furnishings of the car were burned but no other damage was caused.

Cobourg sea cadets have returned from camp which was held at Gananoque. The boys reported a busy but pleasant time at camp and enjoyed their outing very much.

Friends Hold Shower For Rylstone Bride

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS). —Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones were feted by friends at a miscellaneous shower staged in their honor on Friday evening. The gathering was held at the home of the bride's father, Mr. H. Spencer, Rylstone, and upwards of seventy-five guests were present.

Mr. Fred Rutherford, who acted as master of ceremonies during the evening, read a congratulatory message to the couple and expressed the hope that the "happy association we have had may still continue for a good many years. We ask you to accept these gifts as a small token of our esteem and may the years you will now spend together be the happiest each of you has ever known." The address was signed by Mrs. Carl Reid and Miss Isobel Irwin. Dainty refreshments brought the evening to a close.

Lockmaster Fights An Hour To Land Fish

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS). —Walter Sutton, lockmaster of No. 13; just above Campbellford, was hardly prepared for the good luck he had when he did a bit of casting on the way back from the power plant at the other side of the river on Saturday morning. He was casting in the canal and returned, with a twenty-pound 'lunge.

Mr. Sutton estimated it was an hour and a quarter from the time he hooked the fish till he got it on the bank. Mr. Sutton was using a jointed pikie minnow and the fish left enough of the bait outside its mouth that he could grab it and heave it ashore after tiring it out. The muskie measured 26 inches in length and around the girth was 16¾ inches, and the catch was made about 8.45 in the morning.

Mr. Sutton does quite a bit of fishing, and though most of it is done within sight of the town, he manages to have better luck than some who go much farther afield. Two years ago when he hooked a twenty-four-pound 'lunge opposite the Villa Trent, Mr. Sutton inspired many local fishermen to try their luck in the canal here.

SOLDIER OF THE SOIL

THIS year the Canadian Farmer urgently needs help. He needs your help to produce the food so necessary for victory. Many thousands of farm workers are serving in the Forces, so that the farmer — the Soldier of the Soil—is shorthanded, but shorthanded as he is, he is called upon to produce more food than ever before. Food is one of the most powerful weapons of war. Grains, eggs, bacon, beef, fruit, vegetables —FOOD to feed our armies, our allies and our people we must have.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

You may be a school teacher, student, business or professional man, an office or store clerk—no matter what you are, if you have a few hours, days, weeks, or months of free time this summer, you can do your country and the farmer a great and patriotic service by helping out on the farm. You may be inexperienced, but you still can help. You will find work on the farm healthy and congenial. It will give you the satisfaction of feeling that you have brought Victory nearer.

What you should do NOW!

The Ballot Is Complete

The ballot for the local phase of the coming Provincial election is now complete. Captain Alex Elliott, who held the seat, will again stand as Liberal candidate; the Progressive Conservative Party will be represented by Mr. Harold Scott; and the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation have chosen Mr. Bruce Johnston as their candidate.

We have already spoken of Captain Elliott in these columns in connection with this election; it remains, therefore, to comment on the other two candidates. Both the Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F have chosen with discretion and their candidates should make an excellent showing at the polls. As the ballot stands at present, it would be quite impossible to predict the outcome of the local election.

Mr. Scott must be looked upon as a dark horse, for he has not been prominent in the political life of this community. He has been active in business here, and he has interested himself in work on behalf of underprivileged children, doing a particularly good job in this respect during his period as President of the Kiwanis Club. He served in the first Great War.

Mr. Johnson is well known as Clerk of the Township of North Monaghan, a post which he has held for over thirty years, with conspicuous success. He is a market gardener, and so he should appeal to farmer voters. He is known to have a thorough grasp of municipal law, and his ability as an administrator has been shown on many occasions. What is more, he is known to be a man of independent thought, for he has never been a diehard adherent of any party, and has ranged widely in the political field during his lifetime. His personal popularity will undoubtedly stand him in stead at the polls.

Now that all the candidates have been chosen, the Examiner proposes to withdraw itself from the election struggle, and will confine itself to reporting the relevant events of the campaign. As an independent newspaper we cannot take sides in elections, and for that reason we shall make no editorial comment on the election until August 5, and until that date we shall print no unsigned Letters To The Editor which touch on any phase of the campaign. We shall break this self-imposed resolution only if a situation arises in which silence would be contrary to the best interests of the whole community.

Librarian At The Collegiate

We are happy to see that a full-time Librarian has been appointed at the P.C.V.I. What we have said before we shall say again: a well-stocked library should be the soul of any school worthy of the name. It is impossible for teachers to be repositories of all knowledge, and if they can refer their pupils to a collection of books for information the value of their teaching is doubled, trebled—increased beyond all reckoning. Indeed, it is doubtful if there is any better gift which a good teacher can give to his pupils than to instil in them the habit of turning to reference books and books of specialized knowledge when they are in doubt on any matter of fact. It is a habit which, once formed, is never broken, and it is a safeguard against the masses of misinformation and incomplete information which the vast extent of modern specialized knowledge has imposed upon the world.

More than a century ago Carlyle said: "The true university of these days is a collection of books". The student who learns to use books when he is in the Collegiate will have stolen a march on his university work, and if he is unable to go to a university he will have found a way of giving himself all the higher education that he can absorb. We congratulate Miss Genevieve Fowler on her appointment; the work which she has been chosen to do will greatly increase the benefits which the P.C.V.I. is in a position to bestow on its pupils.

Canadians In Action

Once again, Canadian troops are in action, and we have no fear that they will fail to give a good account of themselves. But the nature of the exploit in which they are engaged—the storming of the island of Sicily—is one of the most dangerous to be faced in war, and it would be foolish to deceive ourselves that it can be carried out without heavy losses. We must face the fact that this engagement will be costly.

In the last war the Allies became accustomed to heavy losses early in its course, and good news and bad were inextricably mingled. Now, in the fourth year of this war, our losses have been comparatively light, and it may be hard for us to realize that the next twelve months will bring sorrow to many hearts and homes. When we were losing the war we were fortunate at least in losing few men: now that we have begun to win, we must prepare ourselves to pay a heavy price. Casualty lists are the saddest sort of reading, and soon the press will begin to print them, at greater and greater length.

At the time of writing the action at Sicily is still vague, and it may be that, by the time this appears in print, it will have clarified itself either as a glorious victory, or as a reversal of fortune for us. In either case our losses will be heavy and hard to bear. But in either case they will be part of the toll which victory demands of the victors.

Holidays At Home

Englishmen are being urged to take their holidays at home this year, in order to save transport which is needed for more serious purposes. This will mean some hardship for the inhabitants of the big cities, who look forward for many months to their annual outing. Most English city dwellers go to the seaside for their holiday; they are a seafaring people, and some deep instinct urges them to go to the sea and look at it, and swim in it, and sail on it, whenever they have a chance. The Scot and the Welshman are content to remain in their mountains, but the Englishman must go to the seaside if his holiday is to be a happy one.

But the cities are doing all that they can to make a holiday at home pleasant. The London County Council have arranged special entertainments in the parks, with concert parties for adults, and Punch and Judy for the children; there is outdoor dancing, and sports for children and young people; there are boxing tournaments for the sporting, and bowls and flower shows for the elderly; swimming galas have been arranged for some parks which have lakes or pools; there are several street fairs, and a circus on a gigantic scale. And there are band concerts at lunchtime and every evening.

The British people are particularly devoted to band concerts. Many a man who would turn up his nose at Sir Henry Wood's Promenade Concerts (which are crowded this year) will confess his fondness for "a bit o' brass". And so the strains of Gilbert and Sullivan "selections", medleys of patriotic airs, and the overture to Zampa will sound in British parks all this summer, thrilling the hearts of the populace, and almost consoling them for their regular visit to the seaside.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE farmer who now makes plans for 1944 will be well advised. The world demand for food is going to be a very strong one for a period of years. This has induced the British Minister of Agriculture to call for a 4-year plan which will take their farmers until 1947 to carry out. This should be a lead for us to follow and, as many of our plans have been thwarted by bad weather, we should arrange to now change our plans so as to gain all the advantage possible for our 1944 crop. We must bear in mind, however, that the weather can often make trouble for the tillers of the soil. Keeping up our dairy and beef cattle, the hog crop and the wool-producing animals, will be Ontario's chief support to the war effort from a farmer's standpoint.

There has been a rather heavy mortality among lambs in some districts this year, particularly where new flocks have been recently started. When a farmer takes up a new line of production on his farm he cannot be too careful in securing all the knowledge he possibly can as to handle it to the best advantage and how to avoid losses from new difficulties which are constantly arising.

Improvement in the quality of dairy herds of cattle in England is engaging the attention of the British Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Hudson, in a trip through Devon and Cornwall, emphasized this at his meetings. He said that while there were some good herds of dairy cows in these counties, there were far too many "mongrels" and he hoped to see these eliminated. It is expected the Minister will announce some plans for the breeding of better cattle, and he has already pointed out that this will be accomplished by the licensing of better bulls for use in many of these herds. In fact, it is expected that only bulls up to a fairly high standard of quality will be permitted to be used for breeding purposes on farms in Britain. The compulsory plan by which so much grass land has been ploughed in Britain, and thus brought into improved production of food, has succeeded to such an extent that the minister is impressed with the necessity for the improvement of livestock by a similar method of compulsion. The land in Britain is now coming to be regarded as of such national importance in the production of food that those in charge of it must either put it to the best possible use or get off, and allow some one to farm it who will do so.

Milk and meat being among the most important foods, the government are turning their attention to the improvement of farm livestock so that these products will be increased in both quantity and quality, at lower costs. In the matter of milk, the yield of cows can be often greatly increased by care in both breeding and feeding. The British Department of Agriculture is recognizing the importance of saving heifer calves for stocking purposes after the war, and these will only be worth saving provided they are sired by good bulls of such blood-lines as will work improvement in the herds. Some drastic action will likely be taken in this matter. The beef production will receive similar attention but will have rather a better start than many of the dairy herds, as breeders of beef cattle have been more careful in selecting bulls because being direct marketers of their progeny they want a good animal for beef or veal, while in the case of common dairy herds the main object is to the cow into milk production with little or no concern about the calf.

This does not mean that there are not high producing herds in Britain. One instance might be given of a herd of British Friesians in Kent County in which 39 full year cows have made an average of 11,407 lbs., while 4 of these cows made a three-year average of 54,565 lbs. each. These are very good long distance records.

THE methods by which Germany is taking possession of the food in countries which she has over-run is shown in this plan. A registration of livestock in Slovakia is being made as a first step towards their requisitioning for the German Army. A notice issued by the Slovak Supreme Board of Supply, and given much prominence in the German-controlled Slovak press, asks farmers to feed a certain number of cattle which they would in due course place at the sole disposal of the Board of Supply, which is German-controlled.

These cattle will be taken over by the Board between the beginning of June and the end of September. Farmers who co-operate in this scheme are guaranteed adequate supplies of feeding stuffs and a bonus of one crown per kilogramme (2¼ lbs.) in excess of current meat prices. What kind of money is likely to be paid for this meat—I wonder?

The meeting at Hot Springs, Virginia, put forward some interesting suggestions, but if anyone thinks it is going to be easy to get 44 countries to agree upon a definite policy, they have another 'think' coming. Judge Marvin Jones, Chairman of the Conference, in an address to the delegates present, made these observations:

"Thinking people now realize that what we have called surpluses are for the most part not surpluses at all, but are the result of accumulations caused by defects in the systems of distribution and the inability of the masses to purchase the food they need.

"The peoples of the world have mastered the machinery of production to a far greater degree than they have mastered the machinery of distribution.

"What we have been pleased to call surpluses, therefore, are largely due to clogged channels of commerce arising from extreme trade barriers, upset economies and lack of purchasing power of the people.

"Bursting barns and hungry people, rotting surpluses and empty trade channels, starvation in the mirst of a great plenty, either within or without the country of production, reflect no credit to a national or international economy. They just don't make sense."

This interests us in Canada because it was the extreme trade barriers by which many of the countries endeavored to encourage the growing of more wheat that paralyzed the world's market for our Canadian wheat. Then when the fear of war, which prompted these efforts to grow wheat, was realized by these countries, we found ourselves unable to ship our wheat to the starving peoples across the ocean. The result now is that we are going to have a superabundance of plans to divide things up.

It is estimated that at the end of July we will have some 649 million bushels of wheat in storage in Canada. There is some considerable demand in the United States for feed wheat from Canada, but the difficulties of shipping it are almost impossible to overcome. The embargo against shipment of milling wheat from Canada to the United States has been lifted, but the shipping difficulties are also against this movement. American buyers are bidding up to $1.000 per bushel for Canadian wheat and are taking what is offered at this price.

Sensible Alliances

(WINDSOR STAR)

MISS CLARE BOOTHE LUCE, whom Miss Dorothy Thompson once branded as the "snob appeal" of the G.O.P., has in one way or another been making things interesting for Congress. Her latest proposal, which calls for a military alliance linking the United States with the various nations of the British Commonwealth, must be regarded, however, as both constructive and far-seeing.

This may not meet with general or even majority approval across the border, but the fact remains that the various nations concerned do not have to go far to achieve it. Both Canada and the United States were committed, even before the war, to go to each other's defence in case of danger. Since Pearl Harbor, too, the United States has come to regard both Australia and New Zealand as vital outer defences in the Pacific, and has indicated that it would be in the national interests to support them militarily any time they are threatened. That these Dominions would reciprocate may be taken for granted.

The sticky point might be over an alliance with Britain, but here the obstacles are not insuperable. An unwritten, unilateral agreement has been observed by Britain for more than a century, in its support of the Monroe Doctrine. It has been tacitly understood by the two nations since at least the World War, too, that British seapower would safeguard the Atlantic, while American ships of war patrolled the Pacific.

Isolationist sentiment has not favoured this, and the "two-ocean" navy was hailed as a means of eliminating it. The realities of the present, however, demonstrate that the combined naval strength of the two countries is necessary if the maximum in protection is to be obtained by both against any coalition of enemy powers.

The United States cannot afford to let any hostile continental European power supplant Britain on the Atlantic; and the British just as surely know that they must maintain contact with the North American granary in time of war. Having these related interests, therefore, an alliance of these two nations is something that is dictated both by commonsense and self-interest.

Spoken In Bolivian Vernacular

HOW soon did I master the Spanish? Ah, my dear, I have far from mastered it yet but I plunged right into speaking at once and shortly after we were settled in our new home, I said to Clarence one noon, "I have misplaced my scissors and can't meet them anywhere" (the word encontrar—to meet or to encounter—is used for "to find"), and Clarence replied, "I'll help you meet them," and it was some minutes later before he grinningly called my attention to our "broken" English. But this showed that we had begun to think in Spanish anyway....

In one corner of the plaza was the recova, a large warehouse-like structure where the Indians brought their vegetables, fruits, eggs and what not, often from very long distances, on llamas and not infrequently on their backs.... Whenever I saw a train of llamas or burros winding its way down the steep mountain side, I grabbed my camera, and hurried to the plaza; the unloading of the llamas or burros, the brisk selling at the recova, the skurrying back and forth of the high-hatted, billowing-skirted Cholas, carrying their wares in the llijillas on their backs and following by a seemingly endless rabble of ninos (children), heterogeneously garbed, mostly ragged and dirty, but as picturesque as their mothers—this was a "moving picture" that never palled, apparently the same each time yet always different. And I can still see those gnarled, stunted, apologetic tomatoes, brought many a weary mile on a burro's, a llama's, or even an Indian's back, each tomato carefully wrapped in a leaf, all of them in a hand-woven basket of reeds or grass—what a contrast from the huge, smooth, evenly ripened "beefsteak" tomatoes I had grown on our ranch! From "High Spots in the Andes," by Josephine Hoeppner Woods. (New York: Putnam.)

Be Kind to Humans

Letter to The Christian Science Monitor:

The basis for individual liberty in the United States is that each and every person is free to do as he chooses as long as he does not disturb his fellow man. Not so with dogs, it seems. They are at liberty to disturb and torment human beings with their loud barking; with their trespassing upon people's premises and committing various depredations thereon. They may disturb the peace and invade the privacy of the American citizen without interference. What a false view!

Are not many dogs now under military training, being successfully taught obedience? They are being trained to go where they should go and not to go where they should not go. They are being successfully taught not to bark or make a sound when they discover trespassers, lest they betray the whereabouts of their sentinel masters.

May not human beings possess and enjoy pets without breaking that first rule of liberty, not to disturb or interfere with their fellow men?

We celebrate a "Be Kind to Animals Week." May not all be as kind to humans as to animals?

A Bible Message

And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.... But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judaea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words.... Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain....

This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we are all witnesses.... Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

Now when they had heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call....

Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls. And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. (Acts 2: 1, 14, 22, 23, 32, 36-39, 41, 42.)

Letter To The Editor

WESTERN DEBT LEGISLATION

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Mr. Jack Sutherland, of Hanna, Alberta, has written to a number of newspapers on the alleged need of western farmers for protection against those to whom they owe debts. Unfortunately, Mr. Sutherland's letter seeks to arouse prejudice rather than appeal to reason and does little to clarify the debt situation of the western farmers which has been so exaggerated for political purposes.

Proposals being made by western interests for amendments to the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act (which now applies only to Alberta and Saskatchewan) and extension of the Act to Manitoba would jeopardize the security of western farm mortgages, in which almost every life insurance policyholder has an indirect stake, and would seriously damage the credit of many honest and industrious farmers in western Canada.

In brief, the F.C.A.A. if amended to meet demands of western groups, would empower non-judicial tribunals to write down the principal, reduce the rate of interest and change the terms of payment on farm debts, no matter when incurred, and the tribunals could revise their own decisions from time to time. Creditors would have no right of appeal and could too easily be victimized by dishonest or inefficient debtors.

The farm debt situation in western Canada was never so acute as to justify such one-sided legislation and there is certainly no justification at this time, when western farm income is at the highest point since 1929, and western farmers are reducing their debts without pressure from creditors.

If the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act is amended in such a way that it will discriminate against those who have lent capital to western farmers no useful national purpose will be served and great national damage will be done. Debt legislation is not different from any other sound legislation—it should be fair to all parties.—Sincerely yours,

W. A. SMART.

"Why, I be doin' that, haint's I?" queried the painter.

Accuse I.R.A. Hiding Spies

DUBLIN, July 12—(AP). — The story of a plan, presumably German, to invade Eire in 1940 was told to The Dail on Friday by Justice Minister Gerry Boland in a scorching criticism of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

"In 1940, when things were looking very bad," he said, "it became known that a parchutist had landed here. He was not captured himself, but in his paraphernalia we found plans which, as far as we could see, were plans for invasion of this country.

"It took up to 18 months to capture that man, and during that time, he was harbored by I.R.A. people."

Bolland said a second parachutist landed, and was captured almost immediately, but asserted: "He escaped and it took us three months to get him, and during that time, he was in touch with the same group of people. Is that no indication of the wish of these people to involve this country in war?"

'Wupping' Like Castor Oil To Naval Men

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD WUP NO. 1, July 12—(CP)—That's a strange name for a ship of His Majesty's Canadian Navy, but it's not half as strange as the game she's engaged in. For here in the darkness, within sight of the Canadian coast that looms as a shapeless blob on the horizon, she's playing a friendly game of tag with a submarine.

Out beyond the perimeter of vision, the submarine is lurking watchfully for a loophole that will let it penetrate into our convoy. Our gunners and Asdic and Radar men are trying to see that it doesn't. But no matter who wins, nobody's going to get hurt, for they aren't playing for keeps—yet.

Harmless Now

The "U-boat" out there is a submarine attached to the Canadian Navy, and right now she's as gentle as a kitten. But the friendliness of the action doesn't detract any from its importance. Indeed any Navy man—much as he detests the idea of being assigned to it personally—will tell you that this job is one of the most vital in the service.

For these "Wup" officers are engaged in the task of putting the last, keen fighting edge on Canadian men and ships before they go out for the kill.

"Wup" is Navyese for "workup." The job being done on actions such as these, and at the east coast Canadian port where the "Wup" flotilla is based, is primarily that of working up the partially-trained product of the Navy's land training school into fully-integrated crew units ready to take their place in the Battle of the Atlantic.

Get Shake-Down

As a by-product of the training process, ships just out of the builders' yards or back to sea after refit, receive shake-down cruises that put them in fighting trim. Veteran officers and seamen, though seasoned from the sea warfare, also benefit from a brushing-up on tactics.

To these veterans, "Wup" is something like castor oil to a youngster. They see it as a necessary evil, for without it they would have to put to sea, in the face of a relentless enemy, with lookouts who had never before seen the low-slung, hazy silhouette of a submarine in the distance, or gunners who had never felt the ear-splitting clout when the No. 1 gun goes off an arm's length away, or Asdio men who had done all their sub-detecting on dry land.

Chatham Makes Small Pieces Needed For War

Written for The Canadian Press
By JOSEPH EMMOTT
(Chatham News)

CHATHAM July 12—(CP)— The city of Chatham has no government-built war factories, but practically every plant in the city is operating at capacity on contracts which come under the "bits and pieces" program. And this is possible only because hundreds of women and girls have donned overalls to do jobs which normally would be done by men.

The Chrysler Motor Corporation's plant No. 4 here has a big quota of woman and girls among its hundreds of employees. While it is not engaged in the final assembly of war weapons and vehicles, from its vast shipping buildings crates of parts for military vehicles go to all war front—from complete motors to the smallest bolts. It is said that for every five motorized vehicles sent to the front, there must be complete parts for a sixth, so important are replacements.

Vehicles Made

International Harvester Co., Ltd., is turning out military trucks, as well as manufacturing parts for certain army and air force motor vehicles. Ontario Steel Products plant also is engaged in making motor accessories. Chatham Malleable and Steel Products, Limited, also manufactures certain motor parts as well as steel munition boxes and a certain type of bomb. The great pride of the workmen in this plant is a new type of equipment—largely in the experimental stage—for storing blood plasma.

Wearing apparel for fighting men is made at the plant of the American Pad and Textile Co. where several hundred women and girls are employed. The Lloyd Paper Co. fills orders for a special kind of waterproof wrapping which is needed for covering war materials shipping in convoys.

William Green, a building contractor, instead of building homes is turning out a special type of packing box for the Chrysler Corporation. They are made in a building at the rear of his home in a new residential section. Neighborhood women leave their household duties to do the light work while men of the neighborhood put in spare hours "on the side" at his plant.

Small Increase.

Chatham's population, now 17,425 has increased by about 1,000 since the beginning of the war, but there has been a rapid growth in the population of settlements bordering on the city limits, where the main home-building to accommodate war workers has been carried on. There is a great scarcity of homes in the city itself, but conversions of single-family dwellings to accommodate two and three families has helped meet the shortage.

The city also is contributing to the war program through the extensive canning plant of Libby, McNeil and Libby of Canada, Limited, where almost every kind of fruit and vegetable is packed. Tobacco-processing plants process their quota of tobacco leaf which ultimately goes into smokes for servicemen. These products of the farm repre- is noted. Farmers are striving to sent cash crops for which this area maintain their end of war production and are relying on urban "commandos" to do their bit during the harvest season.

Soldiers Quartered.

The visible reminder of Chatham at war is the No. 12 Basic Training Centre of the Canadian Army which there are usually about 1,500 in barracks. The Chatham Vocational School also operates special classes for youths and men entering specialized branches of army service.

Nearly 1,800 men and women from the city have enlisted for service with the Armed Forces.

Factory Growth Makes Little Change In City

Written for The Canadian Press
By GRETA CROWE SHUTT
(Guelph Mercury)

GUELPH, July 12 (CP)—Guelph the Royal city, can hold her head high in estimating her achievements in this war. The city has not mushroomed industrially although factories have been enlarged to make war goods and employment has increased 20 per cent since 1941.

The population now is 23,195 compared with 22,972 last year and in addition many industrial workers have made their permanent homes in nearby smaller centres.

The one new industry which war has brought to Guelph is the Zephyr Looms and Textiles which bought out a small firm with a payroll of about 45. The Zephyr firm now has four plants and 947 employees, 80 per cent of whom are women, making web equipment for the armed forces.

Indirect War Work

Charles Penfold of the Board of Trade says that 70 per cent of Guelph industry is engaged in war work. Most of this is indirect with products being shipped to other manufacturers for assembly.

Women are working in such plants as the Tolton Manufacturing Co., the Colonial Whitewear, Guelph Carpet and Worsted Spinning Mills, Leland Electric Co., Zephyr Looms and the Matthews-Wells factory.

There is a definite housing shortage but it is not aggravated. There are no trailers or temporary houses. The city assessor's department says there are 423 housing units in which two or more families are living.

The industrial upsurge has brought a shortage of labor and Selective Service officials say that about 400 more persons could be given jobs.

Five Units Recruited

There are no enlistment figures available but five units have been recruited here and gone overseas—the 29th Battery, the 16-43rd Battery, the 100th Anti-Aircraft Battery, the 63rd Battery Royal Field Artillery and the 11th Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C., which saw service at Dieppe. Reserve units are the 16th, 29th and 63rd Batteries and the 11th Field Ambulance.

The Netherlands Army Centre, the Juliana Kazerne, brings many visitors from far places.

The No. 4 R.C.A.F. Wireless Training Centre which occupies part of the Ontario Agricultural College Buildings, has a large student body with classes graduating every few weeks.

First Decoration

First military decoration won in this war by a Guelph soldier went to Flt. Lt. H. Robertson, who was awarded the D.F.C. Pte. Tommy Graham won the D.C.M. at Dieppe, Flt. Lt. Jack Spence won the D.F.C. for sea-air rescue work and Flt. Sgt. Alan Laughland won the D.F.M..

At the O.A.C. a careful record has been kept of the 800 or more enlistments from students and graduates. Twenty-eight have been killed in action, all of them members of the R.C.A.F., and seven are prisoners of war. Decorations they have won include two D.F.C.'s, one D.F.M., one Air Medal (U.S.), two M.C.'s and one D.C.M. while two in the Navy have been mentioned in dispatches.

Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

Notice to Certain Employers and Employees

Notice is hereby given that men now employed in certain specified lines of civilian employment must report for interview not later than July 15th, 1943, to an Employment and Selective Service Office. This refers to men who are in age and marital classes already designated under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, and also to men who are 16 to 18 years old (both ages inclusive).

A. Objective:

This Third Order makes available for essential employments the services of men in age and marital classes designated as callable for Military Training under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations and also all men from 16 to 18 years of age (both ages inclusive) who are presently employed in the non-essential employments now specified.

B. EMPLOYMENTS COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

Men, of the specified categories, are covered if now employed in any of the following:

(1) Any wholesale activity not here listed: farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste. (2) Raising of special livestock, such as race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets. (3) Flower growing. (4) Horticultural services, except tree surgery. (5) Leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning. (6) Brewing. (7) Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture; (h) rattan and willow-wares; (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

C. AGE AND MARITAL CLASSES OF MEN COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

(a) Every man born in any year from 1917 to 1927 (inclusive) who has reached 16 years of age.

(b) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, at July 15th, 1940, was: (i) unmarried; or (ii) divorced or judicially separated; or (iii) a widower without child or children.

(c) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who has, since July 15, 1940, become a widower without child or children now living.

(d) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, since July 15, 1940, has been divorced or judicially separated.

Note: Attention is called to the inclusion in this Order of men 16, 17 and 18 years old.

D. Procedure to be Followed:

All men as defined above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 15th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

E. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYEES:

When directed to accept employment, subsequent to the interview referred to, men described in Paragraphs B and C above are required by the Regulations to follow the direction given.

F. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS:

It will be illegal for an employer to retain in his employ after July 15th, 1943, any men referred to in Paragraph C above, at any of the employments set forth in Paragraph B above, unless a special permit has been obtained from a National Selective Service Officer, permitting such action.

G. Transportation:

Special provisions will be made for the transportation of men moved to work at a new place of residence.

H. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees within 7 days of receiving such direction.

I. Penalties in Case of Employers:

Penalties are provided for any employer who retains in, or takes into, his employ after July 15th, 1943, any man covered by the Order, except under special permit.

J. Penalties in Case of Employees:

Penalties are provided for failure on the part of any employed man affected to register under this Order, or to follow a subsequent direction to employment, and in addition to other penalties, refusal to comply renders a man liable to compulsory labour service in an Alternative Service Work Camp.

K. Special Request to Employers:

Each Employer with three or more men covered by this Order in his employ is requested to co-operate by getting in touch with the Employment and Selective Service Office, to arrange a time for the interviews of his employees.

L. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).

M. This Third Order is Additional to First and Second Orders:

Employments listed in Paragraph B above, to be reviewed under this Third Order, are additional to the employments listed in the First and Second Orders. The First Order required compliance by May 19th, and the Second Order by June 15th, 1943.

Men referred to above must present documents at the employment office, indicating compliance with Mobilization Regulations.

Any employer or employee in doubt in regard to the application of the First, Second or Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders, should communicate with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

PETERBORO CRICKETERS BADLY BEATEN BY ROYAL AIR FORCE CLUB

Picton Club Scores Easy Victory

Peterborough-Whitaker cricketers made the trip to Picton Saturday and suffered a heavy defeat, the final score being P.-W. 58, R.A.F. 157 for 4 wickets. Technically the R.A.F. won by 10 wickets as their two opening batsmen topped the local score before the first wicket fell. The Picton team are fortunate in having any losses of personnel rectified by an influx of newcomers. On Saturday fresh faces in their team included LAC Brown and Sgt. Lovate, both Australians, LAC. McDonald, LAC Gill and Sgt. Clark.

The locals were without A. Pagett, A. Sargent on the injured list and R. Hamblin, Adsom and Honeywell did not arrive till near the close of the inning owing to a car break-down.

Batting first after a long road trip, G. Smith was the only double figure scorer with 12. F. Dyer scored 9 and two junior member, J. Parry 9 and W. Dyer 7, and these players with the help of extras produced a modest total of 58. The R.A.F. captain used four bowlers all of which were successful as the bowling analysis shows.

The opening R.A.F. batsmen soon put the issue beyond doubt. Dyer's first over yielded 11 runs and the two opening players, FO. Lockwood (45) and Cpl. McKay (46) took the total to 64 and won the match before Lockwood was bowled by Dyer. Brown failed but then Lovatt and McDonald made a long stand and punished the tired bowlers severely. The pair added 56 to the score and when Lovatt was out at 157 for 32, which included two sixes the inning was closed leaving McDonald not out 31.

The bowler had a rough time of it. Dyer took all four wickets that fell but they cost 76 runs. It was the old story of no relief; bowlers cannot be expected in Saturday's heat against aggressive batsmen to carry on without a rest.

The strength of the Picton team is shown by a comparison of figures: the R.A.F. bowlers delivered 16 overs which produced 58 runs, less than 4 runs an over and the P-W bowlers delivered 20 overs which produced 157 runs an average of nearly 8 runs per over.

Honeywell confirmed the good impression he had made as a wicket-keeper conceding only 2 byes in the long innings.

The teams were most hospitably entertained and the trip was a most pleasant one except for the result.

They were forcibly remined that there was a war on as big bombers leaving and landing on the adjacent landing field and which at intervals zoomed about 10 or 12 feet above the players' heads causing a temporary cessation of play.

Next Saturday the P-W are scheduled to play Oshawa at Oshawa.

2,000 Seats Remain

PHILADELPHIA, July 12 (CP)—Major league club owners made a lucky guess when they decided, six months ago, to put the All-Star game in Philadelphia this year.

It comes off to-morrow in Shibe Park.

For when the Nationals and the Americans start shooting at 9 p.m., it looks as if every one of the 32,480 seats will be full of customers and S. R. O. sign will be out. All but 2,000 tickets were gone this morning and requests were still coming in.

As an added attraction for the Soldiers-4th Battery game tomorrow night which is in aid of the Greek War Relief Fund the City League executive have secured a Kenwood blanket as a draw prize which means that some lucky fan will not only see a good ball game and help a splendid cause but he will also take home something to assist in offsetting the coal shortage next winter. The biggest crowd of the season is expected for this decidedly important tussle. The end of the regular schedule is approaching rapidly and every game has a decided effect upon the standing. Right now the race is so close that a win for the Battery over the Soldiers would leave the three leading clubs all in a heap. The Gunners managed to hand the Military Training Centre team a defeat the first time the two teams met this season but the Soldiers hope to wipe that out tomorrow night not only to get revenge but to stall off the Genelecs who are the hottest club in the loop right now. Battery hope to have Dave Wilson back to do the throwing for them with Eddie Starr behind the bat while it is Johnnie Walker's turn to go to the mound for the Soldiers with Taylor handling the catching duties. The argument promises to be a battle all the way down the stretch.

Genelecs who are driving for the top of the City League ladder and have won their last three starts in convincing fashion, their last two wins being at the expense of the Soldiers and 4th Battery, swing into action again tonight when they clash with the cellar-holding Cardinals. The latter did not play last week but have been getting in a lot of practice and making a few changes in their lineup. They are confident that they can give the Johnston club a stout agrument for the honors tonight. Either Terry Woods or Bill Moorhead will likely do the gunning for the Genelecs with Don Isaacs firing for the Cardinals. The game will be played at Riverside Park at 7 o'clock sharp. Genelecs started their present winning streak at the expense of the Cards and the latter are predicting that the victory parade will stop with the same club.

Three Real Battles

Tonight is the night. Irish Pat Flanagan, popular with local fans because of his cleancut work in a series of tilts gets a crack at the British Empire title when he clashes with Champion Whipper Billy Watson in the main bout of the Tunney show at the Brock Street Summer Gardens. Undoubtedly the Toronto Irishman will make the bost of his opportunity and while this column cannot see him succeeding we have a hunch that he will give the Whipper plenty to think of before he is knocked off. He is much the same style as the champion. Both move fast; both have a wide repertoire of mat stuff and both are ready to work according to Hoyle or to rough-house it, depending upon the ideas of the opposition. Both will probably decide tonight that the clean stuff will be the most profitable strategy and the tussle will be a matter of power and wrestling science. Those who like their mat performances rough and ready will probably get plenty of their favorite diet in the other two bouts. Al Bunny Dunlop, a real badman on his last appearance here is almost certain to try the same tactics on the Fighting Marine, Toar Morgan, and if he does he'll get a receipt for everything he hands out. The leatherneck is plenty tough himself and he can not only take but dish it. That goes too for the other match of the night between Doc Felice, the rowdy Yugo-Slav and George Tolfalos the aspirant for Jim Londos' old title of the Golden Greek.

Peterborough-Whitaker cricketers in their visit to Picton Saturday found the R.A.F. eleven carrying entirely too much metal. The Peterborough team batted first and managed to put together 58 in the face of some decidedly accurate and effective Air Force bowling. That total did not give the R.A.F. eleven much concern. As a matter of fact Flying Officer Lockwood and Corp. McKay the first two batters in had passed the Peterborough score before the former finally lost the first wicket when he was bowled by Frank Dyer after contributing 46 runs, piled up in short order. The quality of the Air Force batting is shown in the fact that the opening pair of batters collected eleven runs in the first over. R.A.F. finally called it a day after they had scored 157 runs for the loss of only four wickets.

Mutiny Pays

Leo the Lip Durocher nearly had a mutiny on his hands Saturday when the Bums almost decided to strike because Durocher had suspended old Buck Newsom. The Brooklyn manager will probably feel now that it would pay to make the Dodgers angry every day for after all the controversy in the dressing-room they were so infuriated they went out and slaughtered the Pittsburg Pirates 23 to 2. The maddened Bums scored team runs in the first inning and to make sure it would not be regarded as a mistake repeated the feat in the fourth. It was the worst massacre of the year. However it did not gain the Bums any ground for Hank Pollett pitched his third shutout of the season with a four-hitter against the Boston Braves to grab off his eighth win for the Cards. Another notable game Saturday was the home-run parade staged by the Chicago Cubs and the Giants. The former won 10 to 4 in a battle featured by six homers, Nicholson, Merullo and Hack for the Cubs and Wittig, Orengo and Mel Ott for the Giants. It was the 13th of the season for the major league home-run leader. In the American loop Saturday the Yanks increased their lead with a double win over the Chicago White Sox. Luman Harris of the A's who only won one game in his first eight starts and has now grabbed off five in a row held Detroit to three hits and Athletics won 6 to 1. Washington, got four-hit pitching from Early Wynn to beat Cleveland 4 to 1.

* * * * * *

In Sunday's well-filled bill Brooklyn slipped further back when the Bums broke even with the Pittsburg Pirates while the Cards were scoring another shutout at the expense of the Boston Braves. When Gumbert blanked Boston 3 to 0 on three hits it made the 40th consecutive innings in which St. Louis pitchers had not yielded a single run but the scoreless record came to an end in the first inning of the second game when the Braves scored twice. The double-header between Giants and Chicago was featured by a cluster of four homers in the first game and Mel Ott's fourteenth of the season in the second. Bucky Walters also hit for the circuit in pitching the Reds to a 7 to 4 win over the Phillies with Schoolboy Rowe taking his fourth loss of the season. The American League games were notable for Milo Candini's first loss of the season, Cleveland with Al Smith beating the Washington ace and for Spud Chandler's tenth win as against two defeats for the Yanks. His effort was a six-hit shutout of the Chicago White Sox. Tommy Bridges also turned in a swell game to shut out the A's on three hits. Tex Hughson who is having a tough time winning his 10th game went in as a relief pitcher against the Brownies and was chalked up with the loss when Chet Laabs cut loose with a game-winning homer in the 12th frame.

TORONTO, July 12—(CP)—It's getting so Jack Ellis, Vancouver golfer, plays his tee shot, then walks directly to the green and looks in the cup. If the ball is not there he registers mild surprise and looks elsewhere. When Jack sank his tee shot on the tricky 160-yard fourth hole at Vancouver Capilano the other day it was the fifth hole-in-one of his career and the second within six days...the MacWilliams family of Calgary is in the golf championship business—amateur of course. Gordon MacWilliams won the Calgary city amateur five times between 1926 and '33. When Ronnie MacWilliams, a brother, took the city title last week it was his second successive win. Two champs in a family is unusual—three is a crowd. Carson MacWilliams, another brother, was a hotshot golfer 15 years ago. He was Manitoba champion at one time.

It Ain't Fair

Fog an umpire to hit back...eyes of the baseball world are centred on Waterloo, Ont., where the ball fan's independence is at stake. The Waterloo Park Board has asked Mayor Frank Relyea to invest special constable powers on umpire Fred Anderson, giving him authority to eject persons from the park. It sems Fred dy hasn't taken kindly to the names he has been called of late. We hope Mayor Relyea realizes the responsibility cast upon him. For years the caspars have been taking a beating from the boss all day, have gone to the ball game at night and unloaded on the umpire. Mamma hasn't been able to cuss in front of the children but she sure lets loose when Mr. blue pants calls a bad one. The umpire is the one guy in this world who's supposed to take a beating (verbal only) without hitting back. We all know he's blind; he should be deaf too.

Incidentally

Saskatoon's hockey-playing Dertell brothers, Russ and Bill, have both won their R. C. A. F. wings and Commissions...one of Canada's best amatenr ball leagues. The Ontario Senior Intercounty, is having its troubles. Officials of the Galt Terriers went slightly gray when three players, Johnny Clark, Bob Hammmond and Bummer Schrumm were ordered to report for military training, all at one fel lswoop.

Track Records Are Being Lowered

NEW YORK, July 12— (AP) — Arne Andersson, Swedish school teacher who lowered the time for the mile to 4:02.6, believes that if he could have reached his present peak a year ago he would have chased Gunder Haegg, now in the United States; to the fabled-four-minute clocking.

Andersson is certian he doesn't have the equipment to reach that goal himself but that Haegg could if he is extended. And the school teacher wouldn't be a bit surprised if United States wiped out his new-set mark, once they have learned the technic of Swedish training.

Both Andersson and Haegg, who Saturday lowered the American record for the two-mile run to 8:53.9 in his Los Angeles appearance, have the same practice routines. Neither steps on the cinders for a spin more than once a week, preferring long jaunts through forests and meadows instead.

"In my opinion," Andersson said last week before weather conditions fouled his attempt to wipe out Haegg's world 1,500 meter mark, "if long distance runners in the United States would train on cross country workouts I believe they would be much faster."

BECAUSE THEY'RE MADE FROM COOLER-BURNING TOBACCOS
Many smokers confuse taste with strength. Actually the pleasant taste you find in a Buckingham comes from a blend of riper, more mature tobaccos and this satisfying taste can readily be distinguished from strength, as by proven test Buckingham is the mildest cigarette you can smoke.
Also important is the fact that the riper Virginia, Burley and Turkish leaves used in Buckingham are scientifically blended to produce a cooler-burning cigarette — a cigarette that is cooler on the throat.
Smoke a blended Buckingham and enjoy the taste that satisfies, a mildness that is truly Throat Easy.

MONTREAL, SYRACUSE TAKE TWO FROM BUFFALO AND NEWARK

Toronto Divides Double Bill With Rochester

(By The Associated Press)

You will hear often in baseball circles that a change of uniform will work wonders for an individual player but until yesterday the experiment was never tried on a wholesale scale.

But Jersey City Giants poking around in the International League cellar since early Spring, arrived in Baltimore yesterday to discover their uniforms and playing paraphenalia had failed to keep up with them.

Baltimore officials hunted up some spare uniforms and equipment and then watched as the Giants battered out a 5-2 verdict in 11 innings. The hour-long search and extra length of the opener made it impossible to play a second game.

Biggest surprises of yesterday's action-crowded program were the sweeps registered by Montreal over Buffalo and Syracuse over Newark. Toronto and Rochester divided.

Syracuse took two from the second place Bears by the home run route.

Goody Rosen hit one and Hank Sauer two in the first contest which they won, 4-0, behind the effective hurling of Tom Delacruz, and Lynn Nelson, while Dutch Mele connected for one in the 10-inning nightcap which the Chiefs stowed in the win column, 2-1.

Robert Ortiz also cracked a four master, his blow in the sixth opening up the Montreal attack that finally triumphed in the 11th, 4-3. Wes Flowers shaded the limping Jack Tising in the second, 5-1.

Al Jarlet hurled the 3-1 triumph for the Leafs over Rochester while Tom Ananicz was the loser for Toronto in the 3-2 nightcap.

Ralph Kress came onto the hill in the sixth for the Leafs and touched off a bit of rhubarb when he worked Blix Donnelly for a pass in his turn at bat. Neither Donnelly, Manager Repper Martin nor the Rochester fans agreed with Umpire Pat Kennedy.

Saturday Newark took Baltimore 4-1 while Rochester triumphed over Montreal 5-1. Buffalo shellacked Toronto 8-1 and Jersey City edged out Syracuse 3-1.

Leo Durocher On Way Out Dodgers Revolt

By TED MERIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo "Lippy" Durocher is on the way out as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers as the aftermath of the revolt against his leadership Saturday.

While on-the-surface peace reigned today in this latest Ebbets Field episode involving the three-day suspension of star pitcher Bobo Newsom for what Durocher termed "insubordination" the sentiment of the players was reliably reported to be that they are "sick of being second guessed" and that future flareups can be expected unless Durocher succeeds in restoring harmony.

These developments overshadowed yesterday's furious action on the diamond that saw St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees sweep doubleheaders from Baston Braves and Chicago White Sox to widen their leads to 5½ and 4½ games, respectively.

The onrushing Cardinals chalked up their sixth ir a row and their 13th triumpth in 15 starts as Harry Gumbert blanked the Braves, 3-0, on six hits in the first game and Whitey Kurowski doubled with the bases full in the 11th inning for a 9-6 conquest in the nightcap.

Yankees likewise wound up their Western invasion in fine sytle by making it four straight over the White Sox and their ninth win in 11 starts.

Spud Chandler won his 10th game with a six-hit 9-0 shutout in the opener. In the nightcap the Yanks took a 6-0 lead, blew it when the Sox scored six in the seventh inning then won out, 8-6, in the ninth on rookie Bud Metheney's first homer of the season.

First Loss In Eight

Milo Candini suffered his first defeat in eight starts for Washington when Cleveland knocked him out in the first inning and went on to a 5-1 victory behind Al. Smith's five-hit twirling. Senators, however, gained a split for the day by winning the second game, 6-4, in 10 innings.

Detroit and Philadelpia Athletics also split a twin bill. Rookie Don Black of the A's beat the Tigers, 4-3, in the opener. Veteran Tommy Bridges twirled a brilliant three-hit shutout to gain a 9-0 triumph for the Tigers in the nightcap.

Behind the seven-hit pitching of Bucky Walters and Ray Starr Cincinnati beat the slumping Phillies twice, 7-4, and 14-2.

St. Louis Browns took both ends of their bargain bill from Boston Red Sox. Chet Laabs' 11th homer of the year won the first game, 8-7, in 12 innings while Nelson Potter twirled a fivehitter to take the afterpiece 4-2.

Chicago Cubs and New York Giants divided their second successive doubleheader. Ernie Lombardi's 10th inning homer won the first for the Giants, 4-3. Bill Nicholson's seventh inning homer with one on gave the Cubs the second by the same score.

Aided by Bob Elliott's sixth inning triple that scored the tying and winning run Max Butcher, Pittsburgh right hander, beat Brooklyn for the first time, 3-2. Dodgers came back to win the nightcap, 5-4.

In the National League Saturday St. Louis trimmed Boston 6-0 while took Brooklyn 6-3 and Chicago and New York split a doubleheader, Chicago winning the first 10-4 and New York taking the afterpiece 9-2. Cincinnati also broke into the win column, downing Philadelpia 6-2.

In the American League Philadelpia beat Detroit 6-1 while Boston took St. Louis 6-3 and New York trimmed Chicago 9-2. Washington blanked Cleveland 4-0.

Golf Star Joins Spars

Golfer Betty Hicks of Long Beach, California, an outstanding woman links expert, is shown admiring her new SPARS' uniform. Betty, who was defeated in the quarter-finals of the women's Western open golf tourney in Chicago when she gallantly called a penalty on herself, was sworn into the Coast Guard auxiliary at the Glen Oaks Country Club, where tourney was held.

Tough Night Looms Up For Whipper

When Whipper Billy Watson won the British Empire Heavyweight Wrestling Championship, he climaxed a campaign which took him to most of the important cities of Canada, United States and the British Isles. Watson had many a set-back but during the past year he has asserted himself so strenuously over every opponent that he stands out to-day as the logical wearer of the Empire Crown. The Whipper meets Irish Pat Flanagan here to-night in the Arena and it may be that, good and all as he is, Watson is in for a tough and trying evening. Flaagan has improved greatly in every match in recent months and the Toronto Irish Speedster has the makings of a truly great wrestler. It will be a fine contest when these two come to-gether because each is a master of fast clean grappling.

The semi-final bout involves the meeting between that tough Fighting Marine Toar Morgan, and Strongman Bunny Dunlop. Before joining the fighting services of the U. S. Morgan had won the Southern States Boxing Title and has also trumphed in seventy straight wrestling matches. The Guadalcanal hero has proved he wants no set-ups by disposing of Jerry Monahan last week and now, taking on Dunlop. Another interesting struggle should be that between Doc. Tony Felice the un-ruly Jugo-Slav and "the little Golden Greek" George Tofalos. This Tofalos has ambitions to take over the mantle of the great Jim Londos and so far seems to be making a pretty good attempt in that direction.

POLLETT TO JOIN AIR FORCE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. —(AP)—Lefthander Howard Pollett of the St. Louis Cardinals will finish his baseball career for the time being at least on July 15 when he reports for duty with the U.S. Army Air Force, having passed his examination recently.

WIN DOUBLES TITLE

HAMILTON — (CP) — The Butt Trophy, emblematic of the O.L.B.A. doubles championship, was won by Alex Roughead and Alf Garber of the Roselawn Bowling Club here Saturday evening competing with 37 other entries, runners-up being Andy Moffatt and Robert Gage of Argyle, only one point behind. The Argyle pair took the Delmar Trophy.

Buyers Coming Earlier To Farm Market

The farm produce market these Saturdays has become a briefly brisk bit of direct merchandizing. Something has given it a shot in the arm, and "it ain't like it used to be."

Even last summer the practice was to arrive late and take it easy until after dinner. But this last Saturday only the tag end of the trading was left at 11 o'clock. Buyers come early, and they are gone in five minutes. No dawdling, just a quick swoop to pick off a basket of food fresh from the farm.

"Why, I was all through by 11 o'clock" said one woman Saturday, giving the faster tempo her approval.

Eggs were 35 to 38 cents with others in the large grades 42 to 45 cents. Chickens were on the wing, and hovered only briefly—year olds 32 to 35 cents a pound; chickens 37 and 38 cents, and broilers 35 cents.

Butter was 40 cents a pound. Outdoors peas were the feature, straight from the garden, six quarts for 50 cents. The last of the strawberries were 35 and 40 cents. One woman said: "If your George street store can ask and get 40 cents so can I." Another grower paid no heed to the main street idea of berry value plus profit, and passed them out quickly at 35 cents the box.

Herb Doig unloaded a lot of the new season's vegetables, two bunches of carrots 15 cents, ditto new beets, leaf letuce 5 cents, head lettuce 10 cents, cabbage, and so on. Just what the doctor ordered.

Allied right wing at Pachino on Capo Passero.

(Ralph Howard, NBC commentator, in an Algiers broadcast, said "large-scale landings are still being made by both the American and British forces on 100 miles of coast line in southeast Sicily, where our troops continue to battle their way inland.)

Three Axis airfields are in the hands of the invaders, two at Gela where American assault troops blasted their way ashore early Saturday and another at Pachino, captured by Canadian and British forces.

Carried Out Mission

British glider troops and American parachutists who dropped from the Sicilian skies Friday night to attack coastal defences from the rear were reported to have met the Allied sea-borne landing parties after successfully carrying out their missions with negligible losses.

Great columns of transports and merchant ships, ably herded by powerful flotillas of warships, still were pouring troops and supplies ashore, and air fleets dotted the sky, giving protection from attack and lending a helping hand to ground troops by bombing Axis concentrations.

A British war correspondent, Edward Gilling, reported from an advanced post that the invasion armada totalled some 2,000 ships — more than double the record-breaking 850 used in the invasion of North Africa last November.

A communique yesterday from Allied headquarters said all the many invasion points wer "firmly held" and that casualties up to then were believed light.

Meet Italian Coastal Troops.

Military sources emphasized the early fighting involved only Italian coastal troops and that the main body of enemy defenders, known to include many Germans, still was to be engaged.

German propaganda asserted the Nazi and Italian forces already had begun a counter-offensive.

A late report from an advance command post said the Americans who hit the coast at Gela, about 55 miles west of the south-eastern tip of the island, already had successfully engaged enemy tank reinforcements in that sector.

Gela was the first specific landing point mentioned in an official announcement. In the first eyewitness account from a correspondent Ross Munro of The Canadian Press also told of landings at Pachino on the south-eastern tip by Canadian forces.

Early headquarters reports said the landings were effected along a 100-mile stretch of the south-east coast.

German broadcasts admitted Allied bridgeheads were forged near Gela, at Cape Passero near Pachino, at Licata 15 miles west of Gela, and south of Syracuse along the eastern coast.

A German military analyst declared Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, apparently intended to establish a front across the southeastern corner of the island between Gela and Syracuse.

Landed at Seven Points

(Other Axis reports relayed through Stockholm said Allied troops had landed at seven points, including Canicati, 15 miles north and inland from Lacata. Canicatti presumably was an objective of the airborne troops.

Quoting a clandestine Germap station, the Algiers radio said Allied forces had captured the Sicilian towns of Licata and Aragona and that a big battle was raging around Ragusa, inland from the southeastern tip of the island.

(This roundabout report, not confirmed by any Allied source, also told of a new Allied landing near Marsala on the south-western tip of the island.

Sea on Both Flanks

The Allied forces now have established positions where the sea is on both flanks—the Ionian sea on the east and the Mediterranean on the west—and are set for a possible drive up the east coast to isolate Sicily from the mainland.

British and Canadian forces hold the southeastern tip after forming a junction across narrow Cape Passero and cutting of the Pachino airdrome. The Canadians there captured many prisoners.

Reinforcements Landed

It was disclosed here last night that several thousand Canadian reinforcements had landed in North Africa within 24 hours of the start of the invasion—presumably with Sicily as their next stop.

Taste of German Tactics

The aerial troops who floated down upon chosen Sicilian objectives between 10:30 and 11:20 p.m. Friday night, three or four hours before the invasion itself, gave the Axis a taste of the tactics Germany had used so frequently to terrorize her foes.

Huge air transports carrying smudge-faced British and American parachute troops and towing troop-filled British gliders reached the vicinity of their objectives before being spotted by enemy anti-aircraft units.

The gliders soared to objectives in the eastern sector of the invasion zone. The parachute troops bailed out over targets to the west.

An official announcement said they consolidated positions behind the enemy's beach defences with only "negligible losses."

During the early invasion operations 22 Axis aircraft were shot down, but 28 Allied planes failed to return to their bases.

The two - directional bombing assault, which softened up Sicily for invasion, was continued by British and American aircraft operating from Northwest Africa and the Middle East.

Reconnaissance disclosed that repeated Allied bombing attacks have made several of the most important enemy fields on Sicily unusable.

The entire strategic and tactical air forces were employed in blanketing the landing operations, it was announced officially.

While bombers concentrated on big airfields and other large objectives, the fighters sought out and attacked enemy supply lines and moving trucks and tanks.

German Claims.

The German propaganda agency, International Information Bureau, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, reported the Germans had advanced from both ends of the line towards Kursk and that stubborn Russian resistance had resulted in a heavy loss of Red Army tanks and planes. The Soviet Army lost 1,709 tanks, the broadcast said, asserting this had depleted Red Army armored reserves so badly they might be considered to be a total loss. The Soviet Air Force has lost 1,197 planes in the fighting, the German broadcast added.

The broadcast said that Russian losses were "enormous" in the Belgorod sector, adding that "at no other time in the whole war" have the Russians suffered such heavy casualties.

"Red Star," Red Army newspaper, on the other hand, said the Germans could advance their gains only at a further heavy sacrifice. "The German wedges were exposed to continuous mass fire of our artillery, tanks and aviation and to incessant attacks from the flanks and the rear."

Akyab Not Forgotten

NEW DELHI, July 12 (CP)—R.A.F. bombers and fighters hit Japanese-held Akyab Island Saturday a British communique reported yesterday. Combined British and Indian troops also raided the Japanese at Maungdaw.

Army Opens New Lock

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 12 (AP)—United States army engineers Sunday officially opened the new MacArthur lock of the Sault Canal, designed to speed war-essential iron ore down the Great Lakes.

Casualty Lists May Be Held Several Days

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—Defense Headquarters said last night that it probably will not be possible for some time to release information on the number of Canadians engaged in the Sicilian campaign or what units or elements are participating.

Nor will it be possible to say for some time who is in command of the Canadian force, purely for reasons of security.

"Regarding casualties; regretfully we expect them," the statment said. "The next of kin themselves will be advised just as quickly as word comes. But there will have to be a lapse of time before the issue for publication of official casualty list.

"This lapse of time will vary with the operation, and in all cases will be kept to the minimum consistent with safety. This is by agreement with the countries concerned. This does not prevent however, the next-of-kin from furnishing the information respecting individual cases to the local newspapers, nor does it prevent the newspaper from publishing such information, subject of course to any censorship regulations.

Things Prohibited.

"What is to be avoided is the putting together of casulalties so that the enemy may have information as to the total, and consequently be able to make computations of the effect of the operation on the strength of the force.

"There is one exception respecting publishing information regarding individual cases, and that is where the soldier may have been reported as 'missing.' That cannot be published until a fixed time. The reason is that quite possibly the missing soldier may have eluded the enemy and still be at large, and publication of his name would at once gave the enemy a lead which would prompt and assist in locating and capturing him.

"The size of the Canadian force in Africa would give information as to the strength of the Canadian land forces in Britain. The identity of the units would give the enemy the benefit of any information he might have as to the particular training and efficiency of that part of the forces, and the name of the commander would be another way of identifying the units."

Axis Fearing

(The Italian High Command has refused an offer by Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to take over the defence of French Corsica and the Italian zone of the French Riviera, the Daily Mail said to-day in a dispatch dated at the "Italian frontier."

(The special correspondent said reports from Vichy Sunday night told how Rommel, now said to be commanding German forces in Southern France, had wired Rome that he had sufficient troops to move into those areas 'within 24 hours, but that the Italians were unwilling to accept his offer.

Many Arrests Made.

(London advices also said many arrests had occurred in Naples, where Alfred Cucco, Vice Secretary of the Fascist Party, broadcast an appeal to Sicilians and Italians. It was said sharp measures were to be used to suppress rumors, speculation and defeatism).

Another factor which appeared to weigh heavily in depressing the Italian state of mind as the crisis approached was a steadily worsening food problem brought about by the relentless Allied air attacks on Italian railroads. There was no indication of how many trains had been smashed but Il Giornale D'Italia said 182 trainmen have been killed and 341 others wounded.

The Germans also were well aware that on the transportation situation might well hinge the fate of the Axis. A Berlin dispatch to the Neue Zuercher Zettung quoted Nazi military circles as being "confident of the Axis troops' ability to confront the Allied forces provided they have normal facilities for supply lines."

While private sources in Italy said the Italians had accused Germany of failure to send reserves to the Sicilian theatre and were instead maintaining a guard at the Northern frontier, the Naxis themselves were preparing for an attack in the Balkan area.

German leaders, pointing to the heavy bombing of Crete, suggested the Balkans might be the next stop listed on the United Nations timetable.

in Sicily's extreme southern corner. The Pachino airport fell to the Canadian-British force.

For security reasons, the strength and composition of the Canadian formations he accompanied from England to Sicily were not revealed by Munro, but observers here assumed that the initial landings were carried out by forces in greater number than at Dieppe last August when two infantry brigades and part of one tank brigade were used.

London eagerly awaited to-day further detailed word of progress of operations. Relief was felt that The Canadian Press correspondent could report there had been no enemy air attack in at least the initial stages of the assault. All day Saturday, Munro said, R.A.F. planes were "continually in our area."

beach defences in about 15 minutes.

From about midnight air forces plastered the Pachino Peninsula, and a terrific series of bomb explosions and the lights of burning Pachino, set afire by the R. A. F. helped to guide us in.

The big warships of the fleet stood offshore a few miles and added to the din with tremendous salvos that shattered the night.

Fantastic Specacle

It was a most fantastic spectacle to see and hear. Two assault units stormed the left sector. So far I have been unable to find out how the Westeners did, but from a cliff-top near the main beach, where I am writing this, with the fleet near by and landing ships and warships spread out in the bay, I can see smoke and hear gunfire some miles inland on their front.

Apparently they are gaining ground steadily, with naval bombardment support still going on. Other units from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec landed during the morning and afternoon.

The bridgehead had been established by the time they were sent in, and they began to march to the front. A supporting group landed shortly - after the assault units.

BUSINESS enriches the NATION and YOU

Business Stands For Social Progress

PROBABLY the least static factor in this nation's economy is private enterprise. Its own development is so completely bound up with that of the people at large, that social progress is one of the first essentials of business survival.

Accordingly we find private enterprise, with the hearty consent of its thousands of Canadian shareholders, devoting more and more of its attention to such vital matters as employee welfare and product improvement. The first is building up the general health and economic security of Canada's great body of industrial and business workers. The second, subject to the temporary drag of war, is opening up new avenues of comfort and enjoyment for the whole population.

Even in the midst of complex wartime problems, industry and commerce are planning intensively to provide the people's greatest protection in peace—ample employment at adequate wages, with the production of plenty for all.

Keep NIXON AT THE WHEEL for Progress and Unity!

DEMOCRACY IN ACTION! That's the call to the polls!

Public satisfaction with the Administration would be no excuse for denying the people the right to show it.

It's time the people spoke—after six years! That is Harry Nixon's stand.

In putting Harry Nixon at the wheel of state, the Liberals chose level-headedness, co-operation, fairness and the will to get things done.

Born on the farm his forefathers pioneered a century ago, he has farmed there ever since. When 28 he was Canada's youngest Cabinet Minister and the statute books the last 24 years testify to his judgment and concern for the Province's welfare.

Premier Nixon presents himself to the electors with a record of achievement and a guarantee of continued progress through the postwar future.

Against him are two parties—the one led by a lawyer whose judgment repeatedly has turned out to be wrong; the other making fantastic promises which they imagine can be implemented by the regimentation of every man, woman and child.

You can say whether or not Ontario should take a chance on changing to either group, from an Administration that has given good government.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

SOLDIERS' DANCE.

The Citizens Committee are entertaining the men of the Training Centre at a dance on Tuesday evening at the Brock Street Dance Hall. The Melody Men have volunteered their services and the hall is being supplied free of charge. The committee will supply girls from its hospitality list. This is in addition to the dances held every second Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. for 100 men.

PLEADS GUILTY

Arrested early this morning by Constable Percy Sexsmith, Kenneth Chapman pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of having stolen four boxes of cigarettes from the Ritz Grill. In order to allow the prosecution to give some evidence in the case Chapman was remanded until Tuesday morning for sentence.

THE OLD FIRE TRUCK.

The old fire truck was once again in service on Saturday as Miss Canada Girls and sea scouts patrolled the streets of the business section selling War Savings Stamps to aid the Depth Bomb Poster drive. Standing on corners at busy intersections, the girls in the morning accounted for $68.50 worth of stamps. In the afternoon the Sea Cadets took over and brought in an even $70. As a depth bomb costs $90 and it takes this much to fill a poster, the boys' and girls' accomplishments together add up to more than one and a half posters. Goal of the drive in Peterborough is 67 depth charges.

PROMOTED

Mrs. E. O Bailey of St. Mary who is spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Sam Bell of Bridgenorth, received word today that her son, Lieut.-Col. Harold M. Bailey, O.D.E., overseas, has been promoted to the rank of colonel.

LEFT OUT.

One name was omitted in the Collegiate List of examinations results on Friday. Basil Doris of the Commercial Department was promoted from Grade XI to XII.

RAIN IN ENNISMORE.

Some one reported rain "in bucketfulls" around Bridgenorth Sunday, but Sam Bell of the village garage provided revision of that estimate this morning with words, "just a few drops, not enough to lay the dust." Ennismore, however, fared better to the extent of a twenty minute shower that was timely and helpful.

BLOOD DONORS.

At the Blood Donors' Clinic this morning there were 57 individuals who gave blood. Minden and Lindsay each sent six to the number included in the total.

RUSSIAN FUND.

A further contribution to the Russian Fund, a gift of $5.00 made by A Friend, brings the total received to date up to $7,337.25.

GREEK FUND.

The Greek Fund has been enriched by two additional contributions. $5.00 was received from A Friend, and a $2.00 donation was made by Frances L. Hall, 118 Lansdowne St.

TWO BLACK.

Black bass are biting in the Otonabee River near T. A. S. Park, four miles down stream from the city. And they're big ones, too, according to the luck of Arthur Corbin and Alf Gardner at the week end.

Mr. Corbin, 105 Western Avenue, landed a 6 pounder, and Mr. Gardner, 522 Bethune Street, with a line from the same boat, hauled in another big one that weighed five pounds.

The Corbin-Gardner performance indicates a fishing spot near home that may have been generally overlooked.

WADING POOL.

A bulldozer began work this morning between Hunter Street and Riverside Park on the new wading pool for kiddies which has been undertaken by the Lions Club. The pool will go out for a distance of 70 feet and be 300 feet long. It will also be enced in and have a sand beach.

Taxi Owner Is Acquitted Of Overcharging

"I have given this matter considerable attention and I have arrived at the conclusion that the prosecution has not sufficiently proven its case to justify a conviction" declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in polic court, this morning, in dismissing a charge against Harry L. Finnie under the Wartime Prices and Trades regulations of over-charging in taxi fares.

Evidence in the case was heard some time ago. A woman passenger testified that Finnie's wife had charged her 50 cents for carrying her from the Finnie taxi office on Charlotte Street to her address on Hunter Street. She said that she had three parcels, one consisting of two bundles of rhubarb, another of 2:1-2 dozen eggs and the third of two pounds of butter. Evidence of the prosecution further was that Finnie had justified the 50 cents charge on the ground that 25 cents had been charged for transporting the parcels.

The defence called two veteran taxi drivers who said that it had long been a practice to charge for parcels.

In his judgment this morning, Magistrate Langley stressed that feature of the case. He pointed out that the taxi by-law passed by the police commission had fixed no price for the carrying of parcels or goods. The only reference in the by-law concerned the carrying of hand baggage which was to be carried without charge but His Worship said that he could not find that parcels of the nature described could be called hand baggage.

Magistrate Langley pointed out that the prosecution was relying upon the prices set by the by-law as constituting the highest lawful prices that could be charged but unfortunately so far as it was concerned no price had been set for the carrying of goods or merchandise.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for Finnie whi e W. F. Huycke K. C., prosecuted.

Orangemen Hold Service At Riverside Bowl

Orangemen of Peterborough and representatives of outlying lodges turned out Sunday in celebration of the 253rd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne when William of Orange and his army defeated James II.

Gathering at the Orange Hall at 2:30 members of the Order marched to the Cenotaph and placed a wreath in honor of our soldier-dead, then paraded behind the Salvation Army band to Riverside Bowl, where services were held at three o'clock.

The war has altered the character and size of the annual celebration, and even in comparison with last year, when the main ceremonies took place at Havelock, there were noticeable differences. This year there were not the colorful walks up the streets of town which have come to be associated in the public mind with the parades of Orange Lodges, nor were there as many men, women and children on hand to take part.

Gasoline restrictions and the discouragement of unessential civilian travel by the railroads contributed to keeping outside attendance at an almost non-existent level, while the loss of many young members to the armed forces has in itself reduced the strength of most lodges here in town.

Another problem which limited the scope of this year's festivities was food-rationing. It would not have been possible for housewives to get the food and prepare meals in the manner in which they catered to previous outings.

The services at Riverside Bowl lasted about one hour. An address was made by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Church, but Major A. Dixon of the Salvation Army, who was also to have spoken, was unable to attend because of illness. Scripture reading and prayer were conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland who in a short address introduced the speaker of the day.

Requirements of a New Order

Quoting the remark of President Roosevelt that "Hitler's so-called New Order is neither new nor it is order," Rev. Filer outlined some of the requirements that would characterize a truly new and benevolent order such as men wish to see established after the war.

The basis of such a world reorganziation, he said, must be idealistic, must be spiritual. Success lies in marking the difference between the new order which God is seeking to introduce and that of Hitler, which we know so well. This difference is startling. Where the foundation of one is spiritual, that of the other is material; where one is based on love, the other is founded on hate and brute force. The Rule of Christ will not admit of coercion or slavery, and above all it respects the personality and inherent dignity of the ordinary human being.

Some people, the speaker pointed out, believe that the way lies through revolution. But Christians must reject this —with all of revolution's attendent evils and bloodshed. Revolutions breed counter - revolutions, and peace and decent living cannot be found in this manner. The only sure, the only bloodless revolution is the spiritual revolution of Christ.

Preserve Existing Order

On the other hand there are people who urge us to preserve the existing order, Rev. Filer said. These are the ones who console themselves by saying that, after all, things are not so bad, we can get along, and what's the use of going to the trouble when you can't have a perfect order anyway. These men must learn to lay aside their complacency, for the job cannot be fulfilled with a half-hearted attack.

The need is first for changed men—men changed in heart and soul— and then these men, organized under God, can advance firmly and unfalteringly to adjust the inequalities of our social system. "The soldier, the statesman cannot succeed alone; if God is left out, all the blood, toil and tears will have been in vain," Rev. Filer concluded.

A rededication oath declaring "publicly and reverently our belief in Almighty God" and reaffirming "our steadfast loyalty to His Majesty King George VI" was read by E. R. Reid, Past Grand Master of Ontario East and repeated by the audience. "We further declare our devotion to the Protestant faith and the British Empire, and solemnly renew our resolve to keep Canada British," the oath stated.

At the Cenotaph the wreath was laid by Melvin Holden, County Master, and by Mrs. L. P. Campbell, Mrs. Roy Pelling and Mrs. Ethel Delong, respectively Grand Secretary, Grand Treasurer and Grand Auditor, Provincial Lodge L.O.B.A. of Ontario East.

In charge of the parade was County Marshall Archie MacDonald, and Brother J. J. Cunningham was the standard bearer

Lands In Africa

Lieut. Ruby Rogers, R.C.A.M.C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Rogers of Havelock, is one of the Canadian Nursing sisters to follow her fighting countrymen to the African front for the purpose of caring for the wounded in the Sicilian invasion. She has landed in Africa, it was announced today. Lieut. Rogers was overseas three years in June, having enlisted in December, 1939. Her brother, PO. Wilfred Rogers, has been stationed in West Africa for some time. Both Lieut. Rogers and Lieut. Clara Morris of Peterborough have been stationed with the 15th General Hospital in England.

Welfare List Reduced To 159 Persons

The local list of welfare recipients had declined from 159 in June last year to 86 last month, as reported at the committee's meeting Friday. The number of heads of families was 15 last month as compared with 33 in June 1942; single men were down from 10 to 6, and single women from 34 to 29.

Disbursement of assistance was $792.32 as against $1,154.89 for the corresponding month a year ago, and the per capita costs advanced from $7.26 last year to $9.21

Relief cost to the city for six months was $5,945.96, leaving $7,604.04 for the second half of the year, out of the total appropriation of $13,500.

Total expenditure for relief to the end of June was $9,323.28, but the city receives rebates from the provincial government and Ontario Medical Association of $3,377.32, thereby accounting for the present unspent balance of $7,604.04.

FENELLA

Group Makes Study Of Foreign Lands

FENELLA, July 10—(ENS)— The July Fenella W.M.S. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Sandercock on Wednesday with an attendance of 21. Mrs. C. D. Harper had charge of the Devotional period and Mrs. S. Leach conducted the business period. A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. L. Hope for fruit sent her during her recent illness. Mrs. Jas. Knox offered her home for the August meeting, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Hope and Mrs. Chestnut lunch committee, Mrs. L. Hope to take the devotional part and Mrs. Leach program convener.

Mrs. James Knox gave the study book chapter on "The Church and the Corporate Life of the City". The program was led by Mrs. Howard Macklin. Interesting stories from various foreign lands were read by Mrs. Sandercock, Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Unstead. Miss Audrey Down gave a vocal solo.

Mrs. W. I. Montgomery tendered a vote of thanks to the hostess and the meeting closed with prayer by Rev. E. Unstead.

HAVELOCK

Girls Of Knox Church Hold Annual Picnic

HAVELOCK, July 12 — (ENS).— The annual picnic of Knox Presbyterian Church Girls' Class was held on Wednesday afternoon at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor and Miss Thirza Hicks at Trent River. The members of the class and their friends, numbering nearly 40, spent the afternoon swimming, boating, and playing games. A bountiful picnic supper was served at 6:30 ending the party.

24th Donation Is Cable d Great Britain

For the twenty-fourth time since it began operations, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has cabled another £500 to the Lord Mayor of London in the name of the residents of the city and district making a total of £13,600 that has beensent to-day which has meant the raising of close to the $61,000. to make this an established fact.

This latest contribution was cabled this morning accompanied by a message to the Lord Mayor under the name of His Worship Mayor Hamilton which read as follows, "For the twenty-fourth time, citizens of Peterborough and District sent you £500, to alleviate distress of air raid victims. This makes a total of £13,600. sent to date. 'More follows.'

This contribution comes at a most opportune time, since only three days ago, a raid over a south coast town hit a theatre and caused many casualties and injury to many others of which many were children.

Schools Finish Donation

To two schools in the district goes the distinction of supplying the amout needed to complete this particula rdonation with S. S. No. 7 Harvey taking the lead with a nice contribution of $27.00.

This school is presided over by Mrs. Margaret B. Hall of Buckhorn as teacher, and has only 10 students on its roll, who during this past year have made $140.00 for various war objects, of which this gift forms part. By the simple process of arithmethic, it can readily be sen that this group is deserving of real first class commendation, for few can hardly show a better average than a per capita of $14.00 a student. This school is situated on the Oregon Trail, about half-way between Buckhorn and Burleigh.

Then May's School, No. 2 of North Monaghan, close to the city boundaries is back once more with a timely and sizable gift amounting to $1875, which they raised through means of a salvage collection. W. C. Wedlock is the principal of this school which has in the past given considerable help to the fund in which their Home and School Association has on occasion taken a part in helping.

Parker Total $1,063

In the ranks of all those who have given help in this district in an individual way to the fund, the name of John E. Parker, a farmer living on Route 1, Norwood stands much to the forefront, who with the assistance of Mrs. Parker has been responsible for $1,063.25 being raised to help the people of Britain. This was done by the sponsoring of such events as draws, the majority of which were for articles donated by themselves, and the personal element has entered into it to some extent for on more than one previous occasion, both have given cash donations the latest of which appears in to-day's amounting to $15.00 which has been extendedto that amout from the $10.00 he was first prepared to give after hearing of Fridays air raid attack on Britain with the consequent casualty list among which were a number of children.

Mr. Parker served during the last World War, and he is surely taking a part in the present conflict in a large way.

Lindsay Pleads Guilty To Chicken Stealing

Leslie Lindsay, 35, Wilberforce laborer, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of having stolen 14 chickens and a turkey from H. Terrill, Chandso township, on the night of July 6.

Amos Lindsay, brother of the other man, had been similarly accused Saturday morning, and today John A. Bradshaw, who is defending him, stated that there would be a plea of not guilty to the charge.

Leslie Lindsay was remanded, at the request of the Crown, until next Monday for sentence.

Reduce Hog Killings

OTTAWA, July 12—(CP). — The Meat Board announced last night a new order, effective today, calling for reduction of slaughter for the domestic market of hogs of exportable quality to maintain regular shipments of bacon to Britain during the summer months when hog marketings are at their lowest levels.

James Lynch Druggist Dies Suddenly

Retail druggist in Peterborough for fifty years, aJmes Lynch died at his home, 541 Weller Street, on Saturday night after an illness of pneumonia of only several days. He succumbed to the virulent effects of the disease almost before he realized it was upon him. Beginning with a cold that caused him no alarm, the illness developed quickly a serious aspect, with the result that Mr. Lynch had passed away before many of his friends missed him from his usual business sphere or knew that he was ill at home.

Mr. Lynch was born in the west-end of the city, near the corner of Park and Elm Streets, 72 years ago, son of James Lynch and his wife Mary Rowan. After completing the required studies of that time, he was apprenticed in the profession of pharmacy to John Nugent, whose store, on Hunter Street was the present location of Downer's barber shop. Eventually he graduated from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, spent several years in New York, and then returned to Peterborough, opening the retail drug store on Hunter Street which he has occupied continuously for half a century.

About thirty years ago Mr. Lynch organized the Dr. Norval Medical Company, whose wholesale business spread to a large area of Central Ontario. For some years he was a director of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and was widely known professionally throughout the province.

One of Mr. Lynch's interests in Peterborough was the Builders and Loan Association, formed on the general model of similar co-operative and loaning institutions which had been successfully developed and carried on in Great Britain. Its esential feature of saving received Mr. Lynch's consistent recommendation to many citizens, especially to those setting out in life without a chart of the course they expected and hoped to follow.

He was one of the Examiner's first carrier boys.

The community knows that Mr. Lynch built a successful business in Peterborough, including a rural trade that remained with him down through the years.

The surviving members of his family are his widow, the former Maude Kelly of Norwood, one son John and daughter Josephine; also by his brother George Lynch of this city, and his sister Mrs. William Baker of Lindsay.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 9 a.m. from the family residence to St. Peter's aCthedral, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

Young Soldier Is Drowned

TWEED, Ont., July 12 (CP) —Clifford Caverly, 31, of the Canadian Army Training Centre at Peterborough drowned yesterday in Mazinaw Lake, 30 miles north of Tweed. Caverly, who was a barber in Madoc and Belleville before his enlistment, fell into the water from a motor boat driven by Percy Gunn. Caverly was unable to swim and Gunn's efforts to rescue him proved fruitless. The body was recovered later. Mrs. Caverly accompanied her husband on the launch trip with Mr. Gunn.

Military Funeral

Full military honors will be accorded the late Quartermaster Sergeant W. C. Caverley, Weapon Training Instructor.

The funeral is to take place from the home of his brother, Ross Caverley, in the village of Madoc, Tuesday afternoon. Interment will be held in the Foxboro Cemetery.

Quartermaster Caverley started his military life in July 1940, when he enlisted with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Second Battalion, N.P.A.M. He was soon promoted to the rank of corporal and was transferred to this center in September of the same year, as Acting-Corporal.

As a training non-commissioned officer, he was considered one of the best and was promoted to the rank of sergeant, on 7th of February, 1941. He was attached to No. 3 Company as platoon sergeant.

Early in 1942, he qualified in Platoon Weapons, at Long Branch, with high marks. On the 1st of January, 1943, he was promoted to Acting-Quartermaster Sergeant and was appointed as weapon training instructor. Since that time he has carried on his instruction wtih considerable skill.

Three Injured In Collision Near Marmora

MARMORA, July 12—(ENS). — Three persons were injured in a collision which took place on No. 14 Highway about 1¼ miles south of Marmora village at noon on Saturday, as cars driven by Lt.-Col. A. V. Yates of Deloro and Mrs. Annie Collingwood of Belleville collided.

At the time of the collision, Lt.-Col. Yates, who was unaccompanied, was returning to his home from Napanee, while Mrs. Collingwood and a lady passenger, Mrs. Frances Lloyd, were returning to Belleville from a gathering of friends which they had attended in Marmora.

The injuries sustained were as follows: Mrs. Collingwood, broken left leg and chest injuries; Mrs Lloyd, broken left knee and facial lacerations; Col. Yates, chest injuries, facial lacerations and injuries to his left leg. Both cars were damaged extensively.

The injured were conveyed to Dr. H. Crawford's office. Later Mrs. Collingwood and Mrs. Lloyd were admitted to Belleville General Hospital, where the full extent of their injuries was ascertained. Col. Yates was conveyed to his home at Deloro.

The accident was investigated by Constable W. D. Lavender.

R.C.A.F. Mobile Unit Here For Two Days

The R.C.A.F. Mobile Recruiting unit will be in Peterborough on July 13 and 14 this week and will interview applicants at the Y.M.C.A. This will include the Women's Division too. Part of the staff will proceed to Campbellford on Wednesday.

At the present time experienced teleprint operators are needed and girls with a typing speed of 30 words per minute can be trained to operate the machines. Those with a junior matriculation standing may enter the Operational field. In this specialized work they guide the movements of the patrol squadrons, and the safety of men and machines will depend on their skill. Transport drivers and photographers can also be used.

Need More Men For Haying Job This Week

Of the temporary farm help which he was able to muster last week, G. A. Gillespie remarked this morning that he had only one comment, the quality was exceptionally good, but the quantity or rather the number of helpers was much less than required.

Two small groups, one from the Canadian General Electric Company and the other from the Military Training Camp, contributed first class hay harvesters.

"The C.G.E. men working after hours, about three hours in the evening, did a fine job, and the soldiers who responded also helped fill the bill," Mr. Gillespie said. "If we could get some more like them we would be in pretty fair shape to help farmers here and there where the need is acute. On one farm the evening job was nine loads of hay, and they weren't skimpy loads either."

Men who wish to do something extra during this week's peak of the haying season requested to telephone Mr. Gillespie at 8620.

Thief Takes Check Bag From C.P.R. Station

A club bag belonging to R. G. Flood, Toronto, was stolen from a locker at the C.P.R. station during Saturday night and while the bag has been recovered, some of the contents are still missing.

Mr. Flood had locked his bag in a locker on Saturday night but when he arrived at the station early Sunday morning to take a train for Toronto the locker was empty.

City police were notified of the theft later in the morning. Papers that had been in the bag were picked up by two boys near the station and Officers John Naples and Leo Murphy searched the neighborhood with the result that they found some of the contents in the Jackson Park Creek, a short distance north of the station and also located the club bag hidden just south of Dalhousie street.

An electric razor, a dressing-gown and a shirt were missing.

LATEST NAVY RECRUITS

The latest recruits from the city and district for the R.C.N.V.R. are A. J. Companaro, Peterborough, stoker 1; C. C. McClennan, Peterborough, ordinary seaman and M. W. F. McMahon, Millbrook, stoker 2.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Monday, July 12

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows very lively and progressive opportunities for forging ahead on new and ambitious projects, especially those concerning travel, communications, publishing, promotions and legal affairs, but certain opposing forces are aligned against desired success and happy development of brilliant ideas and progress. Placate these by reason, make clear and logical efforts to solve peculiar difficulties, as the mind may be obscure and speech caustic.

Those whose birthday it is may have excellent opportunity for brilliant success and progress in new directions especially in connection with writings, publicity, travel communications. However there is some group or public antagonism trying to block such achievement. This should be amicably composed and with logic and reason, not erratic moves or sarcastic and bitter remarks. Be politic.

A child born on this day may have brilliant ideas and unusual versatility, particularly in intellectual professions. It may have a caustic tongue.

Victor Coleman Is Wed In Stratford Ceremony

Pink gladioli and fern formed a pretty wedding background at Zion Lutheran Church, Stratford on Wednesday July 7, when Beatrice Doris Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wagner of Stratford, became the bride of Mr. Victor Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Coleman of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. F. Gruhn, assisted by Rev. Karl J. Knauff and Miss Edna Eickmeier played the wedding music. During the signing of the register, Miss Grace McKellar sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a long white satin gown fashioned with a torso length fitted bodice, long sleeves ending in points over the wrists, a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt. Her finger-tip veil fell from a heart-shaped head-dress and she carried a cascade bouquet of delight roses and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Audrey Wagner, attended her sister as maid of honor and Miss Betty Coleman, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore street-length dresses of pink and turquoise sheer respectively, with small caps in matching shades and carried colonial bouquets of sweet-peas. Mr. Lincoln Gruhn was best man and the ushers were Mr. Melvin King and Mr. Douglas Wagner.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Wagner received in a two-piece dress of printed silk jersey, white accessories. She was assisted by Mrs. Coleman, mother of the groom, who wore a two-piece blue sheer dress with contrasting accessories. Both wore corsages of tallisman roses. The room was decorated with bouquets of mixed flowers and a wedding cake centred the bride's table. Guests were served by Miss Evelyn Pommer, Miss Eva Widmeyer, Miss Rose Maurer and Miss Marjorie Hindle.

Later the newlyweds left for London and points west, the bride travelling in a two-piece dress of romance blue crepe accented with white accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

GANG UP ON DAUGHTER-IN-LAW WHO BULLIES HUSBAND, MOTHER.

Selfish, Neurotic Wife Makes Scenes to Drive Breach Between Relatives Despite Their Aid.

Dear Miss Dix: I am just an ordinary mother, with three daughters and one son. When my son married, I received my daughter-in-law with open arms and wanted to love her as I did my own daughters, but she has never let me. From the first she has tried in every way to put me at a disadvantage, especially with my son. She is very high-tempered and has hysterics if her will is crossed. She resents taking care of her children and having to do any part of her housework.

My daughters say that she is a possessive wife and resents my son loving me, and that she is infantile and refuses to grow up. I am a calm sort of person and that seems to annoy her greatly. I take care of her children two afternoons and one night a week and at other times if there is something special she wants to do, but if I have an engagement on the nights that I am not supposed to take care of the children it infuriates her.

She makes such scenes that my son comes to me with a long list of things that I should or shouldn't do to keep from displeasing her. When he is finished, he usually says: "Forget it all, Mom, you're alright." Or: "Don't mind me, Mother, E. (his wife) has me walking on eggs to keep her from blowing up." Or: "Please don't mind E, she can't take disappointment."

But I do mind all the little petty tales she tells him about me. Her imagination is too much for me to comprehend and cope with. Please tell me what to do and how to behave towards my daughter-in-law.

MOTHER-IN-LAW

Female Hitler Should Be Deposed

Answer: There is an old proverb that says, "deal with a fool according to his folly." I think we might amplify that to include dealing with a selfish, self-centered, neurotic according to her deserts and giving her the punishment her conduct calls for.

There was once a very pious little priest who, when told of a crime someone had committed, would cross himself and say: "May God forgive you and me for that man's sins." I always think of that priest when I hear of a woman like your daughter-in-law who keeps a whole family upset and terrorized by her temper and her tantrums. For everyone of you, and especially her husband, are largely to blame for her acting like a spoiled child, by your cowardice in not forcing her to behave herself.

She has found out that she can get away with murder by going into rages that have you so buffaloed that you submit to anything rather than rouse her devlish temper. She has discovered that if she howls and shieks for anything long enough you will give in to her and put up with any sort of treatment she gives you. Even her husband is afraid of her and, as he says, walks on eggs to keep from riling her. And you lie down and let her trample all over you.

There are thousands of other families just as craven as yours, and it doesn't seem to occur to any one of them that if they had the backbone to get up and fight back at the little bully who is riding roughshod over them that they could end it all. If her husband had started out their married life by telling her that she either had to control her temper and her tongue, or else he would divorce her, she would have done so. If you had the nerve to present the ultimatum to her and tell her she had either to treat you decently, or else take care of her own children, she would show some appreciation of what you do for her.

Why don't you all gang up on her and just have one good fight with her that will put her where she belongs? There is no sense in letting a whole family be made miserable by a little virago's meanness. When you have a female Hitler in your family, deal with her as every tyrant should be dealt with. Depose her and make her behave herself and respect the right of others. Or else—

Dear Miss Dix: A certain man, who has long been a good friend of ours, is overseas with my husband, fighting for his country. Since he left the states his wife has become the commonlaw wife of an army officer and lived with him at different posts until he also was sent to the Front. Now she has the insurance policies and the allotments of both of these men and at present is living at the home of the army officer's parents who think that she is married to their son.

Now here is where I come in: She has the letters from her husband sent to my address and has me send them on to her, addressed in the name of the army officer. The husband is a fine man, but he and his wife did not get along very well together. What shall I do to

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Curry

Here is another dish that helps s-t-r-e-t-c-h meat as well as use leftovers

Here in Canada we have in the past regarded curry as rather an exotic dish—reminiscent of Anglo-Indian Colonels and dark-skinned native cooks. But in a time like this, curry comes into its own. In the first place, lima beans, peas, and other meat alternates—not to mention sea food and eggs—all take very kindly to the curry treatment. Then the most assorted and miscellaneous collection of meat leftovers can assume new glamour in a curry. Finally, curry offers the perfect treatment for the less tender and tasty cuts of meat.

1 pound lean meat, diced
4 to 6 good-sized onions
2½ cups stock or water
1 cup diced tart apple, or sliced carrot with juice of ½ lemon
2 tablespoons curry powder
Salt and pepper

Cook the onions, sprinkled with half the curry powder, in a little hot dripping or other cooking fat, until tender and delicately browned. Add the stock and apple or carrot, bring to boil, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, for two hours or until meat is tender. Add salt and pepper to taste. Pour off and measure liquid, and thicken smoothly with flour blended smoothly with cold liquid—allowing 1½ tablespoons flour for each cup of gravy. At the same time, add remaining curry (more or less, to taste). Connoisseurs consider curry best if cooled overnight and reheated . . . the "hot" flavour becomes mellow. Serve with fluffy hot rice, and chutney.

The basic recipe we give here can be varied to suit your family's taste. If they like "hot" foods you can double or treble the quantity of curry powder. The important thing is to allow yourself plenty of time and plenty of onions. Any vegetable leftovers can be added with benefit, both to the dish and your diet.

QUICK RICE

Into a big saucepan of rapidly boiling, salted water, filter the dry rice so that the water never ceases to boil. When soft (20 minutes), strain in collander. Pour another kettle of boiling water through the rice. Drain thoroughly and serve in a pre-heated dish.

Munro's Story On Sicily Scores Scoop

By ALAN RANDAL

LONDON, July 12—(CP)—Ross Munroe's eye-witness story today of the Canadian invasion of Sicily near Cape Passero was 7½-hour "beat" or "scoop" over 53 other war correspondents covering all phases of the Allied invasion.

Munro was the first reporter to get out his story, describing the landing with slight opposition, off-shore naval support, taking of the first Axis prisoners in that sector and the complete lack of Axis air power.

His story was written late Saturday afternoon in Sicily and reached the Canadian Press cable desk in New York at 5:17 a. m. E. D. T. Sunday.

Allied Bridgehead Named

The mention of Pachino as the point near where the Canadians landed was the first word from any Allied source naming an Allied bridgehead It was 10 hours later before Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Africa headquarteds announced troop activities in the Pachino and Gela areas.

Munro's story was broadcast throughout the world by the BBC, was the first eye-witness story published on the invasion by British newspapers and was a broadcast feature all day in Canada and the United States where no evening papers are published Sunday.

First News for Officers

Canadian Army officers in Britain got their first details of the success of the landing operation from Munro's story.

The C. P. man's story of the departure from Britain of Canadian forces, written at the time of departure and released here Saturday, also was widely published by British newspapers.

Munro had his first great war "beat" in August last year when he landed with the Canadians at Dieppe and wrote a first-hand account of the action that received world-wide attention.

The second Sicily-datelined story to come through today was written by S. L. Solon, representing the combined British Press. It arrived 7½ hours after Munro's.

Canadians Lead Attack On Sicily After Long Training

Canadian assault forces such as those pictured ABOVE, are storming the Beaches of Sicily. As this landing barge came ashore in practice assault, it advanced through fields of exploding mines, toughening the Canadians for actual combat like that now in progress.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Spud Chandler and Bud Metheny, Yankees—Chandler's six-hit pitching in first game and Metheny's first homer in nightcap beat White Sox twice.

Tommy Bridges, Tigers, and Don Black, Athletics—Veteran Bridges hurled brilliant three-hit shutout to give Detroit split of twin bill after rookie Black won opener.

Al Smith, Indians, and Gerald Priddy, Senators—Smith pitched five-hitter in first game of double-header; Priddy drove in winning run in night cap to give Washington split.

Chet Laabs and Nelson Potter, Browns — Laabs hit 12th-inning homer to beat Red Sox in first game and Potter made it clean sweep with five-hit pitching in afterpiece.

Harry Gumbert and Whitey Kurowski, Cardinals—Gumbert tossed six-hit shutout to beat Braves in first game; Kurowski's 11th double with bases full won second.

Ernie Lombardi, Giants, and Bill Nicholson, Cubs—Lombardi's 10th inning homer won first game; Nicholson's seventh inning homer with one on won second for Cubs.

Buck Walters and Ray Starr, Reds—Each turned in seven-hit pitching jobs to beat Phillies twice; Walters knocked in three runs with three hits, one a homer.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press' Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 12—(AP)—Thought for tomorrow: If you consider the 13th an unlucky day, how'd Yupikt manage a ball team composed of these players, all born on the 13th? . . . Pitchers, Wild Bill Donovan, Rube Waddell, Eddie Rommel; catcher, Johnny Kling; infielders; Hal Chase, Edward C. Foster, Charles (Swede) Risberg and J. Franklin (Home Run) Baker; outfielders: Fielder Jones, Joseph Devore and William L. Gardner . . . Gardner really was an infielder, but you'd have to put a third man in the outfield.

Monday Matinee

Shag Shaughnessy, the International League president, blames football for the decline of college baseball, which was big-time stuff when he went to Notre Dame . . . "And it isn't good football, either," he argues. "I don't know how many Army-Notre Dame games I've seen, but if they can't play any better than that I'll stick to the pros." . . . If you think Tex Hughson is a menace to the Yankees (he's beaten them three out of four this season) how about Bernie Boland, old-time Detroit hurler, who did it a dozen times in a row? Or Christy Mathewson, who took 22 straight from the Reds?

Today's Guest Star

Burton Hawkins, Washington Star: "The Nationals lost their sense of humor when Lefty Gomez packed his suitcase and headed home. Lefty's brand of banter was brillant, but also expensive. Clark Griffith was paying $11,000 a year for what amounted to considerable comedy but virtually no pitching."

Cleaning the Cuff

The Giants, who have been taking a panning for not buying ball players, haven't said a word about trying to buy first baseman Les Scarsella who is hitting .340 for Oakland, Calif., and being turned down because they couldn't give two or more players for him.

Recall Oakes' Body

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

On Wednesday afternoon, of this week, at 1.30 o'clock, the ladies of our club are holding their annual open rink tournament for the "J J. Duffus" Trophy. This event is looked upon not only as a high light in local circles but one of the vast importance to clubs all around this district. This day has been set aside for the ladies and the ladies always look upon it as "the day of the season. They have worked for it and planned for it and all they are hoping now is that the "weather man" will be kind to them and that the visiting clubs will be generous with their support.

No doubt last year's winner, Mrs. J. Arnold of our club, will again have an entry and will try to repeat.

With regards to the local entries we believe the ladies are entering their own scheduled rinks. It's a long standing "Gentlemen's agreement."

The committee in charge of the tournament is: Mrs. W. Hepburn, chairman, Mrs. R. Dyer, Mrs. N. Killingbeck and Mrs. H. Wilson.

Looking over our schedule book we find that Group No. 1 plays this evening and judging by the line up there should be some real interesting games.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

The troops of Military District No. 1, taking in 11 Western Ontario Counties, revealed their athletic strength in the annual field day at Little Stadium, London, for the selection of athletes for the All-Ontario track championships scheduled for July 24. Led by L. Cpl. W. J. Pillsworth, winner of three firsts, Chatham Basic Training Centre walked off with the district honors in scoring 63 points, to 36 by Camp Ipperwash, 23 by Listowel Basic Training Centre and London District Depot, Kitchener, Woodstock and Windsor units trailing.

Product of Walkerville Collegiate, L. Cpl. Jack Haydon of Windsor, representing Chatham B. T. C., established a new Canadian military record of 11 feet four inches in the pole vault. Pte. M. Phillips of the Listowel B. T. C., who was second high man of the carnival with two victories, lowered the district record for the century dash by three-fifths of a second to 10 1-5 seconds and also captured the furlong. Others to smash district records included Cpl. H. Morgan of Chatham, broad jump; Cpl. Goody of Camp Ipperwash, shot put, and Cpl. Ruth Glazier of Ipperwash who cut the mark for the women's 75-yard dash to 10 1-5 seconds.

The all-round champion, L. Cpl. Pillsworth, made a clean-up in the track contests from the 440 to one mile distance while Cpl. C. L. Smith of Queen's Park barracks, London, finished out in front in the three mile grind.

Swedish Youth Wins.

Gunder Haegg of Sweden, in his third American appearance, left his chief rival, Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, 125 yards in the rear as he glided across the finishing line of a two-mile event at Los Angeles Saturday to set up a new world mark of 8:53.9. However, Haegg did not come close to his own unofficiall record for the distance of 8:47.8 and there does not appear to be anybody around who can press him to greater speed in open competition.

Brockville Club Wins.

Two of the Eastern Rowing Association clubs competed in the annual regatta Saturday for the Comstock trophy, the wartime program taking place at Brockville. Championship honors went to the Brockville oarsmen 59 points to 41 against the entries of the Ottawa Rowing Club Conditions prevented the participation of the Lachine Rowing Club.

Veteran Wins Award

Setting a new record for the 25 years in which the Claude A. Findlay golfing trophy has been up for competition, Henry N. Anderson, 73-year-old president of the Sault Ste. Marie Country Club, Saturday captured the silverware for entrants playing against their own handicaps. Anderson, whose handicap is 18, covered the course in eight over par.

Father and Son Win

For the first time in Grand Circuit racing, a father and son figured as the winning drivers in the daily double at North Randall track Saturday, the dual pool giving $63 for a $2 ticket. Seventy-year-old Ben White piloted Barbara Babcock, three-year-old filly, to the $7,657 Coaching Club stake, and his 28-year-old son, Gibson, was behind Volburn in winning the 2:25 pace in straight heats. Fastest time of the day, 2:03, was made by Adios in the second and deciding heat of the American stake for three-year-old pacers.

Getting Very Touchy

Major league baseball chieftains are getting very touchy, as indicated by recent verbal clashes. The latest controversy is between Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns over an alleged statement from the latter to the effect that the Yanks "get all the breaks from the umpires." McCarthy has protested to President Will Harridge of the American League over the "slur."

Bags A Plane

Participating in wide sweeps over Sicily in the protection of Canadian, British and American troops who were being landed after the securing of bridgeheads by first assault units were Canadian fighter pilots based on Malta. One of them was PO. William (Red) Dutton of Winnipeg, nephew of acting president Mervyn Dutton of the National Hockey League. PO. Dutton scored a damaged Nazi JU-88.

London Army Beats Waterloo Tigers 13-2

WATERLOO (CP)—London Army lengthened its lead in the Inter-County Baseball standing by collecting 16 hits for a 13-2 win over the luckless Waterloo Tigers although the losers accounted for three of the five double-plays of the set-to. Buddy Huber, formerly of Kitchener, was the winning hurler.

Hockey Player Killed

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., July 12 (CP). — PO. Herbert Jasmin, former senior hockey player with Port Colborne Sailors and North Bay Trappers, was killed in a flying accident at Pennfield Ridge, N.B., according to word received by his wife here on Sunday. PO. Jasmin was born in Cornwall, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jasmin, live. A graduate of the University of Ottawa, he won his wings two months ago, his commission following a month later.

4th Compulsory

doorman and starter; elevator operator; greens keeper; grounds keeper; hotel bell boy; porter (other than in railway train service); private chauffeur; taxi driver; waiter."

Consider Domestic Status.

"I might explain the fourth order simply," said Mr. Mitchell, "by pointing out that in effect it brings young men of 16, 17 and 18 years of age under the first and second compulsory orders, both of which originally applied only to men in classes designated under mobilization regulations.

"The objective of the fourth order is to make the young men affected available for transfer to work which is of more importance to Canada's war effort."

Selective Service officers will "take into account the health and domestic circumstances" of any young men being considered for transfer.

"Any of the young men in the age groups mentioned who will be returning to school at the opening of the autumn school session, will not be stopped by the order from again attending school," said Mr. Mitchell. "However, even though intending to return to school, young men in the classes affected who now are in the employments listed, working during their summer vacation period, must comply with the compulsory order."

Required to Report.

Young men covered by the fourth order must report to the nearest Employment and Selective Service office not later than July 24.

"The general conditions applicable in connection with the earlier orders, also apply to this recent order. Penalties are provided for employers retaining men covered by the order after July 24, except under special permit. Any man directed to employment may enter appeal with a court of referees if he feels he has grounds for not transferring."

It was emphasized by Mr. Mitchell that the third transfer order, affecting both men from 16 to 18 years and also men callable under mobilization regulations, is still current. It requires the men involved to apply to Selective Service not later than July 15.

It includes men in the following occupations:

1. Raising of special live stock like racehorses, and dogs, cats, and other pets; 2, flower growing; 3, horticultural services except tree surgery; 4, leather currying, finish-embossing, and japanning; 5, brewing;

6. Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture; (h) rattan and willow-wares; (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

7. Any wholesale activity not in the following list: Farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and sheet metal; periodicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines, sheet music; watches, clocks, and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste.

Young men who are "indentured apprentices" will not be transferred to other employment under these compulsory orders, Mr. Mitchell said.

WORRIED.

Accessory to Bigamist Dangerous

Answer: If you go on forwarding the husband's letters to his wife, you become a party to her deceiving him, and this will put you in a very hot spot when he finds out about it, as he certainly will.

I appreciate that no one likes to be an informer and that it is a difficult and delicate matter to tell a husband that his wife is betraying him, but in such a flagrant case of utter disloyalty I think it is your duty to at least write to your husband and tell him the whole story and let him use his judgment about informing his friend of the state of affairs. As you say the couple did not get along well together, perhaps the husband had a reason to suspect his wife of misconduct before this and that he will be very glad to free himself of her by divorcing her.

But what about the officer who has been taking this woman around with him as his wife and then imposing her upon his family? Is it possible that she deceived him also and that he thinks that he is legally married to her? How else could she get hold of his allotment and his insurance policy?

Certainly while we must deplore the lady's morals, we must admit that she must be a fascinator and an accomplished gold-digger.

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of a boy who insists upon discussing sex matters freely with a girl? Should she listen to him, or does it cheapen her. YOUNG GIRL.

Answer: It cheapens her. It soils her. Out of the heart the mouth speaketh, so have nothing to do with a boy who is not clean in his talk. He is foul-minded.

Giants Triumph Over Yanks 12-8

In a hard-fought battle at Memorial Park on Friday night the Giants defeated the Yanks. It was a hustling exhibition of good hitting and the fielding sparkled here and there. For the winners Bud Guerin was the leading slugger with a homer, triple and single in four trips to the plate. For the losers Nipper Brady was tops, with two for four. Fielding features included good catches by Murdock and nice infielding by Bill Duignan. The teams:

OBITUARIES

ANNA GERTRUDE FITZGERALD

MILLBROOK, July 12—(ENS)—A member of a pioneer family of Millbrook's days, Anna Gertrude Fitzgerald, who was born, and spent her youth in this village, passed away on Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. A. V. Preston, Orangeville, in her sixty-fifth year.

She was the younger daughter of the late James Fitzgerald, merchant of this community i nearlier years, and his wife, Anna Margaret Carson and who was educated at the local public school, later training for a nurse. Since 1929, with the exception of two years in the West, Miss Fitzgerald has made her home with her brother-in-law and sister, Colonel and Mrs. Preston, at Orangeville; for two months or more preceding her death she had been in indifferent health, suffering practically all her life from asthma in an aggravated form and passer peacefully away in her sleep.

A life-long member of theAnglican Church, the late Miss Fitzgerald was of a retiring disposition, but active in the W. A. and other organizations of St. Mark's Church, during her stay in Orangeville, her loyal service and support to her place of worship was carried out wherever she stayed.

The funeral took place Saturday with Rev. Can. H.A. West McMaster conducting the service at Orangeville, and interment at St. Paul's cemetery, Ida, Rev. Mr. Mason, of Bethany, taking the service here in the absence of the rector, Rev. A. E. Chavis. Thesurviving relatives include besides Mrs. Preston, three brothers, George G., of Regina, Sask; John H. of Portland, Oregon; and Percy H. of Evanstown, Ill. Four older brothers were previously deceased.

The pall-bearers at St. Paul's were T. A. Campbell, J. E. Allen, T. Collins, Reginald H and Gera[ld] Armstrong, and L. H. Winslow.

MRS. ALONZO LARMER

The death of Mrs. Mary J. Larmer, widow of the late Alonzo Larmer occurred recently at her late residence in Oshawa following a lingering illness and in her 72nd year.

Mrs. Larmer, who before her marriage was Mary Jane Harmer, was born in Madina U. S. A. daughter of the late William Harmer and Sarah Greer. When a child the family moved to Bailieboro where she became a member of the Methodist Church and taught in the Sunday School.

In 1897 she married Alonzo Larmer and lived at Millbrook until 24 years ago when they moved to Oshawa, she has been an active member of King St. United Church as a Deaconess and a member of the Women's Association here.

Surviving are two daughters Mrs. Roy Allman (Beana) of Oshawa, Mrs. James Haslip (Joy) of Regina, Sask., two sons Arnold and Cas[s] at home. Her husband and one son Earl, predeceased her one year and a half ago. Two sisters Mrs. Blanche Dawson of Bailieboro and Mrs. W. Smithson (Maud) of Oshawa, are living.

The funeral was held from her late residence. The numerous beautiful floral tributes bore evidence of the high esteem held for the late Mrs. Larmer. Rev. J. V. McNeel conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were: James Eagleson, E. Burley, Wilbur Larmer, Orm Larmer, Ed. Larmer and Bob Larmer.

Interment was made in Mount Lawn Cemetery.

ROBERT M. J. McARTHUR.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McArthur of Ida, R. R. 1, Cavan Township, were bereaved of their baby son, Robert Myles Douglas, one year and nineteen days old, who died Sunday in Nicholl's Hospital. The little boy was a grandson of Mrs. Mark Hooton, and is also survived by two sisters, Shirley and Doreen. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the funeral home of Comstock & Sons, 305 Water Street to the cemetery on the ninth concession of Cavan. Rev. J. F. Evers will conduct the service.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"PENALTY CARDS" LAWS

IN ADDITION to cards which become "penalty cards" because of infractions of other regulations, the new Laws of Contract Bridge provide that if a defender does any of these things: (a) drops a card face up on the table; (b) drops a card simultaneously with one led or played, or plays a second card to a trick; (c) plays before declarer has named or exacted a lead or play penalty for a previous irregularity; (d) sees the face of a card belonging to his partner (except following a claim or concession of tricks by the declarer); (e) plays to declarer's lead out of turn after declarer has been required to correct it, or (f) plays another card when obligated to play a penalty card, any such card becomes a "penalty card." (If the defenders lead simultaneously, the correct lead stands; if a defender leads or plays two or more cards simultaneously, he may play either card, the other card or cards becoming "penalty cards.")

Here is what must be done with a "penalty card":

1. A defender must leave his penalty card face up on the table. If he improperly picks it up, and if declarer fails to call attention to the error before thereafter playing from both hands, declarer is deemed to have condoned the original offense.

2. A penalty card must be played at the first legal opportunity, whether in leading, following suit, discarding or trumping. This obligation continues until the card is played, or until declarer nullifies it by selecting the option given in the next paragraph. If a defender can play either of two (or more) penalty cards, declarer may designate which one is to be played.

3. If an ace, king, queen or jack becomes a penalty card, and still is unplayed when first thereafter it is the turn of the owner's partner to lead, declarer may forbid the lead of the suit of that card, in which case the penalty card ceases to be a penalty card and may be picked up. Declarer may not enforce this option after the owner's partner has led unless he has previously advised that he was contemplating such action.

When a defender incurs two or more obligations, he must fulfill them in this order of preference: First, follow suit to a lead if able, this obligation over-riding all other requirements; second, respond, if able, and as directed by declarer, to a proper lead or play penalty (if he has an unplayed penalty card and if the lead or play penalty cannot be satisfied by playing the penalty card, he must play it at the next legal opportunity); third, he must play a penalty card, if able.

Observer Warns Sicily Landing Is Part Of Plan

LONDON, July 12—(CP)— The invasion of Europe now under way through Sicily should not be regarded as "the only landing, nor even as the landing" planned by the Allies, a British observer told correspondents Saturday.

He also warned that "hard and prolonged fighting must be expected" against the island's total defence forces, estimated at 400,000.

Development of the Allied striking power along the upper coast of North Africa suggested a strong possibility that the assault on Sicily might be accompanied at any moment by co-ordinated moves elsewhere along the Mediterranean front, it was said.

This possibility also was strengthened by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement in his personal message broadcast to Europe that the "battle of Europe" now had begun.

Estimated Troops.

The total strength of the Allied forces in the Mediterranean area has never even been suggested by Allied sources, but Axis feeler broadcasts reported 44 infantry divisions, from 15 to 20 tank divisions, two airborne divisions, and a parachute battalion ready in northwest Africa and the Middle East.

London sources declined to comment on the chain of command under Gen. Eisenhower, although there had been no indication of any change in the team which swept Tunisia clean. This had Gen. Sir Harold Alexander in charge of ground forces and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder commanding in the air.

Sgt. Robert G. Cartwright has arrived safely overseas, according to word received by Mrs. Candos Cartwright of Havelock. Cartwright appeared in three of the scenes of the picture, "Commandos Strike At Dawn."

Better Future Is Proposed

TORONTO, July 12 (CP).—E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader on Friday night addressed a pre-election broadcast to the people of Ontario "who look forward to a better future." He said he was not speaking to "those who were satisfied with conditions as they existed in Ontario from 1929 to 1939" — to them "the C.C.F. make no appeal."

Mr. Joliffe said the C.C.F. is out to contest the Aug. 4 election "with all the resources at our command." They are not interested in minor successes or tactical gains—"we have a program for this province. Progressive, practicable and urgently necessary.... We are making a bid for power."

The immediate setting up of a planning commission to plan for employment of all after the war was recommended. This to include organization for the fullest possible use of natural resources such as water power, forests and mineral deposits.

Resources Exploited

"In the past," Mr. Jolliffe said, "the government and its friends have exploited these resources in a hit and miss way, some of them not at all, with the result that today more than one-third of our electric power is being purchased from private companies in another province. ... In the fourth year of war we are only beginning to touch the high grade iron ore deposits which have long been known to exist near Fort William."

Social ownership of all monopolies within the jurisdiction of Ontario was advocated — "They should be operated at cost and as a service to our people. That step would save money to farmers. Workers and consumers—it would literally save them many millions of dollars a year."

113,874,000 Gals. Pumped Here In June

June pumpage at the Waterworks was 113,874,000 gallons as compared with 103,668,000 a year ago.

R. L. Dobbin attributes the 10,000,000-gallon increase to the drier weather last month. The pumping peak on June 25 reached 5,500,000 gallons or 200 gallons that day for every person in the city.

"Some of this, perhaps 20 per cent, was used by industry, leaving 160 gallons per capita for domestic purposes.

The average family, therefore, used about 700 gallons of water on June 25, or 3½ tons, which seems to be a lot of water, most of it sprinkled on the lawns and gardens."

Mr. Dobbin also reported to the Utilities Commission on Friday that the temperature of the river has mounted to 78 degrees, four degrees higher than last year.

The electric power peak last month was 11,200 horse-power, as compared with 11,800 a year ago, a decrease of 600 horse-power.

The number of gas services now stands at 3,088, which is 157 more than in 1942. However, the total consumption of gas is only slightly higher than a year ago.

Family Held

Mrs. Ruth H. Powell has a special reason for wanting to even the score with the Japs. Her husband, Lt.-Col. Thomas N. Powell, Sr., and their two sons, Major N. Powell, Jr., and Robert P. Correspondents Knew For Month Sicily Was Next On Allied List

By RELMAN H. MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 12 — (AP). — Saturday was "D" day.

And now that it has some more than 100 British and American correspondents in North Africa have a sensation of a heavy weight being lifted from their shoulders and hobbles taken off their tongues.

You can speak openly now about the landing on Sicily.

For months whenever the subject was mentioned at all—which was practically never—correspondents called it "that thing" or "the magoo" or, simply, "it."

In the middle of June Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called a press conference at his headquarters.

The Allied commander in chief was speaking generally of the situation as developing. Then he added that overseas operations would be undertaken within the month. The room seemed to freeze. Nothing moved except the commander-in-chief's icy blue eyes which went slowly from face to face.

He said that the attack would be aimed at Sicily.

And if there was surprise before, it was sheer numbing shock now. You're accustomed to hearing or learning military information of a highly confidential nature but none of the khaki-clad newsmen in Eisenhower's conference room that day ever expected to be given the place and the approximate date of the operation that will go down as one of the decisive events in history.

Eisenhow said that the Allies might be "riding for a bloody nose" but that he thought the job could be done.

The picturesque simile seemed to break the thread of tension. Almost in unison the correspondents drew a deep breath, blinked, shifted in their chairs and lit cigarets. They asked a few questions and Eisenhower answered, disclosing some details of the coming operation.

Before the conference ended he warned listeners not to talk.

ALLIES SWEEP UP COAST OF SICILY

Italian City Of Turin Hit By R.A.F.

Home-Based Bombers Fly 2,000 Miles In Raid On Italy

LONDON, July 13—(AP).—Home-based bombers of the R.A.F. struck a heavy blow at Turin in northern Italy last night in operations co-ordinated with the Allied invasion of Sicily, it was announced today.

The raiders encountered bad weather both on the outward and return trips, the announcement said, but the sky was clear over the target and they unloaded the "usual heavy concentration of bombs" on their objectives.

Taking a different route going and coming the big bombers flew a round trip of approximately 2,000 miles.

13 Bombers Lost.

A communique, describing the attack as "heavy and concentrated," said 13 bombers of the "strong" force were lost.

The planes were dispersed on the return flight because of the bad weather, the first announcement said the losses were "about normal" for such an operation.

Fighters and fighter-bombers, including R. C. A. F. mosquitos, attacked railway and other ground targets in France, Holland and Belgium while the Turin raiders were engaged in the long-range operaion.

The raid was described authoritatively as "part of the combined operations now going on in the Mediterranean."

Turin has been raided 28 times since the start of the war, the last time being the night of February 4. Turin is the site of important Italian war industries.

An Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio, reported that 101 persons had been killed and 203 injured in the raid on Turin, and acknowledged considerable damage.

Six Hours Of Darkness.

The long flight negotiated by the raiders last night was regarded here as particularly remarkable because

Italians Use Cavalry

London, July 13 (CP Cable)

CAVALRY charges — a relic of the First Great War — were used by the Italians during the week-end in an attempt to break the tightening Allied hold in the southeast corner of Sicily, according to a Reuters News Agency dispatch from Allied headquarters in North Africa.

In the region of Comiso, midway between Syracuse and Licata and about 10 miles inland, Italian cavalry charged against Allied tanks and Canadian troops, armed to the teeth with the most modern weapons, the dispatch added.

The Canadians put up a terrific barrage and forced the Italian horsemen to withdraw.

Canadian Army Not Broken Up Ralston Says

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston today told the House of Commons that the current Mediterranean operations does not mean that the Canadian Army is 'broken up."

Col. Ralston said the role of the Canadian Army was always "flexible" and it could "be taken apart on the principle of a sectional bookcase."

It had been the policy that the Canadian Army could be used in whole or in part, wherever and for whatever task would best serve the common cause.

"The Sicilian operation means that the policy is being carrilied out," the Minister said.

Col. Ralston was replying to a question by Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, who quoted from a Canadian Press despatch from London, dated July 11, as follows:

"It once was thought that when the Canadians went into battle they would go in as an army but the term army has changed in meaning since the North African campaign."

He asked if the campaign now going forward in the Mediterranean meant the Canadian Army was broken up.

Condemn Statement.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F. Winnipeg North Centre) said that Prime Minister Mackenzie King should make a further condemnation of a statement by the president of Falconbridge Nickel Co. concerning the company's nickel property in Norway.

At a meeting of shareholders this year, the president was quoted as saying shareholders would be pleased to hear that the property was being maintained although in enemy hands.

Mr. King replied to Mr. Knowles that he had used the words "unwise, foolish and unpatriotic" in referring to the statement in the House last month. He made clear that the Government had no sympathy with the statement, Mr. King said.

Mr. Knowles said that since the Prime Minister's statement in the House there had been publication of correspondence between the president of Falconbridge and the Prime Minister's office.

In one of the letters, the company president had said remarks of M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, on the statement about the Norwegian plane were "ill-conceived" and contained "a slur."

This meant, said Mr. Knowles, that the last word in the discussion was with Falconbridge.

Mr. King said he condemned the statement of the company president now, as he did a month ago.

T. L. Church (Prog. Con. Toronto Broadview) said he objected to "amateurs" being given Canadian diplomatic posts, and declared that trained men were needed.

Mr. Church said Canada had been described as the interpreter of America to Britain. He said the United Kingdom did not want any interpreter, because "Britain knows all about America."

Mr. Church asked "Where was the voice of Canada when North American bases were given the United States for 99 years in exchange for American destroyers?"

Canadians Given Fascist Salute

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP). — How the natives on the south-eastern tip of Sicily welcomed the invading Canadian troops is told by Peter Stursberg, war correspondent of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation with the Canadians in Sicily.

Stursberg first encountered the natives at the small point known as Maucini, one of the first objectives after the landing. Maucini was formerly a winery, later taken over by the Italian army as a barracks for troops manning a coast defence battery.

"The workers came out of the fields and gave us the Fascist salute to which we replied with nods," said Stursberg's cable, written on Monday. "Now the natives are learning to tip their hats, instead of stretching out their arms."

The Italian soldiers lived in parts of the winery and stables, while officers enjoyed the main house.

Second-Grade Equipment

"Their quarters were in great disorder as they were surprised by troops of a famous Canadian regiment. Their clothes were scattered everywhere. The Quartermaster stores were full of equipment, most of which appeared to be second-grade."

Stursberg related that the coastal battery the Italians were supposed to be manning never fired a shot. They were completely caught by surprise. "Major Lord Tweedsmuir, who is second-in-command of an Ontario unit, told me they had captured Italians whose machine-gun was still pac-

Nazis Open New Assault On Red Lines

60-Ton Tiger Tanks In Great Numbers Thown Into Battle

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 13 — (AP). — Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge threw the entire weight of his armored columns into a furious attack today against the southern end of the 200-mile Orel-Kursk-Belgorod front in an action designed to enlarge the Belgorod wedge and blast a major breach in the Russian lines.

Dropping all efforts to break through on the northern end of the salient, Von Kluge fell back on the old Nazi power-house drive but the thick Russian defences remained impenetrable, although fighting became so violent that even tank crews of the opposing forces broke into hand-to-hand fighting on one occasion.

Germans Claim 400 Tanks

(A German communique broadcast by the Berlin Radio and recorded by The Associated Press, claimed that the Nazi armored forces with the support of the German air force had gained further ground in the area just north of Belgorod and had smashed strong enemy counter-attacks on other sectors of the front. The Russians suffered "heaviest losses" the German communique asserted, including a total of 400 tanks and 123 aircraft.)

The tremendous success of the Red Armies was indicated by an announcement today that the Germans have "despaired" of breaking through on the Orel-Kursk sector, after suffering immense losses in one of the most determined attacks they have launched since the nine-day offensive started. Today, the Russians said, German forces on this sector have been considerably reduced in size and are being used merely to consolidate their present positions.

While the Russian midnight communique reported that German attacks were somewhat weaker in the northern area around Orel, the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star said the struggle around Belgorod was daily becoming "more acute" with the Nazis hurling wave after wave of 60-ton Tiger tanks into the fray in an attempt to widen a wedge they drove into the defences last week.

Past Few Days Battle

A few details are now trickling through about the fighting of the past few days around Belgorod. After breaking through into Russion positions, Von Kluge's columns attempted to exploit the wedge by launching numerous attacks in different directions, front line dispatches said.

When these failed the Nazis were reported to have buttressed their own lines under cover of darkness, quickly erecting defences and tank barriers to forestall a Russian flank attack. The German columns then turned north and attempted a break-through in a narrow sector but were again repulsed, the dispatches said.

Ask That Radio Be Freed Of Constant Threat

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP). — The Canadian Association of Broadcasters in a presentation to the House of Commons Radio Committee said today private broadcasters were 'disturbed' by the report of last year's radio committee supporting general nationalization of radio in Canada.

Joseph Sedgewick, K.C., of Toronto acted as spokesman for the delegation which included Glenn Bannerman, Toronto, president and general manager of the association; Senator Rupert Davies, Kingston, and Harold Garner, Peterborough.

Security Weakened.

Mr. Sedgewick said the sense of security of private broadcasters had been weakened by the report of last year's parliamentary radio committee, and by some things not said but "hinted at."

(The committee last year recommended action to prevent groups of stations being allowed under one ownership. Steps in this direction were taken recently when the regulations were amended to prohibit, except under special circumstances, the granting of another licence to an individual or firm which already held a licence for some other station.)

Mr. Sedgewick said last year's report constituted a restatement of the nationalization of radio originally proposed in the report of the Aird commission, particularly in the re-

Anglo-Canadian Force Takes Augusta, New Beachhead Is Established Near Catania

Allies Gain In All Sectors Of Sicily
Axis Counter-Attacks Thrown Back
American Force Connects With British

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 13—(AP).—British and Canadian invasion forces swept up the east coast of Sicily at a breathtaking pace today, capturing the port of Augusta, 19 miles north of Syracuse, while other British troops piled ashore on the beaches near Catania, major city nearly halfway up the coastline to Messina.

British and Canadian troops fought their way into the two strategic communications centres of Ragusa and Palazzola in the southeastern corner of the embattled island, forming a junction with American troops at Ragusa as the latter pushed steadily northward and eastward from their original landing at Gela.

Again the veteran American troops repelled a fierce counter-attack by Axis forces, destroying a number of enemy tanks and taking prisoners, a headquarters bulletin announced.

Without giving details as to exact sectors, it later was announced the Allies now have made contact with two regular field divisions of much sterner character than the coastal troops, but these failed to offer much greater resistance.

Losses Are Slight.

Allied losses at Augusta were described officially as slight and port and harbor installations were undamaged.

Augusta, with a population normally running between 20,000 and 25,000 persons, is a fine fortified port which has been used as a naval harbor.

The junction of Canadian and American forces outside Ragusa consolidated an unbroken Allied line. American troops reached the verge of the city from the west slightly before Canadians drove in from the east, it was reported.

Palazzola is 20 miles west of Syracuse and its capture marked the farthest point of advance inland by the invading forces. Ragusa is 12 miles south-west of Palazzolo. Both are prizes of great strategic value being junctions for virtually all the main and secondary highways in south-eastern Sicily.

Loss of the two cities will deprive defending Axis forces of much of their mobility in their desperate efforts to head off the many pronged Allied offensives. Ragusa is in the mountains and gives the forces in possession clear control of the surrounding countryside.

Heavy Bombardment.

The capture of Augusta was preceded by a heavy bombardment from Allied warships, which stood off and lobbed high explosives into the town.

Details of the new landings near Catania were not given immediately but it was assumed they were made by units of the veteran British 8th Army which originally attacked that side of the island.

Allied losses in the capture of Augusta were officially described as slight. Port and harbor installations were said to have been undamaged.

Italian General Captured.

Gen. Achilles Davet, commander of the 206th Italian Coastal Division was the first enemy general officer to be captured since the invasion of Sicily began last Saturday.

Some German opposition has been met, but not yet in force, and though the Allies have made contact with two regular Italian Divisions—presumably of much sterner character than the costal defenders— the enemy has failed to put up really still resistance Allied officers said.

Pilots of Allied bombers participating in the furious aerial onslaught against Axis targets throughout Sicily reported that the Sicilian Straits still were choked with transport and supply ships carying reinforcements to the British, Canadian and American forces which spearheaded the invasion.

Axis forces which for the second time attempted to slow the American advance from the south were reported to have used tanks of French origin. The counter-attack was known to have been smashed and reports from the front said Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's men were making "good progress."

City of 50,000

Ragusa, where the Americans, Canadians and Britons were reported to have made their junction, has a population of 50,000 and is the capital of the province of the same name. Comiso airdrome, which was pounded continually by the Allied airforce in the days preceding invasion, is only a few miles west of Ragusa and was expected to fall in a matter of hours.

'Torpedo Junction' Is Found As Quiet As Great Lakes

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

AT SEA WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN DIVISION IN THE CENTRAL MEDITERRANEAN, July 9 — (Delayed) — (CP Cable).—This convoy of assault craft, landing ships and special cargo craft carrying the first Canadian division of assault troops completed the more than 2,000-mile voyage from Britain to the simmering central Mediterranean ocean without the loss of a ship or a man.

An armada of more than 2,000 ships is being employed in this, the most gigantic combined operation ever attempted, and now the larger portion of all this shipping, which includes everything down to tank landing craft, are gathering together in one tremendous fleet within striking distance of the Sicilian target.

Canadian soldiers are crowding the decks of our ships, witnessing the greatest maritime spectacle ever seen. There are British, Canadian and American convoys, jammed with troops, supplies, guns and vehicles all around us, with the Royal Navy guarding it all with a tremendous force of warships.

Every Detail Planned.

The mighty armada was gathered from North Africa, Britain and the United States. Every detail of planning and preparation has been attended to on our ships.

The weapons and ammunition are ready, the men fit and set to storm the coast.

Through every inch of the long, tedious journey from the United Kingdom we had a strong escort of gallant little Royal Navy ships—destroyers, corvettes, frigates and sloops.

More Divisions

London, July 13 (CP)

CAPT. Ludwig Sertorius, German radio commentator, said today in a broadcast recorded here that the Allies had landed two or three additional divisions on the southeast coast of Sicily yesterday and last night.

There was no Allied confirmation of the report, though dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa told of a steady stream of reinforcements.

Sertorius reported yesterday that seven Allied divisions were on Sicily.

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

Hitler Assumes Command On Russian Front

By ROBERT BUNNELLE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 13 (AP) — A foreign diplomatic source who usually is reliable asserted to-day that Hitler was reported to have assumed control of the German offensive in the Kursk bulge and broadened it into an expensive gamble for a break-through, against the advice of his generals.

There was no confirmation of the report.

This source, who said he had dependable contacts inside Europe said Marshal Guenther von Kluge's attack launched July 5 originally was designed as a defensive move to forestall what appeared to be prepreparations for a heavy assault by the Russians.

He asserted that Hitler noting early successes even though the cost was high, decided the German attack should be developed and took control three days after the operation began.

Generals Opposed.

The informant said Kluge and other generals argued that the expenditure of men and material in such a local thrust would leave the Nazi army dangerously vulnerable should the Russians suddenly mount an offensive elsewhere, particularly if it is being contained, as the Russman armys position.

Hitler, however, according to the informant, was reported to have insisted on the strongest possible effort being made in an effort to reestablish his own prestige as a strategist as well as to improve the German Army5s position.

Hitler is using upwards of 30 divisions, including 15 armored, which is believed to be approximately one-half of all the German mechanized divisions on the Eastern front, the source reported. He said many troops have been drawn from Field Marshal von Mannsteins army farther south, and that the army generals are already gravely worried over the weakening of their strategic reserves.

Two Canadians Await Units

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 13—(CP Cable).—A couple of Canadian veterans of North African battles, from the opposite ends of the Dominion, are waiting patiently to join their fellow-Canucks advancing into Sicily.

They are Sgts. William MacLeod, 22, of Annapolis Royal, N.S., and Emile Laloge, 31, of Vancouver, who expect to leave soon for the front.

They hailed me in this African town today when they noticed the Canadian war correspondent patches on my uniform.

Canadian army men, they came to Africa from Britain last April and went through the last campaign unscathed as members of a famous 1st Army regiment.

MacLeod was in a mortar platoon and Laloge was an infantryman. He was not involved in any close fighting although he saw Jerries occasionally.

3 Destroyers Jap Cruiser Sunk By Navy

Two Other Destroyers Believed Lost In Kula Gulf Battle

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South-west Pacific, July 13—(AP)—A Japanese cruiser and three destroyers were sent to the bottom of the Kula Gulf — graveyard of at least nine other enemy warships—by guns of the United States Navy in a battle which began last night.

Two other enemy destroyers probably were sunk and enemy losses may be even greater when all reports are in. The battle still was in progress, it was indicated, at the time preliminary reports were received today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur from Admiral William F. Halsey.

But already Japan has expended between 13 and 17 cruisers and destroyers in two battles in the central Solomons while trying to hold apart the jaws of a mantrap which Allied jungle fighters are clamping on the enemy air base of Munda, on New Georgia Island.

Both battles in the Kula Gulf, which is 15 miles long and eight miles across at its widest part, occurred as units of the Japanese Navy, moving down from the northern Solomons, encountered United States war vessels blockading New Georgia's coastline along the gulf.

Today's account from Allied headquarters showed Japan everywhere losing the fight for Munda—on New Georgia, in the air above it and in the seas offshore.

Ten miles northeast of it, a Japanese ground force of considerable strength was trapped at Enogai inlet and wiped out. Munda has been cut off from its supply port on the Kula Gulf by a barricade thrown across the connecting jungle track. East of it, jungle fighters are less than two miles away.

Allied warplanes pounded anew yesterday at Munda; at its supply depot across the Kula Gulf at Vila on Kolombangara island; at its source of air support in the Northern Solomons, Kanili airdrome on Bougainville island, and at the nearest air base with several fields, Rabaul, on New Britain.

Offshore, United States warships for the second time in less than a week pumped shells under cover of darkness on Munda.

Twenty Japanese zeros came over Munda, in a sector where the enemy has lost some 200 planes since the Pacific drive opened June 30, and were driven off with a loss of five against one. Across from Munda or Rendova Island, six United States planes were lost while a Japanese bomber, two zeros and a twin-engined fighter were being shot down in a series of air fights.

Germans Fear Norway Next

MONTREAL, July 13—(CP)—War material, originally intended for use in North Africa, is being shipped from Germany to Norway where the Nazis are rushing preparations against invasion, it is revealed in reports reaching the Press Attache here of the Norwegian Government.

The reports said the material included tanks. Machine gunposts have been establishd at all strategic points along the Norwegian coast. A submarine net has beenstretched across Oslo Fjord and in Oslo all bridges and official buildings are kept under guard.

Lists are reported to have been made of prominent Norwegians who are to be arrested as hotages when the invasion comes. From Western Norway came reports that 200 such hostages are already under arrest.

Sky Fleets Blast Axis Troop Ships

Fighters and Fighter-Bombers Keep Up Withering Assault In Sicily

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 13— (AP)—R.A.F. and American sky fleets blasted enemy troop transports in Sicilian waters and battered supply centres on both sides of the Messina Strait yesterday as Allied invasion forces pushed rapidly up Sicily's east coast.

Heavy bombers smashed at Messina in Sicily and the twin ferry terminals of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni on the Italian mainland in heavy daylight, attacks designed to wreck the main supply route for Axis defence of the invaded island.

R.A.F. torpedo planes struck a heavy blow at Axis naval units trying to reinforce the Sicilian defences by sea, sinking two merchant ships and damaging two destroyers and two large troop transports in daring attacks the past two days.

Throughout yesterday, Allied fighters and fighter-bombers kept up their withering assault against enemy troop columns and communication lines on Sicily, destroying large numbers of land troop transports.

An Allied communique said 28 enemy planes were shot down over or near Sicily yesterday and the preceding night. The Allies lost 11 planes during the same period.

"The Axis has been trying desperately to reinforce Sicily, but the attempts have been frustrated to the extent of a considerable number of troops and tons of equipment which have been sent to the bottom of the Mediterranean," said an Air Force announcement at an Allied Command post.

This announcement said the R.A.F. torpedo planes which attacked the enemy destroyers left the vessels "blazing from stem to stern."

Describing the operations of the torpedo planes yesterday the official annoufncement said:

"The attacks were of a particularly hazardous nature and were carried out in the narrow strip of water between Corsica and Sardinia....The Beaufighters, often skimming over small islands in the Straits, attacked repeatedly and even returned the fire from one of the two escorting destroyers with their cannon.

"The attack was so devastating that the destroyer was left blazing with no chance for survival. The convoy was a precious prize.

"Two large troopships had been spotted hugging the coast of Corsica. The leader of one flight of Beaufighters, Wing Cmdr. N. B. Harvey, whose home is at Cairo, attacked the bigger two-funnelled trooper from such close range he could plainly see enemy soldiers crowded on the decks.

"His torpedo headed straight for the target. A few minutes later PO. L. T. Garland, an Ulsterman attacked the smaller ship and probably hit it.

The preceding day the torpedo planes made their first attack on two vessels off Eastern Sardinia and within six minutes a merchant ship had at least three jagged torpedo holes in it. An hour later a second merchant ship was attacked with similar results.

Natives Pleased With Reconstruction

LONDON, July 13—(CP)—One of the first experiments in "Practical postwar reconstruction" is being carried out on the tiy Mediterranean Island of Lampedusa, the Air Ministry announced today.

British, Canadian Troops Sweep Up Sicily's Coast In Drive Toward Messina

Torpedo Planes Sink Enemy Ships Set Fire To Two Destroyers Hit Two Big Troop Transports

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 13—(AP).—Allied ground troops battled to widen their bridgeheads on Sicily today and swept up the island's east coast in a strangulation drive toward Messina while their supporting aircraft poured destruction on Axis vessels trying desperately to carry reinforcements and supplies to the enemy bastion.

(A Rome radio broadcast said that British forces slamming up the eastern coast had captured Augusta, 19 miles north of Syracuse and only 70 miles from the strategic port of Messina.

(Canadian forces, operating with the British 8th Army in eastern Sicily took part with British forces in the capture of Syracuse, a Reuters News Agency correspondent reported last night. Allied headquarters in North Africa today confirmed that the Canadians are part of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's reconstituted 8th Army which on the basis of present developments seems to be aimed at Catania and Messina.)

Allied torpedo planes were reported to have sunk two large enemy merchant ships, set fire to two destroyers and hit two big troop transports of a convoy trying to reinforce the Sicilian defenders. Another merchant vessel was reported badly damaged.

28 Planes Destroyed

Twenty-eight enemy planes were destroyed during yesterday's operations at a loss of 11 Allied planes, the communique added.

Today's communique made no reference to the invading Allied ground forces, which were last reported pushing forward along a 150-mile front.

The British Eighth Army, with which Canadian forces in Sicily are operating, was pounding up the east coast toward Messina in a drive designed to seal the cream of the Axis armies on the island.

(London heard the Rome Radio say in giving the Italian communique that the Allies had captured Augusta, on the east coast of Sicily about 20 miles north of Syracuse. The broadcast was recorded by Reuters News Agency.

The American 7th Army had pinned down large Axis forces north of the southern Sicilian towns of Licata and Gela, protecting the flanks of the 8th Army.

Pushing Northward

The exact position of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British and Canadian forces was not announced, but they were believed to have pushed some distance northward from fallen Syracuse along the 90-mile coastal road to Messina, the key to the island's defences. The Morocco Radio reported last night without confirmation that the Catania airdrome, about 30 miles north of Syracuse, already had fallen to combined British and Canadian forces.

(Confirmation that the Canadians were operating with Gen. Montgomery's forces in the northward thrust through Syracuse came in a Reuters News Agency dispatch from Allied headquarters in North Africa. It said reports of the fall of Syracuse declared British and Canadian troops stormed through the streets to take the important coast city.)

in being part of the famous 8th Army and their determination to prove their skill at arms at the side of the crack British troops.

Not Overconfident

The Canadians are not overconfident. They don't think this will be an easy task, but they are out to keep the Dominion's fighting tradition gleaming.

On the eve of the opening of the long-awaited second front they are prepared for anything.

Everyone is keyed up as the zero hour approaches. Wisecracks are being bandied about. The Canadians are a happy bunch of warriors with the voyage into battle nearly over.

Security was the watchword of the Canadians until we were well out to sea. War correspondents with the assault troops received some indication of the projected operation without the target being named when they were called to the ship a few hours before the convoy sailed for a conference with the Canadian commander.

In his map room the general, wearing battledress, and a khaki beret, and looking full of pep, started by saying, "we are going to join the 8th Army." Other senior officers were with him in the room.

Asked if this was a "limited operation," the commander smiled and replied, "no, unlimited."

Speaking of the difficulties the expedition might encounter, the officer indicated that quite probably there would be trouble getting the vehicles, tanks and such ashore on the beaches where the Canadians were to land. He said, however, particular beaches had been selected because they offered a better opportunity to establishing bridgeheads.

Palazzolo, due west of Syracuse, is the terminus of a branch line from that port city. It has a population of about 17,000 and lies in the shadow of Mount Laura.

Allied headquarters announced that more than 3,000 vessels of all types, including warships, now are taking part in the tremendous task of transporting men, munitions and supplies to Sicily. The work was said to be "proceeding satisfactorily," despite a surf that had made operations difficult at the more exposed positions.

15th Army Group

Allied invasion forces have been officially designated the 15th Army group and are commanded by Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who also was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy commander in the Tunisian campaign.

Patton's newly-formed American Seventh Army was reported to include "many seasoned and famous units which fought with such success in Tunisia."

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army also was said to contain "some famous divisions originally with the Desert Army."

Canadian units taking part in the drive were not specifically identified.

While the Allied ground forces moved swiftly toward the heart of Sicily, the invaders' great air fleet continued to paralyze the island's defences and to obstruct belated efforts by the enemy to rush reinforcements to its keystone outpost.

Raids on Messina

Heavy bombers from North Africa and the Middle East joined yesterday in heavy daylight attacks on Messina and on the twin ferry terminals of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni on the Italian mainland, while fighters and fighter bombers sustained their assaults on enemy troop columns and communication lines.

R.A.F. torpedo planes were reported to have sunk two large merchant ships and damaged two destroyers and two big troop transports in attacks on convoys attempting to reach Sicily. Attacking pilots said they scored torpedo hits on two transports whose decks were jammed with Axis soldiers.

Axis Fail To Add To Troops

"The Axis has been trying desperately to reinforce Sicily," an airforce communique said, "but the attempts have been frustrated to the extent of a considerable number of troops and tons of equipment which have been sent to the bottom of the Mediterranean."

Twenty-eight Axis planes were reported to have been destroyed yesterday and the preceding night, against a loss of 11 Allied craft in the same period.

Northern Burma Supply Bases Destroyed

NEW DEHLI, July 13—(CP)—Devastating raids by American bombers and fighter-bombers have destroyed Japanese supply and administrative bases in Northern Burma, a United States communique said today.

Heavy bombers dropped more than 12 tons of bombs on enemy railway installations at Ywatung yesterday, but clouds prevented an accurate assessment of damage.

On the same day, the lighter bombers, carrying medium and fragmentation bombs, blasted the Japanese base of Nanyaseik, and returning pilots said that the raid, on top of previous attacks, had destroyed all administration buildings and supply installations.

Yesterday's operations were preceded by widespread sweeps against enemy supply centres and troop bases by fighter plans based in Assam. Nanyaseik and Sumprabum were heavily bombed, the communique said, and the largest building in the Sumprabum area, believed to have housed the Japanese headquarters for that district, was destroyed.

Ningbyen, another Japanese base, was the target of a concentrated bomber attack that started many fires.

The Loilaw railway bridge near Moguang was wrecked by 1,000-pound bombs in the same operation.

Another attack was made at the same time on another convoy sailing toward Sicily from Naples, escorted by destroyers. One merchant ship and two destroyes were hit and a British pilot said: "Its unlikely that either the freighter or one destroyer reached the harbor. They both were listing and smoking when we left."

commendation that there should be no hesitation to cancel, in the public interest, the licence of any private station and a further recommendation that consideration should be given to the wisdom of continuing to allow the use of Canadian privately-owned stations as outlets for United States chains.

No Encouragement.

This policy did not create an atmosphere of encouragement to private stations in expanding their service to the public, Mr. Sedgewick said.

If the committee proposed total nationalization of radio it should say so flatly. If it did not, radio should be freed of a constant threat of nationalization.

Nationalized radio in European countries was used largely for propaganda purposes. Before the war the British Broadcasting Corporation did not have a monopoly because there were continental stations which broadcast exclusively to England.

"I believe it can be said that our people, and all people, prefer commercial radio," he said.

Mr. Sedgewick gave the committee the results of a special survey made on behalf of the association to determine which type of radio control the Canadian people preferred.

Those favoring complete government ownership constituted 16 per cent., those favoring some government and some private stations were 32.3 per cent., and those favoring all private stations 20.5, he said. The survey had showed 12.9 per cent. supporting private stations under government supervision and 18.3 per cent. had expressed no opinion.

ked in a box."

At Maucini Stursberg learned how the first Italian prisoner to fall to the Canadians was captured. Lieut. Fred Hamilton of Regina, one of the assault engineers was advancing over the beach when a machine-gun opened up from a pillbox, wounding the man on his left. Cpl. Pete Hutchison, a Maritimer who won the Military Medal in France in 1940, circled the pillbox and came on it from the rear. He kicked the Italian in the pants and the man threw up his hands.

Peasants Are Poor

The Sicilian natives tried to flee the invasion. They were mostly poor peasants who work in the vineyards. "Last night," said Stursberg, "I slept near a stone and plaster hovel of an inhabitant who fled. He left in such a hurry that he did not take one of the bundles he had made up. His hut has no windows and it's more like a farm than a house, as it's full of chickens, hay, guinea pigs, rabbits and a dog too, which were left behind in the rush.

"But the natives soon got over their fright and returned. I am sitting under a fig tree near the spot where I slept last night, writing this piece now. The owner of the hut has returned with his wife and son and donkey.

"The owner, a lanky mahogany-colored peasant, shakes hands with every Canadian soldier. The son puts beans into a hand flour mill and turns the handle. He exclaims: 'Mussolini' ".

Nurse Reaches Africa

Nursing Sister Clara Morris, niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris, Homewood Avenue, was among a number of Canadian nurses to have landed in Africa prior to the Sicilian invasion to care for Canadians wounded in action. She went overseas with Lt.-Col. Agnes Neill in 1940, and was attached to No. 15 General Hospital until June, 1943.

The government newspaper said the Tigers carry four-inch armorplate in front, but the sides, rear and caterpillar treads have proven to be vulnerable to Soviet shell fire.

122 Tanks Lost

The Russian midnight communique reported the Germans lost 122 tanks yesterday, bringing the eight-day total to 2,622. The Russians said they shot down 58 Nazi planes yesterady, making 1,126 brought down either in air combat or by anti-aircraft since Von Kluge launched his offensive.

Although there was no indication the Germans had decided to give up the battle to pinch off the Kursk salient, the Russian communique indicated the major effort was being concentrated on the Belgorod sector at the southern end, declaring: "Despairing of breaking through the Soviet defences, the Germans today tried to improve their positions in some sectors of the front."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 13 — (CP). — New seasonal highs were posted in wheat futures on Monday in an active session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, but increased offerings near the close dragged values ⅜ to ¼ cent a bushel lower.

Interests representing American houses, shippers, mills, exxporters and commission houses made purchases.

Approximately 185,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were reported taken for export by Eire agents.

Limited offerings confined business in cash wheat to small lots of Nos. 1 and 2 Northern. No dealings were confirmed in cash grains.

Hepburn Runs In Elgin As Independent

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal premier of Ontario from 1934 until he resigned the office on Oct. 21 last, will seek re-election in Elgin as an Independent Liberal.

He was unanimously nominated to contest the Aug. 4 provincial election by a meeting of the Elgin Liberal Association last night, when he emphasized: "I am a reformer. If I go to Toronto it will be to represent the people of Elgin. Any party comes second. This does not mean however that I have not a high personal regard for Premier Harry Nixon."

He also declared: "One doesn't know where to place himself in the political arena today.... I shall support a party only as long as it resists the subjugation of Ontario and any and all attempts to sell the Ontario government down the St. Lawrence River."

Shape Destiny of Ontario

Mr. Hepburn said: "I want to go back and have a hand in shaping the destiny of Ontario for the day when money is going to be made the servant, and not the master, of man."

It was the 17th anniversary of the date when he was first chosen to carry the Liberal standard in Elgin, as a federal candidate.

He was elected to the Federal House in 1926 and 1930, in which year he was elected Provincial Liberal Leader. He was elected to the Legislature in 1934 and again in 1937, the last provincial election. After his resignation from the premiership he remained as provincial treasurer until last March, when he resigned from the cabinet and became a private member.

At the present critical period of the war, with the Canadians among Allied forces making the first invasion of Axis Europe, "there can be little heart or interest in a provincial general election," said Mr. Hepburn. "Yet our democratic systems must be preserved."

Mr. Hepburn was nominated by Gordon Newell, who said the ex-premier was "the only man on the continent who ever stood up to John L. Lewis and who single-handed defied the banking institutions of Canada, to cut interest rates in two."

Never Missed a Walk

Walter McGee of the Queen's Own LOL 294, Emily was presented with an honorary certificate for having never missed a County Orange Lodge Walk for the past 55 years.

The speeches were given in the skating arena with County Master Harry Deyell of Omemee acting as chairman. John Bent, reeve of Omemee, extended a warm welcome to the visiting lodges and wished them success in their year's work. Clayton Hodgson, grand master of Ontario East, spoke on the lines, followed by other speakers, regarding conditions following the war and loyalty to the country in the period of war which lies ahead.

Other speakers were: Rev. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough; Bruce McNevin, M.P. Victoria; Rev. Vanderburgh of Oakwood; Ernie Reid of Peterborough; Rev. L. M. Sharpe of Omemee; L. M. Frost, M.P.P. of Lindsay; Rev. W. A. Filer of Peterborough and Creighton Devitt, Deputy Grand Master of Blackstock.

Ball games, Bingoes and a merry-go-round were at the grounds for the enjoyment of the visitors and a street dance was held at night. The proceeds are to be used for war purposes.

The Peterborough Orange Lodges finished up their big day by parading up George to Brock St., over to Water and up to Dublin and down George to Brock again. All the lodges were respresented with County Master Mel Holden taking the lead and Fred Batten, deputy county master, acting as marshal for the regular marshal who is away.

The Prince of Wales Rangers led off and several fife and drum bands and the Prince of Wales Rangers Bugle Band were placed at intervals between the groups. The County Juvenile Lodge was represented as were Wellington; Fraserville LOL 46; Royal Diamond LOL 80; Vimy Ridge LOBA 244; Star of Bethlehem LOBA 650; Duke of Manchester No. 50; Eastern Star LOBA 525.

Diamond L.O.L. No. 80's Coronation Drum and Flute Band, which led District No. 3 in this year's 12th of July celebration was directed and led by Bill Reed who organized this band six years ago and has been its leader ever since. Nineteen of the members are overseas at the present time.

CAMPBELLFORD

Boys To Show Foals At Seymour Fall Fair

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 (ENS). —Though farmers are busy with many phases of agriculture—busier than ever before—farm youths are finding time to maintain interest in calf and foal clubs which each year are organized with the co-operation of the district agriculture representative.

According to Representative R. C. Banbury, ten boys from this vicinity will show foals at the Seymour Agriculture Society's fall fair this year. That number have already been registered as foal club members and they include Donald Clark, Bill Curle, Clinton Bright, Percy Greenly, Howard Jones, Alex. Rutherford, Elwood Skinkle, Leslie Platt, Gordon Varty and George Rigby.

Organization work in the club has now been completed following visits made by the agriculture representative to the various homes in company with Fair Secretary G. G. Stephens and Douglas Rutherford. Mr. Banbury holds that the good horse has an important place in the farm program and the care and management of this animal should not be neglected in these busy days when cattle products are selling to a better advantage.

GORE'S LANDING.

Many Catching Limit Of Pickerel

GORES LANDING, July 13—ENS Excellent fishing has been reported the past week from nearly every boatload of fshermen which went out from this village. In many cases, the limit was caught of pickerel and muskies were also biting.

One of our younger fishermen Jack Dear was lucky in landing his first muskie caught over near the river. It weighed 6½ pounds and caused considerable excitement before finally landing in the boat. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sellers of Cleveland were also in the boat wth Jack and landed some pickerel.

United States visitors are quite numerous around this resort and no difficulty has been experienced at the border.

May Be In On Invasion

The paratrooper is a lonely warrior. From the time he is dropped from an invading plane, until he can join up with his comrades, he is on his own. Here a Canadian paratrooper, in invasion practice, lands on enemy territory. He may be doing the same thing in Sicily today.

Ferry Terminals Heavily Bombed

CAIRO, July 13 — (AP).—More than 650,000 pounds of high explosives were dropped on the twin targets of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, Sicilian ferry terminals of the Italian mainland in daylight raids yesterday by 100 bombers of the 9th U.S. airforce, a communique said to-day.

The daylight smash was preceded by a Sunday night darkness raid by R.A.F. Halifaxes at the airport at Reggio Calabria. Returning pilots reported the field was dotted with bomb bursts and that several small fires were started around the perimeter of the airport.

The Americans reported the railway yards at San Giovanni were blanketed with hits and the target area of Reggio Calabria was well covered by bursts by the four-engined bombers which attacked in four waves.

Bomb bursts were noted all along the railway tracks in the San Giovanni yards, the communique said and a large explosion was seen in the siding area.

At Reggio Calabria, fuel and ammunition dumps were hit and large fires started.

The daylight raids met no fighter opposition, but the communique said anti-aircraft fire was heavy. One American bomber did not return.

Lawyer May Be Chosen

COBOURG, July 13 — (ENS). — John Callahan of Toronto, well known locally through his connections as a lawyer, is considered as the most likely choice for Liberal candidate for the riding of Northumberland. The nomination meeting is to be held at Warkworth on July 14. Harold N. Carr of Campbellford, Liberal member for Northumberland County since 1934, has definitely announced that he will not seek re-election, due to ill-health.

Crops Doing Well

COBOURG, July 13 — (ENS). — Northumberland County presents a particularly promising picture at this time. A heavy hay crop is being harvested, rye and wheat will be ready to cut next week, early potatoes are in bloom, and all crops are doing well. Early oats are in head, but uncertainty will continue for a month in regard to late crops of cereals. Tomatoes and cabbage have transplanted satisfactorily and while scab conditions exist in unsprayed orchards, a fair apple crop is anticipated. Creameries report the largest poundage of butter in their history.

Sicilian Force 15th Army Group

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 13 —(CP). —Allied headquarters disclosed officially today that Canadian troops are included in Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's forces on Sicily.

Gen. Montgomery has under his command "some famous divisions of the original desert (8th) Army and other formations formerly with the 1st Army as well as others which never saw action before," a spokesman at headquarters said.

The American 7th Army now in Sicily under Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton is composed of veterans of the Tunisian campaign and new elements, the spokesman continued.

The whole force landed in Sicily the spokesman said, is known as the 15th Army Group under the general direction of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, deputy commander-in-chief of the entire Mediterranean operations under Gen. Eisenhower, the commander-in-chief. In Tunisia Gen. Alexander's complete command was known as the 18th Army Group.

Reasons Of Security

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP).— Defence headquarters said last night it probably will not be possible for some time to release information on the number of Canadians engaged in the Sicilian campaign or what units or elements are participating. Nor will it be possible to say for some time who is in command of the Canadian force, purely for reasons of security.

Death In The Atlantic

Four aircraft of the R.A.F. coastal command, two Halifaxes and two Sunderlands, shared in the destruction of a U-boat sighted and attacked in the approaches to the Bay of Biscay dusing an intensive phase of the Battle of the Atlantic, when a major Allied victory was gained. The TOP photo, taken from a Halifax, shows one of the Sunderlands, circle, making its run-up to attack. The U-boat turns in a tight circle, leaving a streak of oil in its wake as the Sunderland's front guns open up on it. Photo at BOTTOM shows the plume of depth charge explosions masking the submarine.

Have you energy for the EXTRA things?

Jack has . . .

Jack is Sector Warden in the A.R.P., spends two or three nights a week training AFTER WORKING ALL DAY as caretaker of a down-town building. Veteran of two wars, he tried to enlist in this war too. "Said I was too old, but I've got more energy than a lot of these young fellows," says Jack. "Of course, I keep fit. I'm careful about my habits. Never take harsh cathartics. I make sure I get plenty of 'bulk' in my diet . . . have a big bowl of Kellogg's Bran Flakes every morning. And I certainly go for their flavour, too!"

Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat are gently laxative, help supply valuable minerals and proteins too . . . help keep you fit for extra things!

IF YOU want to keep fit for extra things, take these two steps to health: 1. To get well, see your doctor; 2. To keep well, watch your habits. Guard against incomplete elimination. Eat Kellogg's Bran Flakes every day. Ask for the golden-yellow package—either the regular or the new Family package. Begin tomorrow. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

The Mediterranean Scene

There is every reason to believe that the invasion of Sicily, in which Allied troops have achieved notable early successes, is but the first of several drives on the Axis in the Mediterranean scene. A dispatch from Switzerland, attributed to Axis sources, says that a million troops have been transferred from North Africa to Syria. We cannot accept this, of course, for the Axis have a thousand good reasons for spreading false reports. Still, there may be a concentration of troops in Syria, though the estimate of a million is no doubt a gross exaggeration.

Syria is bounded by Turkey on the north and the Mediterranean on the west, and for some time the British have had two full armies there, as well as an unknown number of Canadians, Americans, Australians, Indians and Poles; the Syrian forces may have been strengthened considerably during the past three months. This great force in Syria could mean one of two things: either Turkey is coming into the war on our side, or else the Allies are planning a flank attack on Greece, with a view to a drive up through the Balkans.

Turkey will not join the Allies until her leaders think that the time is ripe; they may even wait until, from our point of the view, the time is somewhat over-ripe. But if Turkey does decide to join us it would be possible for an invasion to swoop across the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmara and the Bosporus and so through Greece or Bulgaria; this would save the alternative and much slower route of hopping from one Axis-held island in the Aegean to another.

We must regard it as quite probable that Turkey will prefer to keep out of the war altogether, though her desire to figure as a great Mediterranean power counsels that she should enter it now, and on the winning side. But if Turkey chooses to throw in her lot with us our approach to Europe is greatly facilitated, and we shall have gained an excellent ally. Possibly Turkey's decision will be influenced by the outcome in Crete, where the fighting will be fierce, and where our invasion forces will have their first chance to prove themselves.

Do You Know B. F. Douglass?

If it meant $64 to you, could you say who Benjamin F. Douglass was? Probably not, and yet he was a notable inventor and in no small degree a benefactor of humanity. He was the man who invented the fly-swatter, and he died last week in Missouri.

Men have swatted flies, of course, since that far-off day when an irritated caveman threw a rock at one and killed it; having discovered that the thing can be done, men have swatted flies ever since. But apparently until the beginning of this century they had to swat with anything which came handy. A rolled-up newspaper was always a favourite and some people still prefer the satisfying noise it makes as it lands on the fly. But about forty years ago Mr. Douglass made himself a super-swatter out of a piece of wire screen; he bound the edges and fitted a whittled handle, and there it was—the first real fly-swatter.

Since the invention of the fly-swatter mankind has made splendid progress against the pest. We have reason to believe that the flies are fighting a losing battle, and a very good thing, too. Flies are disgusting carriers of disease and the fewer of them there are about, the better for everybody. Hats off to Benjamin F. Douglass, who gave us a household article which ranks with the safety-pin in practical usefulness.

Money And Misery

On this page on Saturday last we made a few remarks about the two prospectors — Sir Harry Oakes and Sandy McIntyre—who died last week: we said that although McIntyre died a poor man and Oakes a very rich one, they had both taken desperate chances, had dared Fortune to the uttermost, and had known a fuller kind of life than those of us do who struggle for security. Such men, we said, bore a large part in making any country great.

It occurred to a contemporary of ours to comment on these two deaths, and we are sorry to find that the attitude taken toward Sir Harry Oakes is an ill-natured and petty one. His gift of an $800,000 park to Niagara Falls is dismissed as "no strain upon the resources of a man who is credited with having made somewhere between one hundred and two hundred million dollars. . ." And the editorial concludes thus: "Sandy McIntyre did not make a tithe of the money Sir Harry Oakes did out of the mining business, but he probably got a lot more fun and satisfaction out of life."

Our contemporary clearly belongs to that large group who like to think that wealth brings misery. They endorse the belief that all millionaires have indigestion, and that the children of the rich are spoiled brats and "irregular", whereas the children of comparatively poor parents are "regular" and lead lives of unalloyed joy. Wealth, these philosophers maintain, is dust and ashes, and the wise man is he who struggles to keep his income low.

We do not believe any of these things. "How sweetly one guinea rhymes to another and how they dance to the music of their own clink!", we say, echoing Congreve. If Providence ever decides to try our soul in the furnace, we hope that it imposes upon us the temptation of great wealth. We have a notion that what a man is, is more important than what he owns, and that a wise man could be at least as happy as a millionaire as he could if a beggar. The cant that rich men are unhappy springs from jealously and disgruntlement. Saints may despise money, but the majority of us love it, and get as much of it as we can without sacrificing our whole lives to its pursuit.

Bastille Day Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be the 154th anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, a decisive advance in the French Revolution which France has since observed as a holiday and a day of national rejoicing. The Bastille was a gloomy fortress in Paris, which was used as a prison for political offenders. Life in the Bastille could be reasonably pleasant, as Voltaire found during his brief incarceration, or it could be a living death. But a man might be imprisoned in the Bastille without trial, and upon suspicion, and for this reason it came to be a symbol of all the abuses of the ancien regime in France; when it was captured by a mob, on the 14th of July in 1789, and the prisoners released, it was felt that a great step had been taken toward freedom for all men. The fact that the revolutionaries also imprisoned men and women on suspicion and without a trial has not dimmed the glory of this exploit. Revolutions are not conducted on a basis of reason, and generally exceed in tyranny the regime which they seek to overthrow.

Since 1940 Bastille Day has been a day of unusual quiet in Occupied France, for on that day Frenchmen have remembered past glories and past mistakes, and their hearts have been filled with sorrow and the desire for revenge. Now, at last, there are clear signs that the day of revenge is near, and we share with our French allies the hope that next July 14 will be celebrated not only as an anniversary of Bastille Day, but as a day of rejoicing for liberty and pride regained.

No Domineering, Please

We heard a story the other day which we should like to pass on, for we think it is of general interest. A boy who has a vacation job with a local industry presented himself at the Selective Service Office on Monday, in accordance with the requirements of the latest Selective Service manpower transfer. As it happened, he was not wanted immediately, and was told to report back to his former job, but to hold himself in readiness for call-up later. He then ventured to say that his father wanted him to go back to P.C.V.I. in the autumn, in order to continue his education. The clerk with whom he was dealing told him sharply that he would do what he was told, and that what his father wanted made no difference.

We do not attach great importance to this. The Government has shown no inclination to interfere with boys and girls who want to complete their school training, and we do not think that it will do so. But we think that it would be a very good thing if minor Government employees made it a rule to be civil to everybody, and to remember that their power is strictly limited. Civil servants who are old hands at the game are usually courteous in dealing with the public. But some of the newly-hatched ones, and particularly those in small clerical jobs, develop a hauteur which would be absurd in an Attorney-General. There is no need for them to domineer over high school boys or anyone else, for that matter. That is precisely the spirit against which we are fighting.

Facts Are Important

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IN a recent issue, the United Church Observer has raised a point to which, in fairness, we think, we are entitled to reply. We hesitate to state the things which must be stated. We have a profound regard for the church. It has a magnificent opportunity for service. The need for its healing manifestations will be even greater after the war. There may come a period of deep spiritual unrest. Men may feel as if they have been torn loose from the accustomed channels of thought and action but there will come a time —it always does in the chequered lives of men— when they will begin to recognize that truth, honesty and sincerity in our relations with our fellowmen are the essentials which alone will enable us to live together in peace, in honour and in good fellowship.

Facts are stern mentors. No paper can afford to play fast and loose with truth. No greater obligation rests upon the religious press than lies upon the secular publications. In either case the editor stands in a peculiar position. He has an opportunity to differentiate between right and wrong, but when an editor leaves out certain facts which are plainly stated in the original sources of his information or takes the garbled statements of prejudiced witnesses rather than seek the truth, he sins against the cardinal principles of his journalistic profession and it is time for those who know the facts to take him by the hand and lead him gently back to rectitude and right.

THE editor of the United Church Observer is a case in point. In a recent issue he asks this question, while discussing an editorial which appeared in this paper:

"How, for example, did this company (Aluminium Limited) manage to put away for depreciation in 1942 the huge sum of $46,899,211?"

The answer is that it did not put away for depreciation the sum of $46,899,211. This sum was put away for depreciation and depletion, a wholly different matter, and to leave out one and make the statement based upon the other, gives a wrong construction to the whole story. Let us make this clear.

Depreciation, in this sense, represents an estimate of the wear and tear on building, machinery and equipment of a corporation during a particular year, and based upon the anticipated life of each item. Depletion, on the other hand, represents the exhaustion of a resource of the corporation through use. That is to say, in a mine or oil well, a part of the product is taken out every year and so there is a decline in the value of the asset, and this fact is recognized in the tax laws of every civilized country in the world. Will the editor of the United Church Observer please note that Aluminium Ltd. controls, in British Guiana, a large holding of bauxite, the raw material from which aluminum is made. During these years when the demand for aluminum was almost unlimited, the allowance for depletion had to be far greater than in normal years. The whole thing was an ordinary matter of business—abnormal only in the minds of those who accept the idea that business must first be destroyed by government and then taken over—and that the means used in the destruction of business matters not in the least, if the desired end is achieved.

NOW we come to more direct perversion of facts. It might have been possible that the editor of the church paper with relatively narrow contacts with business, might have misunderstood the meaning of depreciation and depletion and thereby have been led astray. That is, he may have sinned in error and not with knowledge, but let us examine the following extract from that publication in its issue of June 15th:

"In 1938, the total net income of 484 Canadian companies was 512 million dollars and in 1941 it was 930 million dollars. The 1942 figures are not available, though it is a fair assumption that they would be well over the billion mark."

These figures, on which this item from the June 15 number of the United Church Observer is based, came from a summary statement put out by the Bank of Canada. The statement is clear and direct. Here it is for the two years under consideration:

Profit Statistics of Operations 1938 and 1941
Figures in Millions of Dollars
484 Companies

	1938	1941
1. Net operating profit (before Depreciation)	$456	$874
2. Depreciation, deferred development and Patent Write Offs	116	187
3. Investment and other non-operating income (net)	56	56
4. Bond interest (including exchange and amortization of discount)	76	75
5. Net profit before income and excess profits tax provision	320	668
6. Income and Excess Profits Tax Provision	56	295
7. Net Income to Stockholders	264	373
8. Net Income paid out in Cash Dividends	246	235
9. Undistributed Income	18	138

A word of explanation, a simple matter of addition and subtraction may be in order. Items No. 1 and No. 3 are earnings—add them together. We have now a total of 512 millions for 1938; for 1941 the same items amount to $930 millions — the figures used by the Observer.

This is given as "net income" by the editor of the United Church Observer. "Net operating profit" is not "net income." From operating income must be deducted fixed charges, bond interest, depreciation and taxes. Items No. 2 and No. 4 were ignored entirely. These, taken together, amounted to $192 millions in 1938—$262 millions in 1941. The balance, item No. 5, is net profit before income and excess profits tax provision. The sum was $320 millions in 1938—$668 millions in 1941.

INCOME and excess profits taxes must now be deducted—$56 millions in 1938—$295 millions in 1941. Why were these charges left out in the calculation of the editor of the United Church Observer? The question is his to answer.

We come now to the real facts. Net income to stockholders is given in item No. 7. The total in '38, $264 millions, is 51 per cent. of the amount given by the Observer—and, in 1941, $373 millions or 40 per cent. of his 1941 figure. These facts are revealed by the Bank of Canada statement which we hold in this office—a copy is available for the editor of the Observer if he has mislaid his own.

The total amount was not paid out in dividends. The actual amount paid was less in 1941 than in 1938. Risks must still be taken, war contracts are subject to cancellation. Declines in inventories may run into millions. These are the problems which give many a good business man his restless days and worried nights.

Even if the shareholders had actually received the difference in net income to shareholders between 1938 and 1941—$109 millions — the figure would have to be set against the great rise in national income which took place in this period.

BETWEEN 1938 and 1941, according to the Bureau of Statistics, the total amount of national income payments in Canada increased by $1,728 million. Of this vast sum, barring the probability of later losses, $109 millions would go to people with money invested in the 484 companies mentioned in the Bank of Canada statement; $1,619 million to the other factors of production, which may include some people with money invested in small family companies and some professional men who derive their income from fees, but very largely comprises all the people in Canada who work for a wage or a salary.

There is not much wrong with this. Capital, in the circumstances, can hardly be censured for greedy gains, especially when one recognizes that probably a half of the dividends received by individuals will be taken in income taxes and the balance, or unspent, awaits succession duties.

This editorial might have been written in the office of the United Church Observer. We should march together with common purpose to common truths. There is little else that matters, more than truth, in the determination of policy.

Poet and Capitalist Debate

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

ONE of the charges made against capitalists is that they have failed to tell their story; have bowed meekly before the onslaughts of Socialists, leaving their case to default. Recently, it must be admitted, the capitalists have been showing more spunk; with the result that the Saturday Review of Literature, of all publications, is presently enjoying the luxury of a top-drawer controversy over capitalism between a great capitalist and a great poet. The capitalist is the renowned Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the board of J. P. Morgan and Compny; the poet, William Rose Benet, Pulitizer Prize poetry winner.

Mr. Lamont is the sort of banker and capitalist who reads the Saturday Review of Literature; he was once its financial backer. So when he picked up the paper and saw where Mr. Benet was getting away from poetry to express the fear that some of the Big Boys, as he called them, might be cashing in on the war, he took his pen in hand, made out one of the best defences for the "Big Boys" that we have seen in a long time.

Beginning his letter "Dear Bill," and with a gentle recollection of a long friendship with Benet, whose literary eminence he said he admired from a "humble stance in mundane affairs," he went on to cite the records of 40 large concerns engaged in war production, and who, far from "cashing in on the war," had sales that rose 81 per cent between 1940 and 1942, wages that rose 96 per cent, taxes that rose 193 per cent, and net profits that declined 17 per cent.

From that neat score against Benet, Lamont went on to deal with taxation, industry's role in the post-war, John L. Lewis and labour, the press, free enterprise and collectivism, democracy and the pre-war depression. No one could write more nimbly, more convincingly, or with better humour. Benet had coupled the press with capitalism in the matter of self-righteousness and said it could always be counted on to side with big money. Replied Lamont:

"Having started originally in newspaper work and for many years followed the course of the public press, I have always felt that its independence, just as in England, has been recognized and accepted as one of the glories attained up to the present time by the Anglo-Saxon people.

"Have I been wrong about this all the time? And are you able, moving as you do more closely in journalistic circles than I can hope to do, to assure me that you are right as to this 'lack of independence in the press'?"

Benet had said that unfettered initiative and free enterprise had "run the country right into a hole." Mr. Lamont proceeds to give him a lesson in history, shows that it was not "free enterprise" but mad nationalism and international anarchy which brought the present debacle, and concludes:

"Forget about your Big Boys and all the category of personal devils. Just sit down with me late some afternoon over a cool drink at the Century Coffee Club or where you will, and fix up with me a little international plan that will prevent wars. Then we shall be able to avoid post-war panics and depressions, and you will finally get a real idea of the system that is variously caled the profit system, or the free enterprise system, or the capitalist system, or the savings and thrift system—all good names for the system under which America grew in 300 years from the wilderness to a land in which, despite our shortcomings, men are free and have more nearly equal opportunity than ever before."

Incidentally, Lamont deals with a truth of which too many people are unaware: the truth that freedom can't compromise too much with collectivism. "We know damn well that collectivism is at the antipodes from democracy, and that there can be no such thing as democratic collectivism."

All in all this is a delightful piece; and more. It is at the same time a defence of the capitalist system that it would be well for more capitalists to know.

No Place for Civilians

The general passenger agent of the Government-owned railway, the C.N.R., is reported as saying that the passenger traffic is now so heavy that they will give preference to the men and women wearing the uniform.

As one of the poor, down-trodden civilians we had occasion to be in that Brief Case city of Ottawa recently and from there had to go to Toronto. We were quickly told, when we dared to ask for a berth of the ticket-sellers that space on the Toronto train was sold out a week ago. So we stowed ourselves away in a back seat in the packed train and made the trip without ever moving out of our seat.

The remarkable thing was to see so many uniformed young men and women in Ottawa, on the train and in Toronto—and all so far away from the war.—Renfrew Mercury.

Col. Drew vs. Col. Drew

Col. Drew assailed the Hepburn administration for being at outs with the Dominion Government. Now he attempts to discredit the Nixon administration for being friendly with the Dominion Government; sneers at it as being "under the thumb of Ottawa—a department of the Federal Government."

It is interesting to recall what Col. Drew said when he assumed the Tory leadership. He said this: "I believe that the best interests of the people of Ontario will be served if we remember that first of all we are Canadians, and that our own prosperity depends upon the united efforts of every party of the country. If elected to power, I will institute a policy of co-operation with the Dominion and the other provinces. Though I would naturally prefer to work with a Conservative Government at Ottawa, I believe I can co-operate with a Liberal Government there much better than Premier Hepburn has done. One of my greatest hopes is to be able to end sectional differences which have been caused by excessive stress of Ontario's particular rights."

But now that Ontario has a premier who will co-operate with Ottawa for the good of the province and the Dominion, Col. Drew has nothing but disapproval.—Toronto Star.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JULY 13

1913 Police Constables Joseph R. Bullied and Harry Gamble have resigned from the police department.

Robert Fair, back from a holiday trip to Prince Edward Island says the fox-raising industry there is flourishing.

Andrew Forrest announces the proposed organization of ambulance corps and first aid post here.

Arthur Pitchford takes highest marks at the entrance examinations and wins the J. H. Burnham watch.

Armstrong's fife and drum band has returned from playing a Twelfth of July engagement in Toronto.

1923 Scores of children are enjoying the routine at the Peterborough Health Association camp at Jackson Park.

Kiwanian Joseph Wearing tells the Kiwanis Club something about habeas corpus and how it operates.

The new park at the Filtration plant is complete and is added to the city's list of beauty spots.

In the Ontario Cup series Peterborough has been drawn against Brantford.

Dominion Fuel Controller warns Mayor W. H. Taylor that substitutes for American anthracite will have to be used next winter.

1933 In spite of very heavy traffic for the Twelfth of July Provincial Officer Hornick reports no accidents.

Major Max R. Sloan, second in command of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons has qualified for the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

County council will co-operate with Consolidated Smelters in repairing the Cordova Mines road.

Relief committee express confidence in the two aldermanic members of the committee, Ald. Holland and Tuggey.

Peterborough citizens have paid in $207,526.50, in their first instalment of taxes during the past three weeks.

IN WAR TIME

1918 When the thermometer climbed to 88 degrees today it reached the highest mark of the year.

The local tag day in behalf of the Italian Red Cross was a great success, raising $1,100.

Gunner W. J. Salter, previously reported missing is now officially presumed dead.

The local fire department has not had to answer a call in the last two weeks.

Aldermen who are members of local civic boards, may have to resign in view of a recent amendment to the municipal act.

A Bible Message

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. . . .

Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. . . . And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body.

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins. But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom. And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad. But after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee. (Matt. 26: 17, 18, 20, 26-32.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A certain very happily married college professor, delivering a graduation address, had this to say to the listening students:

"Gentlemen, many of you will marry. Let me entreat you to be kind to your wives. Be patient with them. When one of you ask your wife to go riding with you, do not worry if she is not ready at the appointed time. Have a good book nearby. Read it while you wait. And, gentlemen"—his kindly smile showed a trace of irony—"I assure you that you will be astonished at the amount of information you will acquire."

One of John's best friends had died, so he called on the widow to express his sympathy.

"Jim and I were friends," he said. "Isn't there something I could have as a memento of him?"

She raised her velvety brown eyes which a few seconds before had been wet with tears.

"How would I do?" she murmured.

The Vagrant Problem

When vagrants appear in the police court, to answer to crimes of varying character, it is a common practice for the magistrates of Ontario, to give them suspended sentence, provided they agree to "leave town immediately."

This has always appeared to us to be a faulty procedure. We will never cure crime in this province by merely compelling vagrant offenders to move around from one city to another. True, it is rather unfair for any municipality to be called upon to bear the expense of jailing vagrants from other cities; but unless punishment is meted out, a vagrant can continue almost unmolested in his waywardness by merely becoming a trap, who is willing to move on, when he is told to get out.

Probably if a few stiff sentences were handed out to vagrants when they run foul of the law in Chatham, fewer of them would decide to give Chatham a call.—Chatham News.

Biggest Change In Number Of Women Workers

Writteen for The Canadian Press
By JEAN STENTON
(Peterborough Examiner)

PETERBOROUGH, July 13 — (CP). — Tucked away in the picturesque Kawartha Lake District, Peterborough has always been more isolated than most Canadian cities and until war broke out men played the dominant role in industry.

But now when the Canadian General Electric whistle goes at noon and at five o'clock, the gates of the plant expel a tidal wave of workers, a surprising number of whom are women clad in coveralls smocks and bandanas. The number of employees in this factory has an increase of 36.2 per cent in the number of women workers. As more men enter the services, women are running many of the machines including turret and engine lathes and recently girls have been introduced to welding lighter material.

The increase in employment of women has been one of the outstanding changes the war has brought to the city. Before the war 13.9 per cent of the C.G.E. staff were women. Now the per centage is 26.1 while the Genelco works employs 24 per cent women.

Camp Established

Never a military city, Peterborough now resounds to the echo of marching feet for the first time since the last war. No. 32 Canadian Army Basic Training Centre is located here and uniforms of all branches of the service are seen on the street. Thousands of Peterborough men and women have joined up.

Although an inland centre, the city has one of the best records in Canada for a city its size in navy enlistments, with more than 600 local boys having answered the call of the sea.

Army enlistments also have been high. There were 1,500 men and 120 officers who went on active service from the Rangers reserve unit and 115 more went from the 4th Battery to various units. The Prince of Wales Rangers (A.F.), the 4th anti-tank unit and the engineers and headquarters company of the Stormont and Glengarry Highlanders were recruited here.

Eight Decorated

Eight have won decorations. Chief Engine Room Artificer Robert White received the D. S. M.; Major Herbert Moran and R.S.M. William Mackness have been made M.B.E.'s; Sgt. Arthur Bainton, Sgt. E. C. White and Flt. Sgt. Hugh Morrison won British Empire Medals; Wing Cmdr. Arthur Waddell won the D.F.C. and Lt. Col. Agnes Neill was awarded the Royal Red Cross, 1st class.

The youngsters are thoroughly war conscious too, with more than 200 in the Air Cadet squadron and the Sea Cadets.

Increased Population

The population has increased from 24,146 in 1939 to 27,908 with an additional 1,500 in adjacent townships bringing the total to just under 30,000. The increase has been due to importation of war workers, chiefly for the Canadian General Electric which has 1,400 on its payroll from outside points.

The population increase has brought a housing shortage. Wartime Housing Ltd., erected 556 homes in the city as well as a staff house which can house 500 men workers.

Traffic has increased 50 per cent since the war started and the transportation company has increased the number of buses in service.

TIPS FOR TEA-STRETCHERS

Steep three to five minutes; get all the "tea" out before you throw the leaves away.

Use only the young TENDER leaves. There's morefragrance, moreflavor, more "tea" in them. Ask... by name... for Tender Leaf Tea.

At your grocer's in two convenient sizes...: also in improved FILTER tea balls.

ROSENEATH

Institute Shown How To Make Food Go Farther

ROSENEATH, July 13 — (ENS). —Mrs. Stewart Thackeray was the hostess on Thursday afternoon when the regular meeting of the W.I. was held in the Town Hall. Mrs. Earl Waldie, president, was in the chair.

A demonstration on meat was presented by Mrs. Frank Brown. How an average size pig's head will furnish meat for seven dinners for family of five was ably demonstrated. Pork chops, boston baked beans, rich with cubes of the lean meat, meat pie, meat patties, and pressed meat or head cheese were possible cuts from the head. The meat patties were made by combining 1½ cups of cooked chopped meat with one beaten egg seasoned with sage, salt and pepper, and fried in the fat rendered from the cooked meat. This shortening derived from the cooking of the meat is a sizeable amount.

To Paint Floor.

A committee appointed previously to interview the Council regarding painting the Town Hall floor reported the Council would provide the paint, the W.I. to do the job. The committee was instructed to order the paint.

Letters of thanks for socks were received from Norman and Bob Marsden, James and Thomas Robins.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. S. Thackeray reported cash on hand $27.31. The collection taken for war work was $1.93. It was decided to fill five ditty bags, as done the previous year; the bags when filled are valued at $5.00.

Bring Flowers.

The society was given permission to plant flowers about the Town Hall, and members were asked to bring donations to the flower plots on Thursday night, July 15. Mrs. Harold Taylor gave a report of the district annual.

Mrs. E. Timlin, program convener, announced the following numbers: A piano and vocal solo by Miss Margaret Atkinson, piano solo by Miss Velma Down, a reading by Miss Aureen Brown.

"No HEADACHES now" says Mrs. Dunn

Mrs. Dunn isn't one of those lucky people who "never had a headache." She had them all right. The point is that she's found a way to get rid of them. She writes:—

"I would like everyone who suffers from headaches to try Kruschen Salts. Before taking Kruschen, I was hardly ever free from a headache. But since I have been taking it regularly I have hardly had a headache, for which I am very thankful, for headaches can make one feel quite ill. I have been taking a small dose of Kruschen every morning in a glass of warm water, before my breakfast, and I feel so well."—(Mrs.) A. E. Dunn.

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain, without getting rid of the trouble, which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "Don't!"

Such makeshift methods mostly suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and leave the underlying cause to look after itself. And often it just becomes worse. Headaches can frequently be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the system. Remove these poisons — prevent them forming again—and you get at the root of the trouble. And that is just how Kruschen Salts help bring swift and lasting relief from such headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body thoroughly of its clogging waste matter.

Kruschen Salts are 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Honor Paid Grandmothers

WARSAW, July 13 — (ENS). — The July meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Payne on Thursday afternoon with seventeen members and visitors present. BRINTON GIRLS EKE OUT A 7 TO 6 WIN FROM JOHNSON MOTORS

Genelecs Whip Cards 10-4 In 9th Innings

Until Pitcher Bill Anderson weakened in the ninth innings, the Cardinals looked to have a fair chance last night of pulling the biggest upset of the City League season. The winless tail-enders had whittled down a Genelec lead from 5 to 1 to 5 to 4, and were only a run down when the final frame opened.

Then Anderson, new pitcher for the Cards, who had made a good job of holding the Johnston outfit in check suddenly lost control and passed the first four batters to face him in the ninth. As a result the Genelecs built up a big innings, scoring five runs on two hits to cinch the verdict.

The Cardinals played their best ball of the season, although young Anderson had two momentary wild streaks and they proved costly. He walked the first two batters in the opening inning and it cost him two runs and his loss of control in the frame was responsible for five more. In between those two bad innings, however, he held the Genelecs to three runs. With Starr Detlor, first sacker of last year's juveniles on first and Isaacs at short, the Cards infield was the best they have had and the team played good ball to stay within a run of the Genelecs at the end of eight innings.

Ronnie Akers won his third victory in less than a week, going the route for the winners, although the youngsters had more success in solving his delivery than the 4th Battery had the other night. The Cards came through with 11 hits, Detlor getting four for four to head the hitters of both teams.

Johnny Playford led the Genelecs at the bat with three hits out of five times up and he batted in three runs. Jack Tucker had two tribles and Earl McNabb a double and a triple.

Genelecs started in the first inning with a pair. McNabb and Holmes walked. Tucker bunted a fly in trying to sacrifice and Mowry forced Holmes at second. Playford came through with a triple to right scoring McNabb and Mowry. Moorhead popped to the catcher.

In the second Hawks doubled to left. Akers and Giardino were easy but McNabb tripled to deep right centre to send the run in.

Cards got that one back in their half. Greatrix doubled between short and third and after Isaacs and Doughty had flied to the infield Detlor singled to right to score Greatrix.

Genelecs scored an odd one in the third. Tucker opened with a long triple to left centre. Mowry raised a high one which Patterson took near first base and when no one covered the plate Tucker went home after the catch. The lapse cost a run because Playford struck out and Moorhead flied to right after Tucker had scored.

The winners made it 5 to 1 in the fifth when Holmes bunted safely and went on to second on Patterson's wide throw to first. Tucker tripled over Greatrix's head, scoring Holmes, but was out at the plate trying to stretch the hit into a homer. Mowry popped to Isaacs. Playford and Moorhead both singled but were left when Hawks flied to Doughty.

Cardinals closed the gap in the sixth by scoring a pair. With one Greatrix doubled to centre. Isaacs bunted safely. When Mowry threw out Isaacs trying to steal, Greatrix scored. Doughty singled to left. Detlor singled to centre and Doughty should have been out at third but Hawks dropped the throw. Then Mowry threw badly to second trying to nip Detlor and Doughty scored. Kay struck out.

In the eighth the Cards cut another run off the Genelec lead. Isaacs singled, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Detlor's McNabb, Holmes, Tucker and Mowfourth single.

Genelecs broke it up in the ninth. ry all walked in a row, forcing in the first run. Playford flied to Doughty and Holmes scored after the catch. Moorhead falked to fill the bases again. Hawks forced Moorhead at second, Tucker scoring. Akers singled to centre, sending in Mowry and Hawks scored on Giardino's infield single. Woods, replacing McNabb, flied out to end the inning.

BACK IN ACTION - - By Jack Sords

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

From the Soldiers' camp comes the prediction that the Military Training Centre will not only clean up tonight's game with the 4th Battery but that the army lads will wind up the schedule without any more defeats. However, the opposition clubs figure that they will have something to say about that and the Battery for instance point out that they already have a win over the Soldiers to their credit and that they can see no reason why they should not make it two straight over the Military Training Centre. Anyway the game tonight which brings the two rivals together at Riverside Park at 7o'clock should be as hot as the weather has been. The affair is a regular league game of course but it is a benefit in aid of the Greek War Victims' Fund and the entire proceeds will go to that worthy cause. As an added attraction a Kenwood blanket will be offered as a draw prize and will go to the holder of the lucky number. The largest City League attendance of the season is expected. In the first place the game rates one as an attraction in itself and then there is the additional incentive of helping a splendid cause and of having a chance to win a valuable prize. It looks like Johnnie Walker and Taylor as battery for the Military Training Centre with Wilson and Starr doing duty for the Battery.

* * * * * *

Manager Ted Johnston's Genelecs team, after a disastrous slump which saw them drop three games in a row, after winning their opening contest, are about the hottest club in the City League right now. When the Genelecs cleaned up on the unlucky Cardinals last night it was their fourth straight win and it put them in second place, right at the heels of the Soldiers. As a matter of fact the C.G.E. outfit has drawn so close as a result of this winning streak that they would be tied with the Soldiers for first place if the Army lads were to lose tonight to 4th Battery. On the other hand a win for the Camp would leave the Genelecs only a game behind the leaders, a nice spot for a club that two weeks ago was in fifth place. The first four teams in the regular standing will qualify for the playoffs and the Genelecs are taking no chances of being left outside when the playoff berths are decided. Under the present arrangement it is likely that the first and fourth teams and the second and third outfits will clash in the semi-final brackets, best-of-five series and the two winners will then meet in a best four-of-seven final round.

Up To Old Tricks

The Oshawa Colts are up to their old tricks. George Campbell's club who won the Ontario intermediate honors last season have stepped out in front of the Oshawa intermediate league during the current campaign and look like a sure bet to finish in first place and cop the loop playoffs again. In a league game the other night the Colts walloped Oshawa Merchants, with Roy Covert playing second base for the losers by 19 to 0. Dean McLaughlin pitched the first seven innings for the Colts and retired the first fifteen batters in orders. When he finally left the mound in favor of Ted McLaughlin who took over the whitewash brush, he had shut the opposition out with two singles. The relief McLaughlin kept them off the score sheet for the balance of the game. While Ronnie Nelson, catcher for the Colts is gone, Peg Hurst is looking after the backstopping and the rest of the team has a familiar look with Hall at third, Dalton at short, Jubenville at second, Thompson at first and Trewin, Little and O'Reilly in the outfield.

* * * * * *

There will be no game in the Girls' Softball League tonight but tomorrow night will see two of the C.G.E. teams hook up at the Bowl in what should prove a red-hot battle. There is keen rivalry between the Electrics and Generals and both will dig up their strongest lineups for this tussle. While neither team is in the running for the senior honors, both are very much in the race for the intermediate title and every game from now on will have an important bearing on the playoffs. Pat Wilson will likely draw the pitching task for the Generals while Mary Larmer will do the throwing for the Electrics. The teams are very evenly matched and this game should be one of the closest arguments of the campaign. It will start at 7 o'clock sharp. Brintons and Aircraft are billed to clash in game at the Military Training Centre on Thursday night.

The Best Of The Season

When you ask a bird with a name like Irish Pat Flanagan to win the British Empire wrestling title on the 12th of July, you have two strikes on the guy before he even steps up to the plate. Under the circumstances Mister Flanagan was lucky last night in his bout with Whipper Billy Watson that the champ was able to take only one fall in the hour's wrestling. The battle surely lived up to advance notices. As this column predicted Watson was the winner and also as we predicted he had to bring all his repertoire to bear to stave off the challenger. The tussle went the full hour and there were few dull moments. In spite of the heat the two clever grapplers turned it on all the way and provided all kinds of action for a crowd that frequently applauded the speed and clean-cut work of both men. The Whipper showed that his press notices were on the level but Flanagan lost no friends in losing the bout. Fans voted the tussle much the best of the season and they would welcome a chance to see Watson perform here again. Promoter Tunney could do worse than to throw him in aganist Toar Wilson, the fighting Marine. The leatherneck is big and fast and courageous and he has shown plenty of stuff here in beating big Jerry Monohan and the rowdy Bunny Dunlop.

Pitcher Jim Hopper won his ninth game of the season for the Toronto Leafs last night when he bobbed up with a neat six-hitter to quell the Rochester Red Wings 5 to 1. Hopper only had to pitch to 33 Rochester batsmen during the engagement and he retired seven of them by the strikeout route. Meanwhile the Leafs were doing some timely hitting at the expense of Ira Hutchinson, Gamble, Van Robays and Handley each collecting a pair of blows. In the only other International League game played last night Jersey City slapped Baltimore Orioles down 5 to 2. The Leafs have a substantial lead of 5½ games over the second-place Newark Bears with the Montreal Royals three games behind the Bears.

Alsab Disappointing

CHICAGO —(AP) — The famous Alsab, which earned $345,165 in two years of racing, has not started this year and may never race again, according to Mrs. Albert Sabath of Chicago, owner of the former wonder horse for which $700 was paid in 1941. Last season he faced the barrier 23 times, finishing first nine times, second seven and third three times. His workouts this year have been disappointing.

BIG SHOCK FISH

The electric shock of a torpedo fish can disable a man temporarily.

Pat Flanagan Is Beaten By Billy Watson

In one of the fastest and most skilful wrestling bouts seen here in many a moon Whipper illy Watson sucessfully defended his British Empire title in the feature match on Frank Tunney's weekly card at the Brock Street summer gardens Monday night, by defeating Irish Pat Flanagan.

The Whipper took the only fall an hour's wrestling when he pinned Flanagan's shoulders to the mat after 32 minutes getting the fall with his pet hold that he calls the Canadian avalanche. It is a cart-wheel starting from a step-over toe hold and it brought Flanagan down with a jar that must have been felt by his relatives in Toronto.

There had been plenty of action before that jolting fall and there was a lot after it, too, with Flanagan coming decidedly close to evening up the match just as the timer's bell ended the bout.

It was the best exhibiinon of the season. Watson, lightning fast and clever has improved a lot since he was seen here several years ago. He has a wide repertoire of holds and his quick breaks and the manner in which he worked out of danger had the crowd pop-eyed. Flanagan was a worthy challenger. He, too, moved fast he tried all his stuff, including the famous mule kick in his effort to grab the title away from the well-known Whipper.

The bout opened at top speed, with both men taking turns at putting on the pressure and the crowd applauded the cleancut work. Watson had a shade the edge in the early moments but Flanagan was nothing that resembled a stooge. In fact he had Watson out of the ring several times. The Whipper retaliated by bowling Flanagan out and the Irishman hurt his back on the apron of the ring but climbed back in and resumed the warfare, then it was Watson's turn to hit the floor. He charged at Flanagan and when the latter sidestepped, the Whpper shot through the ropes and fell heavily to the floor of the arena. He was shaken up but managed to climb back before the ten count and carry the battle to Flanagan. It was soon after that he slapped a step-over toe hold on the Irshman and turned that into his avalanche hold for the fall. Flanagan hit the mat with tremendous force and it was an easy matter to pin his shoulders.

Carries The Battle

After the rest Flanagan came back strong and he was the aggressor for the rest of the tussle. He had Watson in difficulty for over five minutes at one stage with a hammerlock that the champ had a tough time breaking. After that the battlers got away from the clean-cut wrestling of the first half-hour. Tempers began to fray a little bit and on several ocassions the two cut loose with elbow slams and rabbit punches and there was plenty of action. Watson seemed to be getting the worst of these rough-house exchanges and Flanagan almost had a fall at the bell.

Dunlop Disqualified

The preliminary bouts were worthy of the main attraction. The Fighting Marine Toar Morgan and the husky Al Bunny Dunlop staged a tumultuous battle with nothing barred and Dunlop finally lost the verdict when his bad temper betrayed him. He took a couple of swings at Referee Powers after 26 minutes of hard battling and was disqualified, the bout going to the Marine. Dunlop threw so much rough stuff around that Morgan must have thought he was back at Guadalcanal. However the bg Toronto grappler took a lot too for the leatherneck was not averse to handing it out himself. On one ocassion he tied Dunlop up by one foot on the ropes and Referee Morgan had quite a chore releasng Bunny. The disqualificaton of Dunlop was all right with the crowd; they were all for the Marine.

In the opening bout Doc Felice, Jugo-Slav rough-houser and George Tofalso, a barrel-shaped Greek grappler had a strenuous half hour with nether man able to get a fall. The two battlers didn't bother much about the code. They tried everything but hitting each other with the ring posts. Felice even picked up a handful of dirt once and tried to rub it in the Greek's eyes. It was a tough bout all the way and the draw was fair to both contenders.

A new referee handled last night's card in the person of big Ernie Powers, former coast champion. Fred Scates officiated as announcer and timer.

Yep, Those Were The Days

Reminiscing on the days of yesterday, Lieut.-Commander Mickey Cochrane of the U.S. Navy, LEFT, and Lieutenant Ted Lyons of the U.S. marines talk over baseball battles of the past, during an appearance in Chicago. Cochrane, former Detroit catcher and manager, is now coach of the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training station team. Lyons is the former Chicago White Sox pitcher.

Game Is Close; Smart Plays On Both Teams

After a game last Friday night in which runs were a dime a dozen Brintons winning 42 to 10 over Johnson Motors, the two teams came right back last night to stage one of the fastest and best-played struggles of the season in a Girls' League game, Brintons just eking out a win by 7 to 6.

It was close all the way. The Outboard Marines broke in front by scoring two runs in the first of the second with Lillian Fowler, Francine McMillan and F. O'Toole coming through with hits.

Brintons got one back in their half on a pass to Betty Hamblin and a timely single by T. Batley, and tied it up in the third on a couple of Outboard errors and a single by Helen English.

Johnson Motors went out front again in the first of the fourth on hits by Lillian Fowler and Olive Hanwell but one again Brintons sewed it up by scoring a run in their end of the frame when T. Batley hit safely and came home on a hit by Dot Daver.

For the third time the Outboards took the lead in the fifth chasing a run in when M. Smith was safe on an error and scored on a hit by J. Nice but Brintons retaliated with three runs to go out in front for the first time. Hits by H. Killen, Doris Walker and Helen English, and a couple of errors made the trio of runs possible and Brintons were ahead 6 to 4.

The excitement was not over yet however for the Outboards staged a rally to push two runs in and tie the score again. However the Brintons had a kick left and Doris Walker crossed the plate with the run that meant the ball game in the Brinton half of the seventh. There was no further scoring.

Marg. Thompson and M. Ogden were stars for the Brintons while for Johnson Motors pitcher Lillian Fowler and Helen Mark at second stood out.

Five Members Of Cards To Start Game

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—(AP)—They're putting on Baseball's all-star midsummer night's dream game" here to-night, but the way it shapes up, it looks like St. Louis Cardinals against a "military secret" from the American League.

The National League boss, Billy the kid Southworth, is going to stand or get flattened with a powerhouse starting set headed by five members of his world champion Cardinals' cast, including his right-hand rifle baller, Mort Cooper. But, Yankee Manager Joe McCarthy, after looking over his American League squad, has come up with a lineup that bears a striking resemblance to double talk in braille.

All signs now point to a sell-out of some 33,000 cash customers and a gate of $70,000.

Rather Indefinite

Of, course, by the time all the noses are couted, even McCarthy will know who's going to start for the American League. But when he announced his lineup, he not only didn't know his starting elbower—although the general guess was that it would be be Ernie (Tiny) Bonham of the Yanks—but he was also at a loss about his catcher; He wasn't sure about his outfielders, and the only thing definite about his infeld was that there would be one.

Marse Joe had his mind made up only about his centrefielder, who will be Chet Laabs, the homer-hammerer of the St. Louis Browns, his shortstop,who will be fence-busting Vern Stephens, also of the Brownies; and his third-sacker, who will be Ken Keltner, the Cleveland Indians long-ball belter.

The National Leaguers, generally, were as cocky as the town bully as they surveyed what appeared to be their first real edge in both pitching and power in the 11 years of the series.

The senior circuit squad lost Howie Pollet, the Cards' crack lefty, to the army overnight, and Ace Adams, the New York Giants' relief specialist was named to the squad in his place. However, Cooper is backed up by the Pittsburgh star Truett Sewell, Claude Passeau of the Cubs, and Max Lanier the Card southpaw.

Supporting these hurlers, Southworth made up a batting order of blockbusters who've hit for an average of .301 as a group for the season, except for pitchers. This gives them a big bulge, on paper, over the American League larruppers considered most likely to start, for their "par" this summer has been a mere .286.

Pitching, Base Stealing, Keeps Nats Near Top

Milo Candini

Georgie Case

Jim Vernon

Stan Spence

Alex Carresquel

Pitching, and plenty of good pitching at that, plus some terrorism on the bases, have turned the Washington Nationals into a flag contender this season after 10 years of mediocre play. In Milo Candini, the Yankee castoff who is bidding for "rookie-of-the-year" honors: Alex Carresquel, the Venezuelan; Early Wynn and Dutch Leonard, the Nats have four pitchers who rank the best in the loop today. The Washington outfield reputedly is the "hittingest" outfield in the game today. Bob Johnson, the Athletics' long-time star, is leading the club at bat although he isn't hitting in the .300 class. Georgie Case, the star centrefielder, and Stan Spence, the right fielder, also have failed to hit as they did last year when Case got .320 and Spence turned in a .323 effort. It's in the base stealing business, however, that the club is terrorizing the league. As usual, Case, champion sack pilferer in the league the last four years, is leading his club and the majors with 20 stolen bases to date. Jimmy Vernon, first baseman, has stolen 13 bases and the rest of the team has grabbed off nearly 30 more to put the club on top in this art.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 13—(CP)—Lt. Col. Rodolphe Larose of Cornwall, Ont., would be a competent one-man invasion force if he could scare Adolf as easily as he paralyzed sundry rink managers and hockey promoters in Canada last week.

When the good colonel announced suspension of organized service hockey in Cornwall next season, member of the Ancient Brotherhood of Rink Owners cried as one voice for the smelling salts. Hockey coaches across the country grabbed feverishly for the "help wanted" columns. Sport columnists broke out in verbal rashes.

All apparently though the Cornwall suspension was the thin edge of the wedge. As Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star put it: "if other armed service training centres follow the lead taken by Cornwall— and it is pretty sure that they will— it will be just about the death knoll for amateur hockey until after the war is over."

Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, took time out from his anguish to pat Cornwall on the back for giving the lead to Canada again. And Park added darkly:

"We do not hesitate to predict right now that service hockey, if there is any at all, will consist of only local activity....it is the end of the road for big-time service sport."

Hearts were breaking right and left—until Defence Minister Ralston stepped in to stop the carnage. The Cornwall decision did not represent general army policy, he said. The haggard expressions disappeared from brows of certain hockey players who had been rebudgeting on the basis of $1.30 a day.

Snapshots is a symupathetic soul who cannot bear to see folks suffer. So this corner investigated to make sure navy and air force would also continue hockey next year. The word, men, is good.

Cmdr. E. T. C. Orde, the navy bigwig in Toronto, says he has every reason to believe the navy will be in hockey in an important way come winter.

The Air Force faces the future as calmly. Air Vice-Marshall T. A. Lawrence, Air Force commanding No. 2 Training Command at Winnipeg, said: "Hockey is an essential part of service life and we hope to maintain it as such."

The wailers, outside of Cornwall, have regained their confidence. Already they're busy dividing up the Cornwall players—just wishfully yet of course. Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal says Red Hamill, the Chicago Black Hawks star who enlisted at Cornwall, is slated for the playing manager's post at Kingston.

Veteran Cricketer Has 81st Birthday

R. N. Stuart, well-known local cricketer, celebrated his 81st birthday on Sunday, and hearty felicitations are extended to him by cricketers locally and throughout the province, with sincere hopes for continued good health and happy returns.

He was born in Hampstead, London, on July 11, 1862. Coming to Canada in 1884 and to Peterborough in 1903 he has been a great asset to local cricket. For many years he has been club treasurer, and showed an uncanny knack of getting subscriptions and a canny method of handling them.

Until last year his friends could truthfully say he was the oldest active cricketer in Canada.

Baltimore Drops 5-2 Decision To Jersey City

By The Canadian Press

Baltimore isn't going to climb into the International League's first division if the Orioles keep on losing to the tail-end Jersey City Giants.

The Orioles dropped ther second straight game to the Little Giants last night, 5-2, thus losing an opportunity to deadlock Syracuse for fourth place.

Burkhart started for Baltimore and up to the seventh held a 2-1, edge. Then in the eight he lost control and before the fire was put out Jesey City had scored four runs. Roland Van Slate replaced Burkhart after two walks and an infield hit had filled the bases with one out. Van Slate's control wasn't much better, he forced in two runs with bases on balls, then yielded a sngle to Johnny Kerr for two more.

Orioles got only six hits off Ray Coombs. A wild pitch by Coombs and a wild throw to second base by the Little Giant twirler accounted for Baltimore's runs.

The first place Toronto Maple Leafs combined a three-run fifth inning with Jim Hopper's six-hit pitching to beat Rochester, 5-1.

Red Wings got a run in the first on two errors by Charlie Letchas, after that only one Rochester player reached second. The trio of tallies in the fifth crossed on as many hits of Ira Hutchinson. In winning his ninth game Hopper fanned seven and issued only one base on ball.

Montreal rolled up a 12-0 lead then staved off Buffalo's last inning rally to beat the Bisons 12-9, in a War Charity exhibition before 4,000 at Quebec. Newark and Syracuse were idle.

Jackie Callura To Meet Terranova

NEW ORLEANS, July 13 —(AP)—Little Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., puts his National Boxing Association world's featherweight title at stake in a 15-round decision bout here August 16 to prove that his third-round knockout by Phil Terranova of the Bronx, New York, three weeks ago was all a big mistake.

Promoter Hyp Guinle said that he had closed with Callura's manager, Leo Bradley, to send the Canadian scrapper against Terranova in a championship match for a guarantee of $10,000 with the privilege of 50 per cent of the gate. The guarantee falls $5,000 short of the demand made by Bradley 10 days ago.

Royals Win 12-9

QUEBEC —(CP)— Baseball fans here, 4,600 of them, went almost big-league last night when Montreal and Buffalo of the International League treated them to an exhibition contest in aid of war charities, with the Royals trouncing the Bisons 12-9.

To Join Air Force

ST. LOUIS—(AP)— Cheated out of his chance to figure in the majors' all-star feature at Philadelphia to-night, Howard Pollet, 22, southpaw of the St. Louis Cardinals was returning here before joining the U. S. Army Air Corps to which he was ordeded to report Thursday. He will take his air training at Miami, Fla.

Canada Needs More Legations House Told

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP).—Members of the House of Commons ranged the world in their discussion of external affairs department estimates yesterday.

The questions they revived included the union of Newfoundland and Canada, Canadian representation in Latin America, a sanctuary for Jews persecuted by Hitler, postwar policy on Japanese in Canada, and Canadian policy generally.

Debate on the external affairs estimates continues today.

Commonwealth Organization.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who is secretary of of state for external affairs, answered frequent questions during yesterday's discussion, and at one point he commented it would mean everything to the world if it could be organized like the British Commonwealth, with all countries free and independent, and in a position to co-operate freely, and owing allegiance to a Crown, representative or sovereignty as the Commonwealth had with the King.

Canada had as much autonomy as the United Kingdom, he said.

During the present session of Parliament British Columbia members several times have urged that Japanese in Canada be deported after the war. Last night, Mr. King said members should consider the effect the announcement of such a policy would have on Canadians now in Japanese hands.

Closer Relations.

He said he hoped for an agreement between China and Canada and other steps which would remove any feeling among Chinese that there was discrimination against them in Canada.

The Prime Minister told one questioner that he did not think this was the proper time to take action on the union of Canada and Newfoundland. If Newfoundland people expressed a desire to enter Confederation he was sure it would receive friendly consideration.

Canada had not given immediate recognition to the French Committee of National Liberation. The Government had welcomed every move that indicated the forces under Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud were drawing closer together and was reluctant to take any premature step which might be wrongly viewed by one or other of the groups led by these soldiers. Gen. Giraud, now in the United States, will visit Ottawa soon.

Mr. King told the House of difficulties in obtaining trained officials to man additional diplomatic offices in Latin America where further representation was desired.

Legation Established.

But he said there should be no further delay in establishing a legation in Mexico and he also hoped to be able to announce an agreement to open legations in Cuba and Peru.

Mr. King also announced that Sweden had expressed a wish to establish a legation in Canada, with the Dominion sending a minister to Sweden. He said he had told the Swedish authorities Canada would be glad to receive a Swedish minister but might be unable to send a a Canadian minister to Stockholm for some time because of staff Shortages. A Chafge D'Affaires might be sent there.

Under war conditions, it was almost vital that the Prime Minister should also be Secretary of State for External Affairs, but the two posts should be separated under normal conditions.

No Innformation.

New Democracy Leader Blackmore said Canadian leaders had failed to inform the people of the Empire unpreparedness before the war. Among those who had been "neglecting their task.... because they wanted to win elections were the Prime Minister.

Mr. King said that he had stood up with the present pensions minister, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, former National Defence Minister, and urged the necessity of rearming when others opposed such action.

Mr. Blackmore said it was his anxiety that Canada not become in some "super-national' government which would affect its sovereignty.

Clarence Gillis (C. C. F.) Cape Breton South) said Hitler had a policy of extermination of Jews and yet a sanctuary in Palestine for many who might escape was being closed by the British Government.

"We have not lifted a finger to save thousands and thousands of lives," he said.

Remember Refugees

Mr. King said the Canadian forces were fighting to alleviate the situation in Europe. If it were possible to have refugees cross the sea Canada would receive them. The Palestine immigration policy was governed by a white paper issued in London in 1939. An annual immigration policy was set for each year up to 1944, and the United Kingdom was advancing some visas, normally valid in 1944, to help some refugees this year.

During discussion of Japanese in Canada, Mr. Blackmore said that British Columbia representations on this question had brought no action from Ottawa.

He recalled that last Friday he had made mention of a similar problem in Alberta which might result in bloodshed if it were continued for another 40 or 50 years. Ottawa brought people to Canada and then failed to aid the provinces in respect to them.

Friday Mr. Blackmore said the Dominion government had made an agreement with Hutterites coming to Canada but had left the province to "take the rap."

Quick Relief From Rheumatic Pain

Hundreds of Canadians suffering from the tortures of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia and neuritis are happy over their discovery of Ru-Ma for they have at long last found a reliable, fast acting formula which speedily relieves those exhausting muscular pains and aching joints. If you want to again feel happy and contented in being free from rheumatic pains so you can work in comfort and sleep in peace be wise and try Ru-Ma to-day under our promise of "money back" if it fails to help you quickly and satisfactorily. Ask at Tamblyn's or any drug store to-day for Ru-Ma. You can't lose, because if you are not pleased you may have your money back.—(Advt.)

Palermo Heavily Hit By Allied Planes

pressed satisfaction with the invasion's progress. He also visited the beach heads established by the Canadians near Pachino, sending his personal greetings to the general officer commanding the Canadians by Capt. J. Moore of Vancouver.

As the fourth day of the Sicilian campaign began British, Canadian and American forces had extended their southern beach heads to a front 150 miles long, had captured 10 major towns and taken at least 6,000 prisoners.

Floridia Captured

Floridia, eight miles inland from Syracuse, was reported unofficially to have been captured by the British and Canadians.

Meanwhile, bearing the brunt of the German and Italian counter-attacks that have developed so far, the American forces of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, continued to throw back Axis attacks above Gela Bay, pinning down large enemy forces and threatening their flanks should they attempt an eastward push to halt the British and Canadian drive toward Messina.

The Americans are holding a long bridgehead stretching from the vicinity of Licata on the Allies' westernmost flank along the curve of the bay. Qualified military observers here said that "more serious resistance is expected hourly on all fronts."

(Reuters reported last night that the Allies themelves were attacking Agrigento, four miles northeast of Pato Empedocle, and the roads and communications that fan out into the central Catania Plain which flanks the 8th Army's advance.)

Allied airmen brought in reports of Axis truck convoy movements, but whether they were re-enforcements for new attacks against the Americans or an attempt to shift enemy forces to the northeast to block the British and Canadians was not clear.

Axis Out-Generaled

In any case, military observers here were agreed that Axis commanders had been out-generaled and taken completely by surprise.

The position of the Allied armies—the British and Canadians in the east, the Canadians in the centre and the Americans on the west, with a cluster of mountains between—denied the Axis a central point at which to launch a counter-attack and forced them to make a choice between the three advancing forces.

When they did strike it was against the Americans. The Fourth Livorno division, bolstered with "not less than 45 tanks" as the official description put it, hit the American position on the shore. A powerful barrage from Allied warships in the bay helped to break up the attack.

During these critical hours, the Axis radio several times mentioned an Allied thrust in the neighborhood of Marsala, more than 100 miles away on the extreme western end of Sicily.

There was no official confirmation from Allied headquarters of an attack in that quarter, but the threat of a landing in the west may have contributed to the enemy's delay in launching an all-out offensive against the Allied bridgeheads on the east.

Cut Off Axis Army

Should the British and Canadians succeed in reaching Messina and continue to hold the coast road down to Cape Passero, the Axis Army would be cut off from its only avenue of escape across the Messina Strait to the Italian mainland.

Gen. Eisenhower's visit to the invasion scene caught soldiers and officers completely by surprise.

John Gunther, representing the combined American press, witnessed his arrival and said that the Allied commander-in-chief stepped from the amphibious jeep that brought him ashore from a destroyer, walked up to an astonished officer and said:

"How do you do? I, am Gen. Eisenhower."

He watched landing operations for a while, then held a breakfast conference with high U.S. officers.

Later he talked with Canadian troops on the Pachino Peninsula and toured the immediate countryside before boarding the amphibious jeep again for the return to the vessel.

there were only about six hours of darkness to cover the movement. It was indicated the homeward route was well to the west of the direct air line.

Passage of the British planes over Europe touched off air raid alerts in Berne, Geneva and other cities in Switzerland shortly after midnight, the Berlin radio disclosed. The alerts were said to have lasted about three hours.

A German broadcast recorded by The Associated Press claimed bombs had dropped at four places in Switzerland, but caused no casualties. One R.A.F. plane, the broadcast said, crashed near Bouveret on Lake Geneva, killing the crew of four.

Even before the night raiders had returned, formations of Allied aircraft were seen setting out across the English Channel in the direction of Northern France to continue the offensive against Europe by daylight.

Some were heard returning an hour later from the direction of Boulogne.

Last Attacked June 23

Northern Italy was last attacked by home-based British bombers on the night of June 23, when the naval base of La Spezia was hit by a force of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Lancasters inaugurating a shuttle service between Britain and North Africa.

German air raiders carried out a sharp attack last night a British east coast town, causing numerous casualties and damaging scores of buildings. Rescue workers still were digging in the ruins this morning in search of dead and injured.

One bomb scored a direct hit on a shelter in which more than 30 persons had taken refuge, but only one occupant was injured.

London had a brief alert during the night when enemy planes flew inland over the southeast coast.

The southeast coast raiders dropped bombs which caused no damage, an air and home security ministries communique said. It added that one enmey plane was destroyed during the night.

The German Radio identified the British town which was attacked last night as Grimsby and reported other raids were directed against the London area and the British southeast coast. The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, acknowledged the loss of one plane.

JOHN P. FLOOD.

ENNISMORE, July 13—(ENS).—John P. Flood, one of the best-known and beloved members of St. Martin's Church, died suddenly on Tuesday in Peterborough after a brief illness due to a heart attack and stroke with which he was stricken the preceding evening.

He was born in Ennismore 72 years ago, the son of the late Thomas Flood and Elizabeth Galvin. By his attendance at daily mass and frequent reception of the sacraments he showed himself to be a model of religious fervor and devotion. He was a member of the Holy Name Society, League of the Sacred Heart, and the Altar Society.

The funeral was held from his late residence at Ennismore to St. Martin's Church on Friday, with the pastor, Rev. Father V. J. Gillogly, acting as celebrant of the Solemn High Mass of Requiem. Rev. Father J. V. McAuley of Lindsay was acting deacon, and Rev. Father V. McFadden of Downeyville sub-deacon. Rev. Father Simon Perdue, C.S.B., of Toronto, was present in the sanctuary.

The pall-bearers, nephews of the late Mr Flood, were: Hubert Ross, Douro, Lieüt. Michael J. Cavanagh, Long Branch, Bdr. J. Vincent O'Connor, Petawawa, and Fergu' Crough, Eugene Murphy, James Harrington, Jr., all of Ennismore.

He is survived by his beloved wife, Clara Scollard, one brother Peter of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Murphy of Peterborough. He also leaves to mourn a nephew Raymond Killen, who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Flood since he was five years of age.

Interment took place in St. Martin's Cemetery, with Father V. J. Gillogly officiating.

The many spiritual offerings and floral tributes were indicative of the love and esteem in which the late Mr. Flood was held. A host of friends and relatives from Toronto, Peterborough, Douro, Downeyville, and Young's Point visited the home to pay a last tribute.

TIRED FEELING ADDS YEARS TO YOUR LOOKS

If your mirror shows tired, droopy lines in your face, it's time to take action!

Tired people often have an overworked digestive system. Clogged with food waste and fatigue acids, because liver fails to supply 1 to 2 pints of bile every day. If liver bile slows down, your whole body slows down, fatty foods cannot be digested. You feel punk.

If always tired, get after your liver—purifier of blood, storehouse of energy. If liver carries off impurities, you feel full of pep. The safe way to increase liver's daily flow of bile is with BILE BEANS. These small laxative pills tone up entire digestive system—liver bile, stomach, kidneys. Made of 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans act so gently they are called "The Medicine That Copies Nature".

Shake that "tired feeling" right away—and get some fun out of life! Try BILE BEANS tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 7 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others. 23

1/2 inch from the mouthpiece, please!

Do people you talk to on the telephone say, "I can't hear you!"? Our repairmen report that the most frequent causes of complaint about not being heard may be traced to failure to use the telephone properly.

IT'S REALLY NO PROBLEM to make yourself clearly heard — provided you remember to speak directly into the mouthpiece with your lips half-an-inch from it. Then you can speak in ordinary conversational tones and the other party will have no trouble hearing you.

By observing this rule, you will also help to conserve the time of telephone service men. The delicate mechanism inside the transmitter is adjusted to operate most efficiently at this half-inch distance.*

*RESEARCH reveals that transmission results are only one-quarter as good when the lips are one inch (instead of half-an-inch) from the mouthpiece. Every additional half-inch has the effect of adding hundreds of miles to the talking circuit.

Fourth Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

A Direction to Specified Employers and Employees

This Order applies to any young man who is 16, 17 or 18 years of age, and who is working at any one of the employments specified in this notice. It is also directed to the present employers of these young men.

A. Objective:

The Order provides for the transfer of the young men affected, to work which is of more importance to Canada's war effort. Transfers will be made after taking into account the health and domestic circumstances of these young men.

B. YOUNG MEN WHO ARE AFFECTED:

Every young man who is in any one of the employments specified, who has reached his 16th birthday but has not reached his 19th birthday, is covered by this Order.

C. EMPLOYMENTS SPECIFIED IN THE ORDER:

The Order applies to the young men described above if now employed in any of these occupations:

(1) Any occupation in or associated with the following: (a) barber shops and beauty parlours; (b) distilling alcohol for beverage; (c) dyeing, cleaning and pressing, baths, guide service, shoe shining; (d) entertainment, including but not restricted to theatres, film agencies, motion picture companies, clubs, bowling alleys, pool rooms; (e) operation of ice cream parlours and soda fountains; (f) manufacture of feathers, plumes and artificial flowers, chewing gum, wine, lace goods, greeting cards, jewelry; (g) retail stores; (h) factory production of statuary and art goods; (i) retail and wholesale florists; (j) retail sale of confectionery, candy, tobacco, books, stationery, news; (k) retail sale of motor vehicles or accessories; (l) retail sale of sporting goods or musical instruments; (m) service stations (gasoline-filling stations); (n) taverns, liquor, wine and beer stores.

(2) Bus boy; charman and cleaner; custom furrier; dancing teacher; dish washer; domestic servant; doorman and starter; elevator operator; greens keeper; grounds keeper; hotel bell boy; porter (other than in railway train service); private chauffeur; taxi driver; waiter.

D. How the Order affects Young Men still attending School:

Young men in the age groups mentioned, now employed, will not be interfered with insofar as returning to school at the opening of the school session in the Autumn is concerned; but young men in the age classes covered, who are now working during their summer vacation, must comply with this Compulsory Order.

E. Procedure to be followed:

All men as defined above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 24th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally at such an Office, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

F. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees, within 7 days of receiving such direction.

G. Penalties:

Penalties are provided for employers who retain, or take into their employ, after July 24th, 1943, any man covered by this Order except under special permit. Also, penalties are provided for failure of an employee covered by the Order, to register or to follow a subsequent direction to employment.

H. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulation (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).

Employers or employees uncertain of the application of this Order in a particular case are advised to communicate immediately with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Attention is directed to the fact that the Third Compulsory Order, which contains a list of occupations different from the above, also requires certain young men 16, 17 and 18 years of age to report to National Selective Service.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

RAIN AT BRIDGENORTH

Those Bridgenorth bucketfulls of rain that were reported prematurely and with exaggeration Sunday actually arrived this morning. In a few minutes the streets were running with water, and the countryside was getting a much needed saturation. "The sky was almost clear, and you'd wonder where all the rain was coming from," said the Examiner's informant who at the other end of the telephone could hear the thunder overhead and its rumbling echoes from this office.

BOY'S BIG FISH

Ross Outmore, 13, hooked and landed a thirteen pound lunge in the channel outside Webb's Bay at Birdsalls, near the east end of Rice Lake, and gets today's bow from the shade of Isaak Walton.

VACATION CLUB.

One hundred and eight boys registered Saturday for the Y.M.C.A. Vacation Club, which is in session this year from the 12th to the 23rd of July. Further registrations are expected next Monday when the boys sign up for the second week. This morning at the "Y" pool 42 youngsters were taking specialized swimming instruction under the direction of Gordon Minty.

BICYCLE LOST.

A bicycle with chrome mudguards and a white frame which was standing outside the Examiner garage on Saturday, has disappeared, and anyone with information regarding the wheel is asked to get in touch with Frederick Garner at the Examiner.

TO BE INSTRUCTOR.

Sgt. Arthur Dainton who has been overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders for two years, is spending 14 days leave with his wife and baby at 864 Water Street, before he leaves to take up his job as an instructor at the officers training camp at Three Rivers, Que.

Jail Sentence For Guide Beating Woman

Noah Taylor, Curve Lake guide, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to ten days in the county jail after he had been convicted on a charge of assaulting Emma Taylor, occasioning actual bodily harm.

According to the complainant, Noah Taylor had come over to the mission house in Curve Lake village where she had been living and assaulted her, striking her four or five times in the face with his fists and bruising her arms and throat. She said that she had been struck in both eyes and that her lip had been cut and jaw injured.

"I jumped out of the window to get away from him," said the woman, "and he followed and kicked me on the hip."

To W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Taylor, the witness admitted that she had been living with the accused from time to time and she said that Taylor was the father of her five children.

Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield swore that he had been called to the Taylor home on the night of the alleged assault and had found Emma Taylor suffering from a number of bruises. Her nose and lips were swollen, he said, and there were bruises under her eyes and on her face and arms. They were consisent, witness stated, with blows from a fist.

Taylor, who claimed that only two of the children were his had a different story to tell of the affair. He declared that a few days before, Emma Taylor had struck him on the head with a wash-board. On the night of the alleged assault he said that the woman had fallen against a stove and injured herself and then had jumped out of the window. He declared that he had not struck her.

Magistrate Langley registered a conviction, remarking that the doctor's evidence convinced him that the woman could not have been injured in the manner described by Taylor.

Chicken Thief Pleads Guilty

The story of how he and Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield had secured a boot belonging to the prisoner and compared it with foot prints found on the farm of Hiram Terrill, Chandos Township, after the latter's chickens and a turkey had been stolen, was told in police court this morning by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure when a charge of poultry stealing against Amos Lindsay, was being heard.

"The boot fitted perfectly with the foot-prints, the officer declared.

Lindsay, who was defended by John A. Bradshaw changed his plea to guilty this morning. A brother, Leslie Lindsay pleaded guilty to a similar charge.

In giving evidence to-day Constable McClure said that on visiting Amos Lindsay's place near Apsley he had found large quantity of chicken feathers and bones being burned in a tin outside the place and inside the kitchen stove there were many more chicken bones. On the stove was a stew-pan full of boiling chicken.

Hiram Terrill, owner of the poultry said that the chickens were worth $1.50 each an the turkey stolen around $3.00.

Lindsay was remanded when he and his brother will be sentenced on Tuesday.

Sgt de Laplante Home After 3-Year Absence

Sergeant N. T. de Laplante, of the R.C.A.F., has arrived home on a month's furlough after an absence of three years. Son of the late Ozias de Laplante, the young airman is visiting his aunt, Mrs. T. Girard, 385 Reid Street.

For the last eight months he has been training as a pilot officer, and will report for that duty on his return to England. His major experience has been with an air signals and wireless group ranging from Gibraltar and the Hebrides to Iceland, in some of the bigger planes that are operated by a crew of eight.

Suspended Sentence Is Offered Youth

Magistrate Langley intimated in police court, this morning, that if the youth could get his father who lives in Trent River to go his bond for good behavior he would give a suspended sentence in the case of Kenneth Chapman who ysesterday had pleaded guilty to stealing cigarettes from the Ritz Grill, Chapman was remanded until to-morrow for sentence.

Constable Percy Sexsmith said that early on Monday morning he saw three boys ,one of them Chapman run along Hunter Street near the post office. Chapman disappeared from his sight for a moment and the witness stated that afterward he had found six packages of cigarettes on the Post Office steps. Later he found that six packages had been stolen from the Ritz Grill.

Good Start Made Towards Next Donation

With the sending of the twenty-fourth donation of £500 on Monday to the Lord Mayor of London to give aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund gets away to another fresh start, for which there is a balance of about $10.00 left to the credit of its account, after deducting the amount required to cover the cost of this particular donation.

No matter what objective one sets out to attain, a good start usually insures a better finish, and so it is with all the more satisfaction that the fund management is able to announce that the first gift towards the next donation is quite substantial in an amount of $60.00 which comes through the work of North-end workers through Mrs. E. H. Brown and Mrs. G. T. Puffer.

This group consist of only fourteen workers centred around Queen Elizabeth School, and during the past season they made quilts which were sold and then a tea and sale of novelties of which a considerable number were donated by Mrs. Sayers, was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Doughty on Barnardo Avenue, all of which netted them the splendid sum of $120.01.

With the exception of the odd cent, this was all given between four differnt war charities of which this fund receives the sum mentioned above, and to their credit it may be also said that part of the quilts they made were given to another fund to go direct to the people who sorely needed them.

This same group has helped the fund on previous occasions of which one was for the special Christmas donation, and another at the close of their season's activities a year ago, so their work on behalf of the war effort has been quite a successful one.

A glance at the total featured at the bottom of this column will reveal the fact that the fund is getting very close o another thousand dollar mark, going on from strength in the humanitarian work of helping back to normal life, those whom misfortune of war has afflicted through air raids over the front line in Britain.

Wrist Watches Prizes In Stamp Sale

A free wrist watch and a key to the city of Peterborough are rewards that every Examiner News Carrier selling War Stamps this month is eligible to win.

The Examiner has announced that it will give a splendid wrist watch to each of the ten carriers selling the most War Savings Stamps in the current depth-charge campaign, and Mayor Hamilton is going to present each of the 30 carriers having the largest sale with a "Key to the City of Peterborough." This is an honor granted to very few people and all of them famous. It is the fitting manner in which Peterborough will reward its most successful salesmen of the younger generation.

Up to and including Monday, July 12 Examiner Carriers had sold $995.20 worth of stamps. This represents over 11 posters completely filled out of the quota of 34 which is the goal of these ambitious youngsters.

Nine of them have already won ranks in Canada's Junior Commando Army by their stellar performances and many more are on the verge of joining its select numbers. With the sale of 25 stamps a Carrier is entitled to wear the badge of Cadet Commando, and higher goals as they are successively reached enable him to exchange the badge of lower rank for that of the next higher.

Examiner Carriers who have already won positions in the Junior Commando Army and those who shortly do so are asked by S. D. ...ue of the Circultation Staff to ... at this office any week-day morning except Saturday to secure the insignia.

Following is a list of the top-ranking Examiner Carriers and the amount of their production, along with the rank they have won because of their achievement: Bill Edgar, $234.50, Lieutenant Colonel; Jack Hayes, $212.50, Major; Don Pagett, $204, Major; Walter Pridham, $141.50, Captain; Nancy Leith, $39.50; Corporal; Murray Wight, $37.50, Corporal; Gerald Rose, $30, Commando; Jim Grant, $8.50, Cadet Commando; Ross Kidd, $7, Cadet Commando.

Jack Hayes and Walter Pridham, whose performances are putting them among the Army's senior officers, are newcomers to the top division.

Loose Coupons Cost Man $35

Jack Andrews, 22-year-old Dummer township farmer, was fined $25 and $10 costs in police court Monday afternoon, after Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., had found him guilty of having loose gasoline coupons in his possession.

"This is the first case of this kind to be heard in this court," said Magistrate Langley in imposing sentence, "I am therefore not going to make the fine very heavy. This should not be taken however as establishing a precedent for future cases of the same kind. This is a practice that must be stamped out."

Evidence given by George Rogers, inspector for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and by Chief William Parcels of Norwood was that when Andrews handed over his gasoline ration book to Investigator Rogers in a Norwood garage, Rogers found four loose gasoline coupons shoved into the middle of the book.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who defended Andrews did not call his client to give evidence.

Magistrate Langley in giving judgment said that the prosecution had clearly proven possession by Andrews of loose coupons and ruled that the onus was on the prosecution to show that the accused did not come within the exceptions mentioned under the regulations.

When His Worship announced a fine of $25 Mr. Gordon suggested that it should be made $15. On the contrary W. F. Huycke K.C. who prosecuted pointed out that fines in other courts on similar charges had been heavy and that the authorities had recently amended the regulations to "jack up" the penalties.

Cottagers Celebrate Second Annual Picnic

Poplar Point Cottagers Association held its second annual picnic at Lake Chemong recently. In the afternoon a number of races were run off on Romany Road and a horse-shoe tournament was held at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McGinness. In the evening a weiner roast and sing song were held at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Dallin, with Douglas Smith of Toronto acting as master of ceremonies.

A. E. Saunders, president of the Association, gave an address of welcome to members and friends before the start of the afternoon's events, and during the evening thanked all those who helped to make the picnic a success.

Boys Must Report Before July 24

Boys 16, 17 and 18 years of age, who are covered in the fourth compulsory employment order announced Monday by Labor Minister Mitchell need not fear that transfers to essential jobs will interfere with their returning to school if they had planned to do so, it was stated today by W. H. L. Mellis, local manager of Selective Service.

However it was explained, even though intending to return to school young men in the classes affected who are now in the employments listed, working during their summer vacation period, must comply with the compulsory order.

All covered by the order, Mr. Mel... fice not later than July 24.

Woman Is Shot

OWEN SOUND, Ont., July 13 —(CP).—John Csobadi, 39, Czecho-Slovakian soldier, died in hospital here Sunday of wounds, police say, were self-inflicted. Mrs. Elgin Robson, Owen Sound, who, police say, was shot by Csobadi, was reported in a critical condition in hospital.

Wading Pool Is Being Built At Riverside

Members of the Peterborough Lions Club donned bathing suits on Monday evening to assist in the work of removing stones from the Otonabee river at the Hunter Street bridge where the wading pool for youngsters is now under construction.

A bulldozer owned by T. F. Doughty was at work all day Mondday shaping the size of the pool, by removing the stones and forming a breakwater about midway in the river, a dividing line between the shallow and deep water. Later this week, the old stone pier on which formerly rested the iron Hunter Street bridge will be taken down and the stones used to build new steps at the edge of the beach. Other stone from this pier will form another breakwater at the top of the beach directly under the bridge.

Water in the Otonabee river was lowered a foot yesterday to facilitate the work, and for this reason the club members decided they would assist in removing many of the loose stones on the bottom of the pool.

There work which will be done this week is trimming of the beach trees, and dumping of sevaral loads of sand at the top end of the pool to make it more suitable for the youngsters. The pool will not be ready for use for a few weeks, but already several youngsters have discovered it is a good place to swim. Parents are urged to co-operate with the club, by warning the children they must not go beyond the centre breakwater. Later a more substantial barrier will be placed at this spot.

At the end of July, the annual Lions Club Carnival will be held, when money will be be obtained to complete the work of the swimming pool, and also for the many wartime and community charities which this club has on its list of service work Tickets are on sale from the club members and at several downtown stores, and there are fifteen valuable prizes.

Friends Recall Lynch Humor

Friends of the late James Lynch whose funeral took place this morning have been recalling some of the humor which he contributed to main street through the years.

One morning he arrived down town with a story which he told with broadly smiling elation that "George Morrow cut my lawn this morning."

That claim encountered disbelief on all sides. The late Mr. Morrow was the head of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, and it was simply beyond any credence that he clipped the Lynch lawn.

"Well, go and ask him, if you don't believe me," was Mr. Lynch's challenge to the doubters.

It transpired that Mr. Lynch was cutting his own lawn that morning. He had a new mower that was working smoothly, and when Mr. Morrow on his way down town arrived in front of the Lynch residence, he stopped a moment with a "good morning" greeting, and Mr. Lynch mentioned the performance of his new mower, efficient ball bearings and revolving knives that caught every blade of grass.

"Just try it yourself, George, and see how easy it goes," Mr. Lynch said, and Mr. Morrow pushed the machine part way down the lawn, and quite agreed that it was first rate and all the rest of it. And on the strength of that incident, Mr. Lynch broadcast the astounding announcement that his lawn was cut that day by none other than W. G. Morrow.

Much Overseas Mail Carelessly Addressed

Five hundred letters and 150 parcels a day—this is the average amount of mail that requires special handling at the Base Post Office as a direct result of carelessness in the addressing of soldiers' mail.

Canadian Postal Corps members make this estimate and ask: "How do they expect their mail to be delivered properly if they don't take the trouble to put on the right address?'

Some of the mail requires redirection because the sender did not know the correct address, but usually the fault lies with the sender for omitting some important detail, without which the letter or parcel cannot be sent forward. When this occurs, extra work and dealy in delivery is bounu to follow while the mail is turned over to the directory section so that the proper address can be looked up and the missing detail added.

Careless addressing is a great cause of delay in despatching mail to our forces serving overseas.

To be properly addressed a letter or package should include the regimental number rank surname followed by initials, details of unit, —company, squadron, battery, etc.— and the name of the Regiment or the branch of the service must be given in each case. The omission of any one of these details will hold up delivery

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

Setting a high standard for an adventurous life, Fern Blodgett Sunde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Blodgett, 189 Hunter Street West, was the first girl to graduate in Canada from the special course in wireless operating, was the first to join the merchant marne as a wireless technichian in 1941 and has now made more than 30 trips across the ocean. In addition she married the captain of her ship, Gerner Sunde, on July 20, 1942.

In more than two years at sea, this lively technician has seen many interesting things and her letters home give an interesting pcture of how a woman fits in on a merchant ship crew. Mrs. Sunde began her career on the Norwegan ship "Mosdale" and is still serving on it, and is as enthusiástic as ever about her job.

When she first put to sea, this member of the crew was subjected frequently to the undignified malady of sea sickness and more than once personal feelings had to be pushed into the background to uphold the honor of the crew. She told her parents of one incident where they were docked at a port where they experienced unusually high tides. Mrs. Sunde decided to go shopping and when she went to leave the boat she was appaled to find the gangplank practically straight up and down, with the deck of the ship an awful height above the dock. She hesitated before attempting it and had just about decided to stay on board when she noticed a watchman and a taxi driver watching her. She wrote that this settled the question for she could not let them see her beng a sissy, so she finally made her way down the slippery incline to the bottom.

FERNE SUNDE (Merchant Marine)

"A Norwegian minister came on board for lunch," she wrote on another occassion, "and he was leaving afterwards to visit a Norwegian corvette and invited me to go along. I was wishing that I was a little more closely related to our supposed ancestors because we had to go down a ladder onto one corvette, climb over some stuff, duck a lifeboat, walk up some boards and climb a ladder to the officers quarters. Afterwards I was taken to a church service, which takes the form of a social gathering. The sailors are encouraged to attend and I was sorry I didn't understand Norwegian, because I am sure I missed some nteresting things."

During one of her more recent trips, this woman sailor saw her frst Norwegian fishing boat, one of many whch have escaped from occupied Norway since the Germans took over the country. The thing which amazed herwas the fact that the boat actually blew smoke rings. She described the motor as having the cutest dull pop-pop-pop sound, and said that after each dull pop, out comes a smoke ring through an iron chimney-like pipe through the roof of the wheel house.

"It had a sturdy appearance and was bigger than what we used to go fishing in, with a small space below deck for living quarters. The engine was below deck level and the wheel house was perched toward starboard (right hand) side and near the stern. It looked inadequate for ocean travel, but made the grade."

At one place she visited in England, Mrs. Sunde found many evidences of the blitz, with rubble not yet cleared away even though they had not been bombed for some time. Some one told her that the people they were proud of ther battle scars and didn't like to see them removed. Capt. and Mrs. Sunde were home on some weeks leave at the end of 1942.

All ranks of the 43rd (R) Field Regiment, R.C.A., are hard at work at Petawawa in the Reserve Army Artillery camp. They arrived 181 strong under command of Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie and promptly began training for their 14-day period Capt. R. A. Phillips' 4th Battery has a strength of 76, the largest in the Regiment.

Major S. Y. Walsh has been made camp medical officer for his stay at camp, and Lt. W. T. Fanjoy is camp transport officer. Sgt. C. J. Tighe is acting R.Q.M.S., Sgt. O. J. Martin is A-Tp. Sgt.-Major, L.-Sgt. W. E. Fanning is A-B Q.M.S. for the camp period; L.-Sgt. F. Worsencroft was promoted to sergeant, Gnr. D. T. Norris was raised to L.-Sgt.; and the following gunners were promoted to L.-Bdrs.: G. Ball, J. K. Brown, J. A. Burrows, T. A. Busby, G. T. Colt, J. C. Hamilton, G. M Johnston, G. A. Porter, F. B. Trotter, A. S. F. Watson, G. W. Webb.

2-Lt. W. G. Ovens will lead the first-week party home on Saturday in the second-week party on Sunday and 2-Lt. C. J. Hartman will bring day. The majority of the unit are staying for the two weeks.

FO. HERBERT HALLIHAN (BUDDY)

Word has been received that FO. "Bud" Hallihan has arrived overseas a second time. He enlisted in February, 1941, and went overseas the first time in November of that year and was moved to the Middle East where he spent 13 months, returning to Canada the beginning of this year. Since that time he has been taking a refresher course. His wife resides at 168 Lock Street, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hallihan, 269 Perry Street.

Two district girls have enlisted in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service at Kingston as Wrens. They are Miss Margaret Shannon of Norwood and Miss. Margaret Kernohan of Madoc. They left recently to take up their duties.

The third Clark boy in the R.C.A.F., LAC Grant Clark, son of Dr. D. W. and Mrs. Clark, 291 Charlotte Street, graduated from Aylmer, Ontario, over the week-end as a fighter pilot. The airmen were largely from Ontario, Great Britain, and Australia. He enlisted over a year ago and his brother, Ralph is a Squadron Leader at St. Thomas, and a second one, Allan, is still in training.

L.-Cpl. Margretta Peel, who is overseas with the C.W.A.C., has been keeping in touch with her Peterborough friends. She recently spent her furlough at her former home in Belfast, Ireland, and was the first member of the Canadian Women's Army to be seen there.

Capt. Marion Ross, first Canadian woman medical officer to go on active service, has landed in Africa. She is the niece of Miss Mina Ross of 191A Murray Street. Two nurses from Kingston in the same contingent, Valeria Hora and Elizabeth Pense, are nieces of Mrs. Richard Birdsall of Asphodel. Monica Reynolds, whose father, Arthur J. Reynolds, was a former manager of the the Bank of Commerce here, is also in the group.

Enumerators Did Good Job

First draft of the voters list for the provincial elections has passed the stage of enumeration.

"The women who were engaged in this work have done a good job," A. J. McClellan, returning officer, said this morning. "The conditions have been more difficult than ever. Many people were out of the city, or on vacations. Some houses were closed because both wives and husbands were at work. Some of the enumerators had to make five and eight calls before getting the information required. I saw some of them on their rounds as late as 10 p.m.

Then they had the work of typing six copies of their lists, and they had to burn midnight oil to get that done.

In spite of these obstacles that prevented the smooth house to house calls, as is the usual experience, our enumerators have done well, and I want to mention the care shown by the women who were appointed for this detail of getting the voters lists ready."

Delman Shoes

Perforations and a double bow of self-material make this summer sandal into very feminine footwear, while preserving comfort and endurance in its construction. White buckskin.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

WHITE shoes are really a victory of the ridiculous over the sobersides element. Our tootsies do the dirtiest work for us, and common sense would suggest garbing them in practical black, or at the fanciest, khaki brown to match the dust. Always puckish, however, we paint our shoes in rainbow hues...and in mid-summer, we adore white shoes because they both look and feel cool. The upkeep of grooming them is worth the trouble. These buckskin models are as soft and creamy to see as the whipped cream of other summers.

Bessie Ruskin Is Married In Parents' Home

The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ruskin, 298 Monaghan Road, on Sunday, July 11, of their eldest daughter, Bess, to Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Golumbia of Macrorie, Saskatchewan. The ceremony, which took place in a setting of summer flowers, was performed by Rabbi Goldwasser, with Mrs. Harry Zacks, Jr., playing the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of brocaded organdy, fashioned on princess lines with a high yoke, long sleeves and a very full skirt. Her floor-length veil, delicately embroidered at hem and sides, fell from a scalloped coronet, and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Ruskin, who wore a pretty frock of blue flowered chiffon, with a single pink rose in her hair, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Percy Shiner o; Toronto was best man.

At the reception held after the ceremony the bride's mother received in a gown of rose triple sheer with a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore blue triple sheer and yellow roses.

Later the couple left on a motor trip through Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a gold two-piece ensemble with brown accessories. They will live in Toronto.

White—Lowe

A full choral wedding took place in St. Chad's Anglican Church, Toronto, when Lillian Edith Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Lowe, Toronto, became the bride of Pte. William Thomas White, R.C.A.S.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. White, Toronto. Rev. F. J. Nicholson performed the ceremony and Miss Fern Suthons sang "Forever Yours."

The bride was gowned in white taffeta embroidered in Italian quilting and carried a bouquet of Queen Mary roses and baby's breath. Miss Leila May was maid of honor in a street-length gown of blue angelskin and Miss Georgina Millette and Miss Doreen Lowe were bridesmaids in similar gowns of pink and yellow. All the attendants carried nosegays of pink roses and mauve sweet-peas. ACI James Durrant was best man and the ushers were Alvin Creighton and Frank Warman.

After a reception at the home of the bride's parents the couple left for Big Bay Point, the bride travelling in a blue dressmaker suit of crepe with matching hat and white accessories. Guests from Peterborough were Mrs. Charles Scates, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Gordon Wood, Miss Marjorie Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fawcett, Mrs. C. Barton.

Leone Whiteside Wed at Bethany To S. L. Wilson

FRANKLIN, July 13—(ENS).—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church Parsonage, Bethany, on Saturday, when Leone Edalene, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whiteside of Franklin, became the bride of Stephen Lenard Wilson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, Ida. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harding. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Myra Whiteside, and the best man was the groom's brother, Mr. George Wilson.

The bride looked charming in a princess gown of turquoise blue with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses, baby's breath and ferns, and wore a rope of pearls and a gold bar-brooch.

The bridesmaid wore a dress of air force blue, with white accessories and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses with baby's breath and ferns.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, "The Cedars," in Franklin, for a number of friends and relations.

Later the happy couple left amid a shower of confetti and good wishes for a short honeymoon in Toronto and other points, the bride travelling in a blue dress with a suede coat and matching accessories. On their return they will live near Mount Pleasant.

Margaret Steele Marries LAC. H. Macmillan

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Norwood United Church last Wednesday afternoon when Margaret Miriam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Steele of Norwood, became the bride of LAC Hector Macmillan, R.C.A.F., only son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Macmillan of Campbellford. Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., of Peterborough, was organist, and during the signing of the register Mrs. R. H. Gardner sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white sheer over taffeta with torso bodice and bracelet length sleeves and a shoulder veil caught with white flowers. She carried a nosegay of Talisman roses and cornflowers. Miss Eileen Giffen was bridesmaid in a gown of printed organza fashioned similarly to the bride's, with pink roses and cornflowers in her hair, and a nosegay of the same flowers. Pilot Officer Ronald Russell, R.C.A.F., was best man, and the ushers were LAC T. Maloney of Marmora and Cpl. Jack Roger, R.C.A.F., of Parry Sound.

A reception was held at "Wood Lawn" in Campbellford, where Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Macmillan received with the bridal party, the former in a two-piece frock of queen's blue sheer, white accessories and a corsage of red roses, and the latter in a dress of rose chantilly, street-length, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. L. C. Gunstone was master of ceremonies.

After a short wedding trip the young couple left for Calgary, where the groom is stationed, the bride travelling in a two-piece dress of water-lily shantung with natural linen accessories and a top-coat of beige wool.

WOMENS' TEARS SLAY MEN WHO BRAVELY FACE WAR'S BARRAGES.

Nagging, Poor Health, Old Age, Dying Gag More Dangerous Now Than Trench Mortars.

Just now, when the Flying Fortress fills our talk by day and haunts our slumbers at night, and when practically all human ingenuity is devoting itself to trying to devise more deadly instruments of destruction, do you ever think of those secret weapons that are far more dangerous than any trench mortar or tank, and that are all the more dangerous to us because they are in the hands of those we love and trust?

Chief among these secret weapons are the tears that women have employed, since time immemorial with deadly effect upon men, and before which may a hero, who has faced an artillery barrage without flinching, has crumpled up and gone down to defeat. Millions of women have wept men into marrying them, into stealing for them, into turning traitors to the mothers who bore them and the fathers who cherished them into becoming slaves to them. More men have been destroyed by women's tears than have been killed in all the wars that were ever waged on the earth.

Women's Fatal Tears.

Not without reason is the most feared weapon in the whole arsenal of war called tear gas. But men did not invent it. It was women who discovered that there is some chemical in a woman's tears that causes a man's backbone to disintegrate and his morale to dissolve so that he loses all ability to defend himself and become helpless as a jellyfish in her hands.

Another secret weapon that women use without mercy is nagging. Samson is credited with having slain his thousands with the jawbone of an ass, but that was an amateur performance compared with what many wives do with their tongues. Millions of husbands are annually nagged to death, which is death by slow torture and peculiarly painful, but so skillfully and subtly is it done that instead of being suspected of ther's "nerves" than ever perished in the reputation of being wives who are so particularly solicitous of their husbands' welfare, that they continually remind them of what they must do and must not do.

Innocents Victims of Adults Poor Health.

A third deadly weapon that both men and women use without mercy against their families is poor health. More innocents have been slaughtered by Father's "bad heart" and Mother's "nerves" than ever perished in any wholesale massacre. All of us know men who haven't done a lick of work in twenty years because of some mysterious ailment that the doctors were never able to diagnose. Their invalidism hasn't affected their appetites, for which they piously thank God, because it enables them to keep up their strength and to be able to amble down to the pool room, or to go fishing or hunting, but the mere mention of a job brings on one of their "spells."

And we know plenty of women whose husbands and children spend their lives slaving to support Mother's "nerves" that always act up when there is any work to be done, or any crisis to be faced, or when Mother wants to take a trip.

A fourth lethal weapon that family Quislings use most effectively is old age. Often fathers and mothers, observing what a holdup weapon this can be made, begin using it on their children while they are still young and hearty and perfectly capable of supporting themselves. But they are lazy and tired of work, so they retire from business, break up their homes and go to live with their children who don't want them and can't afford them, but who dare not shut their doors in the faces of their aged parents who are all of 45 or 50.

Old Age Sobs Discourage Many Children.

This old parent stuff is a weapon that can be counted on to cripple an ambitious boy and prevent him from going away from the old farm or the little town to seek his fortune, and to make a girl give up her sweetheart and become the family goat. Everytime she thinks of marriage and a likely young chap shows up, Mother and Father draw the don't-forsake-us-in-our-old-age blunderbuss on her and aim for her heart, and there is another fatality.

But perhaps the most to be dreaded of all the secret weapons is the dying threat. A chronic ailment, however slight, can be used more effectively than a Bren gun. It always hits the mark. The happiness the hopes, the ambitions of thousands of us are slain every day by members of our families who are always promising to die and never doing it. "Don't leave me. I won't be with you long now" is the wail with which the old break down our morale and make us run up the white flag of surrender to their selfishness and tyranny.

The secret weapons are more deadly than the known ones, for every one of them has our number on it and is fired by a hand that knows our most vulnerable spot.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 13

The Planetary operations for this day favor all important and ambitious enterprises and objectives. Superiors, elders and private associates may be ready to lend aid to well-planned and systematized ideas and programs.

Even though these may have slants out of routine grooves or have subtle or undercover inspiration or intent. Sound and worthy ventures, as well as those on high ideals, should materialize.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find encouragement to forge ahead on cherished objectives and ambitions, even though these may operate without the bounds of the routine and regular. It should be a time for applying the energies and abilities with diligence and confidence in the realization of lofty ideals, or intuitive leads or premonitions.

A child born on this day may have splendid constructive ability, with industry and application, although its acts may be inspired by high ideals, sound principles or intuitive flashes.

For Wednesday, July 14.

A DAY of the most expansive and encouraging auspices is indicated by the benefic aspects of powerful planets, both by lunar and mutual configurations. It should be a time for attacking cherished hopes and wishes, aiming at the highest of goals in business, career, domestic, social and affectional relations, with every prospect of success, happiness and enduring fortune and good will. While luck may prove to be a factor in this benign estate, yet practical foundations, hard work and sense of duty and obligation, sustain endeavors in which friends and these in high position are ready to recognize merit. But there may be some sort of sudden upheaval or uprooting, with change from original plans and aspirations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid expansion of their cherished plans, purposes and ideals, with many benign and heart-warming fulfilments of long-hoped-for objectives. Hard work, fidelity, merit and practical constuctive ability may attract the substantial support, of friends, elders, superiors and those in authority. It is a goal to be confidently aimed at, with social and professional rewards as well as domestic and romantic happiness added incentives to determined effort. However, be prepared for a sudden reversal of plan and purposes,

Bob Abbott Is At Top Of List With Score Of 75

The turn-out for the weekly handicap sweepstake at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club was rather slim Saturday afternoon.

Bob Abbott continued to show championship form despite the lack of close competition. With a gross score of 75 this week against a gross of 76 the first Saturday in July, the perennial champion stays at the top of the ladder as the best golfer in the club.

Bracketed with Bob Abbott as a winner in the July 3rd sweep was Mr. O. M. Steer with a gross score of 80 which, with his handicap of 18, gave him a winning net of 64. Hugh Waddell was next in line with a net 68 and Frank Jobbitt with a net 69.

Bob Abbott had no competition for the gross score Saturday afternoon, the winning net being posted by Gordon Maniece who csored 85, with a handicap of 22 giving him a net 63. Gordon as a member of the Match and Handicap Committee will undoubtedly vote that his handicap be reduced proportionately.

Another young golfer who appeared in the winning brackets numerous times last year and who will certainly bear watching in the future is Jack Hardill, who with a gross 84, 17 handicap, took second low net with a 67.

The Rev. G. F. Kelly who it is understood, has just started to learn the fundamentals of the game, played to his handicap of 26 by grossing 94 for a net 68.

The following scorers were also posted:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Hugh Waddell ..	88	14	74
M. G. Hardill	90	16	74
W. Lloyd	94	23	71
J. McKercher	98	20	78
W. Kincaid	104	20	78

The Match and Handicap Comittee of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club wish all members to make note of the fact that arrangements have been made with the Kawartha Golf Club to hold the annual inter-club match for the Dobbin-Glover trophy at the Kawartha Club on Saturday afternoon, July 31st. Play will commence at 1:30 in the afternoon with two Peterborough members teeing off against a pair of Kawartha golfers. Members are asked to keep this date open and shortly they will be contacted by a member of the committee to establish their partner, opponents and tee-off time.

Electors Asked To Take Active Interest

TORONTO, July 13—An impassioned appeal to Ontario voters who have hitherto held aloof from participating in political activities was sounded last night by Col. Harry Hamilton, president, Ontario Liberal Association, who exhorted his listeners to exercise those democratic rights now being fought for at heroic sacrifice. He was speaking over a network of Provincial radio stations in connection with the forthcoming election.

In ringing tones of scorn he chastized the non-participating public for largely believing that politics is a trick, crafy and dishonest game to get into power for the dispensing of patronage and favors; that it is "a dirty game" that self-respecting people hesitate to become associated with; that party comes before country because party success means "the patronage trough" for the faithful. He rapped the "cynical attitude" of the rank and file of the citizens.

"Why do so many fine, capable, influential citizens decline to take part in this all-important part of our fundamental freedom?" he asked. As a one-time member of the Federal House and actively associated with political matters for many years, Col. Hamilton expressed his high regard for the type and calibre of the members of Parliament he had met in Ottawa, but said he had no respect for the type of critic that imputed to them base and unworthy motives.

Plea for Clean Politics

If politics are something low and dirty, the cure and the duty is simple," he stated. "Come in and make them high and clean. This momentous hour in history of free institutions calls for it. The dictators have damned democracy as everything weak, corrupt and decadent. If politics have got to this low, it is a very unhealthy condition of affairs and one which the country cannot justify permitting to continue."

In exhorting all-out voter participation, he declared: "Quit throwing mud, if you have been doing so, and come into association with the Liberal Party, or, if you prefer, another party more closely embodying your views. One or other of these parties according to your judgment, has the best ideas for governing the country."

He said there was a party that advocated socialism and a nationally planned economy controlled by a government and its agents; that two parties believed this is a serious error that should be combatted. Because of such far-reaching and serious implications in that issue alone, the speaker believed that all citizens should be keenly interested and active. Association with one of the parties would bring about the disappearance of things that appear objectionable in politics, he said.

"I have come to think that Governments in power do not want political associations to be active," stated Col. Hamilton. "They can be embarrassing and thorns in the flesh; they might attempt to be a Government within a Government. As a result, Governments become too much patronage organizations, free while out of power, but under party discipline when in power."

Fear of Polotics Exists.

The speaker said flatly that there exists a far-reaching fear about openly participating in political affairs. People who will not associate with political activities because it is 'a dirty game' are kidding themselves he stated. Too many business men were afraid to incur risk or danger in arguments.

"Good citizens cannot justify keeping out of political activities on the alleged grounds that it is a dirty game," stated Col. Hamilton. "It is their responsibility, if such is the case, to clean them out. It may not seem a pleasant or inviting task but it is a necessary duty to have faith in political institutions and political activities reasonably decent and honorable. Remember that which the fighting forces will save for us is not democracy but the right and chance to possess the benefits of democracy. We have to settle that issue back here in Canada. The degree of its attainment is up to the people here at home."

Col. Hamilton pointed out that, in his address he was not going to attack the policies and acts of its opponents. His aim was to induce voters who had previously held aloof to "come in and participate," he said. He believed that not more than 10 per cent at most, actively take part in political matters to the extent of securing men to stand for office and actively engage in striving for their election.

Seeks Party Funds.

In a plea for party funds, Col. Hamilton reminded his listeners that, in conquered Europe men and dying for the privilege of doing things Canadians can do openly; that these men must die or obey laws passed by tyrants; that Canadians participate in the making of their countrys laws.

"Yet how many are willing to toss in a dollor or two ot put the necessary and unavoidable expenses democracy on a high plane of independence; he asked. "There ade necessar yand unavoidable expenses in a campaign; the issues must be presented; the manner and degree of their presentation establishes the amount of funds necessary. Parties should stand for things that invite the financial support of those who believe i nthem. A democracy that is worth preserving at terrific cost in lives and treasurer now being expended is surely worth financing have free institutions preserved."

All over Ontario, a handful of voters, relative to the number in the constituency, are selecting two or three candidates; the only candidates the electors can vote for, he stated. The great mass of voters have not the slightest say as to who these candidates will be. Throughout the Province, splendid men avoid being candidates because they are not conscious of any large body of anxious electors desirng them to step into public life and support them as performing a high and worthy duty, said the speaker.

"I am proud to be associated with so many fine men and women connected with activities of the Liberal Party,' said Col. Hamilton. "We will try and strengthen and improve the Liberal Association of Ontario; to make it more truly a useful and worthy instrument in the working of our democractic system of Government. May I ask thousands of others in Ontario to come in and help us, realizing that it is here in Canada we must make the democracy work that so many young men and women are dying to save for us. If you cannot come in with us, go in with some other party, but in some way participate in this essential and important task. A democracy worth dying for is a democracy worth working for; and also worth individually paying for."

C.C.F. Charges Drew Stolen Platform

SIMCOE, July 13.—"The time has come for the people to free themselves from the old parties," was the assertion of E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario Leader of the C.C.F. Party, at a rally here last night.

"I am asking the people to support a C.C.F. candidate in every riding in the Province."

Dealing with the C.C.F. program, Mr. Jolliffe claimed that it had not "been drawn from a hat" at the last minute after an election date had been set, but had resulted from years of serious consideration and adopted in April of this year. He also charged that George Drew had made a clumsy attempt at the last minute to imitate the C.C.F. program.

Mr. Jolliffe also asserted that Premier Nixon is appealing on a confusing basis.

A highlight of the meeting was the presence of J. H. Brockelbank of Saskatchewan, who made his first campaign speech in the interests of the C.C.F. in Ontario. Dealing with the origin of the C.C.F., he stated that it had been born of the people and developed on the farm and in the dust, noise and sweat of labor.

"If the C.C.F. is to serve you, you must pay for it," he asserted. "If it ever comes to the time when distilleries, breweries, packing companies and big financial interests can get the C.C.F. to accept $100,000 to support a campaign, then the C.C.F. is no good to you."

Maharaja Takes Another Bride

A few hours after he was divorced from the former Marguerite Lawler Branyen, of Fargo, N.D., the Maharajah of Indore was wed in Reno, Nev., to Mrs. Euphenia Watt Crane, with whom he is shown here after the wedding. Mrs. Crane was divorced from Arthur Crane, employee of an American aviation company in India. The Maharajah's father created a sensation about a decade ago when he married Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle.

Saints Win Eight Games In Row

St. Peter's made it eight straight last night when they defeated the Knights of Columbus 11 to 10 in a game that went two extra innings. At the end of the seventh, it was tied up, but in the top half of the eighth with two men out and two men on bases, Dr. Masterson blasted a long homer to deep right giving the Knights a three-run lead. With the aid of two singles, an error and two infield outs, St. Peter's came back in their half to tie it up. Gordon for the winners held K. of C. scoreless in the ninth and won his own ball game with a long triple, scoring on an infield out. For the losers Dr. Masterson and C. Russell were outstanding while there were no individual stars for St. Peter's.

LAWN BOWLING

Group No. 1 of the men's schedule is now beginning to get real interesting. With the defeat, last night, of B. Chesler's rink it now puts his rink in a tie with R. Payne's quartette, and while these two are leading the group it does not mean that they are "home free." There are still about seven games yet to play and the whole standing could be turned upside down anytime.

The game that caught the crowds fancy was the Coleman-Routley affair. It was a close father and son versus the "Brother Act," with the Coleman pair getting the nod but only after an extra end.

The notices are posted up for the men's open rink tournament Wednesday, July 28th.

It reads:—

Men's open rinks. 3-16 end games. $6.00 per rink.

Entries limted to 32. The entry must be in by Monday, July 26th, and the fee must accompany same. The draw will appear in the Toronto papers and The Evening Examiner on Tuesday.

And now for the ladies' tournament to-morrow at 1. 30 p.m.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

It takes more than a uniform to make a ball player. Yesterday, in a Charity Field Day exhibition affair at Fenway Park, Boston, Herman (Babe) Ruth, swat king of a decade ago, garbed himself, in the famous No. 3 togs in which he disported for the New York Yankees. He appeared on the field as the master-mind of a Service All-Star nine which whipped the Boston Braves 9-8 but Ruth proved no help, physically.

The 12,000 spectators pleaded with the swatster to show his stuff just once more. Ruth, rotund and 48 years old, essayed the role of pinch-hitter. He took two formidable swings at the offerings of Pitcher Dave Odum and connected— to be caught out in right field. Before the encounter he tried his luck in batting practice along with Ted Williams, 1942 batting champ of the American League but now working for Uncle Sam. Against the throws of Red Barrett, Braves' bullpen pitcher, Williams drove three balls into the right field bleachers. Ruth found he could not lift the pellet out of the field.

In the game itself, Williams homered in the seventh to score three runs and break up a 5-all tie. Other ex-leaguers in the fray included Babe Young, formerly of the New York Giants, Al. Roberge, late infielder of the Braves, Jimmy Hegan, late Cleveland catcher, and Dom DiMaggio.

Zivic Given Decision.

Pittsburgh's veteran of the ring, Fritzie Zivic, managed to carry himself through the 15 rounds of his go with Jake La Motta of New York last night in the smoky city to earn a split decision. Zivic, who tipped the scales at 151 pounds against the 157½ of the New Yorker, appeared wobby during the closing chapters of the argument but grimly stayed on his feet to share the verdict.

Mustos Jaw Dislocated.

The heavyweight battle at Baltimore last night between Tami Manriello of New York and Tony Musto of Chicago had an unusual ending when Musto was forced to quit because of a dislocated jaw, the Gothamite being awarded a technical K. O. at the opening of the seventh round. Mauriello, rated No. 6 heavyweight contender by Sgt. Joe Louis had the joust sewn up even before the seventh stanza by his savage clouting.

Arlington Favorite.

Winning by six lengths from five other Futurity prospects in the Thingumabob Purse at Washington Park, Chicago, Occupy, owned by John Marsch, made himself, the favorite for the $60,000 Arlington Futurity next Saturday. In yesterdays' race, Occupy, bested Alorter which had defeated him in the rectn $52,000 Arlington Pdimer Stakes.

St. Kits Win.

The St. Catharines Athletics and Mimico-Brampton Combines staged a tight battle in the senior Ontario Lacrosse Association last night at the Garden City, the locals finally taking the verdict 13-11, with most of the goals being notched after the half-time rest. The hero of the fra ywas Walt Coupland in the Athletics net.

Whirlaway Is Out

LEXINGTON, Ky. —(AP) — Whirlaway, the former king of the turf, is due to arrive to-day from Chicago for a life of retirement on the nearby Calumet farm following his failure to return to form after being injured last December. Whirlaway, 1741 Kentucky derby winner, retires with the all-time money record of $561,161.50 for his owner, Warren Wright, excelling the former record earnings held by Sea Biscuit.

Manuel Ortiz Wins

SEATTE—(AP)— N. B. A. bantamweight champion Manuel Ortiz defended his crown with a seventh-round technical knockout over Joe Robelto of Pasadena, Calif., in a scheduled 15 round title bout, here last night. Oritz weighed 117½ and Robelto 117.

2 tablespoons shortening
½ cup corn syrup
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and corn syrup thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in ALL-BRAN and milk, let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 1¾ inches in diameter.

BIRTH

O'TOOLE—To Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Toole (nee Eileen King) on Monday, July 12, 1943, at St. Joseph's Hospital, the gift of a daughter.

DIED

WEIR, Miss Annie — Passed away at Veilliers on Monday evening, July 12, 1943, Miss Annie Weir. Funeral, July 14, at 2:30 from her late residence to Cameron Cemetery for burial. Rev. J. A. Campbell officiating.

McCONNELL, Mrs. Thomas J. — Suddenly in Norwood, on Monday, July 12, 1943, Jennie E. Petherick, beloved wife of the late Thomas J. McConnell in her 84th year.

Resting at her late residence, Norwood, for funeral service on Wednesday, July 14, 1943, at 2 p.m. Interment, Norwood Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

LUCANO—In loving memory of a dear mother and wife, Mrs. Lucy Lucano, who died July 13, 1939.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
We have suffered. Since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

LUCANO — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away July 13, 1939.

Do not ask us if we miss her,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memories keep her ever near us,
Though she died four years ago.

—Fondly remembered by Son and Daughter-in-law, Joe and Elma.

Vancouver dominated the Canadian tennis finals at Quebec three years ago to-day, as Don McDiarmid and Eleanor Young won respective singles championships. McDiarmid defeated Montreal's Louis Duff in straight sets 6-1, 7-5, 6-2; and Miss Young was extended by another Vancouverite, Jean Milne 7-5, 7-5.

Prepare War Program

COBOURG, July 13 — (ENS). — J. A. Carroll, superintendent of Agricultural Societies, paid a recent visit to Northumberland County to discuss fall fair activities with agricultural representative R. C. Banbury, and some of the secretaries who were contacted. The wartime program is planned as a feature of all agricultural societies and it is the day on which farmers can get together to show what they can grow and when housewives can display their handiwork. Calf club work is being encouraged by the Wooler, Port Hope, and Campbellford fairs and the latter society is also featuring a Boys' Foal Club.

Clara Morris Is Among Nurses Sicilian Drive

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 13 —(CP Cable)—Canadian nursing sisters have folowed their fighting brothers to the Mediterranean theatre, prepared to give those who are wounded in the Sicilian invasion campaign the care and attention of their own people.

The hospitals where these scores of girls in blue will tend the Canadian wounded will be based in North Africa, possibly under canvas. They will be working under conditions entirely different from those to which they were accustomed in England where they — like the Canadian troops—had been waiting patiently for this day.

Lieut. Nursing Sister Florence Cooke of Brunet, Que., and a bride of three weeks, said: "this is what we have been waiting for" when the news spread round the ship on which the nurses travelled that Canadians were in action in Sicily with the British and American troops.

The reaction of the girls to the news of the new front was typically feminine. "Exciting," "thrilling," "adventurous," were the words they used to describe their feelings.

The announcement was a climax to a mysterious trip.

Lieut. Anne Halbuza, a petite blond from Willow Brook, Sask., echoed the sentiments of the sisters.

"We have been looking forward to this even though we didn't know where we are going," she said.

Lieut. Marjorie McQuarrie of Erin, Ont., said she was anxious to visit the native quarters of these storybook towns and villages peopled by Arabs, if she could get the time. Her companion, Lieut. Ivy Hart of Hamilton, plans to accompany her.

One of the surgeons of a hospital commanded by a colonel from Hamilton is Maj. C. Aberhart of Toronto. The matron is Maj. M. R. Shaffner of Toronto and the assistant matron is Lieut. Margaret Kellough of Almonte, Ont.

Attached to this hospital is Capt. Marion Ross of Toronto, the first Canadian woman medical officer on active service in this war. A bacteriologist, she said "I wouldn't have missed this for the world."

Second Hospital Unit

The nursing sisters made the trip in the same convoy with another hospital unit but they did not know they were together until a day or so before arrival here, when the ships passed each other.

Sisters and doctors aboard the ship carrying a group of war correspondents amused themselves by sun-bathing, playing cards on deck and studying atlases. The most popular sport was the nightly queue outside the ship's shop which was well-stocked with American goods. The ship was a dry one, and the sisters christened the orange, lime and cherry soft drinks "the yellow peril, the green peril and the red peril."

From Ontario were Lieuts. Marjorie Adair, Mildred Arnold and Mary Wattsford, Ottawa; May Mitchell and Anne Jack, Hamilton; Valeria Hora and Elizabeth Pense, Kingston; Marjorie Black and M. Couch, Barrie; Helen Cannon, Paris; Jean Clemens, Windsor; Irene Corbyn, Port Colborne; Grace Cowieson, Queensville; Nora Crozier, Walkerton; Louise Davidson, Caesarea; Sarah Seede, Harrow; Helen Elliott, Milton; Elizabeth Gordon, Sault Ste. 'A Nervous Worrier? Redirect Your Energy

Turn "Nerves" Into Vitality

On the verge of tears because her husband is a few minutes late! What a prey to worry is a woman with sensitive nerves.

And unless this young wife learns how to control her edginess, worry and "nerves" will continue forming a vicious circle until she faces a breakdown.

Like all nervous people, she needs outlets for the high spirits, the keen imagination she now wastes in transforming trifling mishaps into catastrophes.

How much better, if you're of this type, to devote your valuable energies to an outside interest—social work, amateur theatricals. In the home, too, petty worries resume their normal proportions when you can turn to a hobby such as weaving or painting!

Perhaps also you need a check-up on your physical health—eyestrain, anemia may cause nerves. Or you may find certain stimulants such as tea or coffee are bad in your case.

Change your jitters into vitality, charm. Our 32-page booklet by a well-known physician explains physical and mental causes for "nerves," gives advice on insomnia, fatigue, nervous indigestion. Includes directions for correct diet, body care.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of OVERCOMING "NERVES" AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS. Be sure to write plainly your Name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A CROSS-RUFF DANGER

IT IS DANGEROUS to proceed with a cross-ruff at once if attaining your objective depends upon your also taking one or more tricks with high cards. A defender may manage to discard from the suit in which you hold the high card or cards, so that he is able to render any such high card null and void by ruffing. In such a case, it is best to score your high cards before embarking on the cross-ruff.

North: ♠ Q 6 4 3 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ 10 9 5 ♣ 7 3 2

West: ♠ 9 ♥ J 10 6 ♦ J 6 4 3 ♣ A Q 10 6 5

East: ♠ A J 8 2 ♥ Q 8 7 ♦ A ♣ K J 9 8 4

South: ♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ A K 5 4 ♦ K Q 8 7 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♣	Dbl
3♣	Pass	5♣

South led his heart K and, after North played the discouraging 2, switched to the diamond K, which the A took. East embarked at once on his cross-ruff, scoring the spade A, ruffing the 2 with the club 5, the diamond 4 with the club 4, the spade 8 with the club 6, the diamond 6 with the club 8, the spade J with the club 10, and the diamond J with the club 9. On that trick North discarded his heart 3. After that, besides South being sure of a heart trick with his A, North was certain to get one by ruffing, so that the contract was beaten.

East could have made sure of his contract by trying for his third-round heart trick before starting the cross-ruff. After taking the second trick with the diamond A, he should have led a second round heart at once and then, no matter what card was returned, should have taken his heart trick as soon as he was back in the lead. He could have felt safe about this, as North was almost surely marked with three or four hearts from his play of the 2 on the opening trick. With only two hearts, North would doubtless have started an echo with a higher card.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 8 6 4 ♥ 10 9 7 3 2 ♦ 9 7 6 2 ♣ None

West: ♠ A K 7 5 ♥ 6 5 4 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ 5 4 2

East: ♠ J 10 3 ♥ A K Q ♦ 4 3 ♣ A Q 8 6 3

South: ♠ 9 2 ♥ J 8 ♦ A K 8 5 ♣ K J 10 9 7

Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Diamond on this deal, West passes and North 2-Diamonds, what action should East take, and why?

2,000 Attend Johnson Motors Picnic

Employees of the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Co. held a picnic at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon, and the attendance was estimated in the neighborhood of 2,000 people.

It was the first such outing employees of the company have had. In the days prior to the war it was customary to hold a barbecue, but this kind of picnic represents a new departure. The Outboard Marine Social and Athletic Club, under whose auspices the picnic was held, was itself organized little more than a month ago, and the smooth manner in which events were run off and the evident enjoyment of all who attended are tributes to the skill of the club.

Two refreshment booths operated on the grounds at Nicholls Oval and due partly to the hot weather consumption of soft drinks was very great.

Boss Shows More "Pull."

A highlight of the day was the impromptu challenge to a tug-of-war between teams captained by Hugh Campbell, general manager, and H. Wood, works manager. Despite the tonnage in the latter's team Mr. Campbell's "chosen few" eclipsed their opponents in two straight pulls.

Committees in charge included J. McIsaac, general chairman of the picnic, C. Brien, general secretary, A. Watkins, chairman of the sports committee, R. Fuller, chairman of entertainment committee, W. Bannon, in charge of grounds, W. Barrick, in charge of refreshments. Sports officials and judges were the following: A. Watkins, L. H. Bearne, W. Smith, P. Harris, P. McArthur, N. Foy, R. Shaughnessy, G. Douglas, R. Gibbons, A. Bryan, W. Perry, H. Butcher, J. Donoghue, E. Lillico, J. Heffernan, F. Collins, B. Payne, J. Hunter, N. Damario, and S. J. Gibbs. Prize distributors were H. Wood, J. W. Madden, and Dorothy Clarke.

Lucky draw for married women, Mrs. J. Booth; lucky draw for married men, George Kiff; girls' races, five years and under, Dorothy Watkins, Marion Harrington; six and seven, Madeline Harrington, June Collins; eight and nine, Helen Guthrie, Betty Williams; ten and eleven, Betty Nicholls, Helen Goodfellow; boys' races, five and under, Paul Murphy, Billy Douglas; six and seven, Claire Harrington, Donnie Damario; eight and nine, Ronald Nicholls, Billy Nicholson; ten and eleven, James Nichols, Darrel Ackford; twelve and thirteen, R. Effect Of War On Farming Discussed

FENELLA, July 13 — (ENS). — Mrs. Percy Macklin was hostess to the Fenella W. I. on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of approximately 30 ladies.

Mrs. W. I. Montgomery, first vice president, conducted the meeting. The question of filling ditty bags brought on a lengthy discussion and it was decided to fill four bags, and the donations of money are to be brought to the August meeting. Bulletins on canning are to be sent for and it was decided a bazaar will be held in the fall. Plans were made for a dance to be held in the (Montgomery) school No. 22 on Wednesday night July 14. Mrs. Lonsberry and Mrs. F. George were appointed door keepers.

Miss Ruby Adams gave a report of the district annual convention held at Grafton and the war work secretary's report showed a balance on hand of $31.35.

The August meeting will be hald at the home of Mrs. H. Hutchison.

A reading was given by Mrs. Montgomery and a quiz contest by Miss Olga McDonald.

The guest speaker, Mr. Banbury district agricultural representative spoke on products of agriculture and war time effect and uses of these. A discussion followed on growing potatoes and strawberries.

MARMORA

Liberal Candidate To Be Named

MARMORA, July 13 — (ENS)— West Hastings Liberal Association will hold a convention in Marmora Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon July 14th at 2 p.m to select a candidate to contest the riding in the coming Provincial election.

Harry Johnston, provincial organizer for the Liberal party, has intimated that the speakers will in all probability be Hon. Eric Cross, Attorney General for Ontario and Col. Hamilton, president of the Ontario Liberal Association. Several names are mentioned as likely to contest the nomination but no one has made definite announcement, among these are Col. Roscoe Vanderwater; Frank Folwell, a Belleville alderman; Ken Couch, a Trenton merchant; W. N. Gilroy of Coe Hill; and Mayor Harry Cory of Trenton. The veteran politician, B. O. Lott, announced at a recent executive meeting that he would not seek the nomination.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rylstone Plans Salvage Pick-up For Thursday

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 — (ENS).—Report on district annual meeting at Springbrook and an address by Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury were highlights of the July meeting of Rylstone Women's Institute which met on Thursday afternoon.

It was announced that the annual lawn social would be cancelled due to the fact both men and women were too busy at work on the farm and that gas rationing would affect attendance.

Mrs. Lilliam Anderson, convener of the Home Economics Committee, led in a discussion on home canning. She also gave the report on the district annual meeting in Springbrook and stressed the important contribution made to this meeting by Mrs. J. Harcourt of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, who offered first-hand information which disclosed to farm women the valuable part the Board was playing in the present economic set-up.

It was decided to have another salvage collection in the Rylstone district about July 15 and the names of a number of volunteer collectors, both men and women, were listed. The salvage will be assembled in the sheds at Rylstone Church and the usual items, rags, fat, metal and paper will be picked up. Those assisting with the collection include Mrs. Hector Arnold, Mrs. J. Barnett, Mr. Douglas Barnum, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, Mr. W. T. Allan.

Agriculture Representative Banbury spoke, emphasizing the important part the farm women were playing the broad agriculture program. He praised the efforts of the Institute for its various war endeavors and urged women to continue their efforts so that quotas could be met. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Stewart.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

A NEW WORK
A NEW WORLD - A NEW HORIZON
for Women

New fields for women have been opened in the Services. More than 50 different occupations, vital to the war effort, offer women the opportunity to serve their country.

Are Women Really Needed?
Yes—urgently! New fighting fronts are developing and fighting men MUST not be doing jobs which women can handle.

What Qualifications Do I Require?
You must be between the ages of 18 and 45, in good health, with Grade VIII education or better. You must be single, or married without dependent children.

I've Never Been Away From Home Before
In the Forces you will live in a friendly atmosphere with girls like yourself who have decided to carry their share. You will meet splendid women from all over Canada, see new places, do new things, form new friendships. You will find plenty to interest you both on and off duty.

What About My Health?
It is watched over more carefully even than at home. You'll have regular hours—plenty of exercise and sports,—lots of good food—medical and dental care. In a few weeks you'll find yourself feeling and looking better than ever before.

Is The Pay Enough?
Yes—for you receive free all equipment, shelter, food, clothing, medical and dental services.

Perhaps I Won't Fit Into The Work?
Every effort is made to fit each member into the job for which she is best suited and which she finds most interesting. The choice is wide and thorough training is given in many trades.

What Training Do I Get?
You start with 4 weeks basic training. After that there are training courses in scores of different trades.

Is There Chance of Promotion?
Certainly! The three Forces are expanding rapidly, and promotions are made from the ranks. Additional training is given where needed. Every encouragement is given to developing your talents and securing advancement. You may lay the foundations of a new career after the war, through the training received. Lifetime horizons will be broadened. Best of all, you'll have the satisfaction of doing your part now.

ALLIED ARMY IS STORMING CATANIA

Bombers Raid Aachen In Rhineland

20 Planes Are Lost In Big R.A.F. Raid On Railway Junction

LONDON, July 14—(AP).—The R.A.F. made a heavy night attack on the German Rhineland city of Aachen, centre of railway lines linking Germany with France and the Lowlands, it was announced today, and the attack was followed up in daylight by a flight of hundreds of American planes against targets in western Europe.

R.C.A.F. squadrons flew with the R.A.F. formations to Aachen, an R.C.A.F. communique said today, and seven Canadian bombers were lost in the operation.

During the night also, other R.C.A.F. bombers, the speedy intruder Mosquitos, attacked airfields in the Low Countries, the communique added.

Twenty bombers were reported lost in the night raid on Aachen, which was accompanied by simultaneous assaults on airfields deep in France by swift Mosquito bombers, Beaufighters and Typhoons. German ground defences and communications also were the targets of harassing aerial attacks.

One Nazi Shot Down.

One German plane was reported shot down over its base in Holland and two more were shot down during the night over Britain.

German airfields in northern France were believed to have been the objective of the daylight raiders, which staged such a spectacular parade across the Channel that thousands of persons in British southeast coast towns congregated in the streets to watch them pass.

For nearly an hour the sky was filled with all types of planes, flying at high altitude and leaving behind them long trails of vapor that could be seen for miles in the sparkling sunlight.

42 Axis Planes Shot Down In

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 14 (AP)—Allied aircraft shot down 42 Axis planes, sank two more enemy merchantmen north of Sicily and damaged two more destroyers in continued heavy air action yesterday, a communique from the Allied command post announced today.

Allied bombers spread a flaming carpet of destruction on two of the enemy's remaining airfields in Sicily, at Milo and Catania, and successfully beat off enemy aircraft which attempted to interfere with the Allied invasion operations, the communique said.

R.A.F. and American fighter planes carried out sweeps and patrols over the invasion area, the beaches and shipping from dawn to dusk yesterday, the announcement said, at a cost of seven Allied planes.

Troop Ships Destroyed

Many vehicles carrying enemy troops were destroyed by the Allied fighters which attacked Axis troop movements throughout Sicily during the day.

The day-long raids followed attacks by Allied night bombers on enemy airfields and communications in Sicily and southern Italy, the Allied communique said.

Milo Airfield, which the Allied planes bombed heavily yesterday, lies a short distance southeast of the important Italian naval base at Trapani on the western coast of Sicily.

Lost Ground Is Regained By Russian Army

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN

MOSCOW, July 14 — (AP). — German infantry and tank divisions have been pressed back on some sectors of the Belgorod front by Russian forces turning from defence to counter - attack a Soviet communique declared today

The Red Army launched its attack as the Germans reeled back after repeated and unsuccessful attempts to enlarge the wedge they had driven into the Russian lines at terrific cost in nine days of continuous fighting, the bulletin said.

The Russians declared the Nazis had "retreated with big losses," but it seemed apparent from front line dispatches that the Germans still are holding stubbornly to much of the territory which they gained in the fighting a week ago.

Heavy Loss

The Germans were reported to have suffered heavily in one action when they ran in to a tank ambush which the Russians had prepared under cover of night at a point where the Nazis were expected to attack. After slapping back the enemy the Russians struck in front and on the flanks and the Germans retreated in confusion, the Russians said.

Elsewhere on the Belgorod-Orel-Kursk front the action lagged. German effort at the northern end of the front which flared into ac-

Russians Launch Counter-Attacks

MOSCOW, July 14—(AP). — Red forces on the southern end of the Kursk salient launched a series of fresh local counter-attacks today to follow up their successful repulse of German attempts to enlarge the Belgorod bulge yesterday.

That the Russians are able to take the initiative after absorbing the toughest blows the Germans have been capable of delivering is taken as a healthy sign of the calibre of the Red Army by military observers.

Field Marshal Kluge's armies, freshly reinforced and reorganized, continued to batter violently against other sectors, but their efforts to crack through have already cost the Germans 2,722 tanks and 1,200 planes in nine days of fighting, according to Soviet official figures.

Canadian Corvette Surprises U-Boat In Mediterranean

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—The Navy reported today the Canadian corvette Camrose saved the lives of 129 torpedoed merchant seamen in the action in which she was credited with "probably damaging" a U-boat on the North African supply lanes.

The Camrose saw and surprised the U-boat on the surface at night by the light of star shells dropped over a Mediterranean convoy by enemy torpedo bombers. She attempted to ram, but the U-boat crash-dived in the nick of time, although one four-inch shell, fired at close range, is thought to have struck the craft.

The Navy said the Camrose came so close to success in her ramming attempt that her hull scraped the U-boat's steel back. As she slid over, she dropped a depth charge pattern over and around the enemy.

"We couldn't miss," said Leading Seaman Adelard Herbert, R.C.N.V.R., of Pine Falls, Man. "We laid them right over her. And all you could smell and see there afterward was Diesel oil and bubbles."

The action took place on the sea lanes to the North African invasion forces, when the war of supply was hottest. The Camrose had been guarding the port quarter of a huge convoy, and had been engaged in a bitter duel with torpedo bombers and submarines.

Double Attack

"The enemy had waited for the moon to go down, and was dropping flares on us in the pitch-black night," said the captain, Lieut. L. R. Pavillard, R.C.N.R., of Halifax. "Submarines and aircraft attacked at the same time. They were ready to give us a merciless drubbing, for they could see us but we could not see them.

"Two merchantmen had been torpedoed, but were still afloat, and the Camrose was picking up survivors when suddenly Signalman Van Tassel, R.C.N.V.R., of Saint John, N.B., sung out: 'Submarine ahead.' Crossing bow starboard to port, a couple of hundred yards away."

"Obviously she had not seen us," said the captain. "I ordered full speed ahead and set a collision course to ram."

Lieut. H. K. Dawson, R.C.N.V.R., of Toronto and London, Ont., first lieutenant of Camrose, said "just as

Peasants Found Not Hostile

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST, July 14 — Sicilians in some villages have blotted or scrawled out "Evviva Duce" and "Evviva Musolini" signs on walls and buildings and substituted "Evviva George VI." British officers returning from Sicily told me to-day.

Other parts of the island's population seem entirely inert and apathetic to the invasion and uninterested in the Allied troops establishing themselves.

Peasants and village folk sit on the pavements as troops come in to drink and smoke and hardly look up as they ride past on their mules.

They are not hostile when questioned, but show a marked antipathy to the Fascist regime and especially to the Germans.

Italian Fleet Not Risking Suicide Battle

LONDON, July 14 — (CP)—The mystery of why the Italian fleet does not come out to fight is not hard to solve British naval observers said today, declaring they did not look for any challenge from Mussolini's warships to the landing of additional Allied troops and supplies in Sicily.

Once described by the Rome Radio as "the floating shield of Italy," the fleet made no attempt to evacuate trapped Axis armies from North Africa and remained in harbor hiding places even when the Allied invasion of Sicily began.

Despite pressure from the Italian people whose morale has been severely shaken by the fleet's refusal to fight, competent sources here say that for the Italians to risk battle with the immense sea forces the Allies have mustered in the Mediterranean would be virtual suicide.

Under Two Commands

Reliable reports reaching here say the Italian fleet is now under two commands—half in Spezia on the west coast at the top of the boot on the Ligurian Sea, and the other half at Taranto on the inner heel on the Gulf of Taranto.

It is almost impossible for them to be joined into a unit powerful enough to threaten Allied supply lines, observers say, since they could be united only by passage through the Straits of Messina—or by steaming through the Sicilian narrows between the island and the North African coast and the Allied air umbrella over both areas alone would be sufficient to block passage.

Back In The War

LONDON, July 14 — (CP).—A Neaherlands submarine which braved a Japanese force of three destroyers, two corvettes, two planes, and one cruiser to torpedo a 14,000-ton tanker in the Java Sea more than a year ago, arrived in Britain recently after an 18,000-mile voyage from the Netherlands East Indies by way of the United States.

The submarine is back in the war—this time in the Atlantic.

Allied Air Forces Sweep Entire Island Taking Complete Control Of Air While Armies Advance On All Fronts

Bombers, Fighters Spread Flaming Path Of Destruction

By DANIEL DE LUCE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 14— (AP) — Allied bombers and fighters spread a flaming path of destruction across Sicily and its surrounding waters yesterday, sinking two more merchant ships and damaging two destroyers while shooting down 42 Axis aircraft for a loss of seven of their own, an Allied communique announced to-day.

The attack lasted from dawn until the last light of day and then continued after sundown when the night bombers and fighters took over.

The day's bag included 160 trucks, 45 freight cars and six locomotives destroyed in savagely efficient blows at the enemy's vital communications facilities.

Parked Planes Destroyed.

Smashing at the most imporant enemy coastal air base ahead of the racing British 8th Army, which includes the Canadian 1st Division, Americans wrought havoc omong parked enemy fighter planes at Catania, with 98 per cent of the bombs reported landing on their targets.

Other devastating smashes were made against the Milo airfield at the western end of the island where 15 Interceptors were beaten off, and at Enna, a vital communications centre in the heart of Sicily.

Meanwhile formations of heavy bombers from the Middle East command severely punished two more airfields on the Italian mainland, Vibo Valentia and Crotone, where they scattered 425,000 pounds of high explosives and incendiaries.

Sensational Day

Major credit for the heavy toll of Axis shipping north of Sicily and land transport however, went to the fleet new Mustang fighter-bombers of the Americans who had a sensationally successful day.

In two days Allied airmen have sunk four enemy freighters and damaged three destroyers and two troop-carrying transports in victories at sea which have seriously interfered with the enemy's efforts to rush reinforcements into the invaded isle.

Three out of six Messerschmitts which rose to intercept at Catania were destroyed by bomber gunners whose group in its last six missions shot down a total of 45 out of 142 planes encountered.

It contained raids Monday night by R.A.F. and American bombers, the Allied airmen said flares seemed to be dropping all over Sicily.

One flier reported that "the sky was so full of our aircraft that we almost needed a policeman to relieve the traffic jam."

In vertical dives on three Italian destroyers near Palermo Mustang pilots scored hits on two.

Ralston Unable To Give Name Of Commander

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—Defence Minister Ralston today told the House of Commons that for security reasons he could not yet reveal the name of the officer commanding Canadian forces in Sicily, but that he would do so as soon as possible.

The Minister was replying to a question from Dr. H. A. Bruce (Prog. Con. Toronto Parkdalye).

Prime Minister Mackenzie King supplemented Col. Ralston's answer by saying the restrictions of security had frequently placed him in a "difficult position."

He said that he knew all last Friday what was to happen in Sicily but had been bound by security regulations not to reveal it.

Mr. King said his instructions were that nothing could be said of Canadian participation until midnight Saturday, but when the information about Canadians came from the United States early Saturday morning he had made his announcement regardless.

Col. Ralston said it was not because of any reluctance on his part that he could not reveal the name of the Canadian commanding officer.

But Canadians were not the only troops involved and there was an agreement that there would be no announcement regarding commanding officers or units until the commander - in - chief (Gen. Dwight Eisenhower) agreed.

Hon. R. B. Hanson (Prog. Con. York-Sunbury) said it was "amazing" that this information could not be given to Canadians when it was revealed in relation to other forces.

He said he hoped the Canadians were competently commanded and that "Canada will not be left out of the picture altogether."

Col. Ralston said there was not likely to be any question about Canada's being in the picture The names of corps or divisional commanders had not been made public in any instances, he said.

Col. Ralston said he was "some times irked myself" at security restrictions.

Americans Take Naro Navy Units Assist In Bombarding Ports

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 14—(AP).—Britain's veteran 8th Army today plunged northward beyond fallen Augusta toward Catania against weak resistance in a sizzling drive to seal off Sicily's east coast and set the stage for another Cap Bon.

(Reuters News Agency in London recorded an Algiers broadcast saying British, Canadian and American forces were storming the walls of Catania).

Paving the way of the land forces with a storm of shells, British naval forces bombarded the Catania airfield and American warships on the western wing shelled Porto Empedocle and Ponte Olivo, it was announced.

American troops have captured the airfield at Ponte Olivo and the airdrome and town of Comiso, west of Ragusa, also have fallen, it was announced.

Heavy Axis Forces.

Porto Empedocle is on the south coast about three miles from Agrigento, where aerial reconnaissance has disclosed heavy Axis forces gathering for counter-attack, and Ponte Olivo is about nine miles north of Gela.

The smash northward of the 8th Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery followed the entry into Augusta harbor, 19 miles north of Syracuse and 35 miles south of Catania, by a British and a Greek destroyer at 4 p.m. on Monday, and occupation of that strategic port by British troops.

The communique confirmed the capture of Ragusa, inland communications centre, and said the capture of Augusta, with harbor installations undamaged, was materially aided by timely and accurate bombardment from the sea.

While fleets of bombers and fighters swept the island from end to end and combed surrounding waters to lay down a fiery blockade, a motor torpedo boat flotilla made a rapier thrust at the jugular vein of Sicilian supply and penetrated Messina Strait, the two-mile neck of water between the island and mainland. There three enemy motor torpedo boats were engaged Monday night, and two of them set afire and

Canadian Flyer Shot Down 11

VALETTA, Malta, July 14 —(CP Cable) —Led by a sharpshooting team, the Canadian kids of the Malta Flying Squadron blasted more enemy planes from the sky yesterday over Sicily as the R. A. F. maintained its relentless drive against Axis attempts to hamper the Allied invasion.

From dawn to dusk Allied fighters destroyed 22 enemy planes against a loss of only two Spitfires.

Flt. Lt. Leslie Gosling, D. F. C., North Battleford, Sask. and Sqdn. Ldr. Goreg Hill, Pictou, N. S., continued their meteoric climb with a double kill each during the last 24 hours. Gosling brought his total up to 11 enemy aircraft downed.

Among the other Canadians prominent in Tuesday's battles were: FO. George Keith, Taber, Alta., and FO. Reginald Morris, Windsor, Ont., both of whom made double claims.

Plain of Catania Battleground of Ages

First Counter-Attack Of Any Weight Is Hurled By Germans Against Americans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The Sicilian invasion entered its fifth day with good fortune still pacing the hard-driving Allies, but it seemed certain that concerted opposition was impending unless the Axis did the unbelievable thing of quitting cold.

The first counter-attack of any weight was that hurled by the Germans at American forces under Gen. Patton on the west wing. There is some passing speculation whether this assault was directed at the Yankees purely because of tactical necessity, or whether the embittered Hitlerites had in mind discrediting United States efforts for propaganda purposes. Be that as it may, the troops took the attack in stride and smashed it.

Events are milling about so swiftly that he who makes forecasts is bullying his luck, but it looks now as though the broad plains of Catania—one of the battle-grounds of the ages—may continue its old role and become the scene of the decisive engagement in the fight for Sicily.

The Catanian Plain affords the best field for the operation of mechanized forces in this generally mountainous island, and tank divisions presumably will be used in strength by both Allies and Axis.

The port of Catania on the edge of the plain is Sicily's second largest city, with a population of 250,000. In its some 2,700 years of adventure it has been the centre of many wars. It has been destroyed, and has risen again from its own ruins, so often that it's hard to keep the count—not to mention the assaults from erupting Etna and earthquakes.

Despite its varied experience of hard knocks, however, Catania probably never was hit harder than it will be if it tries to resist the march of Gen. Montgomery, with his famous British 8th Army and hard-boiled Canadians. Perhaps the already bomb-battered city will remain passive while the decision is sought on the neighboring plain.

Catania is 59 miles by rail south of Messina, the all-important port which is the island's railhead for the mainland's railroads. Trains are ferried across the narrow Strait of Messina, thus maintaining a vital communication.

Isolation of Sicily from the Italian peninsula demands that Messina be captured at the earliest possible moment. This will leave the Axis forces on the island cut off from supplies and reinforcements, save for the few which might be moved by air.

Press Nearly Missed Boat

Few Hours Before Sailing Called To Headquarters

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 11—(Delayed) — (CP Cable).—The press nearly missed the boat as the Sicilian invasion expedition sailed from Britain.

War correspondents and officers of an army film unit had been aboard the ship for days and a few hours before sailing they were called to the headquarters ship for an interview.

We came out of the interview to find that owing to a mixup and a delay there was no boat ready to take us back to our ship. For nearly an hour we stamped up and down the deck.

It looked as if we might miss the ships when Maj. Don McRae of Cornwall, Ont., a member of the Canadian planning staff, came to the rescue and provided transportation.

McRae was not sailing himself but was doing last-minute liaison work with his own craft. So we piled in and sailed off for a mile-and-a-half run down the bay to our anchorage. The minutes went by and we could see the ships getting up steam. The warships started to move. Finally we made our ship. Ten minutes later the anchor was shipped and we sailed.

Martinique Joins Allies

Ships And Resources Will Aid United Nations

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP).—Martinique, for many months the only French non-Axis-occupied territory to hold out against cooperating in the fight to liberate France, returned to the fold today and placed its ships and resources at the disposal of the United Nations.

Henri Hoppenot, delegate of the French Committee of National Liberation, was due to arrive at Fort de France today and formally take over from Admiral Georges Robert the authority he formerly exercised as French High Commissioner of the Antilles.

In announcing arrangements for the transfer of authority, the State Department said Henri Hoppenot had assured the United States Government that the "facilities and resources" of the French Antilles would be mobilized to the fullest extent in the war against the Axis, and that "all presently immobilized French naval and merchant ships" at Martinique would be made available.

Most important of the naval vessels now at Martinique is the 22,000-ton aircraft carrier Bearn. Also at Fort de France are the fast cruiser Emile Bertin, the training cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, various auxiliary vessels and a number of tankers.

JAPANESE FAIL TO RUN IN REINFORCEMENTS BY LAND, SEA OR AIR

Tank Battle Is Expected As Two Armored Forces Manoeuvre On Wide Plain

Allied Parachute Troops Fighting In Mountainous Regions Aided Americans In Taking Ragusa

By JAMES F. KING—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 14—(AP).—Allied forces storming up from the beaches of eastern Sicily were reported by the Italian communique today to be approaching the Catania plain where German spokesmen have predicted a massive tank battle will develop.

The Italian High Command acknowledged that Allied forces had passed across the southern coastal strip of the island into the mountains and said the British 8th Army, which includes the Canadian forces, was approaching Catania in its drive up the east coast.

Disclosure that Allied forces are standing on the edge of the Catania plain was viewed here as an indication the first great battle of the Sicilian campaign was about to begin, or may already have started.

Many Axis airfields are concentrated in the area and the opposing armies will meet for the first time on terrain suitable for manoeuvring heavy tanks and armored units.

Firm Possession of Coast.

The communique admitted that British, Canadian and United States troops have been continuously reenforced since their landings and now are in firm possession of the entire coast stretching from the Augusta naval base on the east to Licata on the western end of the salient.

German broadcasts, meanwhile, took on a less confident tone.

The Berlin radio denied its own earlier reports that all Allied parachute and air-borne troops landed in the interior had been rounded up by acknowledging that hard fighting was in progress in the mountains.

Allied shock troops driving up from the coast are approaching these hard-fighting parachute troops, the broadcast said. One commentator said that the heaviest German tanks available were being rolled into the beaches in their lines in an effort to halt the spreading Allied foothold.

The Algiers radio in a previous broadcast said that Allied parachute troops participated in yesterday's capture of the Ragusa airdrome.

The Italian communique said that Allied air attacks on Reggio Calabria at the toe of Italy, had resulted in 100 Italian dead and 55 wounded, and that 76 persons were killed and two were wounded at Messina.

The Italian communique also claimed, without confirmation, that Italian torpedo bombers in night attacks along the Sicilian coast sank two Allied ships and a torpedo boat and damaged six cruisers. It also asserted an Axis submarine sank another Allied ship of 11,000 tons, and a British destroyer of the Jervus type.

"The enemy who is steadily and increasingly throwing in more men and material into his offensive has succeeded in passing the coastal strip between Licata and Augusta," the Rome war bulletin said in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

"The enemy is now thrusting towards the southeastern mountainous region of Sicily and is facing the Catania Plain."

London military sources said the Allies' confidence in making a Sicilian conquest was fully justified by the advances of the first four days, and there is no chance now that the Allies can be pushed off the island.

There was much evidence, these quarters said, that a high degree of tactical surprise had been achieved by the Allies and that the Axis defence forces had been disposed in the west and northeast of the island in such fashion that they were unable to prevent the invaders from establishing a deep bridgehead in the southeast.

The disorganization of the enemy's communications and transport by air attacks on headquarters, rail lines and motor convoys also was believed a major factor in keeping the Axis from mounting strong counter-blows during the early stages.

A British observer minimized the importance of the enemy's first counter-attack which scored a temporary success against the Americans in the Gela area, saying it resulted in "no appreciable delay" and that Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's forces were now "well in and moving ahead on schedule."

Major Test Lies Ahead

Military observers said a major test lies just ahead, predicting that sometime within the next few days—perhaps within the next 24 hours—the combined Allied forces must we were making our attack one of the merchantment which we had hoped to salvage was torpedoed again—which of course mean there was another submarine about."

"As we had hodped to salvage her, the crew—who had abandoned earlier—had gone back aboard. The flares were still coming down and we could hear the bombers.

"We didnt wait any longer. We might have found some evidence if we had, but there was too much work to be done—we knew that U-boat wouldn't bother us any more that night. So we went back and picked up another 60 or 70 survivors.'

To Lieut. S. G. Frost, R.C.N.V.R. of Vancouver, the navigator, credit was given for good work in assisting the captain in handling the ship during the attack and while pickng up survivors in dangerous waters.

It threw everybody off balance, and some off their feet...then the depth charges started poppng off, a few moments later."

Bomber Raids

The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raid on Aachen was preceded the night before by an R.A.F. raid on Turin, Italian communications centre which could be used for shifting Axis reinforcements to the Sicilian battlefield.

Great Destruction.

The German communique in its version of the raid on Aachen said "British bomber formations last night made a heavy terror attack against Aachen. Great destruction was caused in the residential quarters of the city and in the old part of the town. Many public buildings and cultural monuments were destroyed. The Aachen Cathedral was hit. The population suffered heavy casualties. Twenty-one enemy bombers were downed over the city."

German raiders struck back sharply early today, attacking in waves and dive-bombing a city on the northeast coast of England. At least 12 persons were reported killed and many injured in the city, which was identified by the German radio as Hull. Several houses were demolished, trapping occupants under the debris, the air ministry announced.

Observers on the British southwest coast reported hundreds of American planes participated in the daylight attack, which provided a thunderous overtone to the French observance of Bastille Day.

The German radio acknowledged a considerable number of buildings had been destroyed in the raid on Aachen and reported a large number of civilian casualties.

The city, with a normal peacetime pouplation of 164,000, is situated about 39 miles southwest of Cologne. In addition to being a vital railway junction it is the site of important war industries and coal mining developments.

Jap Garrison At Munda Gets No Help

Japanese Assistance From Sea, Air And Ground Routed

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, July 14—(AP)—Green-clad United States troops, in frequent gunfire exchanges with the enemy, moved stealthily forward through New Georgia's jungles today upon Munda.

It might well mark the beginning of the end of that Japanese air base.

The enemy's garrison there appeared doomed to fight it out with what men and weapons were on hand.

Reinforcement by sea had failed. Remnants of a Japanese task force fled the disastrous scene of the Kula Gulf above Munda, leaving behind the sunken hulks of a cruiser and from three to five destroyers to add to nine others lost there a week ago.

Air Support Fails

Support by the Japanese air force failed. Yesterday 18 enemy dive-bombers, protected by 10 Zeros, came over bent on pounding Allied positions. The raiders never reached their objective. American fighting planes slashed into them at Langsdale Point on New Georgia. Four Zeros and one American plane, whose pilot parachuted to safety, were shot down. The bombers jettisoned their loads and fled.

Death rained daily on the garrison from swarms of American bombers. Yesterday 32 tons of bombs burst among encamped troops and upon anti-aircraft batteries.

Today's communique from Allied headquarters told of the annihilation of 150 Japanese trapped 10 miles northeast of Munda at Enogai Inlet. The heavy artillery and machine-guns this force manned in Munda's defence were seized.

Supply Depot Bombed

Vila, Munda's supply depot across the Kula Gulf on Kolom-Bangara island, took a new pounding from the skies.

Big American bombers ripped into the enemy's ballale airdrome, which is in the Shortland group above Kolombangara and within supporting range of Munda. Their 24 tons of bombs set it aflame.

In the jungle perimeter of defences before Munda itself, two strong points were knocked out by advancing jungle fighters despite stiffening resistance of the enemy.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 14 — (CP). — Wheat futures again pushed to new five-year tops on Tuesday as good buying by American account featured trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The May option hit a high of $1.13 a bushel— the highest point any wheat future has advanced since May, 1938. In that year the same future climbed to $1.16⅞.

Values at the close were ⅛-1 cent a bushel over the previous close.

United Kingdom interests were reported to have taken approximately 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for export.

Shippers and exporters purchased 750,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern and 1,000,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern in the cash wheat market.

driven ashore.

Aided by Warships

The pattern of the American advance on the western wing of the Allied front was punched out by the big guns of American warships which pounded enemy troop formations and tank columns behind Gela and in the Ponte Olivo and Porto Empedocle areas.

The Americans now held a line running nine miles inland to Naro, 15 miles northwest of their westernmost beachhead at Licata.

Ponte Olivo is nine miles inland from Gela, another of their beachheads, and Comiso is about six miles west of Ragusa, whose capture, reported yesterday, was confirmed by today's communique.

Rapidly laying a solid grip to Sicily's eastern coast, the British 8th Army moved upon Catania against continued weak enemy resistance.

The semi-circular Allied line stretching across southeastern Sicily was now secure at all points and a direct thrust by the British and Canadian forces into the Catania Plain appeared possibly without risk to their rear by an Axis counter-attack.

Heavily Bombarded

Catania airport, next objective, was heavily bombarded from the sea early yesterday morning, and formations of bombers paid another of their devastating visits yesterday, leaving their targets in flames.

Allied food for the civil population is being landed in Sicily, and headquarters said the fleet of 3,000 Allied warships and transports continued to pour men and supplies onto the beaches and into the captured ports despite efforts of the enemy to concentrate his submarine forces against the convoys.

The announcement said "countermeasures have been highly successful and disheartening to the enemy."

"Some thousands" of Axis prisoners had been taken, the communique said, among them the entire headquarters of the 206th Italian Division. It was reported this headquarters fell to Canadian troops. Capture of the division commander, Gen. D'Avet, was announced yesterday, and today's communique said this division has "been almost entirely eliminated."

Besides bombing Milo airfield at the western end of the island, Enna, important communications key in the centre of the island, and Catania, Allied air forces knocked out 160 trucks, 45 freight cars and six locomotives yesterday.

An Allied motor boat flotilla also successfully penetrated Messina Strait itself, the water neck between Sicily and the mainland, and engaged two enemy motor torpedo boats, setting them ablaze and driving them ashore. A third enemy torpedo boat escaped, however.

American warships poured shells into shore installations of the enemy in the western sector and gave valuable support to the advancing troops by shelling Axis troop formations and tank columns, the communique said.

Following the entry of Augusta harbor by British warships Monday afternoon, British troops entered the town early today, and the communique said Allied troops were going forward all along the front.

Thousands of prisoners have been captured, it was announced, and the 206th Italian Division has been almost entirely eliminated in the fighting. The capture of this division's commander, Gen. D'Avet, was announced yesterday, and today's communique said his entire headquarters had been captured as well.

Given Commission

LAKEFIELD, July 14—(ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Chester McCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard McCracken, and Mrs. Arthur Boyce attended the graduation of Robert McCracken at Uplands, Ottawa, on Friday. Along with his wings he received the commission of Pilot Officer.

MORE SOAP CONTROL

MANCHESTER, (CP). — Since soap rationing began there has been a big increase in the number of substitutes and soap savers, and Food Ministry tests show that some of them harm linen and silks and control will be extended.

1st Division Is Fighting In Sicilian War

LONDON, July 14 —(CP)—The Canadian 1st Division, which landed in Sicily last Saturday and now is fighting as part of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army, has had more than 3½ years of training experience.

The 1st Division is the veteran formation of the Canadian Army. It arrived in Britain in December, 1939, with Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton (then a major general) as divisional commander.

For security reasons it has not yet been announced which general officer commands the division in Sicily.

The division had been on the verge of action several times in earlier years of the war. Some of its units went to Scotland in the spring fo 1940, on their way to Norway, where they were scheduled to attack Trondheim.

But they were turned back before embarking when the British divisionary attacks further north scored initial successes. Shortly afterwards the Norwegian campaign collapsed.

In June, 1940, just before France fell, a brigade of the 1st Division crossed the Channel as part of a British plan to send a new expeditionary force to aid France. But the military situatio. had deteriorated there so rapidly that it was decided to recall the brigade, which had penetrated deeply into France without, however, meeting the enemy.

In 1941 the 1st Division provided the troops that occupied Spitsbergen, a task which was carried throughout without encountering the enemy. The Canadians destroyed military objectives on the island and returned to Britain.

Now the division is at last in full action after its long wait.

Gasoline Rationing

MASON CITY, Wash., July 14 — (AP). — Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gray looked out their window before breakfast, rubbed their eyes, and counted 19 little—and big—Indians, asleep on their porch. They aroused one who looked like he might be the chief. He pointed sleepily to several cars, evidently stalled, in front of the Gray home. "Gasoline rationing," he said.

Council Ends Tough Session By Raising Tax Rate 6 Mills

LAKEFIELD, July 14—(ENS)—Village councillors on Monday night went into a gloom session, and after a four-hour debate came out with a brand new headache for the citizens in the form of a six mill jump to a 45-mill tax rate for 1943.

With Reeve Gordon Scriver in the chair, the town fathers delved into an apparently unsatisfactory system during 1942, and it was midnight before the rate was agreed upon.

Councillor George Graham, backed by Councillor Fred Lawrence put up a losing battle to keep the levy down, principally on the issue of less road work. But Reeve Scriver vetoed this taking the attitude that keeping the roads up was an essential matter.

Not Properly Paid

"If the county rates and debentures had been paid last year, as they should have, we could have knocked three mills off this total," said Reeve Scriver. "Apparently the county rate has been paid a year in arrears instead of the year it is rated and we have been paying 5 per cent interest on this. This year we will pay this as it should be paid and will have to clean up the amount hanging over us from last year."

Last year the village spent $49,996.45 and received but $25,000 in taxes and another year will see a new load on the taxpayers as the assessment is due to be sliced again on the Canada Cement property.

It was at this point that the matter of assessment came up, and a heated argument ensued during which it was brought out that the office of one local firm with an approximate business of over $100,000 a year is assessed at only $200. And another plant once assessed at $10,000 has been sliced to around $2,000. Councillor Lawrence strongly favoured a new assessment by an outside man, and further action on this looms at a future date.

Money Needed

During the year an estimated $30,292 is required to run the village, with $9,958.65 still needed to carry on for the balance of this year.

The rates were set as follows on motion of Councillors George Graham and Fred Lawrence: General rate 19.6, public school 8.5, high school 7.7, county 7., debentures 1.15, library .7.

To Hold Dance

Clarence Coons and Howard Beavis as delegates for Lakefield Agricultural Society requested the usual grant and permission to hold a street dance during the last week of July with the right to shut one block of the main street for the occasion.

Councillor Lawrence suggested the dance be held on the tennis court in th epark but Mr. Beavis protested it was impossible with the condition of the court at present. Mr. Lawrence at this point stated he would like to see the present set-up of the society sold and the Fair transferred to the park, which could be developed into one of the most beautiful fair settings in the province.

Fifty dollars was granted the board and permission given for the dance, Reeve Scriver suggesting the Society officials notify the merchants as a matter of courtesy.

Bills Not Sent In

During discussion on the correspondence it was brought out that bills for 1941 and 1942 for money spent by the village on the highway had not been sent in to the county council. Imperial Oil Company claimed that an assessment of $1,800 on their former gas station lot, now vacant was too high. The council decided this will stand as it is for the present.

W. A. McQueen of Peterborough was authorized on motion of Councillors Graham and Lawrence to repair the roof of the Memorial Hall at price not to exceed $96. Handling of the matter to be left in Clerk E. H. Northey's hands.

Collects Dog Tax

Value of the new Chief of Police, Garnet Samis was demonstrated in the matter of dog taxes, over $275 being collected this year against $82 for 1942. This represents a clean sweep, only a matter of two or three still outstanding. Amusing incidents of the chief's tactics in collecting taxes according to the proper sex of the dogs gave the council many a chuckle.

A by-law regulating traffic, including the speed horses may approach a highway was passed. The chief was asked to enforce it.

Councillors Fred Lawrence, George Graham, George Charlton, Reeve G. S. Scriver and Clerk E. H. Northey were present, Councillor D. B. Millar being ill.

Form British-Soviet Trading Association

LONDON, July 14 — (CP). — British manufacturers and exporters took initial steps to-day toward formation of a British-Soviet Cooperative Trading Association to promote trade with the Soviet Union.

The association, which also would implement the 1942 Anglo-Soviet alliance calling for co-operation in the organization of post-war economic security in Europe, would consist of British manufacturers and exporters willing to produce and deliver goods to Russia at the lowest possible cost.

Their proposals have been forwarded to the Soviet Government.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Isabella Williams, four daughters, D. Carnochan of Oshawa, Mrs. L. Osborne, Lindsay, Mrs. E. Hazelwood, Hastings, and Mrs. George Linsdell, Toronto, and one son Arthur Lorenzo. at home. Surviving also are two sisters, two brothers, 14 grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

Pall-bearers were W. Northey of Lindsay, and David Deyell, Frank Brown, Percy Race, John Williams, and Thomas Rice, Omemee.

C.C.F. Meeting Is Held At Marmora

MARMORA, July 14—(ENS)—In support of the candidature of Douglas W. Bews of Belleville a meeting of the C. C. F. first of its kind to be held in Marmora, took place at the Town Hall on Tuesday.

Commencing with an audience of about twenty, about double that number were present as the candidate gave his address. George Wright of Belleville who opened the meeting and later introduced the candidate declared that the C. C. F. was informed in every respect because it appealed to those who were informal. It was accustomed to small beginnings but reverberatism came from these initial meetings.

Farmers And Labor

After touching upon the origin of the movement, he said that the C. C. F. was more than an economic theory. Co-operation was the basis of it. He concluded by reading an inlaging upon the test of the C. C. F. Farm program. In introducing Douglas W. Bews, he referred to his qualifications.

The candidate declared that the program of the party was for farmers and also for labor. The C. C. F. policy was drawn up in co-operation with the Federation of Agriculture and labor bodies. He said that the present labor policy of the Liberal Government while on C. C. F. lines was a little light.

Erucation

Mr. Bews saidhe was personally interested in education and felt that in the last 15 years the youth had been exposed to an education when they had not been able to put into effect. Education had been built upon the ability of the parent to pay, It should be on the ability of the child to learn he declared, the ability of every child to learn should be measured. He stated, he was not aware as to what the Liberal policy would be.

Col. Drew drew up his policy for the Conservative party last week. The main manifesto of the C. C. F. party was drawn up in 1933 and we have stayed with it. The Liberals and the Conservatives were thinking well of the C. C. F.

The Liberals have said that there were things advocated by the C. C. F. which they could adopt but could not afford to."

Lack Nerve

He intimated that they had not the political nerve to go through with such things. Mr. Drew, he said took the whole program of the C. C. F. in drawing up his twenty two points because he knew the C. C. F. have the public on the run. The C. C. F. believed in their elections being brought on.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Club Honors Salvationist Couple

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14 — (ENS) — Rotarians honoured Captain and Mrs. Alex. Turnbull at a gathering in the Salvation Army Citadel here on Monday evening. The occassion was featured by the presentation of a solid walnut occassional chair and mahogany coffee table the gift of fellow club members intended as a wedding present to the couple whose wedding took place recently in Toronto.

Captain Turnbull has been in charge of the local Salvation Army Corps for the past two years and has been a member of the Rotary Club since coming to this town. The presentation was made by Rotarioan H. N. Carr and President Stu Stuart presided for first time since his installation.

The program of the evening included a sing song for which Arnold Bates was at the piano; a violin solo by Mrs. Harry Fowlds and a vocal duet by Mrs. F. G. De Carrol and Mr. Francis DeCarrol. Captain Turnbull responded on behalf of his wife expressing thanks to the Rotarians and the evening closed with refreshments.

Port Hope Town Council Accepts Resignation Of Police Officer

PORT HOPE, July 14. (ENS)—Suspended by Chief of Police Gordon Hardy, the resignation of Constable Weatherup was accepted at a special meeting of the Town Council last night. Deputy Reeve Gene Saunders chairman of the Police Committee and Reeve J. L. Montcrief, also of the Police Committee, lost out when a vote of confidence was taken by the council. Councillor Austin was the only member of the committee to receive a majority vote of confidence.

Council then appointed Councillors Burri and McElroy to succeed Saunders and Montcrief on the Police Committee. At a special meeting of the Town Council last week to consider complaints filed by Chief Hardy against a constable on the force the council passed a resolution which referred the whole matter back to the chief with the suggestion that he lay charges if he saw fit against the constable.

When council convened last night it had a communication from Chief Hardy that he had suspended Constable Weatherup. The chief addressed the council at some length outlining some of the reasons why he suspended Constable Weatherup.

Deputy Reeve Saunders asked the Mayor who called the meeting and was informed that the Mayor and Councillors Burri McGillis, Austin, Jex and McElroy decided to call the meeting. "I am in favour of the Chief's action in suspending Constable Weatherup," declared Councillor Austin. "I am too," agreed Councillor McElroy. "If the council can't stand behind Chief there is not much use of having a Chief." Councillor Mitchell asked how long would suspension be in force and the Mayor replied that it depended upon what action the council took.

Deputy-Reeve Saunders reminded the council that at the meeting last week it had been unanimously decided to refer it back to the Chief and it was not advisable to wash dirty linen in the Council Chamber and have publicity about Port Hope spreading from coast to coast again. He asked if some of the Councillors were seeking publicity now or if they were sincere in calling this special m eting. The proper step would have been to let the Crown Attorney look into it and if the persons responsible were found guilty then suspend them he declared. Coun. Berri declared that the Council had been told by the Police Committee there weer things about the Chief which might result in a decision to fire him and the support of the Council to the committee was requested. The Deputy-Reeve had said that he considered charging the Chief with insubordination and disobedience, Councillor Burri recalled. He also stated that the Deputy-Reeve had accepted the explanation of Chief Hardy. "I did not accept this explanation claimed the Deputy-Reeve.

THERE'S a place actually waiting for you in the gallant band now flying and fighting in R.C.A.F. planes on many different fronts.

More men are urgently needed to increase the attack—to bomb and blast the enemy into unconditional surrender. So, whatever work you are now doing, don't let adventure and glory pass you by. It's your great chance.

A job, even in a war factory, is no longer as essential as fighting in the air. This is a call to every young Canadian who can make the grade.

Planes and Schools are Ready to Train You Quickly

You will be in Air Force uniform right away. No more delay getting into aircrew. Basic training begins at once. Skilled instructors are waiting. Fast planes are waiting.

If you are physically fit, mentally alert, over 17½ and not yet 33, you are eligible. You do not require a High School education.

Stamping Out U-Boat Menace

The carrier boys of this paper, who have achieved some celebrity for their work in selling War Savings Stamps, are now busy in a drive to sell these same Stamps for the specific purpose of sinking U-boats. So far as we know, this is the first drive to be made in Canada on behalf of a particular weapon, and we think that it should prove popular.

If you buy a dollar's worth of stamps, you are entitled to fill in you name on a sticker which is then attached to a large sheet. Ninety stickers fill a complete sheet, and these completed sheets are to be used for wrapping the depth-charges which will be sent to ships of the Canadian Navy which are on anti-U-boat service. The ninety dollars which the sheet represents is used to pay for the manufactur of the depth-charge.

Many people, we think, will be glad to pay for a ninetieth part (or more, for there is no restriction on the number of stickers you may buy) of a depth-charge. The one you help to pay for may be the very one which will sink a Nazi undersea craft. Every day ships of our Navy meet and struggle with U-boats and, more often than not, they are victorious. The submarine menace, which caused so much anxiety during the early days of the war, is now being greatly reduced, and if we can reduce it still further we shall have a mastery of the seas which will be as valuable to us as a successful land campaign.

The drive which is in progress for the purchase of depth charges is your personal opportunity to strike a blow at the U-boats. We hope that you will take advantage of it to send ammunition to our Navy.

Are We Free From England?

Elsewhere on this page we print a letter from a correspondent in North Dakota, who has written in the most friendly manner about Canada, and our relations with the U.S. Mr. Baska, we think, feels toward Canada as many of his countrymen do, and as a majority of Canadians feel toward our great neighbour. We deeply appreciate the generous spirit of his letter, and his thoughtfulness in writing it.

But there is one part of it which will surprise Canadian readers: in the last paragraph Mr. Baska suggests that we might feel that we could do better by asking England for a little more freedom than we have now. It is hard to think of any respect in which we could be more free, which lies in the power of England to give us. Many of our American friends have an idea that we are in some way obligated to the Mother Country—that there are matters of policy affecting us which are not in our own hands. As an autonomous member of the British Commonwealth we are entirely self-governing, and share nothing with Great Britain save allegiance to the Crown, which might be described as a mystical tie, maintained by faith and not by force.

It is a pity that so many of our neighbours have this misconception. The Empire, so far as Canada is concerned, is held together with invisible bonds. But the invisible and mystical ties always outlast the visible chains.

File This For Reference

The latest investigation conducted by the Gallup Poll shows that if the Ontario Provincial Election were to be held this week the Progressive Conservatives would have 37 per cent. of the votes, the Liberals 34 per cent., the C.C.F. 26 per cent., and the remaining candidates 3 per cent. We have given our opinion on the reliability of the Gallup Poll before, and we offer these findings for what they are worth. We think that many people will agree with them. In fairness to the Poll, it must be emphasized that this report applies to the present moment, and is not intended to predict an election result. Between now and August 4 opinion may change in many cases.

We suggest, however, that it may be interesting to preserve this record for comparison with the actual outcome of the election.

The Common Touch

Our present age is, above any other which history can show us, the Era of the Common Touch. The style of biography which became popular shortly after the last war had much to do in bringing this about. Having learned from Lytton Strachey that General Gordon drank heavily, that Florence Nightingale was a shrew, that Dr. Arnold was more pompous than wise and that Cardinal Manning was a climber, the public began eagerly to seek in contemporary leaders that touch of nature which is popularly supposed to make the whole world kin.

Many people in the public eye have indulged this not especially amiable weakness of the public, and have reaped the reward thereof. The current issue of Vogue contains a tender confession by the Duchess of Windsor that she makes the Duke use the soap which their guests leave half-used in their bathrooms. How thrilling, we cry, and as we soap ourselves with the nubbin left in the bathroom basin we feel a bond with the ex-monarch. And Mr. Bracken, the morning paper tells us, removed his coat at a meeting at Oshawa and then tied his braces around his waist to form a belt! Could anything more pungently convey the democracy of the man, especially as he confessed that he was used to holding up his pants with binder twine or fence wire!

The world is growing smaller, and we are all becoming much more intimate. Nobody knew what kept Mr. Meighen's pants up, and it may have been that which brought those sorry results at the polls. But Mr. Bracken has revealed his customary dependence on binder twine or fence wire, and perhaps in so doing he has won a million hearts.

Capitalism In Russia

We have been much impressed by a story which comes from Inter-Continent News, an agency which specializes in giving Russian news to the Communist Daily Worker. It tells of a farmer named Berdybekov, who is chairman of the Karl Marx Collective Farm in the Pahkta Aral district of Kazakhstan, and who recently bought war bonds to the amount of 1,037,000 rubles and paid for them in cash. Russian farmers are buying bonds in a most lavish manner, laying down sums ranging between thirty and over one hundred thousand rubles, the larger sums being subscribed by chairmen of collective farms.

In Comrade Berdybekov we have something which appears to many Canadians as an anomaly—a wealthy Communist. In 13 years as head of a collective farm he has acquired a cool million from somewhere. But for many years the Russians have been differentiating between workers of varying ability; they long ago outgrew the naive notion that all men are equal. A man is paid whatever he appears to be worth, and factory directors, expert farmers like Berdybekov and artists of the stamp of Shostakovitch receive salaries vastly greater than the ordinary run of workers.

Indeed, it looks as though Russia were developing a stratified society, with Communist Party members on top, as a ruling class and an aristocracy. In the army and navy strong distinctions are made between officers and men, and between rank and rank among the officers. A permanent diplomatic service has grown up, and, as we mentioned in these columns recently, it is shortly to have a handsome official dress. Farmers, we learn, are now permitted to own farms of their own, and to work them as well as their collective farms.

The more things change, the more they are the same, as the French proverb has it. If we wanted to indulge in a fanciful prediction of the future we might see Russia in a hundred years with a dynasty of Presidents, a class of professional courtiers and politicians, a dictatorship chosen from among the aristocracy (Party members) and a great landowning class, like Comrade Berdybekov. As for the workers, and the farmers who had little ability, we will draw a veil over their probable fate.

Men spend precious years and spill much blood in seeking equality, but when they get it they find it strangely unsatisfying, it seems.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Markova, the famous ballet dancer, is reported to have poisoned her heel. Her usual habit, of course, is to poise on her toes.

"The modern girl learns to dance in no time", says a newspaper writer. With these modern bands, that's the only time there is.

Only one person in 200, we read, reaches a height of six feet. But in time we all reach a depth of six feet.

"Laundries To Eliminate Frills", says a headline. As, for years, they have eliminated buttons.

The Consort Of Honest Abe

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

HENRY FORD once said that history was bunk—a somewhat extreme view but one which has its points. Certainly it is true that the notions of history possessed, and even cherished, by people who have made no careful study of that subject, tend to be wildly incorrect. Mankind has a strong desire to take sides in all matters, and to see the past in sharp contrasts of black and white, with the result that some historical characters are villains and other are heroes, and very few of them are flesh-and-blood at all. Take the case of the Lincolns, for example; Abraham Lincoln is deeply revered by millions of people today as a statesman, prophet and humanitarian who struggled against many hardships, including that of a vain, spiteful, half-crazy wife; the desire for contrast has played up all his good qualities and all her bad ones, and Mary Todd has gained an undeservedly bad reputation.

JUSTICE is done her in an excellent novel by Anne Colver called "Mr. Lincoln's Wife," which has just reached me from the Oxford Press. Anne Colver wrote an excellent novel about Aaron Burr's daughter Theodosia about two years ago, and the same skill and sympathy give distinction to her latest work. Skill and sympathy are certainly needed in dealing with Lincoln's wife, for she was worse than a wicked and designing woman—she was a dull and petty one. Hers was a small and withholding nature; she delighted in trifles and superficial things; she was a snob. These characteristics are common enough, and cause little remark in the wives of ordinary men; in the wives of great men they are calamitous. Mary Todd was a Southerner, a village grandee, and there can be little doubt that she thought she did Lincoln a considerable social favour by marrying him. It is not comfortable for a woman to discover that she has married a genius who could manage perfectly well without her, and that was Mary Todd's fate. And so she took the course which her stupid brain and her stupid upbringing counselled, and tried to make her husband attend to her by giving displays of temper, bossiness and snobbery.

POOR woman! Lincoln had no arts with which to tame such a front-parlour tyrant, and her extravagance and her silliness distressed him greatly. And of course his enemies seized upon every fresh stupidity of Mary's, exaggerated it, and turned it into a story against the President. It is doubtful if she ever had any realization of the stature of the man she had married; she struggled, ineffectually, to be a fitting consort to a President, but she was no wife for the man whom people knew as Honest Abe. Perhaps the instability of mind which led her to such wild extravagance after his death had some part in her embarrassing conduct. It is fruitless to guess on that point. But in this novel Anne Colver has set out the whole story, with justice and sympathy, and has revealed Mary as she truly was—a woman who could not face the fact that she had married far above her deserts.

THE same publishers have brought out a new volume in the "Rivers of America" series; this one deals with the Humboldt, that Nevada river of which an unknown poet wrote, "Meanest and muddiest, filthiest stream, most cordially I hate you." The Humboldt is not a pretty river, and its water is vile. Mark Twain tried to drink from it, but said it "was like drinking lye, and not weak lye, either." The last book in this series which I reviewed was Henry Beston's on the St. Lawrence; a river less like that noble and beneficent stream than the Humboldt could hardly be imagined. And yet the Humboldt was at one time the highroad to the American West. Dale L. Morgan, who has written this study of it, says: "This is the paradox of the Humboldt, that it was the most necessary river of America, and the most hated. Americans came this way to stand on the mountain passes and look far upon the Pacific; Americans came back. Emigrant and immigrant came this way, Mormon and miner and soldier, Pony Express and Overland Stage, cattleman and sheepman, highway and air line.... The Humboldt was a way, a means; few settled here until they had to, until greener lands were occupied."

THE story of the Humboldt, with its bitter alkiline waters and its mysterious Sink, is an interesting chapter in the history of man's determination to conquer nature, however determined she may be to thwart him. The name of the great natural scientist was given to this nauseous stream and the surrounding mountains by John Charles Fremont, for no readily explainable reason. But the Humboldt played a notable role in the development of the west coast of the U.S. Kit Carson knew it, and Brigham Young. Virginia City and Carson City owed much to it. Though long, it was too shallow even to support a canoe. And it was cursed by everybody, from the meanest adventurer to the great Horace Greeley. Its history is a remarkable tale of adventure.

Each Must Make A Revision

What of the future? The West must revise its ideas about the East. We in China must reciprocate. In the world society that we are going to create, there must be no thought of superiors and inferiors. We must be equal men and women of all ages, pressing forward to a great ideal.

East and West both have foolishly tried to be self-sufficient. Neither has succeeded nor could succeed. Each must acknowledge that the other has something to teach. We hope that the West has now learned the value to itself of China's spiritual strength which has sustained us in our darkest moments. We in China must learn the value to us of the scientific developments of the West. Let us, East and West, each in its own way, make unstinted contributions to the common treasury of cultural, spiritual, and scientific achievements which are the only real wealth....

I have three precious things which I hold fast and prize. The first is gentleness, the second is frugality, and the third is humility, which keeps me from putting myself before others. Be gentle, and you can be bold; be frugal, and you can be liberal; avoid putting yourself before others, and you can become a leader among men.—From "We Chinese Women," by Mayling Soong Chiang (Madame Chiang Kai-shek). Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 14 —(CP)—A cruise through notebooks accumulated during visits to various air stations and naval establishments, research with the army men and war correspondents, show conclusively that the Royal Canadian Air Force and navy are running a dead heat for the championship usage of slanguage, with the Canadian Army running a poor third.

It is difficult to tell exactly why this is, but the army gets along pretty well on what Jack Canuck and Tommy Atkins used in lieu of the English language during the First Great War, while the air force and navy slang is developing rapidly.

The airforce and navy combine quite a few slang terms. Possibly this is because of the liaison fleet air arm. Both refer to all things walking, flying or swimming as "types"—good or bad.

Both take "views" of everything. You take a "good view" of a new cannon or a new frigate or anything you like. On the other hand you take a "dim view" or "poor view" of anything you don't like.

A navy stoker may tell you he is extremely "nattered" by it all and is going immediately to "flake" himself out for a spot of biz. Translated that means that he is bored and is going to lie down and sleep.

He may have been "bottled" (bawled out) for doing the same thing before but he knows the "Jimmy" (first lieutenant) and his buffer (petty officer who carried out officers orders) are both ashore so he is safe.

In navy "slops" are stories, "bang upon" means correct and "beat up" means a party. A midshipman is a "snottie," a sub-lieutenant is "subbie" and when a buffer carries out an officer's punishment order, he is "tying on the can."

In addition to the navy's "nattered" for bored the air force's "browned off," and "cheesed up" are duplicated in naval slang by "teased up."

Troops on a ship are "ship's company," adrift is "absent without leave." "Pongos" are army men. "Mick" is a hammock and "tiddly clothes" are a man's best uniform.

The air force word for a bawling out is to have his "strip torn off." Anything free is "gash," and to be bored—in addition to terms given above—may be to be "bound up." A "nail-bender" is an unqualified tradesman. "Urk" is a ground crewman. "Prangadang" is worse than to "prang" which is to crack-up.

To be beaten badly in anything including the pursuit of a girl is to be "shot down in flames." To be shot down in combat is to "but it," or "go for Burton" or it may be described by saying simply "he's had it."

A "sprog" is a green pilot and he is always "hot off"—meaning fresh out of the training station.

"Jankers" is jail. "Ropey" is no good. "Flap" is high excitement and a big bomb is a "cookie." A "good box" is a direction finder, a "shaky do" is a dangerous operation, and "bogeys" are unidentified aircraft.

In all three of the services "pukka gen" is information and "guff gen" is a wrong steer or misinformation.

A list recording the slanguage in use could go on and on but the trouble with recording service slang is that it comes and goes with such rapidity it may be outdated before it can be set down for posterity.

Letter To The Editor

AMERICAN-CANADIAN FRIENDSHIP

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—One of your papers of Friday, June 25th, has been lying around the office here for several days. It was sent in here to some inmate. I thought I had read about everything in it till this morning I happened to glance down one page where the heading was "Letters to the Editor," and the first article I noticed was signed "W.J.T.," and the heading of it was "An Independent Canada." You know I read that several times and referred back to the heading as I always thought Canada was just about as independent as any country could be. We lived only a few miles from the line for many years and are not so far from it yet, and I always had a healthy respect for Canada, Canadians in general and especially their Government.

The last time I worked up there was mostly at Melita, Manitoba, under Roy Scott, who was foreman for the Manitoba Hydro-Electric construction; a finer fellow never lived than Roy Scott, a genuine Scotch-Irish-Canadian. I have worked for a lot of electric companies on this side of the line but never enjoyed a winter, 1930-31, any more than I did that one working under him up there. We had many long conversations and mild arguments about Canadian and American forms of government: good points and weaknesses of both. I am glad to see articles like this in any paper, American or Canadian, or either "Yank" or Canadian, as I cannot think of Canadians not being anything but the highest type of Americans. I notice this writer said, 'Our standard of living might be a shade lower than theirs." If it is I surely never noticed on any trip I ever made up there nor at any time during the months I worked up there that it was any lower. Canada has nothing to apologize for to anyone on that score.

One thing I would like to see through and I think would benefit both nations would be to take all tariffs off that border. Take every "boundary jumper" doing guard duty along that line and put him to some more useful occupation and do away with all custom offices and let everyone from both countries pass back and forth across that line the same as they do now in going from one state to the other down here. I don't like to see that line made so plain between people living the same, having the same kind of country and occupations, same habits and much the same system of doing business and I wonder if it doesn't sometimes bring up just a little resentment that shouldn't be there. I notice too this writer stated that Canada was one of he "great countries" and there can be no question about that. A young man in Canada today, in the western provinces anyway, has ten chances of success to every one he would have down here just across the line because of lower taxes, more government help, and more common sense in neighborhood and community spirit than there is down here.

I sincerely hope Canada will aways be a free and independent people and if they feel they can do better by asking England for just a little more freedom if that is possible than they have now I am sure there are plenty of level-headed patriotic leaders in Canada to see that the U.S. nor any other nation ever gets to the stage where they can dictate to them what they should do or how to run their government, and along with "God Save the King" that every English-born Canadian loves to sing now, may there also be that wish that "God Bless Canada" and always keep Canada and the "States" two great nations by the sea. Thanks again for that article and feel perfectly free to use any part of this that you might think worth while, and if I ever get over that way I will pay you a visit I'm sure, and if you should get down here be sure to call on us.—Most respectfully yours,

GEO. L. BASKA,
Plant Supt.
North Dakota State Penitentiary.

A large flustered woman, dragging a small boy, sailed through the station barrier and approached her waiting husband.

"Hullo," said the man. "You're late."

"Oh don't talk about it, Alf," replied his wife. "I never 'ad such a time! What with young Bill 'anging on me 'nd me 'anging on to the luggage-rack, the train 'ung up in a tunnel and you was 'anging about in the station for me, I was in a regular state of suspense."

A Bible Message

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the Lord your God....Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments: which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am the Lord. (Lev. 18: 1, 2, 5.)

I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify him with thanksgiving.... The humble shall see this, and be glad: and your heart shall live that seek God. (Ps. 69: 30, 32.)

And as for me, thou upholdest me in mine integrity, and settest me before thy face for ever. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. Amen, and Amen. (Ps. 41: 12, 13.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A young Scotsman went to the telegraph office one morning and wired a proposal of marriage to his sweetheart. After spending the entire day and part of the night waiting, he was finally rewarded by an affirmative reply.

"If I were you," suggested the operator who delivered the message, "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl who kept me waiting all day for an answer."

"Na, na," replied the young Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rate is the lass for me."

The Eighth Army's artillery barrage had been unusually heavy, and had been interspersed by visits of zooming planes, which machine-gunned the battered Axis lines mercilessly.

In the lull that followed, an Italian infantryman sat dejectedly on an empty gasoline can, his eyes fixed darkly upon the baked desert earth, his dust-smeared chin cupped in begrimed hands.

"What's the matter?" an officer asked. "Home-sick?"

"No, sir," came the prompt reply. "Not homesick. I'm heresick!"

Mr. Churchill Errs

United States correspondents have been pointing out, in the last day or two, that Prime Minister Churchill made a mistake in the last paragraph of his Guildhall speech Wednesday. He attributed the phrase "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" to the American Constitution. Actually, it is from the mighty sentence of Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Mr. Churchill's slip is a pleasant reminder, flattering and reassuring to us lesser mortals, that even Homer nods and that to err is human. But it must be said that a Churchillian error, however trivial, in the field of history, is a rare thing. Professor Gilbert Norwood, in the article we quoted yesterday, finds one of Mr. Churchill's greatest skills in "the old-fashioned allusions or slight quaintnesses whereby Mr. Churchill quietly brings before one's eye the perspective of civilization." Said Prof. Norwood:

"Besides a master of such restrained yet pungent urbanity, the usual war-orator who so lustily cry up Drake, Cromwell, Nelson and Wellington sound like professional guides in some storied mansion, compared with the elderly owner who walks beside one along the corridors, making brief allusion to this ancestor or that."

To carry out Professor Norwood's metaphor, we might infer from Mr. Churchill's lapse on Wednesday that he is less conversant with his ancestors of the distaff side.—Montreal Gazette.

HASTINGS

W.M.S. Gives Program On Japanese

HASTINGS, July 14—(ENS). — The W.M.S. of Trinity United Church, Hastings, motored to the home of Mrs. Metcalfe on Thursday afternoon to hold their regular meeting. The president, Mrs. Metcalfe, opened the meeting. It was decided to accept Mrs. Glover's invitation to hold their next meeting in August at the Glover cottage, Trent Bridge.

The program was handed over to the Mission Circle with the president, Mrs. Idon Bonds, Jr., in the chair. Mrs. Cecil Oliver gave the Bible lesson. The topic on the Japanese was given by Mrs. W. Hubbel, leader, assisted by Mrs. A. Orr, Mrs. Crall, Mrs. W. Dodd and Miss Marjorie Scriver. The members and guests were invited to the living-room where tables with white cloths and decorated with pink roses were set. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jack Stinson, Misses Clarine and Margaret Scriver, served a lunch.

W. A. Meets.

The Women's Association of St. Andre's Presbyterian Church held its regular meeting at the church on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Robert Greenly, presided. During the business part of the meeting it was decided to hold a quilting and pot-luck supper on Thursday, August 12. The ladies completed a quilt in the afternoon. There were 10 present.

Tea Production To Meet Needs

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP)—Sir David Meek, Indian Government Trade Commissioner at London, said in an interview here today that tea production in India this year would be adequate to meet all import quotas granted under the British Ministry of Food's tea allocation plan to Canada and other members of the United Nations.

Sir David, a member of the international tea committee who came to this continent as a delegate to the recent International Food Conference at Hot Springs, Va., will meet prices board and other Dominion government officials here.

HOMER COMING UP

YOU CAN TELL by the look in his eye that when Roger hits, he'll hit hard! And you ought to see him pitch into a bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes after the game. "Mom gives 'em to me whenever I ask," he says. "Just takes a half a minute and leaves no pots and pans for her to wash." Easy to digest, economical . . . voted first for flavour by 4 out of 5 Canadian housewives! Get Kellogg's tomorrow. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Miners To Return

NEW YORK, July 14 (CP)—The New York Times said today that early return of the United Mine Workers to the American Federation of Labor was foreseen in the announcement that the A.F.L. committee considering the U.M.W. application would meet in Washington on July 20.

Orange Lodge Attends Church

MILLBROOK, July 14 — (ENS) —Grace Presbyterian Church was filled to capacity on Sunday evening when a large tournout of the Orange Order for East Durham attended divine worship. The parade from the L. O. L. hall was headed by the Fallis Line fife and drum band, and following them looking most effective in their white dresses and hats came the 'Daughters of Cavan" L. O. B. A. about fifty strong; the Junior Lodges, and then the senior Orangemen, including the Royal Black Preceptory No. 645, completed the more than two hundred members of the Order who filled the centre pews of the church, and many of the side pews as well.

Past County Master, Jas. H. Paul, veteran member of the Orange Order for the County, now over eighty years of age, acted as Marshal, and two members of the L. O. B. A., Martha Belch and Vera Fallis, were standard bearers, and placing their flags with bronze-tipped standards, either side of the altar table. The basket of lovely flowers, within the altar, were given in loving memory of members of the Orange Association who had passed away within the year. Special music by the choir, with Mrs. Harold Hubbeard presiding at the organ, included a duet by Miss Eileen and Mr. V. R. Hunter and a selection immediately preceding the sermon. County Master, E. P. Sanders, of Port Hope, was among the officials from outside points attending the service.

Rev. Walter Patterson, minister of Grace church, after warmly welcoming the guests of the evening, delivered an impressive message from Galations 5:1: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made you free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage," emphasising the need of vigilance to manitain the liberty bought at a great price, and urging regular church attendance, Bible study, and prayer, in the individual life as necessary to live up to the obligations Orangeism imposes upon its members.

WESTWOOD

Women Discuss Churches Under Axis Rule

WESTWOOD, July 14 — (ENS). —Mrs. J. S. Sargent was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the members of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society, with the president, Mrs. J. Clysdale conducting the opening exercises.

In answer to the roll call, a verse of scripture including the word "hope" was given. The word chosen for August was "harvest."

It was reported that the bale had been packed during the past month with a quantity of good used clothing as requested. An invitation to hold the August meeting at Trent River at the summer home of Rev. and Mrs. Glover was appreciated.

The program in charge of Mrs. J. Sargent, included prayer by Mrs. Hugh Cameron and Bible reading by Mrs. W. Morris. Mrs. Scott gave a reading 'Heroic Helen Lung" and Mrs. E. Sargent a poem "Building for the Child who Follows." Mrs. Glover rendered a beautiful solo "I Come to Thee." A temperance reading was read by the secretary.

An interesting feature was a paper on "The Churches in Captivity Throughout Europe." Three ladies took part: Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge for Holland; Mrs. J. G. Manley for Germany and Miss Mary Cameron for Norway.

WILSON STOPS TRAINING CENTRE OUTFIT WITH 5-HIT PITCHING

Battery Team Wins 6-2 From Soldiers

Fourth Battery scrambled up the City League race Tuesday night when they shot down the Military Training Centre club 6 to 2 behind five-hit pitching by Dave Wilson. The win shoved Genelecs up to a first-place tie with Soldiers.

Biggest crowd of the season saw one of the best-played games of the campaign and as a result the Greek War Relief Fund benefitted to the extent of $55, the proceeds going to that worthy cause.

Dave Wilson, back from a honeymoon trip just in time to get into the ball game had the Indian sign on the Soldiers, allowing only five hits. Five different innings he only had to pitch to three batters and outside of sixth frame when they bunched three of their blows to score their two runs, he was master of the situation.

Jack Wilson, the little fireballer of the Soldiers was Manager Morgan's pitching choice but it was not his night. By the time he was finally yanked with two out in the fourth the Battery had banged out seven hits, drawn five passed and scored six runs. Johnnie Walker finished the game and handcuffed the winners completely, Tompkins' single in the eighth being the only hit off his delivery but his good relief pitching was wasted.

Joe Stewart had the individual fielding play of the game when he tore in at top speed and robbed Tony McIlveen of a single with a circus grab. Battery also featured with a smart double play, Vitarelli to Heal to Ellis.

Battery started off with a run in the second innings. Eddie Starr doubled over third. Ellis bounded to McKerrigan, Starr going to third. Vitarelli flied to McIlveen in left centre and Starr ran home after the catch. Tompkins doubled to right and Jones and Dave Wilson both walked, filling the bases. Heal rolled to Lenahan for the third out.

The winners came back with a counter in the third. Burton walked. Stewart flied to Parsons but Starr singled to left. Ellis popped to Morgan but Vitarelli singled to left, scoring Burton and sending Starr to third. Tompkins rolled to Lenahan.

The Gunners cinched the game and drove Wilson to the showers in the fourth. With one out Wilson and Heal walked and Burton dropped a single back of short to fill the bases. Joe Stewart laced a single through short, scoring Wilson and Heal and taking second on the throw to the plate. Starr flied to Parsons in centre, Burton scoring after the catch. Jim Ellis rapped a double to centre, scoring Stewart and Jack Wilson went out of the game. Walker succeeded him and got Vitarelli on a bounder to the box, retiring the side.

That was the end of the scoring for the Battery for Walker held them to one hit, a single by Honey Tompkins for the balance of the game.

Wilson blanked the Soldiers for the first five innings. They threatened in the first on McIlveen's double and a pass to Parsons but Wilson struck out Huck Herrick to end the opening.

The league leaders got their two runs in the sixth. Walker opened the inning with a line single to left. Dalton forced him at second on a bounder to Heal. McIlveen singled to centre, Dalton going to third and when Stewart threw past the difficult corner, the runner scored and McIlveen reached third. Mc Kerrigan singled to left sending McIlveen in but he was cut down by a fine throw by Les. Burton when he tried to stretch the rap into a double. Parsons popped to Vitarelli for the third out.

There was no more scoring. Wilson and Walker were ahead of the batters all the way and the game ended with the count the same.

Cardinals with a revamped team that threw a real scare into the camp of the Genelecs Monday night when they battled Ted Johnston's team all the way will swing into action again tonight when they clash with Manager Murph Chambers' Switch Gears. This will be a vital game for both clubs. Neither can lose many more games if they are to have a chance to get into the playoffs and both will be out there battling. Swith Gear have not been having much luck lately and they need a win to bolster up their standing while Cards of course have yet to break into the victory column and hope to do so on this occasion. The Cardinals will likely send Bill Anderson who pitched good ball against Genelecs until he lost control in the ninth in against the Swtich Gear while the latter will call upon Gene Reynolds or Bert Harrison to hold the tail-enders in check. It should be a lively tussle. The new life shown by the Cards indicates that they are no longer to be regarded as pushovers and they may spill the beans for one of the higher-up clubs before long. Switch Gear, too, are capable of better ball than they have shown in their last couple of starts and they are confident of coming back to form.

After the surprising comeback in the girls' loop Monday night when Johnson Motors after being buried 42 to 10 by the Brintons a few evenings before bobbed up with a fighting effort that saw them just nosed out 7 to 6 by the same club, it is evident that anything can happen in the league this season. That is why this column will make no attempt to predict the result of tonight's battle when Generals and Electrics do battle at the Bowl. All we will venture is the prophecy that this should be an exciting contest between two evenly matched clubs. There is keen rivalry between the two C.G.E. outfits and neither would ask anything better than a chance to wallop the other. All of which makes for a hard-fought game. Both managements are making sure of having the strongest possible battle array on the field and both are confident of a win. The game is schedued to start at 7 o'clock sharp.

The Babe Is Told Off

The Ottawa Citizen's sport columnist takes Babe Ruth to task for his real blast against baseball and we string along with the article. Babe seems to have been sounding off without stopping to think of the effect of his words upon the game that made him independently wealthy. Here is the article: "Ty Cobb, urging baseball to continue, yesterday fired a verbal blast in the general direction of Babe Ruth. The old Georgia Peach had everything in his favor when he went about answering a statement credited to the home run king. The wish probably was father to the thought with the Babe when he remarked that baseball not only would be on the shelf next summer but would be fortunate to survive this year. The Babe never lost his bitterness over the fact that he failed to wind up as a big league pilot after lifting the game to such heights. It would appear the diamond moguls could have found a place for a fellow with his color and prominence but the Bambino made it difficult for himself and the owners by refusing to start his managerial career in the minors."

* * * * * *

"Ruth will hardly win many friends either among the men who control the game or the folks who pay the shot at the gate with statements such as his most recent one," continues the Ottawa comment. "There is no telling just how far baseball or any other sport will go in these times but the diamond magnates are carrying on with greater returns at the gate than some expected. They are playing morning, afternoon, twilight and night games in order to give the industrial workers an opportunity to visit the ball parks and attendance figures have been good enough. The sport must afford some sort of recreation for the thousands who are turning out. The brand of ball undoubtedly is below the standard of other years. This, however, was to be expected with the DiMaggios, the Williams, the Greenbergs and all the other stars gone. So long as the pennant races remain fairly close and interesting, the turnstiles will sing a merry tune."

American Leaguers Win

The American League All-Stars triumped over the National Leaguers 5 to 3 last night and the game demonstrated beyond a doubt that Mort Cooper ace pitcher of the St. Louis Cards is allergic to the American League. Cooper was the losing pitcher last night as he was last season and of course he failed to win a game in the world series in 1942. Another feature was the evidence that the annual contest offered that the Yanks no longer dominate American League ball. For the first time in the history of the contest not a single New Yorker got into the ball game for the American League club. Manager Joe McCarthy even elected to play Bobby Doerr at second base instead of Joe Gordon and the Red Sox star justified the choice by socking a three-run homer off Mort Cooper in the second innings to win the ball game. There are a lot of folk and they are not all in Boston who rate Doerr higher than the Flash anytime. Vince DiMaggio with a homer, triple and single in three trips to the plate and Johnny VanderMeer with six strikeouts in three innings were the National League stars. The winning pitcher was Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators who started for the junior leaguers. Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox finished the game while the National Leaguers called on Johnny VanderMeer of the Reds, Tru Sewell of the Pirates and Al Javery of the Boston Braves, in addition to the luckless Mort Cooper.

The 4th Battery, playing steady ball behind fine pitching by Dave Wilson beat the Military Training Centre for the second time this season last night and tightened up the race so that only half a game separates the first four clubs. The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Soldiers	5	3	.625
Genelecs	5	3	.625
Combines	3	2	.600
Battery	4	3	.571
Switch Gear	2	3	.400
Cardinals	0	5	.000

Switch Gear and the Cards clash tonight and the former need a win to start climbing for a playoff berth. So of course do the Cardinals. Tomorrow night Soldiers play the Combines and Friday night the Switch Gear and Genelecs will tangle for the second time this season.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: When Dave Wilson held the Soldiers to two runs last night, that was the smallest total the Military Training Centre has put together this season..Only three Soldiers collected hits off the Battery pitcher....McIlveen and Walker got two each and the fifth was from the bat of McKerrigan....Howie Dalton got back into the game for Soldiers after a month's absence but injured his left arm again ....Eddie Starr picked up two more hits last night....The Battery backstop is leading the loop with the respectable average of .571, with 20 hits in 35 times at bat in seven games....Combines practice tonight at Central tonight at 7 p.m....Lex Robson of the Kawartha Club is one of the 30 entrants in the Millar Trophy tourney at Islington on Thursday.... He has already won the trophy six times....Vince DiMaggio must have been hitting for brothers Joe and Dominic last night when he smashed a homer, triple and single in three trips to the plate against American League pitching....Incidentally the All-Star game raised $65,174 to provide sporting equipment for service men....Nick Strincevich won his 11th game last night as the Leafs nosed out the Rochester Red Wings 3 to 2....They were trailing until the 8th 2 to 1 but came up with a sudden two-run rally in that frame to grab off the ball game....Newark Bears were beaten by Syracuse 4 to 0 so the Leafs gained a full game on the second-placers and now lead by 6½ games....Montreal Royals made eight errors in a game against the Buffalo Bisons last night and were swamped 11 to 3....Glen Moher won the blanket in the draw at the benefit game last night.

Cubs Grab Off 11-9 Victory

Cubs strengthened their hold on second place in C.S.L. last night by defeating the hustling Beavers at Memorial Park in a thrilling tussle 11 to 9. The Beavers were in front all the way till the sixth inning when the Cubs rallied to score four runs and cinch the game.

Shine and Garvey hooked up in a neat pitching due. After a very shaky start Garvey settled down and kept the Beavers under control from therein.

For the winners Bill Donoghue, C. O'Donoghue and F. O'Toole had two hits each. For the Beavers Mack Guerin was tops with two singles. Laton homered with one on.

Tonight the Cubs meet the league-leading St. Peter's squad in what should be the game of the season.

Beavers: Shine, p; Laton, c; Driscoll, rf; Sullivan, 2b; Guerin, 1b; Spencer, 3b; O'Heron, cf; Sullivan, ss; Rev. J. Walsh, lf.

Cubs: Donoghue, 3b; O'Toole, c; Garvey, p; O'Donoghue, cf; Crowe, rf; Fitzgerald, lf; Spencer, 2b; Kennedy, 1b.

Umpires: B. Murphy, plate; J. Garvey, bases.

LAWN BOWLING

Judging by the way the ladies played their schedule games last evening, it looks to use if they were in great form for their tournament held this afternoon and evening. All of the scheduled games were close and interesting and some mighty good bowling was seen by the onlookers.

In the men's section H. Darling's rink put on the fireworks. After trailing all through the game and was three down coming home, he slips over a big four and wins out from F. Kerr.

We're not sure, but after last night's games we believe there are four or five rinks now tied for first honors. However from now on it is going to be worth while watching the games played in Group No. 2.

And if you are interested in lawn bowling slip out to the greens tonight and see the ladies playing their annual tournament. Some of the best lady bowlers in this district will be there.

It will be men's rinks on Friday night.

Brooklyn Bums Bow To Cincinnati Reds

A low down wail was heard all over the country when Brooklyn, those lovable bums, bowed to the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 0, in a twilight game in Brooklyn, N.Y. Thus they dropped a full game behind the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League standing. Here we see Tipton, Red fielder, as he kicks the dust at home plate scoring from second, on a passed ball. Johnny Allen, Dodger pitcher, covers the home plate.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

The two new stars of the trotting-horse world, Attorney and Good Bye, renewed their duel in the $5,100 Geers Stake on the Grand Circuit program at Cleveland yesterday, and Attorney went one up on his archrival.

The crack two-year-old son of Volomite had no trouble as Art Blackwell drove him to his second triumph of the season for the Wilcko farms of Logansport, Ind. Attorney scored two firsts and Good Bye placed twice.

On the same program the Hambletonian threat, Worthy Boy, owned b. Mrs. James Johnson of Rochester, Mich., and driven by Sep Palin himself, coasted to a straight-heat triumph in the $1,000 Peninsula Farm Stake.

The meeting at North Randall Park produced the biggest daily double of the new trotting season—$678 for $2. It went to bettors who coupled the 3-1 Princess Abbey with the 23-2 Gypsy Guy, winners of the first heats of the 2.20 class and 2.21 class respectively.

AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAM WINS ALL-STAR GAME BY SCORE 5 TO 3

Toronto Team Goes Hitless For 6 Innings

By The Associated Press.

The first place Toronto Maple Leafs went hitless for six innings against Rochester in the International League last night, but the pace-setters still came up with a 3-2 triumph by bunching four hits in the eighth.

Kemp Wicker, starting Rochester twirler, gave up a run on two hits in the first inning, then pitched no-hit ball until the eighth when the Leafs knocked him out by loading the bases on three hits. Blix Donnelly came in, but Al Letchas singled to score Lee Gamble and Frank Zak with the tying and winning run. The Wings had taken a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth when Joe King scored after four consecutive singles. Nick Strincevich, lifted for a pinchitter in the eighth, was credited with his 11th win of the season.

Montreal Beaten.

With Catcher Otto Denning sparking the attack with four hits, including a three-bagger, in five times at bat, Buffalo pounded out 15 hits to swamp Montreal, 11-3. Mayo Smith went three for five as Floyd Giebel had little trouble pitching his seventh triumph.

Millard Howell was touched for eighth hits and issued seven walks, but he nevertheless shutout Newark Bears, 4-0, for Syracuse Chiefs. Howell was tough in the pinches leaving 14 men stranded.

Although Jim Honochick slammed out six hits, including a double and three triples, and Bobby Repass homered in each game, Baltimore Orioles had to be content with a split of a doubleheader with Jersey City.

Baltimore took the opener, 8-3, and Jersey City the night-cap, 8-7. Manager Leo Hartnett, of the Little Giants, was chased in the second game for arguing over Lefty Swift's motion to first base.

Game Will Wait

Former New York state golf champion, Margaret Ann Delahant of Albany, N.Y., now is in training at the Women's Army Corps' centre at Fort Devens, Massachusetts. She does find time to brush up on her game, however, which is what she was doing when this picture was taken.

Didn't Need Yankees

Philadelphia, July 14 (AP)

IN the dressing room after the All-Star game in which the American League beat the Nationals 5-3 last night Marse Joe McCarthy said "this is getting to be like a world series." He was reminded he didn't start any Yankee players. "We got ahead, and I didn't need them," he retorted.

Joe McCarthy Didn't Use Single Yankee

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, July 14—(AP)—Like the guy who doesn't need money because he has a $1,000,000 in the bank, the American League finally has proved it doesn't need the Yankees—as long as it can do the Bombers' tricks with a bat.

While Manager Joe McCarthy didn't use a single member of his Bomber brigade in knocking off the National Leaguers 5-3 last night in the 11th edition of the All-Star slugging party, the way it happened made you look quick to be sure it wasn't a Yankee putting on the crusher.

But this time it was Robert Pershing Doerr, who has been playing a lot of infield for the Boston Red Sox. The Nationals went out in front with a run in the first inning and were just bouncing along behind Mort Cooper.

Then, in the second, before the 31,938 cash customers knew what was cooking, it was the old Yankee story dressed up in a Red Sox suit.

A Fatal Second

Mort's fireball lost its control for just a couple of minutes and he walked Chet Laabs, St. Louis Brownies' nimble flychaser, and Jake Early, Washington's catcher.

Then up stepped Robert Pershing. Mort slid a curve ball off the finger he'd blistered a few hours before showing how not to light a cigaret. Bobby aimed it at the left field stands.

That was your ball game. The Americans simply ambled to their eighth win in the 11 all-star games.

Looked Like A Hitter

For, in the third chapter, a pair of pounding doubles, produced another run. The only guy among the 20 National Leaguers in the game who looked like a hitter was Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburgh Pirates. He got into the game in the third inning and promptly poked a single into left. In the seventh, he tripled and came home on Dixie Walker's pinch fly. And in the ninth, he hit what was easily the hardest ball of the night, a wallop that landed well into the upper stands in left field.

Of course, there was a lot more going on during the proceedings. For instance Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds, was called on to take over for Cooper in the third with one run in, one on and one out, and he proceeded to fan Rudy York and Laabs to end that inning. From there, he fanned four more in the next two frames and wound up with a total of 11 strikeouts for his two All-Star elbowing appearances, thereby equalling Carl Hubbell's record.

It was a convincing American League victory. The National League backers had only one real turn to howl. This was in the first innings, after the boys got over their surprise at McCarthy's selection of Dutch Leonard, the old Washington knuckleballer, to start serving 'em up for the American Leaguers. Those two All-Star old-timers, Chicago's Stan Hack and Brooklyn's Billy Herman, started it off with consecutive singles. Stan Musial then hoisted a fly to centre and the Nationals had a run.

Trapped—Eric Tipton Tagged Out By Billy Herman

Eric Tipton, Cincinnati Reds' outfielder, making a stumbling effort to get back to second base in the second inning of the game against Brooklyn at New York, only to be tagged out by Billy Herman of the Dodgers, who is shown receiving the throw from Shortstop Barkley, LEFT, who took part in the rundown. Tipton had hit a two-run single and in attempting to make third base on the play, was run down.

Cleveland Fans Seeking N.H.L. Franchise

SASKATOON, July 14 — (CP).—Cleveland Barons are willing to accept a National Hockey League franchise for the 1943-44 season, but first must obtain approval of the N.H.L. and then they must obtain the consent of the American Hockey League, said Al Sutphin, Barons' owner, in an interview here last night.

Sutphin is making a tour of Western Canada.

Sutphin said the Barons' application wil be dealt with by the N.H.L. governors at a meeting in Toronto within the next two weeks, then he will present his case to the A.H.L. a few weeks later.

The Cleveland owner emphasized that the Barons will not take an approves of their action.

Freddy Fitzsimmons of Brooklyn Dodgers hurled his 200th victory in 16 years in the major leagues, shutting out Pittsburg Pirates 2-0 three years ago today. Only other pitcher still in the big leagues who has won 200 is Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants.

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — Lieut. Dick Haughian, former coach and star player with Calgary Bronks in the western Interprovincial Football Union, visualizes a post-war grid set-up in which clubs would have their own planes for inter-city transportation.

Dick is now sationed in Vancouver with the Canadian Army. A product of the United States gridiron, he came to Canada from Santa Clara University in California. His post-war football ideas were expressed in an interview with Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell.

Haughin approves the idea of team travel by air. There would be no necessity for leaving until just a few hours before the game. Coaching problems, such as a change in drinking water, would be overcome.

"But there would be other headaches," said Haughian. "Some of the guys might not want to travel by air. What do you do then? Send them on ahead by train and leave them to do as they want in a strange city?"

Haughian says football teams of the future will have to operate 'on the same lavish scale as the Winnipeg Blue Bombers." In his view, football clubs will have to bid against professional outfits for services of high-class playing talent.

"Not a nickel:"

Before the war Bill Stoneham edited the Western Canada hockey Guide—a hobby which grew from his newspaper job in Saskatoon. Last winter, Wing Cmdr. D. W. Stoneham, Bill ran the R C. A. F. hockey program from Ottawa. Now he has been transferred to Toronto and he was induced to comment: "not a single R. C. A. F. boy received a nickel extra for playing hockey last winter and no one's training was interrupted because he was a hockey player. That's the way it will be next winter."

Incidentally:

Latest candidate hoping to promote a Canadian lightweight title bout between LAC Dave Castilloux and Pte. John Grego is the Victory Branch No. 88 Canadian Legion, in Montreal. The club figures the proceeds would help it purchase new quarters .... Castilloux has a new reason to fight. It's a daughter, born Friday, and Dave figures a fight purse would help .... Commenting on enlistment of Lynn Patrick, New York Rangers hockey star, Bazz O'Meara of the Montreal Star recalls Patrick's rise to the National League was remarkable since Lynn was never on skates between his 12th and 19th birthdays.

PHILALELPHIA, July 14. —(AP)—"When you have two men on and someone hits a home run, the damage is done." remarked Billy Southworth, manager of St. Louis Cardinals and the National League All-Stars.... and that just about sums up last night's game in which the National Leaguers took their customary shellacking from the American Leaguers.... Things looked quite rosy for the senior circuit until Mort Cooper walked a couple of guys in the second and along came Bobby (The Swnging) Doerr and boom .... Then the ball game was practically over .... But just to show you what optimists these baseball players are, the losers came into the dressing room talking about how hard Bill Herman hit a liner in the ninth and what might have happened if it had been a few feet higher.

Quote, unquote.

More from Southworth, "this isn't like a World Series. Seems like we ought to have a few more games. I'm just getting warmed up." .... and, discussing his decision to Yank Mort Cooper off the hill before his three-inning stunt: "I'm glad it was one of my own men I felt more free to take him out" .... Joe McCarthy, who wasn't especially jubilant about getting square with Southworth for what happened last Fall in the World Series: "Dont bother me. I've got to dress and catch a train."

Shibe Park shivaree:

Before last night's game someone automatically asked: Who's pitching for the Yankees?" .... But there wasn't a Yankee in the ball game for the first time in All-Star history .... It looked strange to see Bill Dickey out there catching while Al Schacht was putting on his impersonations of famous pitchers. He usually has a more important job.

Drew Advocates Higher Pay For Teachers

TORONTO, July 14—Recalling that the present Premier of Ontario in 1939 had referred to "the staggering salaries paid to the Toronto teaching staff," Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew last night declared in a radio broadcast specially directed to women that Ontario teachers generally have been woefully underpaid and must be placed on a basis which will attract the best brains to that vocation.

Good schools are democracy's first line of defense, Mr. Drew said, and the future of Canada depends on the education of youth, who must acquire the same ideals of citizenship that burn in the minds and hearts of the young Canadians now driving forward in battle array across Sicily. Hitler created a nation of barbarians by seizing control of the school system; Canada could create the highest conception of citizenship by concentrating education along the lines of true, Christian democracy, he declared.

Seen Best Security

No planning for social security, reduced to arithmetic and dollars and cents, can ever replace the security with which a child goes forward into life with a sound, healthy mind in a sound, healthy body, said Mr. Drew. But, just as the strength of the nation will depend on the teaching in the home, church and school, it was important to realize that the State must not interfere in the teaching at home and in the church, said Mr. Drew, yet must recognize its duty to see that education in the schools was directed toward building a nation of people ready to meet the tasks of life, and understanding the duties of citizenship and their relation to the form of government by which they rule themselves.

In revising the educational system so every child will have an equal opportunity, no matter what the financial circumstances of the parents, the Progressive Conservatives' first step would be to raise the status of the teachers who play such a vital role in moulding youthful minds, said Mr. Drew. Teaching must be placed on a basis that would attract the best brains and give a feeling of pride and security in the vocation, to keep before the public and the teachers themselves their high responsibility in each community. The second step would be to see that vocational training might truly be vocational training and that children at school learn how to make a living. Too often children of the farmers learned at school that some other occupation looked more attractive and were not taught that the great basic industry from which had come the best citizens in all free communities was a high and worthy calling.

Would Stress Loyalty

Of vital importance, too, Mr. Drew said, was to teach an understanding of the principles of democracy, the Constitution and the methods of Government within it. Weaknesses within the democracies could be traced to failure to accomplish this objective. How, he asked, was it possible for people to govern themselves if they did not understand the methods of government? And children must be taught the advantages of British partnership and of the material as well as spiritual advantage of the British connection, especially in these days of loose talk about that connection.

Turning then to health, the Progressive-Conservative Leader pointed out that the great basis for a health program tied closely to a sound educational system, inasmuch as health started with the child and necessitated close co-operation with educational authorities.

Referring to comments on his proposals to free municipal taxpayers of half the burden of school costs, Mr. Drew said he could not understand such criticism because Britain, Australia and other countries of the the Commonwealth had achieved such a state. Economies could be readily effected in other lines which would provide the idea questioned an ability to raise $20,000,000 yet praised a still undefined social security proposal which would cost hundreds of millions.

Tank Battle

face a desperate Axis counter-attack designed to protect the inland supply lines..

Likely spots for a showdown battle, in which armor would play a leading role, are the plain of Catania, which lies before the British on their northward march toward Messina, and the plain of Licata on the southern coast of Italy in the path of the American troops.

There has been little mention of tank activity in dispatches from Sicily thus far, although the Berlin radio has reported the Germans using 60-ton Tigers in counter-attacks. Rough terrain and the absence of roads in the areas already traversed apparently account for the Allied failure to make much use of heavy equipment brought ashore.

Canadian troops, holding the centre of the line, brought along at least one tank formation—a Quebec regiment. The unit apparently played a minor role in the landing operations, indicating to observers a revision in tactics since the Dieppe raid when the light Churchill tanks bogged down on the pebbled beaches of France.

Speedy Knockout Blow

There is little question in the minds of observers that the Allies will aim for a speedy knockout blow by throwing their heaviest strength at the Axis defenders as soon as the time is propitious. Allied strategy apparently calls for the cutting of the island's inner lines of communication isolating the scattered garrisons.

Air power has already cut the seaborne lines with the exception of the two-mile strait separating Messina from the Italian mainland and the Allies believe that if the roads and rails fanning out across the island from Messina can be cut the island fortress can be reduced in comparatively short time.

Augusta, important port about 20 miles south of Catania, fell to General Sir. Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army yesterday. Additional sea-borne British troops, meanwhile, swarmed ashore near Catania as the main forces of the 8th Army pressed on northward against that second largest city on the island, which lies 55 miles south of Messina.

(The London radio quoted Italian sources as "admitting that Allied ships are now in the roadsteads at Catania.")

The size of the German forces barring Montgomery's drive, presumably between Catania and Messina, was not estimated, but the Germans and Italians are known to have large reserve concentrations on the island which have not yet been thrown against the Allied invaders.

(The full strength of Axis forces in Sicily has been variously estimated at from 144,200 to 250,000 men).

(The Algiers radio in a broadcast recorded by Reuters said last night that British and Canadian forces already had contact with strong German elements —after the capture of Florida, interior town eight miles west of Syracuse, and that "heavy fighting took place.")

It was stated officially Canadians and British troops had met some resistence in their drive inland and up the east coast, but the statement added "good progress is being made.'

(The Berlin radio said " a more dangerous phase for the attackers" had begun and that "German and Italian measures for the annihilation of the landed enemy units are now in full swing.' Italian propaganda broadcasts said that Axis troops entrenched in prepared positions back from the coast would have an advantage in the approaching battles.

Canadian forces, which made their initial landings at Pachino on the south-eastern tip of Sicily and pushed on 20 miles inland to join forces with the Americans at Ragus, also captured Modica, 10 miles north-west of Ispica.

"Town after town is surrendering" to the Canadian forces, said Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent accompanying them.

Casualties Are Light.

"The lack of determined resistance is surprising even to the divisional staff," he said. "The infantry is advancing with incredible speed and it's practically impossible to keep in touch with their moves." He said also that casualties were still at a minimum.

William Stewart, another Canadian Press correspondent, said Canadian landing operation casualties are extremely light and insignificant compared with the losses in last August's Dieppe operation.

In an order of the day to the Canadian troops before they went ashore, the commanding general—who has yet to be identified—told them, "No formation going into its first battle has been more thoroughly prepared."

Messages to the troops were also heard from Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, and from Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham, Allied naval commander in the Middle East.

The message from Gen. McNaughton, saying Canadians "will have an opportunity of striking a great blow in the just cause we serve," indicated the Canadian Commander was not himself in Sicily.

Admiral Cunningham said success of the Sicilian operation means the opening of the second front.

Meanwhile, Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's American 7th Army tenaciously extended its 60-mile front in southern Sicily reaching from Licata on the west to Ragusa on the east, and continued to pin back German and Italian forces which, by moving eastward, could threaten Montgomery's left flank.

Repulse Heaviest Attacks

The Americans have repulsed the heaviest repeated enemy counter-attacks of the campaign, maintaining the vital left sector of the Allided with the Americans for the thrusts by French-made tanks and other armored units.

The crack Hermann Goering division was beaten off when it collided dith the Americans for the first time Sunday, but the Germans were believed to be reforming for another slash.

Gen. Patton's forces yesterday swept 20 miles inland to meet British and Canadian forces at Ragusa and form a solid front throughout southeastern Sicily.

Altogether, the Allies captured five additional towns yesterday to bring the invasion total to 15 and brought in more Axis captives.

(Munro in a dispatch from Sicily dated July 12, said Canadians alone had taken some 1,000 prisoners.)

No Attacks On Vessels

Allied naval forces maintained their stranglehold on the seas around Sicily which has been so effective that there have been no reports of attacks on British and American vessels by enemy surface craft in four days.

(Although Ottawa reported earlier there were no Royal Canadian ships taking part in the Sicilian campaign, a Canadian Press London dispatch last night indicated there were probably many Royal Canadian officers and men, trained in just such amphibious operations, taking part in the campaign.)

German and Italian planes continued their sporadic harassment of the Allied armada of 3,000 warships and merchantment — the greatest invasion fleet assembled in world history—but R.A.F. and American fighter planes, together with thunderous anti-aircraft fire from the fleets, have kept losses from air attacks at an amazing minimum. The great armada has been shuttling back and forth between Tunisia and Sicily to swell the powerful Allied striking force and to bring food for Sicilian civilians.

Inquest For Child

ST. GEORGE, N.B., July 14 —(CP).—An inquest into the death of Barbara Seeley, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Seeley, whose bruised body was found Sunday in a clump of bushes a short distance from her home, probably will be held later in the week, it was learned here last night. Meanwhile Royal Canadian Mounted Police are continuing an investigation.

Cabinet Post For Woman

KINGSTON, July 14—(Special).—Ontario may have a woman member of the Provincial Cabinet after August 4—if the Nixon forces win.

Speaking to Kingston Liberals in Memorial Hall last night, Premier Harry Nixon promised that if eastern Ontario does its part and returns Liberals, he would be only too glad to give this section Cabinet representation.

Mrs. George Fulford is Liberal candidate for Leeds, and she introduced the Premier.

The Premier recalled what happened when Colin Campbell, now a lieutenant-colonel, resigned his Federal seat and ran Provincially for Addington.

"It was announced that Mr. Campbell would be given Cabinet rank," said Mr. Nixon. "And what happened? He was defeated. So I won't mention any name for fear that those who don't want Eastern Ontario given Cabinet representation might centre their attentions on her or him."

Mrs. Fulford looked startled when the Premier said: "On her," and then quickly smiled.

Cost Of Drew Proposals

It would cost the Province over 100 millions to put into effect the pledges made by Opposition Leader George Drew in his 22-point platform, Premier Nixon told his audience. This money could not be raised under existing circumstances, he declared.

"When our enemies are still in possession of huge areas of conquered country in Europe and elsewhere, it is a poor time to be promising Utopia for our people," said Mr. Nixon. "Winston Churchill in a broadcast urged members of Legislative bodies not to make promises that might divert attention from the grim task at hand, but he did urge them to make plans and preparation for the period after the war."

Turning to the proxy vote, Mr. Nixon saw in the Canadian spearhead against Sicily a vindication of the proxy system, for it would have been impossible to carry out a direct vote under actual war conditions, he asserted.

"It is absurd to say a direct vote could have been taken," he said. "I don't know what would happen to an Ontario election official who, armed with a ballot box, stepped on Sicily's shores and started trying to get tballots from the Ontario fighting men."

Mr. Drew's pledges to co-opera with Ottawa drew from Mr. Nixon the observation that "Ottawa doesn't seem to care for his brand of co-operation." The Bren gun and Hong Kong inquiries were cited by the Premier as examples of "destructive, embarrassing criticism." He believed Ottawa preferred the type of co-operation now being given by Queen's Park.

"I have it on the authority of a responsible Minister at Ottawa that Mr. Drew's Bren gun inquiry set back Canada's war effort," Mr. Nixon declared.

The labor legislation passed at the recent House session was held up by Mr. Nixon as a model of its kind. "With a labor court now in operation, there should be no excuse whatever for costly strikes which disrupt the war effort," he said. The labor legislation would be given an honest trial and most likely wou. have to be amended from time to time in the light of experience.

The HEIR APPARENT

MEET THE HEIR APPARENT to the thrilling new world of tomorrow . . . the world he will help to build.

Already he's learning to stand on his own feet, a young man with ideas; self-reliant, courageous, ready to carve out a future by his own personal efforts.

Many of these young men of tomorrow — future leaders — already have accounts of their own at the Royal Bank. They have spare-time jobs, work hard and save some of their money for the day when opportunity will beckon. Theirs is the spirit that has made this country great. It is the spirit that will build a Canada worthy of her future.

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE?
It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march . . .

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

Notice to Certain Employers and Employees

Notice is hereby given that men now employed in certain specified lines of civilian employment must report for interview not later than July 15th, 1943, to an Employment and Selective Service Office. This refers to men who are in age and marital classes already designated under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, and also to men who are 16 to 18 years old (both ages inclusive).

A. Objective:

This Third Order makes available for essential employments the services of men in age and marital classes designated as callable for Military Training under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations and also all men from 16 to 18 years of age (both ages inclusive) who are presently employed in the non-essential employments now specified.

B. EMPLOYMENTS COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

Men, of the specified categories, are covered if now employed in any of the following:

(1) Any wholesale activity not here listed: farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste. (2) Raising of special livestock, such as race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets. (3) Flower growing. (4) Horticultural services, except tree surgery. (5) Leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning. (6) Brewing. (7) Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture;, (h) rattan and willow-wares; (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

C. AGE AND MARITAL CLASSES OF MEN COVERED BY THIS ORDER:

(a) Every man born in any year from 1917 to 1927 (inclusive) who has reached 16 years of age.

(b) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, at July 15th, 1940, was: (i) unmarried; or (ii) divorced or judicially separated; or (iii) a widower without child or children.

(c) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who has, since July 15, 1940, become a widower without child or children now living.

(d) Every man born from 1902 to 1916 (inclusive) who, since July 15, 1940, has been divorced or judicially separated.

Note: Attention is called to the inclusion in this Order of men 16, 17 and 18 years old.

D. Procedure to be Followed:

All men as defined above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 15th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

E. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYEES:

When directed to accept employment, subsequent to the interview referred to, men described in Paragraphs B and C above are required by the Regulations to follow the direction given.

F. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS:

It will be illegal for an employer to retain in his employ after July 15th, 1943, any men referred to in Paragraph C above, at any of the employments set forth in Paragraph B above, unless a special permit has been obtained from a National Selective Service Officer, permitting such action.

G. Transportation:

Special provisions will be made for the transportation of men moved to work at a new place of residence.

H. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees within 7 days of receiving such direction.

I. Penalties in Case of Employers:

Penalties are provided for any employer who retains in, or takes into, his employ after July 15th, 1943, any man covered by the Order, except under special permit.

J. Penalties in Case of Employees:

Penalties are provided for failure on the part of any employed man affected to register under this Order, or to follow a subsequent direction to employment, and in addition to other penalties, refusal to comply renders a man liable to compulsory labour service in an Alternative Service Work Camp.

K. Special Request to Employers:

Each Employer with three or more men covered by this Order in his employ is requested to co-operate by getting in touch with the Employment and Selective Service Office, to arrange a time for the interviews of his employees.

L. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).

M. This Third Order is Additional to First and Second Orders:

Employments listed in Paragraph B above, to be reviewed under this Third Order, are additional to the employments listed in the First and Second Orders. The First Order required compliance by May 19th, and the Second Order by June 15th, 1943.

Men referred to above must present documents at the employment office, indicating compliance with Mobilization Regulations.

Any employer or employee in doubt in regard to the application of the First, Second or Third Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders, should communicate with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

20-Pound Muskie Caught In Trent

It took nearly an hour and a quarter for Walter Sutton who is seen holding this fish, to bring it in. Caught on a jointed pikie minnow at Lock 13 on the Trent River immediately north of Campbellford, the muskie tipped the scales at twenty pounds.

Milkweed Crop Promising To Dr. H. A. Senn

Peterborough district's seventy fields of milkweed are "doing well", according to observations and estimate of Dr. H. A. Senn, economic botanist of the Central Experimental Farms, Ottawa who spent Monday and Tuesday in a broad circuit of the county and neighboring Cavan and Emily looking over many of the lots that are under federal government contract.

Considering the late sowing and the lack of knowledge in the planting of the seed collected from natural sources, Dr. Senn said the present results are excedingly good. Farmers are doing what is expected of them. Some of them are encountering more grass than others, a condition that will require additional scuffling to keep the fields clean.

Incidentally, F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, told the Examiner today that cheques totalling $14,226.75, half the contract payment for this year, have been written, and will be distributed as soon as they are signed by federal and provincial authorities.

Another incidental fact is that this is the only milkweed plantation grown "in captivity." Nowhere else has it been attempted. The experiment was undertaken in this area because of its peculiar soil content, and at the request of the Department of Munitions of Supply who provided the appropriation for the Department of Agriculture.

As previously announced, this milkweed project was conceived as a means of supplying an ingredient for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. It is understood that it provides a heat resistant element to be used with Buna S and other ingredients for the manufacture of an artifical rubber as a substitute of the natural product which fell into the Japs in their East Indian swoop.

Local results have been just about as ununiform as at the Central Experimental Farms where some test lots were planted. The milkweed has been causing some doubt and worry as to how it was going to turn out, but on the whole the progress during the last week or so has taken a more promising turn.

Some of the fields that were planted with slight expectation have become brighter spots in this milkweed picture than others which because of their fertility and cultivation were considered ideal for this emergency purpose.

One of the poorest fields near Havelock, from the standpoint of land value, ranks close to the best. A few of those which were mentioned in the presently most promising stage are on the farms of Andrew Knox near Norwood, George Middleton on the second line of Smith, Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, Gordon Hancock and others. One of the last planted was in Ennismore on Michael Twomey's farm where the seed has made remarkable growth.

Many others could be singled out as pace-setters, but "the picture seems to change from week ot week so far". The main fact that is highly encouraging is that this local effort seems at present to be on the way to success. Farmers have taken a practical interest in their contracts, and quite a number of them have been doing their own share of worrying while the seed was slow in coming through, or some of it did not germinate as expected.

Coutry residents are asked to make a note of any stands of the weed growing wild because there is some likelihood of the Department buying up to fifty tons of the leaves toward the end of summer.

Suggets Public Ownership Key Industries

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP). — Direct government action will be needed to meet the post-war crisis E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader, said last night in a radio address. This action should include "vigorous development of our natural resources, public ownership of all key industries and and over-all plan for their expansion," he added in summarizing the party's 15-point platform in the Ontario election campaign.

Social ownership and control of "all the great monopolies within the jurisdiction of Ontario" was one of the aims of the organization, he said.

The old parties "try to frighten you with a word" by describing social ownership and control of monopolies as socialism, but "it is the old parties who are frightened."

"They don't want anybody to interfere with the power of the monopolies. They want you to continue serving under the control of those giants of industry and finance who have so often regimented you into hard times.

Mr. Jolliffe said the C. C. F. would make certain "by legislation and all other necessary measures," that workers are set free from company unions. An organization to represent the workers must be free from the control of the employer.

Board Of Health Concerned With Increase In T.B.

Two new cases of tuberculosis, disclosed last month, as reported to the Board of Health last night by Miss Geraldine Conley, Public Health Nurse, received the deeply concerned attention of the members.

Alderman Dutton presided, and the others present were Mayor Hamilton, D. G. H. Melton, Alderman Sullivan and Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., with A. G. Metheral attending.

The comment in Miss Conley's information was, in part, "Two new cases of tuberculosis, both young women, have been diagnosed during the month. One was admitted from the Western Hospital, Toronto, to Mountain Sanatorium. This case had been previously diagnosed by Dr. F. C. Neal. There are some contacts all of whom will be tuberculin tested and x-rayed if positive reactors.... Seven cases have been x-rayed through the Department of Health during the month. Three of these cases had been recommended by the Provincial Travelling Chest Clinic on their last visit to be x-rayed in three months time. Unfortunately our clinic was postponed for June so other arrangement had to be made. The four other cases were contacts of one of our new cases."

The sentiment fo the meeting was chiefly a wish to point out to the public the importance of individual co-operation with the health authorities, but at the same time to avoid causing any feeling of alarm.

It was reported that one Peterborough man, recently admitted to a sanitorium, will probably be out of work for at least two years. One daughter is also in a "T.B." institution.

Mr. Melton posed the analogy of the changes which took place in the scope of fire departments, especially in their objective of preventing the occurrence of fires by measure of precaution.

Preventive Medicine

"In the same way I feel we need preventive medicine rather than place so much stress on curative medicine," Mr. Melton said, "the waiting until illness and diseases develop instead of going out to meet them. It seems to me that the public and the industry will be asking before long for statutes that extend health services. From my reading of their report, I think the federal Department of Health sees the day when every industry will have its own Medical Officer of Health."

One of the observations in the discussion was a tendency of public individually to avoid the immediate results of incidence of this disease. It was said that the average person adopts the attitude of being able to throw it off, probably depending on some presumed natural resource of resistance. Dr. Kelly remarked that a great many perons had some minor and negligible attacks at some time or other, but generally the possibilities were so serious, as in the distressing experience of the family with two of its members, one of them the husband and father, in a sanitarium for indefinite periods, that nothing should be left to chance and hope without benefit of medical examination.

Stamp Out Clubs Go Strong On Depth Charge

The Stamp Out Hitler Clubs, through Bob Everett who is a prime mover in their formation and workings on behalf of the war effort, are now playing a new role inasmuch as they are taking a real hand in helping to raise the quota assigned to this city and with the assistance of the proprietor of the Empress Hotel they have almost completed one depth charge, and there is every indication there will be a good attempt made to go over the top for a second one.

As has been pointed out in this column on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, a club is composed of twenty members, each of whom buys one War Savings Stamp and is assigned a number, and when all twenty have paid, a draw is made for a $5.00 par value War Savings Certificate, and the extra dollar is given to the fund, which has to date, including the $13.00 credited to them to-day, been responsible for a total sum of $156 raised to help repair the damage that Hitler's satellites have made in Britain besides contributing no less than $624 to help buy the tools to give the same Hitler a real drubbing.

In this particular donation there were three returns from the Canada Packers Club, three from the Grand Hotel Club, two from the Theatre Club, two from the Empress Hotel Club and one each from the Raybestos Club, Selkirk's Store Club, and the Kiwanis Club, the latter intending to run it as a weekly function at their luncheon on Friday.

This week's winners include Fred Peel, Jim Bruce and W. Smith of Toronto in the Grand Hotel Club, Miss D. Watson who won twice and Elwood Trotter in the Canada Packers Club, O. Leahy and Mrs. W. Curtis in the Empress Hotel Club, Mrs. K. Cooke and C. L. Newton in the Theatre Club, E. Allen in the Raybestos Club, Vern Selkirk in Selkirk's store Club, and Stan Longhurst in the Kiwanis Club.

Market Activities.

Last Saturday, one of the main attractions at the stall for the fund was the sale of tickets on an English vase donated by Schneider's Jewellery Store, and this from the good work of Girl Guides, Mary Curtis and Sheila Maciver, assisted by Mrs. V. Sweeting of R.R. No. 5, Peterborough and Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood realized the sum of $7.05, and then from flowers and garden produce donated by Mrs. Sweeting, Mrs. Parker, and Miss Rodney another $2.25 was added to the day's receipts.

The draw was made by Miss Mildred Holden, and resulted in ticket No. 577 being drawn, which gave the prize to Mrs. A. Watkins residing at 19 Park Street South. For next Saturday, the latest type of coffee percolator has been donated by Harold Coleman, and tickets will be on sale at the stall for this, where it will be displayed.

The penny box at the Empress Hotel keeps up its reputation of doing a good job for the fund, through Chris Graham, the latest result of which sees another $3.85 chalked up to its credit in to-day's list.

Previously acknowledged	$60,969.49

Likes England

LAC. Paul Meiklejohn, R.C.A.F., who has been overseas since Easter Sunday, is enjoying life in Great Britain, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Meiklejohn, McDonnel Street. He was attending the Peterborough Collegiate when he enlisted in May of 1942. LAC. Meiklejohn trained as a radio technician and received his sparks at Clinton R.A.F. school in March. His father served with the Cobourg Heavy Battery during the last Great War.

Surviving are his wife and daughter Bertha.

Belmont Youth Given 10 Days

Ten days imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning on Eric Woodbeck, the Belmont Township youth who last week pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the garage of N. Wellman, Havelock, with intent to steal gasoline.

"The officer tells me that you have not had much chance in life," Magistrate Langley remarked to the accused," but you knew that you were doing wrong in breaking into that place."

"Yes," admitted Woodbeck.

The accused had been arrested by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock who in reviewing the circumstances this morning said that Woodbeck had been found hiding in the pit of the garage by employees and had been allowed to go. Afterward it was discovered that the place had been broken into and some gas had been siphoned from a truck into a pail. The gasoline, however, had not been taken away.

"I am going to give you a very short sentence to impress upon you the fact that you were doing wrong," said Magistrate Langley to the accused. "If there is any more of this kind of thing it will mean a term in the reformatory."

Weeks Ahead Look Good For Ontario Crops

Rural Ontario presents during the week ending Monday, as mirrored in the review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, a vast panorama of farmers' barns filling with hay. It is the keynote of the news from the many counties contributing to this compendium.

"Hay is heavy" is the brief comment from our military associates, Dundas and West Stormont, and the same estimate is sounded from away over in Grey on the west. Lennox-Addington provide the supplementary information that the hay quality is remarkably good this season.

Another common chord running through the county reports is this from Lennox-Addington: "Early sown grain is well out in head while the late crop is just nicely covering the ground. Late potatoes have made exceptional growth."

Renfrew: "Some farmers already have their barns filled (with hay); a considerable quantity will not be harvested because of the lack of help."

Up on the northern fringe Algoma representative sent the news that haying had been begun but would not be generally under way until this week.

Fall wheat is coloring rapidly in Halton; half the Perth county hay crop was harvested by Monday, and corn, roots and buckwheat are making strong growth.

Marketing of brood sows continues in Kent. Cattle on Lambton grass are "in splendid flesh," and beekeepers report a good crop of honey to date.

"A great number of Lincoln farmers are putting in orders for carloads of western grain." Northumberland milk production is excellent.

Young Man Is Given Suspended Sentence

"When young men are giving up their lives overseas, those left at home should behave themselves," remarked Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K. C., in police court this morning when Kenneth Chapman, the youth who yesterday pleaded guilty to stealing cigarettes from the Ritz Grill was being dealt with by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C.

Chapman, it was announced, had no previous record and Mr. Kerr agreed to consent to suspended sentence on the condition that the accused should pay part of the costs of the court.

Chapman's father agreed to pay the $10 asked for and also to go on his son's bond for good behavior for two years and Magistrate Langley accordingly suspended sentence.

ANT HAS BRAINS

In proportion to its body, the ant has the largest brain of any living creature.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

STEADY CHEESE OUTPUT.

"I think the factories in this district will make the quantity of cheese that is expected," said W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, to-day. "We may not be able to show as large a production as last year, but the 1942 make was away ahead of what we had estimated, and even if we are not up to it we can still produce the quota required for the British contract. Milk supply has been falling off slightly as a result of hot weather, but on the whole it has been quite satisfactory."

ALMOST A FLOOD.

That downpour in Smith yesterday washed away some of the hay cocks on knolls and piled them up against fences.

BLOAD DONORS.

Sixty-seven was the number of donors who were handled at the Blood Donors Clinic this morning. Of the total there were five each from Lindsay and Minden, as well as several from Port Hope.

OUGHT TO BE A LAW.

This unrestricted feminine exposure must surely be reaching some limit or other when one cannot help noticing painted toe nails "edged with black" peering out of openwork sandals. Oh, Palmolive, where is thy victory!

FOR RUSSIAN AID.

Peterborough's gifts to the Russian Aid Fund stand at $7,346.25. The Examiner has received a cheque for $9.00 from the "Y Worrie Club" from sale of tickets on an afghan, and forwarded by Mrs. Ferris.

GRADUATES.

PO. R. H. Tranter, whose wife resides at 70 Hunter Street East, graduated from Malton as a navigator a week ago. Prior to his enlistment in the R.C.A.F. on July 11, 1942, he was employed as a cost clerk at the C.G.E. PO. Tranter received his training at Manning Pool, No. 6 I.T.S. and A.O.S. No. 1, Malton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Tranter, 607 Chamberlain Street, and is home on leave for a few days.

POSTPONES JUDGMENT.

Magstrate O. A. Langley, K. C., announced this mornng that he was not ready to give judgment in the change against Marvin Armstrong, Smith Township, of having had care and control of a nautomobile while intoxicated. His Worship pointed out that there were some unusual points of law involved in the case and said that he was anxious to deal with them in his judgment. By consent of Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., for the accused and F. D. Kerr, K. C., for the crown, judgment was deferred until Thursday, July 29.

AN UNUSUAL CHARGE.

A fifteen-year-old Smith Townhe also was remanded until Monday. ing on a charge of having sent a threatening letter and was remanded by Magistrate Gee until next Monday. Sandford Robbins, 18, rrested in connection with the same case was charged with vagrancy and healso was remanded until Monday.

TWO MAGISTRATES.

There were two magistrates available at police court this morning. Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C. imposed sentence in two cases he had heard previously and then Magistrate A. E. Gee took over the court for the balance of the session.

RATION COUPONS.

Summer hotels are now required to take ration coupons from guests who stay 7 days or longer, and for a week's visit are obligated to collect 1 butter coupon and 2 meat coupons but one for tea or sugar, it was stated to-day by A. G. Smith, Inspector of Local Offices, WPTB. Formerly the period for which a guest might remain at a hotel without relinguishing ration coupons was two weeks, but the new regulation supersedes this, it was added.

$50.00 CONTRIBUTION.

A contribution of $50.00 for the Greek War Fund has been received from Dr. N. D. Buchanan.

Pay Subsidies On Tonnage Basis

TORONTO, July 14—(CP).—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, last night announced details of the Provincial Government's subsidy plan for purchases of western feed grain. The subsidies will be paid on a tonnage basis on a minimum purchase of five tons of western grain, taken direct from the cars to the farmers' own storage.

Subsidy rates are:

On grain purchased between May 15 and August 31, $1.80 per ton; purchases in September, $1.20; purchases in October, 90 cents, and November and December purchases, 60 cents.

The application for subsidies must be filed within 30 days of the date of delivery except on purchases made between May 15 and the date of the announcement for which extra time will be allowed.

Aims Of C.C.F.

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP). — Social ownership and control of "all the great monoplies within the jurisdiction of Ontario" was described last night as one of the aims of the C.C.F. by E. B. Jolliffe Ontario C.C.F. leader, in a broadcast.

LAKEFIELD

Mission Group Hold Picnic

LAKEFIELD, July 14 — (ENS). —Do-Wy-Lo cottage the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yale at Young's Point was the setting for the seventh annual picnic of the United Church Women's Missionary Society.

Perfect July weather prevailed for the occasion and because of the gasoline situation not as many members were present.

Mrs. Yale gave some readings which she had composed and Mrs. E. Jory presided for a short business period. The W.M.S. were asked to be responsible for flowers in the church for July and the members offered to take turns.

It was not decided whether the August picnic will be held. Further announcements will be made in regard to this.

Liver Hasje

In Denmark they ask for "HASJE". Here we ask for "liver pie". It's just delicious made this new way. Get a bottle of H.P. and try this wartime recipe.

Place 2 cups cut celery in well-greased casserole. Sprinkle pepper and 1 teaspoon of salt on 1½ pounds of unsliced liver and place on celery. Dot with small pieces of shortening. Add ¼ cup of water and cover. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Boil 8 small carrots and 8 onions in a small amount of salted water until tender. Drain and place in casserole around liver.

Save vegetable stock and thicken with 2 tablespoons of flour, mixed to a smooth paste in a little cold water. Then add 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce and pour over liver. Cook 15 minutes. Serve with crisp bacon.

Achievement Day Is Held By 'Homemakers'

The Girls' Achievement Day, held every year by the district Home-making Clubs which are sponsored by the Girls' Work section of Provincial Department of Agriculture. The meeting, held at the local Department of Agriculture office, was held Tuesday morning and afternoon and was attended by members of Home-making Clubs from Lakefield, Young's Point, Warsaw, Trent River and Keene and a number of interested girls from Belmont. Miss F. P. Edie of the Institutes Branch, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, presided at the meetings.

The topic studied in the clubs during the year has been "Being well-dressed and well-groomed" and each girl has made herself a slip, the results were on display at the meeting. All the sewing was neatly and expertly done, and one in particular made of white angelskin, was beautifully made. Two clubs, Lakefield and Young's Point, had prepared displays iluustrating the chief points to observe in order to look one's best. These clubs also presented skits on the topic, "How to look your best," and each girl had a record book of her work and attendance during the year.

Certificates were awarded to those girls who had turned in satisfactory work, the following receiving County Honor Certificates for having completed six units: Eva Higgins, Lakefield Lenore McIlvena, Warsaw. The following received certificates for two or four units: Edna Higgins, Fay Crawford and Gertrude Dunford of Lakefield; Dorothy McIlmoyle, Margaret McNaughton, Loretta Dunford, Bernice Brown, Bernadette Brown of Young's Point; Violet Darling, Norma Payne, Mary Hendren, Edna Clysdale, Barbara Payne, Marion Davies, Marjorie Clements, Joan Jackson, Mary Watts of Warsaw.

TAILORED suits in cool fabrics are a pet fashion this season, for many folks are now city-bound who never saw a thermometer blow up before in their lives.

Linen, gingham, various sheer-minded rayon weaves, tailor well, and suits made from them present a smart, well-groomed city appearance while adding the extra gift of a jacket which can be removed decently if the going gets just too hot to bear. Never were more blouses offered for sale, in all styles and colors, so it is easy to set up a complete suit wardrobe for hot weather.

DOROTHY DIX

CONFESSION A MISTAKE THAT BRINGS HEARTBREAK TO GIRL

May Ease Man's Conscience To Tell Of Sins But It Supplies Food For Her Jealousy

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young chap in the Air Force. Before the war if I wanted to take a girl out I would have to do my darndest to please her and be thankful she would step out with me. Not that I am an undesirable person. I have a college education, good manners and a neat appearance. It is just that in those times back home a fellow had to run after a girl, but now we air men have to run a mile a minute to get away from the girls. They try to pick us up in dance halls, on the streets and anywhere else.

At first I was enraged at this new type of girl, but later I joined the other fellows at camp and took the girls up on their come-hither looks. Here is my problem, Miss Dix:

I have a very nice girl friend back home to whom I write very often. She knows I go dancing, but does not suspect that I pick up girls at every available chance. I always figure that what she doesn't know doesn't hurt her, but now through my dishonesty to her I wonder if she treats me the same way She is a very good living girl and would never forgive me if I told her about the others, and as I like her better than I do any other girl, why should I spoil everything by telling her?

I can't see anything in this sitting around dreaming of someone who is probably out two-timing me. I intend to have a good time while the going is good. Don't you aglee with me?

FOOT LOOSE AND FANCY FREE

Confessions Food For Jealousy

ANSWER—Well, at any rate, your attitude on the double standard is the one that has been held by the great majority of men since the beginning of time. Women should be faithful and men free to roam, and what a woman doesn't know doesn't hurt her. That's their dope

With this last part of the theory I am in hearty accord. No man ever makes a greater mistake than when he tells the women who loves him the things he has done that break her heart to know. His confessions should be made in the church and to a priest, never to his wife or his sweetheat. It may ease his own conscience to tell his fiance or his wife of all his diversions from thestraight and narrow path, and of the lips he has kissed, and the measues he has danced, but it does no possible good. It doesn't wipe out the past. It only gives her food for jealousy and shakes her faith in his loyalty. Wise is the man, who, before mariage, draws the veil of silence over his bachelor life; who burns up all of his old pictures and love letters, and never boasts to his wife about what a devil he was among the ladies.

I gather from your letter that you are not even engaged to the girl friend back home, so what right have you to accuse her of two-timing you if she goes out with other men. If you are bethother to her, you have no claim upon her and she is under no obligation to sit up and suck her thumbs, waiting for you to come home and maybe pop the question and maybe not. I think she would be a very foolish woman if she didn't have an eye out for some chaps who would take her around and give her a good time and who seemed to have more matrimonial intentions than you have.

As to the femmes who run after you air men, don't be too hard upon them. Just think how fascinating you bird men are! How could the poor girls resist you?

DEAR MISS DIX—We have been married almost six years and have two small children. Lately my husband has been running around with a girl. He says he doesn't love her and that he doesn't care for any women, including me; that he is fed up with women. He says he is tired of having to explain to me all of his comings and goings and being put through a questionnaire about everything he does every time he comes home, but that he is not going to leave me because he loves the children.

He is a good provider and not hard to live with. Would I be foolisr ask this girl not to see him? Should I leave my husband, or should I go out too, and give him what's good for the goose is good for the gander sauce? Or should Ibe patient and pray for him to love me again? It is terrible living with a man you love and to know that all that holds him is the children.

He has been talking about joining the army. Should I encourage him to do so?

HEART-BROKEN WIFE

Army Makes Man Appreciate Home

ANSWER—I think your best play would be to urge your husband to join the army. Evidently what's the matter with him is that you bossed him too much and have been too possessive, and he has gone sour

Clarence Bebee Is Wed In Winnipeg

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14.—(ENS) A wedding of local interest took place in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Winnipeg on June 26 at 7.30 p.m. when Anne Christine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jeppesen of Winnipeg became the bride of Clarence Elymer Bebee son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bebee, Campbellford, Ont. Rev. L. W. Koehler officiated. Miss Alvena Strobel presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register, she played "O Perfect Love." The church was decorated with apple blossoms, peonies and ferns. Tall white tapers lighted the alter.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with raised design of orchids and lilies of the valley. The dress featured a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full gathered skirt. The long fitted sleeves ended n lily points and her finger tip veil was caught with a sweetheart halo. She carried red roses and lily of the valley. Miss Alma Koss was the bride's only attendant and she wore an orchid sheer gown and carried cream Johanna Hill roses and pink sweet peas. The bride's brother, Martin Jeppesen, C. R. T. C. was groomsman. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 825 Bannerman Avenue, Winnipeg. Mr. and Mrs. Bebee will reside at Whitby, Ont.

For Thursday, July 15

A rather adverse or portentous state of affairs is read from the predominal astral influences. Primarily, there seems to be a condition of doubt, confusion perplexity. Perhaps personal appeal or social influence or intervention may be most powerful in unraveling obscure or threatening situations.

Refrain from impulsive, reckless or erratic moves, lest these estrange and defeat cherished aims or alienate those of sentimental attachment.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of unusual or peculiar situations, calling for much prudence, discretion and direct action in order circumvent deep laid plans and schemes. While this menace may effect the business or professional associations they are likely to have unhappy and regrettable reactions on the intimate affiliations. There may be estrangements or separations, unless clever grasp and defeat of pernicious forces be exerted.

A child born on this day may be sensitive, perhaps needy and self-conscious to its detriment, causing it sorrow and separation, probably through sinister undercurrents. Its social and sympathetic appeal may assist it to ultimate good fortune and favor.

Do What Your Doctor Does If Child Is Listless

Because the tongue is the upper end of the stomach and bowels, it is usually the first thing a doctor looks at when he examines a sick child. He knows that a coated tongue and bad breath is a danger signal —a warning of an upset condition below, which may lead to real illness.

Don't you take chances — look at your child's tongue and check the breath every day! And at the first sign of bad odor on the breath or a coated tongue, give Children's Own Tablets. Small, pleasant-tasting tablets made especially for youngsters from runabout age to 15 years, they are wonderfully effective in helping to clean out harmful wastes and sweeten sour, upset stomachs. No drastic weakening flush-out action like many old-fashioned laxatives have.

Get a package of Children's Own Tablets —only 25¢—today from your druggist. Made by the makers of Baby's Own Tablets—your guarantee of a reliable product.

IN these days of strain and worry see that you give your man the coffee that keeps husbands contented... Maxwell House! It has a satisfying goodness that men simply love.

There's extra satisfaction in Maxwell House because:

1. It's blended from the very finest coffees obtainable —specially chosen for their fuller body and extra flavor.

2. Uniformly roasted by a special process that brings out the full goodness of this fine blend.

For wartime reasons Maxwell House is now packed in bags — in an All Purpose Grind and at a lower cost to you.

This new grind is suitable for all ways of making coffee—coffee-pot, percolator or glass coffee-maker. If using a glass coffee-maker you may prefer to brew the coffee a little longer.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King Upholds Work Of W.T.P. Board

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP). — House of Commons members demonstrated yesterday they had their heads down and were headed for home.

With discussion of External Affairs Department and Wartime Information Board estimates completed, members speculated cautiously they would be home before August after a session which has lasted since January.

From a three-day debate on external affairs and W.I.B. matters which come under the purview of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the House last night turned to the Public Works Department war estimates of $4,490,000 and dealt with them in short order.

Good progress was made on National War Services Department estimates of $11,651,878.

More Discussion.

The Senate to-day wil continue discussion of a motion by Senator Arthur Sauve (Prog. Con. Quebec) for the appointment of a commission to investigate complaints into the operation of Montreal public abatoirs.

Criticism of the abatoirs was supported by Maj.-Gen. A. D. McRae (Prog. Con. British Columbia) and Senator B. Horner (Prog. Con. Saskatchewan).

Mr. King and Brooke Claxton, his parliamentary assistant, both made statements on W.I.B. work in the House during the afternoon, upholding the usefulness of the service.

Gives Material.

Mr. Claxton explained the board did not edit news, but made material available to news agencies and other services for disseminating the information.

Mr. Claxton said:—

1. The use of Canadian news by United States publications had been "extraordinararily" increased through the board.

2. Salaries paid board officials were no greater than they received before they entered the Government service.

3. The main purpose of the board was to ensure the distribution of proper information in the United States.

4. The board's proper work was likely to extend into the post-war period but with a different set-up.

5. The board did not seek to supplant any existing form of news distribution or any newspaper workers.

The discussion arose over the $658,000 item for the board's expenses during the current fiscal year.

Describes Formation.

Mr. King described the formation of the board and offered as its defence, a letter from W. R. Givens, former Kingston publisher, when he had been asked to make the report.

The board was set up a year ago under Charles Vining executive of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, who resigned last year because of ill-helth. He was succeeded by John Gierson, who took the job of general manager in addition to his duties as Dominion Film Commissioner.

Mr. Given's letter to Mr. King said the board's New York and Washington offices had achieved an "astonishing success" in getting increased volume of Canadian news in United States newspapers. He said criticism of high salaries paid board employees in the United States were groundless.

The discussion went on until late last night when this and other items in the Prime Minister's estimates passed.

Food Company's 75th Anniversary

In 1868, three men sat in their shadowy, gas-lighted office and laid plans for a company which, this year, is celebrating its 75th anniversary (31 years manufacturing in Canada).

These men undoubtedly possessed industry, imagination and foresight But it is doubtful if any of the three could have foreseen the day when their little firm of Libby, McNeill & Libby would pack a greater variety of food under one label than any other company in the world.

The three men were Arthur A. Libby, Archibald McNeill, and Charles P. Libby. Harvey W. Olsen, president and managing director, states that his company started out with one product —an excellent cooked corned beef. As the business grew, new products were added, until to-day the company packs canned meats and meat products, fruits, vegetables, baby foods, an assortment of juices, a variety of pickles, sauces and relishes, as well as salmon and evaporated milk. There are more than 100 items altogether and they are packed in scores of canneries in Canada, the United States and Hawaii.

In the 75 years since the company was founded, Libby's has faced several wars and has contributed toward the winning of them. The company's many years of experience in processing food, plus its capacity to produce those foods in volume, is now dedicated unreservedly to the winning of the present war. Nutritious food in great quantity is needed by the millions of fighting men in the various United Nations services. It is vital, too, that the home front workers be well fed so that they may be kept alert and vigorous at their essential wartime task.

Cost $100,000,000

Kingston, Ont., July 14 (CP)

Says Rommel Down In Sicily

LONDON, July 14 (CP) — A roundabout and wholly unconfirmed report said last night that Field Marshal Edwin Rommel was shot down by Allied fighter pilots on his way to Sicily Tuesday. There has been no Allied claim of such an incident.

The report was said to have orignated with the German underground radio station "Atlantic," which was quoted by the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet. The Swedish report was sent to London by a Reuters News Agency correspondent.

According to this version, Rommel was said to have been travelling in a transport plane under a strong fighter escort en route to Sicily to take command there. He was said to have been accompanied by Gen. Seigfried Westfals, Lt.-Col. Kiehl and three Italian staff officers.

Child Dies Of Burns

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 14—(CP).—Lloyd Adrian, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Adrian, was fatally burned by a live wire at the Tombill Gold Mine in the Geraldton district. He died in hospital yesterday at Little Long Lac.

Board Welcome New M.O.H. At First Meeting

Attending his first meeting of the Board of Health last night, Dr. Robert A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health in the absence of Dr. G. M. Fraser, received a cordial welcome extended by the chairman Alderman Dutton.

"We welcome him and we wish him success," Alderman Dutton said. You will find, Doctor, that this Board is solidly behind you in trying the duties of your office. We are greatly interested in public health, and concerned for the welfare of the people. There will be times when you have to take a stand on questions which occassionally arise. We want you to feel that the Board will give you its fullest support and cooperation."

Alderman Dutton mentioned the fact that D. G. H. Melton was a member of the Board of Education and chairman of its Separate School Board, providing two personal links that were helpful.

"We feel that we have made some headway in the last four or five years, and that we are beginning to see daylight," Mr. Dutton concluded, and Alderman Sullivan briefly said: "We are all interested in the responsibility of maintaining public health."

Swimming Places

Dr. Kelly referred the Board to a report on an analysis of the water at various bathing places in the vicinity of the city. He sai dthat the military authorities had placed out of bounds all such places between Inverlea park and two miles below sewage disposal plant on the Otonabee shore opposite the foot of Park Street.

"I just wished to ask the Board their opinion that if these places are not considered safe for the soldiers, why should they be safe for your children," Dr. Kelly said.

All the water tests showed a "D" classification except two that were in the "A" grade. They were seven miles up the river and the other just south of Lakefeild.

Some of the "D" swim places were Inverlea Park, the canal at Mark Street bridge and also at the old Norwood Road bridge, tourist camp at Hunter Street, four miles south of the sewage disposal plant, also eight miles lown stream, Auburn and Nassau.

Dr. Kelly said he wished to stress the phase of the report to the effect that it referred to the condition of the water in the lake, river and canal from the standpoint of drinking purposes, and not as bathing places. Contamination was caused by colon bacilli.

Mr. Melton commented that the Boards problem was to determine whether any bathing places were more unhealthy than others. "Not that that we are transferring the responsibility to Dr. Kelly, but I think we can leave it in his hands to use his own judgment in placarding any place which he may consider the water unsafe."

Sanitary Inspector MacPherson's general report for June reviewed a large number of inspection, finding generally satisfactory conditions in all plants and other places handling food and beverages for public consumption.

"Milk, cream and chocolate dairy drinks from all plants providing milk for the city were examined in the Provincial Health Laboratory for pasteurization, total bacterial content and colon bacilli. The majority of the specimens were found satisfactory. The number of specimens indicating post-pasteurization contamination was gratifyingly low. In several case not meeting our standard check of the dairy was made and suggestions given as to methods of reducing the count to normal.'

Pasteurizing plants were found in good condition throughout June. A new permit was issued to a new dairy farm to send milk to the city "after the producer had built a suitable milk house and put his premises in sanitary condition. The renewal of a permit which had been cancelled several years ago was not greater due to the fact that improvements necessary had not been made, and there was little or no change in the general status of the premises from the time of cancellation."

Local Restaurants

"The shortage of labor has had its effect upon the resturants of the city, and at times is reflected by lack of cleanliness and sanitation of premises. This occurred on several occassions in June when kitchens were found in a neglected state. In each instance a twenty-four hour notice was given to clean up, and a warning issued that the conditions must not occur again. On visiting these premises since then, cleanliness has been found much better...

The majority of refreshment booths visited were found quite satisfactory...One butcher shop was found in a very poor state of cleanliness and prompt action was taken to rectify conditions. The refrigerator was too small to handle the quantity of meat received, and a considerable portion was stored on the floor in boxes, crates,etc..This meat was left for hours at a time without refrigeration, and exposed to heat and flies. Notice was issued of our intention to close the shop unless there was immediate rectification. A vast change for the better was noticed on revisiting the shop.

on married life.

He is tired of having no more liberty than a dog on a leash and of having to punch the home time clock on the dot, and having to give an account of every minute of his time during the day. An overloving wife, who is too possessive, is apt to get on a husband's nerves.

But if he goes into the army, he will have a complete change and he will find that the discipline of a top sergeant is even harder to bear than that of a wife. He will miss home cooking and home comforts, and he will especially miss the children. And he will come back to you a changed and chastened man who has realized that better is the tyranny of love than the lonesomeness of being where nobody cares about one at all.

Don't be foolish enough to humiliate yourself by going to the girl and asking her to break off with your husband. That will not only make you, but your husband, ridiculous, and you must surely have enough common sense to know that any girl who runs around with a married man is not going to give him up to please his wife. She knows what she is doing well enough.

Don't resent your husband loving the children more than he does you. They are your best bet. They will hold him to you when all else has failed.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 14 who would be much more attractive if I could use lip stick. It would help me out a lot. Mother and I have been trying to convince Father of its harmlessness, but he refuses to let me use it. Says it is not only vulgar and useless, but contains poisonous dyes. How can I convince him that he is wrong?

A HEART-BROKEN GIRL

ANSWER—Probably you can't, but it is a fact that a little lipstick, judiciously used, changes many a homely, pale-lipped girl into a beauty. Tell your Father to look around and assure himself of that with his own eyes. Furthermore, if lip stick was poisonous, practically every girl over 12 years old would be a corpse, whereas the world is filled with hearty and healthy adolescents.

Hamilton War Workers Die After Accident

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 14 — (CP). — John Clark, provincial constable, announced yesterday that two men, believed to be Hamilton steel workers, died on Monday night from injuries suffered when hit by a truck on the highway near here. The two, Allen Galer, 18, and Stanley Kratchkowski, were nucon[s]cious when the constable was called to the scene.

The constable said Crown Attorney Craig McKay has instructed him to lay a charge of reckless and dangerous driving against the alleged driver of the truck, Walter Canning of Toronto.

The dead men apparently were on a holiday trip at the time of the accident.

Grow Delicate Flowers in Your Home

ORCHIDS AT HOME

Even you can grow orchids at home! What could be lovelier than cultivating yourself that most fragile and delicate of all flowers. Considered so rare because of their beauty, you will be envied by all your friends if you develop them.

True, they are difficult to grow because they need careful attention, but they are not too difficult for the average person.

Most people, however, prefer the more simple plants for beautifying their home. Flower or foliage plants—they all look lovely in a room, and seem to add a definite touch.

Potted plants and ferns are very easy to keep. If you give them perfect care, all will bloom for you, but even if you neglect them, they will live a long time and be more attractive than any artificial plant you can buy.

Our 32-page booklet is a simple manual that will show the home-maker how to grow indoor plants—flowering and foliage—the year round. Brighten your home this way!

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Direct Vote Not Possible

NEWCASTLE, Ont., July 14 —Premier Harry Nixon in an election speech last night said he had hoped the election campaign would be over before the invasion of Europe started. He added that the invasion proved the impossibility of giving the direct vote, instead of a proxy vote, to Ontario voters in the armed forces overseas.

Exchange Nationals

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told Parliament last night that a ship will make a second exchange trip this summer to Japan to bring home nationals of Canada, the United States and a Latin-American country.

More Action In Politics

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP). — Lt. Col. Harry Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., president of the Ontario Liberal Federation, in a radio address last night appealed to Ontario electors to take a more active part in political affairs as members of political parties.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TOO HIGH FOR YOU?

YOUR HAND may be plenty strong enough for an informatory or takeout double if the bid which reaches you is at only the level of one in a minor suit, so that your partner can respond with a bid of just one in a major. But suppose the bid is 1-Spade, or is two of a minor, so that your partner might have to respond with a bid of two on a worthless hand. Are you strong enough to stand that, especially if you are vulnerable?

North: ♠ Q 8 6 4 ♥ 10 9 7 3 2 ♦ 9 7 6 2 ♣ None
West: ♠ A K 7 5 ♥ 6 5 4 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ 5 4 2
East: ♠ J 10 3 ♥ A K Q ♦ 4 3 ♣ A Q 8 6 3

2.	1 ♦	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦

South adopted an "aggressive" defense against the spade game contract at Table 1. After taking the diamond lead with the K, he led his club 7, which North ruffed. The diamond A put South in for a second club lead, also ruffed by North, and the contract was down. Without those club leads, normal defense would have given the defenders a two-trick set, producing for them two tricks in each minor, plus a trump trick.

But the real point is what could have happened to East if the 2-Spade response to his double had been on a worthless hand, instead of on one just a bit below enough for an original bid. Imagine East raising that to 3-Spades and getting doubled. The slaughter at 3-Spades would have been terrific.

East at the other table was more canny. Realizing he did not want to commit the side to a contract of two if his partner was blank, he passed, whereupon North and South got into trouble. The 3-Diamonds got set three tricks, losing two in spades, two in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs, as trump leads cut down dummy's ruffing ability. So East was rewarded for his sound pass.

What is West's soundest lead against 3-No Trumps by South on this deal, and what against 4-Spades? Why in each case?

CAVAN

Friends Make Presentation To Newlyweds

CAVAN, July 14 — (ENS). — About one hundred neighbors and friends gathered at the home, south of Millbrook, of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Challice (nee Dorothy Armstrong) to congratulate them on their recent marriage.

The living room was decorated with vases of Canterbury bells, roses, gallardia, Sweet William and gypsophalia, and ferns. The kitchen was all in readiness for the dancers, who soon filled it, to almost standing room. The music was supplied by Misses Hilda Marchall, Bewdley; Barbara Ferguson, Peterborough, piano; Messrs. Jack Patton, Millbrook, violin, R. Carr and V. Highe, Peterborough guitars. Floor managers were Messrs. R. Warr, H. Patton and W. Lunn.

The dancing was followed by a short program. The numbers were introduced by the chairman Mr. Joe Thorne and Mr. MacPherson, Millbrook, spoke a few words of congratulation. Other numbers were Vernon Highe, vocal solo, tap dancing, Barbara Patton and Miss Jean Gillis; Rober Carr, vocal solo and Mrs. Allan Earle, reading.

Dorothy and Harvey were then escorted to a central seat by Miss Jean Gillis, an address was read by Miss Maretta Graham and a studio couch, was presented to them by Don Morton, Don Graham, Wilfred Gillis and Gerald Armstrong.

There were friends from Peterborough, Port Hope, Bailieboro, Bewdley, Cavan and Millbrook.

Smith of Youngstown, Ohio, landed a 14-pound 'lunge, and this party report exceptionally good fishing during their holiday.

Election Boards Extend Sittings

TORONTO, July 14 (CP).—Premier Nixon said today that election boards will sit "to the last possible moment" before the Provincial election August 4 to validate proxies received by relatives and friends of men and women on active service with the armed forces outside Ontario.

"It is most emphatically untrue that proxies arriving after today will be too late for consideration by the election boards," said the Premier in an interview. He was discussing a speech by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative leader, who said many soldiers would be disfranchised because proxies were not being returned in time for consideration by election boards.

Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer for the province, said: "Election boards will begin their sittings on revision of the voters' lists toward the end of this week. I have given the boards instructions to sit until the last possible moment before Aug. 4 to receive proxies."

SOLDIER OF THE SOIL

THIS year the Canadian Farmer urgently needs help. He needs your help to produce the food so necessary for victory. Many thousands of farm workers are serving in the Forces, so that the farmer — the Soldier of the Soil—is shorthanded, but shorthanded as he is, he is called upon to produce more food than ever before. Food is one of the most powerful weapons of war. Grains, eggs, bacon, beef, fruit, vegetables —FOOD to feed our armies, our allies and our people we must have.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

You may be a school teacher, student, business or professional man, an office or store clerk—no matter what you are, if you have a few hours, days, weeks, or months of free time this summer, you can do your country and the farmer a great and patriotic service by helping out on the farm. You may be inexperienced, but you still can help. You will find work on the farm healthy and congenial. It will give you the satisfaction of feeling that you have brought Victory nearer.

What you should do NOW!

Greater Use Soft Coal For Ontario

Householders Must Take 25 Per Cent. In Bituminous Coal

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP)—The Munitions Department announced today that unless a Quebec or Ontario householder is willing to use high-volatile bituminous coal for one-quarter of his "proved requirements" he will not be allowed to buy for next winter more than one-half the hard coal he used in the year ended June 1, 1943.

The order was "designed to help prevent a coal famine next winter" and was issued by Coal Controller E. J. Brunning. It will "compel greater use of the softer coals, and will more fairly distribute available supplies of hard coal.

"It affects all types of consumers of high-grade coal," the department said.

Mr. Brunning said the order applies only in Ontario and Quebec because these are the only two Provinces which depend almost entirely on United States coal. Labor difficulties in the United States, coupled with the lateness of the navigation season on the Great Lakes had reduced the flow of coal from that country.

"It is impossible to predict how much U. S. coal we shall obtain this year," he said.

Must File Form

Under the order, every consumer of hard coal or other high-grade coal or coke must as soon as possible file with his dealer a government form in which he may agree to accept high-volatile bituminous coal to the extent of one-quarter of his requiremnts for the year ended June 1, 1943, how much he has on hand, and whether he has already placed an order for next winter's supply. He must also describe the location and kind of premises for which he seeks the coal, and the type of equipment in which ti is to be burned.

Investigate Orders

Mr. Brunning said these forms will, after the coal has been delivered be turned over to Prices Board officials and later be investigated by the Coal Control.

The order divides coal into two classes: High-volatile bituminous and class "A" fuel. High volatile bituminous means any soft coal for which analysis filed with the

800 Workers Out

Kitchener, Ont., July 15 (CP)

SPOKESMEN for United Rubber Workers Union (C.I.O.) at the Dominion Tire Company here said today 800 employees are idle in a work stoppage protesting the firm's alleged refusal to grant holiday pay to an employee.

Union officials said the employee was a union steward who had been forced to quit his job because of ill health. Union President Carl Fitzgerald said the man had worked continuously from June 1942 to June 1943, and under company policy was entitled to holiday pay.

New Offensive Launched In New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 15 —(AP).—Australian and American troops in the New Guinea theatre, keying their attack to the continuing Allied drive against Munda, 700 miles to the east, are closing in on Japanese positions in the Mubo area "for decisive action."

This new offensive, announced in a special statement tonight from Allied headquarters, was said by an official spokesman to be designed to clear the long-contested Mubo zone of all enemy troops and pin the Japanese back to their lines around Salumaua, on the eastern New Guinea shoreline 12 miles to the north.

Jap Force Cut Off.

As a preliminary success, the Allied forces captured Green Hill, one of the key strongpoints in the Mubo defence system, following continued pressure against Japanese positions from both ground and air, the announcement said. In addition, an enemy force of "medium size" has been cut off at Mubo.

Allied patrols were reported engaged in intermittent clashes with the Japanese north of Salus Lake, which is only seven miles south of Salamaua, the centre of enemy strength in New Guinea.

Alert Allied bombers spotted two big enemy barges above Munda in the Blackett Strait. Their bombs destroyed them. North of there, off Vella Lavella Island, bombers also sank an enemy cargo boat.

The Allied air force gave the bomb-pitted enemy fields of the northern Solomons no chance to get back in shape to come to Munda's aid. Heavy bombers started new fires on airdromes at Buka, Kahili and Ballale. Some could be seen 50 miles away.

The actual opening of the Allies' Mubo drive was preceded by an unsuccessful attempt by enemy dive-bombers yesterday to attack Australian and American positions in the area. Fighter planes tackled the Japanese bombers and downed three at a cost of one Allied fighter. Its pilot was saved.

Clearing the Japanese from the Mubo zone, a region regarded as extending roughly south from the Francisco River, would pin the Japanese to their perimeter defences around Salumuaua. It also would place the Allies in a strong position to d fend Mubo, should it be captured, as well as Wau, Morobe and other outlying settlements previously taken, against any enemy attempt at infiltration.

There was no indication, however, that the "decisive action" referred to in headquarters statement, means an immediate assault directed at the capture of Salamaua itself.

250 Canadians Are Rescued

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 15—(CP Cabe)—A group of 250 Canadian soldiers survived the sinking of one of the few vessels lost out of the giant Sicilian invasion armada. They were rescued by a British destroyer.

The vessel was torpedoed on a recent midafternoon in the Mediterranean, going down stern first in 15 minutes.

There was no panic. Most of the troops aboard, including some British units, got off safely.

(This was the first shipping loss reported by the Allies in the vast combined operation in which 2,000 vessels were used in the landing of troops on Sicily.

(Previous reports from official sources and from correspondents accompanying the British, Canadian and American forces did not tell of a single torpedoing in the Atlantic or Mediterannean.)

Nazi Attacks Stalled On Orel Line

Russians Are Claiming Recapture Of Several Villages

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, July 15. —(AP)— Powerful Red Armies have halted the attacking Germans everywhere in the Belgorod sector and have dislodged them from several positions with local counter-attacks which are gaining momentum daily, dispatches from the Russian front said to-day.

The Germans meanwhile have discontinued their attacks altogether on the other end of the Kursk salient, where they tried in vain to breach the Orel sector.

At the same time the Red Air Force resumed its night operations with a fierce attack on the Orel railway junction.

(The German Thursday communique said numerous attacks and counter-attacks were repulsed in continued heavy fighting on the Orel and Belgorod sectors, but made no claim of any Nazi advances.

The communique said that weather conditions were rapidly deteriorating and asserted that Soviet counter-attacks were being launched with weaker forces than on previous days.)

Three-Day Battle.

Pravada said one of the great battles on the Belgorod sector was fought long at Russian-held highway. The battled lasted for three days, the paper reported, with the Germans constantly attempting to push through to the north. After only minute progess the Nazis consolidated their positions and then launched attacks to the east and northeast. They were driven back everywhere, Pravada said, losing 30 tanks in the action.

Eye-witnesses who were in the Belgorod area when the offensive opened said "in all our experience on many fronts we have never seen German fire as intensive as this." The horizon literally "seemed to be on fire," they added.

In the fighting yesterday around Belgorod, the Red Army was said to have knocked out 100 German tanks, shot down 47 planes and killed more than 2,000 of the enemy. Aerial engagements elsewhere brought the day's bag of Nazi planes to 158, the Russians said.

In their counter-attacks at some points in that sector, the Russians were reported in dispatches to be pouring more men and tanks into the raging battle, ironing out the wedges the Germans thrust into the Soviet lines at the outset.

Yesterday's engagements brought German losses, as tabulated in Sovit communiques, to more than 40,-

Commandos Set Landing Spot For Canadians

By LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 15—(CP Cable)—Commando troops paved the way for the Canadian landing on the southeast tip of Sicily, it was learned here yesterday when two British officers returned to Africa from the embattled island. The landing was accomplished in the face of extremely light resistance.

The Commandos went in ahead of the Canadians with whom they had travelled from Britain protected by a naval force. A naval officer, Lt.-Cmdr. J. D. Fernald, who was aboard the headquarters ship on the way to Sicily, said the wind reached almost gale proportions, threatening to upset the whole operation but, fortunately, it subsided just before the landing. Some landing craft shipped considerable water as they plunged through the surf.

Little Resistance

One of the Commando troops was to secure the west flank of the beaches where the Canadians were to land, another troop the east flank. The first Commandos made the shore without being attacked from the air and met only sporadic

King Asked Canadians Be Mentioned

Prime Minister Tells Commons He Appealed To The U.S. President

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the House of Commons that President Roosevelt, at his request, had instructed that Canadian troops be mentioned in early communiques of the Allied attack on Sicily last week.

Mr. King said it was the opinion of military authorities in Great Britain that no reference should be made to Canadians participating in the assault.

Immediately the draft of communiques to be issued after the assault became known—before the attack was launched—Mr. King said representations were made to military authorities in Great Britain that Canadians should be specifically mentioned.

Got No Satisfaction.

These suggestions were made on Thursday, two days before the first announcement of the attack. He could obtain "no satisfaction" in replies from the British authorities.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, Mr. King said he got in direct touch with President Roosevelt Thursday "and pointed out that I thought it was an extraordinary thing that a communication should go from Gen. Eisenhower (Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces), an American without any mention of the participation of Canadian troops."

President Agreed.

The President said he agreed and would see Gen. Eisenhower was instructed to mention the Canadians.

Premier Refuses Duplessis Request

OTTAWA, July 15 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King today made public a letter he has sent to Hon. Maurice Duplessis, Opposition Leader in the Quebec Legislature, in which he declined to accede to a request by Mr. Duplessis that his protest against postponement of redistribution of House of Commons membership be transmitted to Prime Minister Churchill.

Mr. King listed three primary reasons for his position:

1. The matter was one of "Dominion rights."

2. The theory that the British North America Act could not be amended in any particular without the consent of the provinces "does not appear to be supported either in history or in law."

3. Any intervention by the Government or Parliament of Great Britain in the internal affairs of the Dominion "would be the negation of Canada's equality of status with the United Kingdom."

Return to Colonial Status.

Mr. King said British intervention would "mark a return to colonial status which would not be acceptable to the people of Canada."

It was true that it was still legally necessary to ask the British Parliament to amend the British North America Act.

"That situation, however, is acceptable only so long as such amendments are made automatically and without question on the request of the apropriate representatives of the Canadian people," he said.

Mr. Duplessis had written to Mr. King, sending a copy of a message from himself to Prime Minister Churchill asking that the Parliament at Westminster refuse to sanction amendment of the British North America Act so as to permit postponement of redistribution.

Mr. King, in his reply to Mr. Duplessis, said readjustment of representation in the Federal Parliament is "clearly not a matter which comes within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature.

"It is my understanding that you have always been opposed to Federal interference in the field of 'Provincial rights' and you would, I am sure, be the first to protest if a member of the Federal Parliament attempted to intervene officially in any readjustment of the representative in the Legislative Assembly of Quebec."

Powerful Counter Attack Is Hurled Back With Losses By Montgomery's 8th Army

Allied Planes Are Now Operating From Bases In Sicily

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 15 —(AP)—The full weight of the Allies' overwhelming air power was turned against Messina when hundreds of medium and heavy bombers struck one of the war's heaviest blows yesterday and the night before against that guardia of the strategic water jump between Sicily and Italy.

Other Allied airmen dealt punishing blows to enemy communications throughout Sicily, destroying a large number of vehicles, while Allied fighters put up a tight screen over the battle area and knocked down three of the small number of enemy planes they encountered.

At the same time, torpedo-carrying planes operating over the Tyrrhenian Sea blew up one enemy tanker, set fire to another and left a merchant ship in a sinking condition.

An Allied headquarters communique said "very great damage" was wrought at Messina, where the bombers concentrated on port installations and railway communications.

American bombers from Middle East bases also joined in the bombardment again, blasting the ferry terminal and railway freight yards at Messina and continuing across the strait to batter military objectives at San Giovanni on the Italian mainland.

Double-barrelled Assaults

Medium and light bombers carried out a double-barreled assault on Enna, hitting that vital communications point in Central Sicily yesterday and the previous night.

Altogether, a known total of nine enemy planes were shot out of the air, including a Junkers-50 transport, while the Allies lost three planes.

Heavy and medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters were sent out from North Africa, Panteleria, Malta and Sicily, it was stated officially.

Among enemy air bases in Sicily now in Allied hands are Pachino, Biscari, Gela-Farello, Gela-Porte Olivo, Licato and Syracuse. Syracuse is a seaplane harbor.

Throughout yesterday and the previous night Allied medium and light bombers returned to central Sicily repeatedly to blast the important Axis communications hub at Enna. Road and railway communications throughout Sicily also were attacked.

Fighter-bombers carried out 'many attacks' on enemy communications and motor transport, destroying a large number of vehicles, the headquarters communique said.

Fighters swarmed from bases in North Africa, Pantelleria, Malta and from captured air bases in Sicily to protect Allied shipping, beaches and battle areas. The bulletin said only "a small number of enemy aircraft were encountered." Three were shot down during the day, and night fighters, which ranged also over southern Italy, destroyed five more.

Three Allied aircraft from the North African command were listed as lost and one from the Cairo theatre.

Succeeds Manion

Ottawa, July 15 (CP)

BRIG.-GEN. Alex Ross of Yorkton, Sask., has been appointed National A.R.P. Director, Pensions Minister Mackenzie announced today in the House of Commons.

He succeeds Hon. R. J. Manion, who died here recently.

Warships Shell For 8th Army Posts On Coast

Aboard a British Cruiser in Catania Bay, July 14 (Delayed)—(AP) —Powerfully aided by the big guns of the British fleet plus increasing aerial cover, the Allied invasion of Sicily is progressing steadily on this fifth day.

The main immediate objective is the Catania Plains, filled with landing grounds. Indicating the importance of this area to defenders and attackers alike, the Herman Goering division of the Nazi army is reported now fighting to hold up the advance after leaving the earlier defence to Italian elements.

I saw many Goerings captured from the sea off Cape Bon in the middle of May, but apparently a strong force of this outfit either flew from Tunisia or never got that far.

One stubborn core of resistance is around the villages of Lentini and Carlentini, both repeatedly shelled by this and other warships. New forces of parachute and glidermen landed north of those towns during the night of July 13 and clean-up of the entire area is expected shortly.

The villages are a little less than 30 miles south of Catania.

Fern Blodgett Is Decorated

A BRITISH PORT, July 15 —(CP Cable). — A Norwegian skipper, Capt. Gerner Sunde, and his Canadian-born wife, who has crossed the Atlantic 51 times as his chief radio operator, were decorated here to-day by King Haakon of Norway aboard their motorship.

Mrs. Sunde was formerly Fern Blodgett of Hunter Street, Peterborough, Ont. She was a clerk until she obtained a radio ticket two years ago. She met her husband on her first job and they were married in Saint John, N.B., a year ago.

Accompanied by the Crown Prince, King Haakon conferred the Saint Olav Medal with Oak Leaves on the skipper, a Norwegian War Medal on his wife, and decorations on the other officers and members of the crew.

The ship has brought 60,000 tons of food to Britain.

Combined Force Makes Gain Of Seven Miles Parallel To Coast

By RELMAN MORIN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 15 — (AP) — The jaws of an Allied clamp have taken a deeper bite on Eastern Sicily after a furious battle in which the British 8th Army hurled back a powerful counter-attack by Nazi armored forces, Headquarters reports said today.

The greatest advance was scored by a combined British and United States force in the centre where a gain of six or seven miles was made in the Ragusa-Vizzini sector in a line parallel with the British east coast push.

The Americans on the west flank dug into the difficult mountains, marking up a gain of about four miles, capturing another important airfield and taking important heights.

Another Italian general, commanding the 54th Napoli Division, surrendered with his staff south of Vizzini. Vizzinni is about 25 miles west and slightly south of captured Augusta, and about the same distance northeast of Gela.

Hurling itself forward against sterner resistance, the British 8th Army of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, which includes the Canadian 1st Division, drove to the town of Brucoli, four miles north of the port of Augusta after weathering a crisis yesterday in which the German armored forces mounted a powerful counter-attack and actually reached the harbor at one time.

Kiska Shelled By U.S. Warship

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP).— The United States Navy reported today that an American light warship bombarded Japanese defence positions on Kiska Island Wednesday, making the fourth surface attack on the enemy base in an eight-day period.

Kiska was shelled previously on July 6, July 9, and July 11. The attacks were the first by surface craft since August, 1942, and might presage an amphibious assault designed to crush the strong Japanese garrison on Kiska and restore the island to American control.

An amphibious attack on Kiska, where the Japanese have elaborate defence installations, an unfinished airfield and a force estimated as high as 10,000 men, would be a logical follow-up to the conquest of Attu Island, completed a month and a half ago. But whether and when it will be made is a high command secret.

However, it is currently arousing intense speculation here.

Possibly the most important consideration is the weather, which in the Aleutians area is never good and at this season is steadily going from bad to worse. By October sleet storms and blizzards will be added to the commonplace fog, rain and 100-miles-an-hour winds. Presumably any campaign for this year would be planned with a view to smashing Japanese resistance before that time.

Weak Opposition Surprises Canadians

Italians Surrender In Droves To Canadians And Towns Fall With Little Fighting

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ON THE CANADIAN FRONT IN SOUTHEAST SICILY, July 13—(Delayed)—(CP Cable)—With Italians surrendering in droves and towns capitulating with scarcely any fight, these first three days of the amazing Sicilian campaign have been a sweep for the Canadians in their sectors.

I finally caught up with the fast moving frontline troops yesterday afternoon in a jeep after pursuing them on foot for two days.

They are sitting on top of the world. Even the commanders are surprised at the meagre defence the Italians are making of their homeland.

The Canadians have taken every advanage of the weak stand of the enemy and American and British troops are having equal successes.

It has been a victory march so far through vineyards, olive groves, plantations and over the chalk dust roads of this part of Sicily. But maybe there's trouble ahead.

With a few battalion actions and numerous skirmishes, the Canadians have pushed inland more than 30 miles and now they are getting a breather before the next phase of the Allied operation.

Yesterday, the Canadians joined up with the Americans on the left and they have been keeping pace with a famous British division—no small achievement, considering the battle experience of these Tommies.

Every town in the Canadians' path has fallen without major fighting. Pozzallo on the south coast, about 15 miles west of the beach where we landed, was occupied by two companies.

Ispica flew the white flag as we mounted the attack on this cliff-top town which had been shelled by the Navy. Rosolini collapsed before Eastern Canada troops.

(Ispica and Rosolini are on a line northeast of Pozzallo.)

Modica, 15 miles northwest of Ispica gave up as the Canadians were preparing to strike it and here the Canucks captured their first Italian general—Gen. Achille D'Avet, commander of the 206th coastal division which was supposed to defend the coast where the Canadians landed.

With the Canadian attack imminent, the general asked for terms and was told "unconditional surrender." He accepted and Maj. Dick Malone of Winnipeg went into Modica to arrange the capitulation. They came away with the general and his staff and took them to the Canadian general.

I was at headquarters when the Italian general and his party arrived. Wearing shorts and a bush shirt, the Canadian general received them in his headquarters under the trees. The Italian told him a few things about his defeated division and asked if he could retain his revolver as a gesture of military honor. Permission was granted—but the general's ammunition was taken away from him first.

The Italian general had been decorated with the Military Cross in the First Great War by the Duke of Connaught, one-time governor-general of Canada, and his

Pilots Use Sicilian Bases

Airdromes Captured By Canadians Being Used

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, July 13—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Canadian pilots now are flying off a Sicilian airdrome which was captured by Canadian infantry and brought into operation by a British airfield construction group soon after the landing last Saturday.

The Italians had plowed up this airfield before the invasion and the airfield construction group, including British pioneers and sappers who came in with the Canadians, went to work filling in furrows which in some parts were two feet deep.

It was not long before fighter planes flown by Canadians landed on the repaired drome, throwing up great clouds of chalky dust as they taxied to a standstill.

At this airfield this morning I met six Canadians of an R.A.F. fighter squadron.

They were PO. Gordon Wilson of Regina, PO Red Probert of Moose Jaw, Sask., PO. Fred Wihak of Melville, Sask., PO. Milt Jowsey of Ottawa, a former Roughrider football player, and Flt. Sgt. Mike Askey of Winnipeg, whose father is a padre of a Canadian division in England.

Hazel told me that Tony Golab, also a former Roughrider, now is flying out of Malta and has been on operations over Sicily.

Eisenhower Sees Canadians

General Likes To Give Out News Of Fighting Men

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

AN ALLIED FORCES COMMAND POST, North Africa, July 15 — (CP Cable). — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the big personable United States general who is commander-in-chief of the Allied operations in Sicily and under whom the Canadian are fighting for the first time, has a broad appreciation of Canadian problems and of the Dominion's war endeavors.

He lost no time in visiting Canada's troops in Sicily to welcome them to the invasion line. (Previous Allied headquarters dispatches told how Gen. Eisenhower landed in the Italian island soon after the invasion began, going ashore from a Royal Navy warship at one of the beaches on the Pachino Peninsula where the Canadians landed.)

Gen. Eisenhower also is a profound believer in the importance of public support for the armed forces. In that respect he resembles Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Overseas Army, with whom he has been in close contact as the Sicilian operation develops.

He believes in keeping the public informed as fully as possible on the fighting and in giving them news of their fighting men.

Just as important in his code for achieving the maximum possible effort is his deep-rooted belief in the necessity for complete understanding and harmony between the Allied Nations.

AMERICAN PARACHUTE COMBAT TEAM IS BIG HELP IN INVASION

Fighter Planes Damage Nazi Railroads

LONDON, July 15 —(CP)—R.A.F. fighter planes maintained the Allied aerial offensive over Western Europe last night with harassing attacks on Germany's hard-pressed transportatio system, the air ministry news service announced today.

One Mosquito plane was reported to have flown more than 3,000 miles from its British base to damage a locomotive south of Strasbourg, while another shot up two locomotives on a similar foray. A third pilot reported he had strafed and damaged three locomotives.

There were no indications of large scale bombing operations over the continent, however. Britain, meanwhile, enjoyed a raid free night.

This was a follow-up to yesterday's daylight raids when United States heavy bombers, protected by R.C.A.F. and Allied fighters, swarmed over the continent to strike at an aircraft factory and park at the great Le Bourget airport in the Paris suburbs. Four other German installations were also hit.

Fifty-one enemy planes attempting to intercept the flight were shot down by the bombers and their fighter escort over Le Bourget and Villacoublay, where aircraf repair and assembly plants were pounded.

machine-gun fire from the beach defences.

"The first beach was taken, then the others," Fernald said. "Meanwhile, shore batteries were giving a certain amount of trouble but gradually they were silenced, the last one fairly late in the morning.

"Later I went ashore and everything looked extremely active. Tanks and amphibious vehicles were going in and all the Italians who were there seemed to be pleased to see everybody. They were polite and so were the prisoners who were happy and chatted in some mysterious way with the troops."

The other officer, Captain W. R. Sendall of the Royal Marines, related how the Commandos landed in moonlight, assisted by flares dropped by R. A. F. The landing was not opposed and the Commandos scaled the limestone cliffs, cut wire strung along the sandy depression on the other side. One mine field was cleared away.

No Difficulty.

So accurate was the work of the navigators with the Commandos that they landed within 100 yards of the point they were supposed to reach, a beach near Punta Castellazzo. They cleared out an old customs house used as a strong point and soon made contact with the Canadans.

"The Canadians were coming ashore in strength and already were inland a mile or two, Sendal said. "On the west end, there was no resistance but there wes a little opposititon on the east."

Sandal said material was being hustled ashore fast and "everything was very decently organized."

"We were on the Canadians' immediate left," he added. "I spoke to one or two soldiers and asked one Canadian officer how things were going. He replied it was just a straight-forward job."

A British brigade in the strategic harbor city, under Allied domination sinec Monday evening, was isolated temporarily by the furious enemey thrust, but the British counter-attacked and drove on to Brucoli.

To-day's communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said the 8th Army gained "some miles" yesterday and that Augusta was now firmly in Allied hands.

Temporary Break Through.

Military sources said the battle at Augusta began at dawn when the German tanks hit the British line and broke through temporarily. But Gen. Montgomery reformed his lines and by noon not only had knocked the Germans back but had taken Brucoli and Melilili, six miles to the southwest, as well.

This concerted assault by enemy forces which the crack German armoured Herman Goering Division took part indicated that the Italian and German commanders had shifted the bulk of their forces from positions confronting the Americans in order to block the British path up the east coast.

The Goering outfit previously had received a mauling at the hands of the Americans.

Consequently, heavy opposition is expected along the route of the 8th Army, and the latest developments indicated that the Axis commanders have firmy decided to commit their man forces in battle to hold the British and Canadians below Catania, 36 miles up the coast from Augusta.

Italian divisions, too, were reported making a more determined show of resistance.

More Parachute Troops.

However, new waves of British and American parachute and gliderborne troops had carried out what the communique called successful operations, and it was disclosed that units of the French Army which are now operating in the battle zone are Goums, the terror-inspiring, pig-tailed warriors who fought so effectively along the Mediterranean coast in Tunisia.

The Germans are believed to have concentrated considerable strength, including tanks and artillery, at the town of Lentini, 13 miles south of Catania and at a road junction where the Catania Plain begins.

Hard fighting can be expected before the capture of Lentini takes place, it was said. This centre of resistance is about five miles from the coast.

(An NBC correspondent, in a radio report from a British cruiser off Eastern Sicily, said British troops had captured both Lentini and nearby Carlentini.

Bombarded From Sea.

Another bombardment of Catania from the sea, after an earlier shelling the previous dawn, was carried out last night, he said, and an Italian armored train which pushed south of Catania, was forced to withdraw by naval artillery.

("It was expected that Allied troops would be hammering the gates of Catania during the night if not actually entering the city," he said. His report was dated Wednesday evening.

(The Allied bombardment sent up a solid wall of flame and smoke along 20 miles of the Sicilian coast, he added, and four and six-inch guns were wrenched from their shore emplacements.

The Americans went forward from the western horn of the Allied front through hilly and difficult country to a strategic area protecting the British flank and at the same time threatening the enemy's rear if he offers battle on the Catania Plain.

Capture of Vizzini would give Gen. Patton control of the first important east-west road north of the coastal network of communications.

This road, running from Agrigento, near the south coast, through Caltanissetta, Caltagtrone and Vizzini is vital to the enemy for maintaining liaison between the western and eastern wings of his front.

Another American column, near Miscemi, was threatening Caltagirone, about 15 miles west of Vizzini.

It was announced that American amphibious jeeps and amphibious two-ton trucks mounting two machine-guns are among new weapons being used in the push.

Some of the Italian prisoners complained they had had numerous casualties caused by running into their own minefields.

While the ground forces plugged away, aiming to isolate the island and its defenders as they did the Africa Corps in Tunisia, the overwhelming might of Allied airpower was thrown into a drive for the same objective.

Messina Bombed.

Hundreds of heavy and medium Allied bombers assailed Messina, which stands on the Sicilian side of the water gate to the mainland, in this theatre's greatest aerial assault.

Both the northwest African air forces and the Middle East aerial command joined in the blows which were delivered both yesterday and the night before, and Liberators augmented the assault by hitting San G'ovanni, across the strait.

While swarms of fighters and fighter-bombers maintained an umbrella over Allied beachheads and columns, other bombers reached to central Sicily for another attack on Enna, the heart of Axis troop concentrations.

Today's communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said, contrary to Axis reports, that fresh waves of British and American air-borne and parachute troops had carried out "successful operations."

The 8th Army "advanced some miles" toward Catania on the northern side of the Catania plain, after firmly securing the deep harbor of Augusta, the communique said, while the American 7th Army captured "another important airdrome and several dominating hill features."

The following air and seaplane bases were now included in Allied captures:

Pachino, Biscari, Gela-Farello, Ponte Olivo, Licata, Syracuse, Comiso and Pzzallo.

erably aided by the capture of Augusta town and naval base which is now freely useable for Allied shipping despite repeated Axis air attacks.

Augusta was stormed at sundown on July 12 from the sea in one of the most spectacularly beautiful naval and land battles of the entire war.

The situation from the start to the present follows these lines:—

The first Allied landings came Friday night, July 9, just before midnight, by more than 200 gliders and many parachutists, followed quickly by Commandos at 2:45 a.m. July 10.

This Northern and Eastern spearhead of the entire assault was led by veteran 8th army troops. Farther south Canadians and Americans performed similarly.

Throughout July 10 and 11 the Germans and Italians, mostly the Germans, made persistent air attacks against the ships and beaches, with scanty success. They set afire only one merchant vessel in this area and their only other "success" was the deliberate and brutal sinking of a Hospital Ship. I witnessed that.

With the announced Allied capture of at least four Sicilian airfields plus German air losses, the Allied progress considerably improved July 12 and 13. Axis air interference was noticeably less bothersome in the two days past.

Axis air power is still sufficient, however, to cause our ships to maintain their terrific, ear-splitting barrage from all types of guns, particularly from dawn to dusk and before the moon sets. These are favored attack times.

Fleet In Great Strength

With spotters ashore working, the British fleet is patrolling in great strength along the eastern coast and lobbing shells repeatedly and respectively into enemy strong points and batteries ashore. The boom of naval guns is deafening and constant.

On the early evening of July 11, this ship shot up a shore batery on the peninsula of North Augusta, drawing no reply, but starting a black, smoky fire.

After beating off the expeited and usual German fighter and dive-bomber assault during the dawn of July 21 this cruiser and sister ships bombarded the town of Melilli, 10 miles inland, for half an hour. Other participants included several cruisers and a Monitor.

At the army's request, the cruisers bombarded Melilli again July 13 and the monitor continued its devastating heavy shelling most of yesterday morning. This hillside town is at a point where the coastal strip narrows somewhat and apparently was chosen by the enemy as a good spot to try and hold up the invasion. However, the town was captured in the afternoon of July 13. A shore observer signalled up this morning:—

"Melilli damage worse than London blitz."

The cruisers' first shelling of Melilli was quickly followed July 12 by shooting up Augusta's shore batteries and then this ship pumped three rounds into field guns which were holding up British troops in Augusta Bay. This was the best shooting of the day, as after the three rounds the army signalled "cease fire—target destroyed."

The troops took up positions four miles south of Augusta and signalled "first class shooting. Thank you."

During the afternoon of July 12 our ship was asked by the army to bombard another enemy shore battery, but just as it prepared to shoot a new signal said:—

"Hold fire. Target being attacked by our tanks."

A few minutes later came the signal, "tanks destroyed target."

"Robbed of our prey!" exclaimed Gunner Chief Commander Richard Ivan Alexander Sarell of East Granstead, Sussex, who deserves the title of 'Dead-eye Dick" if any gunnery officer ever did.

The army soon suggested a new target and after 15 minutes of firing signalled "cease fire. Good work."

A Decisive Blow

Moscow, July 15 (AP)

THE Soviet press quoted a captured German officer today as saying Hitler had issued an order at the outset of the present Nazi offensive in Russia declaring "this blow must be of decisive importance — it must be the turning point of the war—the last great battle before German victory." The press accounts aid the German, a lieutenant, had surrendered because he was convinced the German offensive against Russia would fail.

Long Awaited Attacks Developing

No Signs Evident Of Any Further Enemy Withdrawals

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 15 —(AP). —Stiffening Axis resistance in the area north of captured Augusta was reported in front line dispatches today as the British 8th Army which includes the Canadian 1st division, drove along Sicily's eastern coast toward the important port of Catania.

Official accounts said there were no signs of any further enemy withdrawals and observers here interpreted this as indicating the first stages of a determined counter-attack.

For the first time, reports from the fighting areas spoke of the presence of German 60-ton Tiger tanks. Some of these were said to have been captured both north of Augusta and in the Gela area.

(The Algiers Radio, in a broadcast heard by The Associated Press said the 8th Army had split into two prongs, one continuing on toward Catania and the other swinging inland in the direction of Gerbini.)

An official announcement said the American 7th Army, one column of which was advancing inland from the southwestern shore of Sicily toward the Catania plain, had captured at least eight enemy airdromes. In the great surge outward from the bridgeheads the Allied armies have captured more than 12,000 prisoners, it was announced last night.

This resistance was taken here to indicate a long-awaited Axis-counter attack may finally be developing. Observers believe a full force of the best Axis troops is now coming into action for the first time against the Allied invaders.

Advices from the front this morning spoke for the first time of the appearance of German 60-ton Tiger tanks north of captured Augusta, where Canadian troops are fighting, and near Gela. The Americans previously had encountered Mark-IV's near Gela as well as some French type tanks.

(In contrast, the Algiers radio said in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that enemy resistance still was weak and that the push of Allied troops massing in the foothills southeast of the Catania Plain was "gaining in intensity hour by

Prime Minister. "I am not criticizing the United States forces for releasing the news the Canadians were participating in the attack. I thank them."

Mr. King said he could not understand why, at the last moment, he could not get authority to make any statement and he had been bound to hold his information.

Mr. King said that before the attack was announced early Saturday morning he had been informed of planned announcements of the action which spoke of "an Anglo-American force," with mention of the Canadians.

(The Canadian 1st Division is engaged in the Sicilian battle).

Anglo-American Force.

The initial announcement had, in fact, mentioned such an Anglo-American force, and the first mention of Canadian participation came from United States headquarters.

"I am going to keep all the military secrets I can, but I am to regard the Canadian forces services as on a par with those of Britain and the United States," said Mr. King, amid applause from the House.

Entitled to Equality

"Certainly from quality, effectiveness and right—if not from numbers—they are entitled to equality in all statements."

The Prime Minister made his statement in reply to a question by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, who said he understood Canadian newspapermen had been prevented from making any immediate mention of the participation of the 1st Canadian Division in the Sicilian invason attack.

Mr. Coldwell said he was concerned that Canada's position should be safeguarded and that he wondered why announcements of Canadian participation should come from London and Washington instead of being made in Canada.

Mr. King said Mr. Coldwell's statement was a natural one.

When three or more countries were involved in a military operation there had to be most careful planning in advance, not only of operations but of the time statements would be issued.

The procedure was that the governments involved received some notice of what was to be expected and were advised when announcements could be made. Such plans were made by the combined chiefs of staff who indicated the information which might be given out.

In addition, Mr. King said, he had recieved "confidential" communications from Prime Minister Churchill, also indicating what might be expected.

No Reference to Troop Movements

It had been decided by the authorities that no reference should be made to the movement of Canadians to Sicily.

"It is not for me to give the reasons," Mr. King continued.

It might have been thought it was inadvisable to let the Germans know the Canadians had left the United Kingdom.

The plans were that the first announcement should say that "Allied forces of Great Britain and the United States" had attacked Sicily. The announcement to the people of France by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Allied commander, was to make reference to "Anglo-America forces."

When this information came to his hands, Mr. King said, he made representations to the British Government that the Canadians should be mentioned specifically.

"I urged the announcement should read 'British, United States and Canadian forces,'" said the prime minister amid applause.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 15 — (CP). — Wheat futures slipped on Wednesday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after a brisk opening, to finish ¼-⅜ cent a bushel lower.

July established a new seasonal high early in the session by touching $1.09½ a bushel.

Moderate buying was attributed to American account. There was no export business in Canadian wheat or flour reported.

Shippers took approximately 500,000 bushels of Nos. 1 and 2 Northern in the cash wheat market. Dealings in cash coarse grains were confined to odd cars of oats and barley.

Call For Payment

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley announced last night that the Dominion Government was calling for payment Aug. 16 two Canadian bond issues payable in New York and maturing during the next year or two. The issues are the 2½ per cent bonds dated Aug. 15, 1935, due Aug. 15, 1945, totalling $76,000,000, and the 2¼ per cent bonds dated Jan. 15, 1937, due Jan. 15, 1944, totalling $30,000,000.

INSTRUCTOR FATALLY HURT

TORONTO (CP)—CSM. John R. Keenan of Toronto died Tuesday of injuries suffered in an accident at the cadet camp at nearby Bolton. While giving a demonstration he slipped on the grass, falling on a bayonet which pierced his lung. A veteran of the First Great War, Keenan was attached to the Canadian Small Arms School at nearby Long Branch as an instructor.

Weak Opposition

interpreter went to some lengths to inform the Canadian general of this.

After 2½ practically sleepless days trying unsuccessfully to keep up with the infantry on foot, I got hold of a jeep yesterday and sailed to the front in the wake of the victorious Canadians.

Along the road to Ispica, we saw smashed, horse-drawn Italian guns and munition wagons. Pillboxes and road blocks were piles of rubble after being shattered by our guns.

But for the presence of a few snipers in the vineyards and on the hills, the countryside looked peaceful.

The Canadians were everywhere. Columns were marching forward and convoys of trucks and guns were following through the fog of chalk dust.

We are all covered by this white dust—the Canadians look like real desert rats of the 8th Army, to which they now belong. The dust is in our hair, in our tea, in our boots and in our blankets. It is necessary to wear goggles at all times on the road.

We don't know which is the worst, heat, flies, dust or mosquitoes—the latter being the best dive-bombers we have seen around these parts.

Seized Mule Carts

We passed Canucks riding up to the line in commandeered mule carts or using captured Italian trucks, bicycles or staff cars. They have been having a field day of improvisation before all their transport reaches them.

Canadian tanks have been rumbling forward and guns are going up in support of the infantry.

We arrived at Ispica which has a normal population of 13,000 and found only a few women, children and dogs on the streets.

The town had been knocked about by naval gunfire and rubble littered the narrow streets and one wide avenue. There were many painted signs on the walls reading ironically "Viva Il Duce' 'and "Duce a noi."

Like most of these Sicilian towns, Ispica is a pile of crowded, stone houses with tile roofs, about as interesting as a blank sheet of paper.

We left the town and headed northwest toward Modica. Along the way, troops were sitting by the roadside, munching melons, grapes and tomatoes which are to Sicily what eggs and oranges were to Tunisia.

Pitched high on a cliff, commanding the whole plain sweeping down to our landing beach, Spica looked like a natural defensive point and we were puzzled why the Italians gave it up so easily.

Naval shelling had a lot to do with it, of course, and besides, there were hundreds of determined Canucks waiting to storm the place before it hoisted the white flag.

We expected they might be sullen and completely unco-operative but it has not been like that. Perhaps they are faking, but when the Canadians pass through towns dozens of citizens stand on the sidewalks and give the V-for-Victory sign, clap hands and grin as if it were an Italian celebration.

In Modica, I saw a dead Canadian lying by the roadside and Italians had draped the body with a white sheet and placed flowers on it.

Just before we got to Modica yesterday we passed a batch of more than 1,000 prisoners — the largest I had seen. They were wearing khaki or green uniforms and looked completely unbelligerent, guarded by a dozen Canucks.

They crowded around and posed, as pleased as Punch when an army film unit took pictures. This huge bag was captured by 50 Canadians after a short-lived skirmish.

In Modica I met some paratroopers who came down in the area and established the first link with the Canadians.

Up at the front here, it's better agricultural land than on the stony peninsula. The towns are cleaner and there are macadam roads where we can get away from the horrible dust.

There has been some strafing of the roads and I have been doing the old Tunisian job of spotting from our jeep as we zip along the roads.

I saw Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British forces, for a fleeting moment Sunday on the road near the bleak town of Pachino. He was riding around in one of the big trucks used so successfully to bring in men and stores after the assault landing. Monty was wearing his black beret and looking very dusty and grim.

Pte. Pete Dunsay of London, Ont., said that when he landed on the beach with a truck on Sunday, Monty was there in a jeep with other senior officers.

Dunsay said the British commander called the Canadians into a group, saying "gather round, boys, and I will give you some news."

Then he told of the fall of Syracuse and added that he was very glad having the Canadians with him in this task. After the Canadians established their bridgehead, he told some Canadian officers "I am quite satisfied that the Canadians are as good as anything in the 8th Army."

Brilliant Part Played By Parachutists

WITH AMERICAN AIR BORNE TROOPS IN SICILY (Delayed) — Spearheading the invasion of Sicily, an American parachute troop combat team has completed a brilliant and tough mission in the largest airborne combat operation ever attempted by the U.S. Army.

Since late Friday night, when they landed by the light of a waning moon, they have been fighting crack German and Italian troops, killing and capturing hundreds. They have fought as small guerilla bands, attacking pillboxes and strong points with grenades, anti-tank weapons and knives and they have fought as a small but rugged team against the Herman Goering Grenadiers and tanks.

Never Gave Ground

They have taken rather heavy losses but they never gave ground. And it was largely through thei slashing attacks on strongly-prepared enemy positions that the advance of the much larger seaborne force coming in behind them was accomplished in the area around Vittoria.

It will be days before all details of the operation are learned. But this much at least can be told by a correspondent who jumped with them to make his second combat jump and this by night.

United States Bituminous Coal Commission shows a content of more than 24 per cent of volatile matter.

Class "A" fuel is anthracite, hard coal larger than buckwheat size or low - volatile bituminous coal (excluding mine run and screenings) briquettes or coke, or a combination of any these. Low volatile bituminous includes Pocahontas and similar coal.

The order provides that no dealer may deliver and no person may accept any class "A" fuel for any premise for which the government form has not been filed. The regulation applies even if the coal was ordered before July 15 and regardless of whether it has been paid for.

Consumers who agree to accept high volatile bituminous for 25 per cent of their proven requirements for the year will be permitted to purchase class "A" fuel for the remaining 75 per cent.

"Delivery may then be made as soon as the dealer finds it possible, but there can be no guarantee that supplies will be available," the Department statement said.

Any consumer who does not agree to this plan and who has half a year's supply on hand will not be allowed any class "A" fuel. If his stock is less than sufficient for half a year he will be allowed either a maximum of two tons or enough to make up a half-year supply.

The order also provides that no person may order class "A" fuel from one dealer until he has cancelled all such orders placed with other dealers.

Gov't Wheat Policy

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP).—Extension of the Government's policy of granting a drawback for wheat used for feeding to cover all increases in the price of wheat was recommended Wednesday by members of the eastern agricultural conference in a memorandum submitted to Trade Minister MacKinnon. Mr. MacKinnon assured the delegation their representations would be given full consideration.

Two Societies Unite For Monthly Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, July 15 — (ENS). — A miscellaneous program by members and visitors formed the highlight of the July meeting of Brunbrae Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. which met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Thain.

The W.M.S. President, Mrs. William Hutcheon presided for the opening and Miss Hazel McKenzie led in prayer after which Mrs. Hutcheon gave the Bible reading of the day. Following the business the program was presented and this included a reading by Mrs. D. McCrory; vocal duet by Mrs. George Craighead and Mrs. Mathews; a reading by Mrs. Reg. Craighead.

For the Ladies' Aid meeting which followed immediately Mrs. Clayton Wallace took the chair and after the hearing of routine reports the following program was presented: A piano solo by Dorothy Eagleson; reading, Miss Lela Linn; vocal duet, Mr. John Coggins and Mr. Howard Hutcheon; reading, Miss Hazel McKenzie; reading, Miss Dorothy Hinds; reading, Miss Clara Thain; solo, Mrs. William Craighead; reading, Mrs. Howard Hutcheon. At the close a lunch was served by the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Rain Upsets Game

COBOURG, July 15—(ENS). — Brief but very heavy rain, accompanied by a thunderstorm, cleared the hot, oppressive air late yesterday afternoon but washed out the lawn bowling tournament and necessitated the Kinsmen Club's summer carnival being postponed. Instead of being held Wednesday and Thursday, the carnival will be held today and Friday. There was a good entry list from out of town in the bowling tournament which was to have been for the Griffin Cup. However, it was impossible to finish it and the club officials decided to postpone it until Civic Holiday.

Liberals Name Vanderwater As West Hastings Candidate

MARMORA, July 16 — (ENS).— Under the presidency of Byron O. Lott, West Hastings Liberal Association convened at Marmora Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon to elect their candidate for the forthcoming election and the choice ultimately fell upon Lt.-Col. Roscoe Vanderwater to carry the standard.

Approximately 250 braved the heat of the afternoon to attend the convention. Nominations were received in the following order:

Mayor Harry Cory, Trenton. Proposer M. McGaughey, Trenton; seconder S. R. Westfall, Sidney Township.

Gerald Weaver, Trenton. Proposer Cliff Barragar, Belleville; seconder Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, Sidney Township.

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, Sidney Township. Proposer J. J. Trudeau, Belleville; seconder Paul Anderson, Sidney Township.

W. N. Gilroy, Coe Hill. Proposer R. J. Henderson, Coe Hill; seconder Charles Murphy, Woollaston Township.

Frank Follwell, Belleville. Proposer Dr. F. Ross, Bellevile; seconder James Shannon, Marmora.

Following the receipt of the third nomination, Hon. Erie Cross, Attorney-General, arrived, and was given an ovation.

Nominees Speak.

Harry Cory, speaking as first of the nominees, said that there was one particular purpose which had brought him to the convention. It was not the winning of the convention, but to heal any breaches which there might be was uppermost in his mind. He felt the Government of Harry Nixon would be returned on August 4. He stressed a united Liberal Party could win the riding which should be the thing uppermost in their minds.

Gerald Weaver, who followed, felt it was a grand opportunity to win the riding. He thought that the third party entering into the West Hastings election favored the Liberal Party. He too would abide by the choice of the delegates.

Col. Canderwater expressed his thanks to proposer and seconder. Were it normal times, he said, he wouldn't have allowed his name to go forward. Considering the times, he felt it his duty to stand, but was willing to abide by the decision of the convention. His only idea was to serve the country with interest in this time of war and also in the peace to come.

Norman Gilroy stated he was proud to be on the platform of the Liberals at this time. "We belong," he said, "to a great Empire and to a great colony of the Empire. The Liberal Government now in power in Ottawa will go down into history as a great Government and the name of the Hon. Mackenzie King will be held in regard as the greatest leader of this country.

Col. Vanderwater remarked he didn't expect to get the convention, but whoever did would get his support.

Frank Follwell felt he should not be a candidate at this time. The Nixon Government was going back into power. "We want a Liberal to go from West Hastings," he declared. He stressed the seriousness of the shortage of time before the election date, and asked to withdraw.

The first ballot was then taken, and while the votes were being counted the chairman introduced Hon. Eric Cross to the gathering. He (Byron Lott) recalled how in 1898 when he unsuccessfully ran as candidate, he had been nominated by the late William Cross of Madoc, grandfather of the Attorney-General.

Explains Functions.

Hon. Eric Cross declared the greatest tribute the West Hastings riding could pay him would be to send a representative of the Liberal Party to Queen's Park. Referring to the C.C.F. being in the field, he said that that party would take some of the support of the Conservatives notably in Belleville. He then touched upon the record of the Government at Queen's Park and the functions of the various departments. The real issue of this election was to decide whether or not there should be good government and good management and whether or not the affairs of the province should be carried on by men of integrity and ability, he said. In his opinion Ontario had had this under the Liberal Government. He referred to the deplorable state of affairs facing that Government as in 1934 he took over from the regime of Mr. Henry when the Government had not been living within its means.

"The deficit was then thirty million dollars. The Henry Government had passed payments for the highways, mothers' Allowance and old-age pensions back to the municipalities to cause serious repercussions there. What did the Liberal Government do in taking over? It budgeted accordingly. It has now give a 1 mill subsidy throughout the war, whereas in the last war the Conservatives imposed a 1 mill tax."

Good Subsidies.

After referring to its hospitalization for the tubercular folk, its maintenance of old-age pensions and mothers' allowance as well as of the King's Highway, the Attorney-General quoted figures in which he revealed that subsidies paid to Hastings County had totalled 1,273,000. The Liberal Government had been good and there was no reason why they should not give confidence to the present Government now seeking return to office, Mr. Cross asserted.

"The municipal debt in Ontario in nine years had been reduced from five hundred millions to three hundred millions, a record unsurpassed in Canada or the United States. The province could not be sound unless the mnuicipalities were sound. The municipalities can face the future with confidence and are in the soundest position they were ever in."

Election Necessary.

Referring to Col. Drew's 22 points the speaker said he had a point for each of his followers. The Liberal Party had performed every part of this manifesto. Col. Drew was willing to do anything to get power for the Tory Party. The Liberal Party was engaged in the real job in giving government which would show a record of good management and they appealed for confidence in post-war work, he said. In 1937 they were elected for five years which was later extended to six to meet with the opposition of the Conservatives. They would make no apology for putting on this election. Other provinces and other parts of the Empire were having or have had wartime elections. Ontario to-day needs the sane and steady leadership of Harry Nixon."

"As you return him to power, I ask you this that you get behind your candidate and return him," the Attorney-General appealed.

No Majority.

The result of the first ballot was then announced, no one candidate having obtained a majority over the rest. W. N. Gilroy, as candidate with the lowest number of votes, dropped out. Upon the motion of W. N. Gilroy, seconded by Harry Cory, the following were appointed as Resolutions Committee: H. Moorman, H. W. Sabine, and F. Follwell.

Col. Harry Hamilton, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, followed with a breezy speech. He enlightened the gathering with the news that Edward Brown of Madoc had been chosen candidate for East Hastings at the Liberal convention he had just left at Madoc.

Travelling Around.

Col. Hamilton, since elected to his position as president, had seen confining his activities to organization matters, he said. It was gratifying to him to have the experience o fgoing across Ontario to see the ifne men and women who represent the Liberal Party. He had been granted a great opportunity to make Liberalism more vital and alive. He felt that there had been much that was wrong with the organization of the past. It was like a machine that was put away between elections. He deplored the fact that there were hundreds of thousands who shirk participation in their duty of voting. "We have to put foremost in this sacred hour the welfare of this country," he stressed.

"Too often after a candidate has been elected, he has not been given fullest support. He should not be thought of as one to give you something back because you gave him a favor. He's a representative of the people and you must look upon him as such. We have the duty to carry on that form of government our boys are fighting for. We've got to win this war. Let's see that the whole power of Ontario goes to the winning of the war."

Pledge Support.

The third ballot resulted in the dropping out of Gerald Weaver. The chairman then read resolutions submitted by the Resolutions Committee which included a pledge of loyalty to Hon. Harry Nixon, felicitations to the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, congratulations to Hon. Eric Cross, a native son, upon his appointment as Attorney-General, thanks to Col. Hamilton and the Marmora Liberal executive, and the pledge of whole-hearted support to the all-out effort of our respective Governments in the prosecution of the war.

The result of the final ballot announcing Col. Roscoe Vanderwater as successful candidate was made by Col. Harry Hamilton, who like Col. Vanderwater served overseas with the 2nd Battalion Canadian Infantry in the First World War.

Vanderwater Named.

Upon the motion of Harry Cory, seconded by Gerald Weaver, the election was made unanimous.

Col Vanderwater, in responding, called for the support of all that it might be possible for him to serve the riding under the efficient leadership of Hon. Harry Nixon.

The duties of secretary at the enthusiastic gathering of Liberal stalwarts of West Hastings were most capably carried out by Miss Mary Butler of Belleville.

Ceiling Price Set On Whey Butter

OTTAWA, July 15 — (CP). — Maximum prices for the sale of whey butter by retailers, wholesalers, and manufacturers are established in an order issued to-day by K. H. Olive, administrator of dairy products for the Prices Board.

The maximum selling price on sales by manufacturers of whey butter (solids) to wholesale distributors is fixed at 32 cents per pound in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba; 34 cents in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, and 35 cents in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island.

The maximum price on sales to retailers by a manufacturer or a wholesaler has been placed 2 cents higher, and the top price to consumers is 5 cents higher than the basic price for manufacturers.

When the butter is sold in prints or rolls rather than solids, the ceiling price may be increased by 1 cent per pound.

Whey butter, a by-product of cheese manufacturing, has in the past been covered only by the general Maximum price regulations of December, 1941. Its output is relatively small, although it has an importance in the economy of the cheese industry. The new order prescribes maximum prices as in the case of other butter and establishes trading regulations designed to eliminate irregularities, uncertainties which have developed in the buying and selling of whey butter.

Outbreak Of Typhus Reported In Turin

LONDON, July 15 — (CP). — Turin, Northern Italian city, is suffering from a shortage of drinking water and electric power as a result of the heavy R.A.F. bombing on Monday night, reports from Berne, Switzerland, revealed today.

The advices also reported typhus had broken out in the city and that the few remaining public conveyances had been placed at the disposal of residents to enable as many as possible to leave for rural districts.

The Importance Of Sicily

We are fighting for Sicily because we want to use it as a base for attacks on the Italian mainland, and because we do not want the enemy to use it as an air-base in our rear when we strike at Italy. But there is another good reason why we are fighting for Sicily. When we take it we shall have taken valuable raw materials from the Axis war machine.

Sicily is the second largest producer of sulphur in the world; there are 145 mines on the island, and they produce about 260,000 tons of sulphur a year. If we take Sicily from the Axis, its sole supply will be from Norway, which produces only one-third as much. The Axis needs sulphur to make sulphuric acid, which is an ingredient in many powerful explosives. It is also used in the manufacture of poison gas, which the Germans are making in lar•• quantity, although they have not yet used it on a large scale.

The Germans also need sulphur in their preparation of synthetic rubber, which they use for electrical and radio parts, and for insulation, as well as for the more obvious use in making motor tyres. The Germans have a substitute for sulphur, but it does not seem to be satisfactory, as the Germans have been getting all they can of the real thing from Sicily.

The Axis news sources have been playing down the Sicilian invasion, contenting themselves with saying that the Allied troops will be in very hot water when they meet the main Axis forces within the island. Now this may make sense to a military man but it sounds like bunk to the layman. Surely the best and easiest way to defend an island is to prevent the enemy from landing at all, by defending the coast vigorously, rather than by letting him land and having the main fight on your own ground. It may well be that the Axis are not sanguine of the outcome of the fight for Sicily, and are planning simply to make as big a fight as they can before surrendering it.

The other peoples of Europe are more interested in the Sicilian attack than the Axis would wish them to be. In Hungary and Finland the Allied assault has caused the greatest excitement, and commentators declare that its outcome may mark a decisive step in the war. If the Allies take it they will have one of the great island bases of the Mediterranean, the other being Sardinia, and it will be as near to Italy as it is possible to be without actually being on the shores of that unhappy peninsula.

The Allied invasion of Sicily has had a sobering effect on the Axis. They are doing their best to minimize the importance of this phase of the war, but they are boasting very little, for them, and they are not attempting to convince their people that the invasion of Sicily is the best that the Allies can do. Perhaps they realize that the day has passed when barefaced lying and flatulent boasts will pass muster as news.

St. Swithun's Day

This is St. Swithun's day, and according to the ancient doggerel—

St. Swithun's day if thou dost rain
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithun's day if thou be fair
For forty days 'twill rain na mair.

This belief dates at least from the twelfth century, if not earlier, and we know of no case in which it has been checked. If you are interested in superstitions this is your opportunity to test the validity of a very old one.

Swithun was Bishop of Winchester in his day, and is one of the patron saints of Winchester Cathedral. During the latter part of his life he was a valued counsellor of the Anglo-Saxon King Aethelwulf. He died in 862, and for an unexplained reason left orders that he was not to be buried in the church, as would have been proper for a bishop, but in "a vile and unworthy place". How the belief grew up that rain on the 15th of July portended rain for forty days no one seems to know, but it was on July 15 in 971 that the body of Swithun was transferred from the obscure grave which he had chosen to a handsome tomb inside the cathedral.

Canadian Press In Sicily

The modern war correspondent goes into battle with the troops, and takes his chance of injury or death. One of the best correspondents working in the present war is Ross Munro, a Canadian journalist who is in the employ of The Canadian Press. Munro was at Dieppe, and the account of that expedition which he sent to the newspapers of this country was acknowledged by correspondents in Britain and the U.S. to be the best of the many Dieppe "stories." It was also the first to reach this continent. Now, in the Sicilian expedition, Munro is first once more, having his account of the landing and the preparation for it in the newspaper offices of this country eight hours before any other news of the landing was received. Only a newspaperman can fully appreciate the value of eight hours in such a contingency. How Munro managed it nobody knows but himself. The tasks of gathering information, co-ordinating it and getting it through the censorship all take time, but he outstripped his fifty colleagues by a third part of a day.

The result was that his news was in our hands on Sunday and reached you by radio on that day. The radio news of the Sicilian expedition which you heard was gleaned from Munro's original report, which The Canadian Press made available for general distribution here and in the U.S.

The Canadian Press is the co-operative news-gathering organization which is operated by the newspapers of Canada. It has correspondents in every theatre of war, and it is equipped to give the latest and most accurate of war news to its subscribers of which this newspaper is one. As the Prime Minister said in the Commons on Monday, the newspapers are the best available sources of information on the developments of the conflict, and it is to them that the public turns with confidence for its news. We think that it is a source of pride to all Canadians that on two notable occasions a Canadian reporter has been first with the news.

About That 17 Per Cent.

According to the Government's index, the cost of living in Canada has risen 17 per cent. since the outbreak of war. This is a remarkable victory for our price controls. By taking strong measures in time we have prevented the violent rises in the prices of staple goods which caused so much trouble during the last war. Canada adopted a policy and has made it stick.

Everyone, however, recognizes the fact that the difference between the rise in the cost of living as represented by the Government index, and the rise as represented by the amount of money which it takes to run our affairs, is a great one. The cost of foodstuffs has been kept reasonably near to pre-war level, but the price of some other necessities has risen sharply. Clothing, shoes and the things which go with them are not luxuries, though they are almost being forced into the luxury class. Some services have increased in price either through shortage of materials, or shortage of labour, or both. The cost of running a home is surely more than 17 per cent. as much again as it was before the war.

And most of us are not content with the necessities of life; we want the luxuries as well, and as long as they can be bought, we will buy them. Dispute about luxuries is fruitless, though it continues briskly in the correspondence columns of almost every paper we see. Smokers are ready to give up drink, and drinkers are willing to forswear candy for the duration; nobody is willing to give up his pet indulgence, however costly it may become. It may fairly be argued that these are the things which make the difference between life and mere existence for thousands of people, and that they are right to cling to them as long as they can. Certainly the Government takes every advantage of human frailty by taxing luxuries heavily. And thus the cost of living, as opposed to bare existence, goes up.

No one can reckon this increase, for it is different for everyone. But the cost has risen considerably above 17 per cent., whether it is our own fault or not.

Forging Tomorrow's Liberation

By
HAROLD NICOLSON
(Distinguished author and British M.P.)

I HAVE spent practically the whole of this war in London. When I look back along the vista of years which separate us from that strange day in September 1939 when Mr. Chamberlain announced that once again we were at war with Germany I am conscious of many memories. I remember nights when the whole of London seemed to be on fire and when the crash of anti-aircraft guns was interspersed with the rising shriek of falling bombs. I remember mornings when the streets of the great city smelt of dust and ashes, when the roads were blocked by fallen buildings, when the glass of shattered windows lay deep upon the pavements, when the hoses of the fire brigades were strung from road to road.

I remember those anxious days of 1940 when we knew that France was lost and when we feared that the whole British Army might be forced ot surrender. I remember the time when the British Commonwealth stood alone against a triumphant enemy and when between us and surrender there stood only the faith of a great people personified in the will-power and the courage of a tremendous leader. I can remember loss, anxiety, disaster; I can remember weeks when every day the news seemed to be worse and worse; and I can remember how the people of Britain were never discouraged, never divided, never dismayed. And I can recall how step by step and month by month we began to recover and to prepare our strength; how great and powerful nations, unassailable in their own countries, eventually irresistible in their might, came one by one to our assistance. And as I remember all these long and anxious years I realize that today our victory is certain and that in the next few months, though many trials and many disappointments may await us, the great power of the United Nations will build itself up until the moment when the last crashing blow will be dealt to the Axis structure and the whole edifice of their schemes, their ambitions and their power falls in dust and rubble to the ground.

AS I think back on all these glorious and tragic events, I am aware that, having witnessed all these things from London itself, it seems to me that Britain has always been the centre of strength, has always been the fortress of resistance around which the might and majesty of the United Nations has slowly gathered. I sometimes wonder whether, had I spent these years elsewhere, I should have seen the whole terrible picture from a different angle and therefore in different proportions.

Looking up towards the north-west over the vast spaces of Asia, Africa and Europe, I should have seen this little island anchored off the peninsula of Europe and I should have said to myself "But can it really be true that this tiny spot of land upon the world's surface can really have been the core and centre of resistance against the greatest military power that the world has ever known? Can it really be true that the people of Britain, who number only half the population of Germany, who are peaceable people, civilian people, and not trained in the arts of war—can it be really true that these people in the moment of world danger were able, first to take upon themselves this enormous burden, and thereafter to become the centre of so vast an alliance?" Had I asked myself these questions, I should have answered "Yes.... these things are true."

WHY are they true? I do not pretend for one moment that the British people are stronger or cleverer than the other peoples of the world. I am well aware that without the heroic strength of China, without the massive brilliance of Russia's military achievement, without the generous aid and overwhelming force of the United States, this little island, even with the wholehearted support of the Dominions and Colonies could not have withstood for many years longer the organized fury of the Axis and could never have hoped, as we can now hope with certainty, to bring down the twin monsters of German and Japanese militarism to their knees. But although I do not claim that we as a people have such genius for battle that we can conquer all the nations of the world, I do believe that we possess certain great virtues which, in time of danger, fit us to become the champions of world freedom and the centre of resistance against the enemies of mankind.

During that dark year between June 1940 and June 1941 Britain stood virtually alone; but not entirely alone. For Britain had become as never before a focus and a rallying point for the forces of freedom.

Here the battered but undefeated remnants of the continental armed forces—French, Polish, Belgian, Dutch, Norwegian, Czech—regathered their strength. Swollen by the steady stream of brave men who made their way across the narrow seas, these forces became once again disciplined, skilled, well-equipped armies, navies and air forces.

Already these arms of the United Nations have fought side by side with their British and American comrades in Africa and elsewhere. Their navies and air forces have been waging offensive war from British bases; their main armies stand ready for the great advance into tomorrow's liberated Europe.

BRITAIN has supplied the arms, the food, the barracks and camps, even the uniforms for these Allied soldiers; she and America have handed over hundreds of the latest fighter and bomber aircraft, she has replaced Allied warships sunk in service with the latest vessels from her own yards.

These Allied forces in Britain fight under their own officers. Their barracks and camps are regarded as pieces of their own countries. Several maintain their own military cadet and other training schools. The men wear their own national uniforms. But independence and co-operation go together, for all the Allied armed forces are welded into a single strategic unity by the plans of the Combined Staff Committees in London and Washington.

The seven Allied Fleets operating from British waters — the Fighting French, Greek, Netherlands, Norwegian, Polish and Yugo-Slav — have added no fewer than 220 fighting ships and 27,000 officers and men to the United Nations sea strength. A great Allied merchant navy of no less than 6,750,000 gross tonnage sails in the United Nations convoys, each ship an independent entity under its own officers, but each fitted into its place in the common effort by the Combined Shipping Adjustment Board.

Today, several Governments operate freely from Britain or British soil—those of Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Greece, Luxembour, the Netherlands, Norway, Yugo-Slavia and Poland, while the Fighting French National Committee came into being and strength here. These are completely autonomous bodies with their own laws, some with their own civil courts, most with their own financial resources. Here is autonomy and co-operation combined.

The cultural life of the United Nations in Britain is served in many ways—by clubs and social centres, societies, libraries, schools, even universities. Each Government has drawn up plans for the education of its young people along the traditional lines of national culture, setting up its own schools with the aid and co-operation of the British Council. English schools and universities, too, are open to the allies of Britain. Technical schools are preparing the citizens-to-be of liberated Europe for their vital tasks.

The Belgian Ministry of Education, for instance, has with the help of the British authorities established seventeen elementary schools, three secondary schools and a technical school and has arranged some 200 correspondence courses. National and British teachers work side by side in many of these schools.

The Polish Government has several elementary and secondary schools, a college for young soldiers, and even a Polish Medical School attached to the Edinburgh University Faculty of Medicine and staffed by Polish and British professors. A Polish school of architecture is now operating in Liverpool.

SO it is that, while Russia, the British Commonwealth and the U.S.A. contain the main strength of the enemy, the other Allied Nations are fighting and preparing to fight, working in the British war factories and in Civil Defence, and are preparing for the liberation of their own countries.

They have not lost their national freedom, culture or laws during their temporary exile. But they have gained, and Britain too has gained, enormously by new knowledge of and friendship with one another.

The Axis are faced today by an alliance of United Nations, whose purpose is unflinching, whose unity is unassailable, whose might will before long be overwhelming. I do not write in terms of national vanity, since our sufferings may have rendered us proud but have not rendered us conceited. I write with a conviction that Great Britain must hold a central place in this great alliance, and that if we hesitate to place our wisdom, our experience and our virtue at the service of all peoples, we shall fail to fulfil the great responsibility which destiny has placed upon our shoulders.

'INBAD, THE SAILOR

At the Centre of Empire

(By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 15 (CP)—Activities of the Free Italy Movement in Britain are gaining momentum with the liberation of North Africa by the Allies and now by the invasion of Sicily.

Members of the movement whose president is Dr. D. Petoello, a Cambridge professor, met in London, recently to discuss the best policy for propaganda to Italy in these crucial days.

Dr. Petoello said there was little use calling on the Italians to rise unless some stimulus were offered them. After 20 years of Fascism a new generation had grown up in Italy which knows nothing else.

Sir George Clerk, former ambassador in turn to Turkey, Belgium and France, is a full-fledged corporal of the Home Guard in the lowland wilds of Lammermuir. He is 68.

"Nothing higher than that for me," said Sir George. "If I were promoted wouldn't people be asking 'Why are they putting that old dodderer in charge of the lives of men?' I might get thrown out—and I like the Home Guard."

Communist M. P. William Gallacher hasn't a bank account. Here's why:

"I once saved £10 7s 6d," he said in the House of Commons, "I loaned £10 to a pal to get married, my wife collared the 7s 6d and I never saw a penny of it. I have never put a penny in the bank since....."

Leslie Hore-Belisha has completed his week of silence in a Trappist monastery in Leicestershire. An annual retreat, the former war minister believes the problems of life and politics are worth seven days' contemplation.

Egypt's Ambassador to Britain, Dr. Hassan Nachat Pasha, has had a remarkable career. At 19 he appeared as a lawyer in Cairo and won his first case. He took economics and law degrees at Dijon, France, became the youngest professor of criminal law in Cairo, and at 32 was Egypt's youngest pasha.

Then he became virtual ruler of Egypt as head of the palace "cabinet" of King Fuad. Later he held diplomatic posts in Madrid and Teheran, was Egypt's envoy in Berlin for 10 years, then, five years ago, came to London.

Letter To The Editor

ARE YOU A BARGAIN HUNTER?

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—in a recent copy of your paper is this sentence, "Housewives have been going quietly mad in the past couple of months over the increase in prices of fruits and vegetables which in some cases have soared to unheard of amounts and storekeepers have acknowledged that they blush when a customer asks for a price."

A little further on we read, "A check of the retail fruit and vegetable dealers gives the following average prices being asked at the present time," and we quote some of these prices:

Green onions, bunch, 5c and 2 for 15c; radishes, bunch, 5c; beets, bunch, 2 for 15c; rhubarb, bunch, 5c; carrots, bunch, 2 for 19c; leaf lettuce, bunch, 5c.

Most of the other prices quoted are for fruits and vegetables which are out of season, or past the season, here in Peterborough county.

If the housewives are "mad" over prices like those above in these times, your reporter must have been "madder" like the Hatter, and the producers "maddest." They rightly are of the opinion that 5 to 10 cent bargains should be out for the duration. They probably hoped that those with Victory gardens might come to appreciate what it takes to grow even a few vegetables and be willing to pay a fair price. Many who attend the market regularly, state that the bargain-hunting among women buyers is increasing. Do they know farmers receive only 4c to-6c per pound more for cattle and pigs since the war began?

Everywhere we hear city women exclaiming gleefully over 10c milk, and how they use the thick cream from the top of the bottle for coffee, cereal or fruit. One writer for a cooking page of a paper recently explained at some length how she bought two quarts of Jersey milk for a little extra, and from the two quarts, had ½ to ¾ cups of very rich whipping cream, 2 cups of cream for tea and coffee and then 1 quart of milk which is still rich—all at a cost of 25c a day. But what of the farmer who sold the milk?

The farm women, many of them no longer young, are rising as early as five o'clock, every morning, without fail, to help milk the cows, and help again at night, to produce this cheap milk. They are not happy over the prices which are received for milk, especially since there is not enough to allow them the same incomes as women who work in city factories, shops, or offices at wartime salaries and wages. The farm women also know that these same city women who would violently oppose any increase in the price of milk, allow their children to pay 7c per bottle, which is at the rate of 28c per quart, for soft drinks with no food value.

But the protests against this pitiless exploitation of farmers and their families seem to fall on deaf ears. As a result the younger people continue to leave the farms and the older ones who have to stay, are quietly selling off the extra cows which they gladly began to raise three or four years ago. The farmers know that there is no shortage of money to spend (to quote Mr. Gordon of the W.P.T.B. there are 400 millions extra), and they wish a wee bit of it would be added to their low incomes. The women especially long for Hydro power for these hot days, and better quality work clothes which will not require mending and darning after being worn such a short time. They are not willing to board the high-priced extra "Sally Farmerette" help from the urban centres.

A Bible Message

There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day: and there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table....

And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried; and in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame.

But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented. And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence. (Luke 16: 19-21, 22-26.)

Teach Both Languages

Fewer than thirteen out of every hundred Canadians speak both English and French. This is indicated in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics analysis of the last census. Perhaps even more surprising is the fact that there are in this country 115,414 persons who speak neither of these principal languages. It is at least gratifying, however, that the latter figure is 159,715 lower than at the time of the 1931 census.

The statistics show that only 1,474,009 Canadians can speak both English and French. Those speaking only English number 7,735,486, and those speaking only French 2,181,746. This condition is not satisfactory in a Dominion where both languages are "official," where governmental documents are printed in French as well as English and even the currency bills are similarly marked.

It stands to reason that under these circumstances the failure of so many to possess a working knowledge of both English and French is in itself an impediment to much-talked-about and much-sought "national unity."

Correction of the fault would appear to lie in one of two lines of action: either the establishment of English as the only official language, or the placing of renewed emphasis on the teaching of both English and French in the educational curricula. The former alternative is not permissible under the terms and interpretation of the British North America Act. The educational approach therefore remains as the practical and desirable one.

It could be accomplished if all Provincial departments of education were to make compulsory the teaching of both English and French in all schools and particularly in the primary schools. The best time to learn a language is at a youthful age. There would be little difficulty in teaching youngsters in the first grades of public school how to speak English as well as French and vice versa.

The cultural advantages of this practical education would be considerable. The national advantages, leading to a better understanding between the two main racial divisions of the population, would be great indeed. — Brantford Expositor.

22 Blood Donors Make Trip To Belleville

MARMORA, July 15 (ENS) The tenth group of blood donors which visited the Belleville Clinic on Sunday constituted a record, twenty-two making the trip. Others who were ready to go, because of bus accommodation, consented to defer their visit for two weeks.

The donors making up the group were 3rd Donation—William Lavender and Clifford Chambers (incidentally the first local persons to give three donations at the Belleville Clinic) 2nd Donation—Arnold Scott, Mrs. Gordon Scott, Sidney Cheeseman, Mrs. Sidney Cheeseman, Thomas Reid, Gordon Jarvis, Jack Aitchison and George Kerr. Gladys Lucas, Michael O'Connor, Harry Cooper, McKinley Knox, Mallory Knox, Donald Phillips, Fred Johnston, Carman Wright and Oscar Cole.

This brigs the total number of individual donors from Marmora and Deloro up to 154.

German 60-Ton Tanks Captured In Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 15—(AP)—Allied troops have destroyed and captured a number of German 60-ton Tiger tanks in the neighborhood of both Gela and Augusta, dispatches from the Sicilian battlefront said today.

(Canadian and British troops are fighting in that vicinity, having been reported as taking Augusta Tuesday.)

The appearance of the Tigers north of Augusta, which now is in Allied hands, was the first time that German armor had been noted in that area.

Minister's Idea Doctors Move Where Needed

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP).—House of Commons members spent a hot summer day yesterday plodding on through estimates of money needed for government business, and prepared to abandon their Saturday holiday to speed the end of a session now six months old.

They completed examination of Finance Department war appropriation estimates of $143,852,000 and went on to pensions and national health estimates of $15,622,130, which will continue under review today.

As the sitting drew to a close last night, a discussion on shortage of civilian physicians arose and Pensions Minister Mackenzie referred to compulsory measures taken in Australia and Britain to move doctors where they were needed, and said "That may be the only remedy in Canada, unless we succeed in meeting the situation in another way."

He said he understood similar compulsory action was about to be taken in the United States.

Hospitals Criticized.

The Christie Street hospital for veterans in Toronto provided a leading subject for discussion under the pensions branch estimates, with Opposition members from Toronto criticizing the location of the building in a factory district, with its noise and smoke, and protesting the plan to make a $500,000 addition to the existing structure.

The Col. Belcher hospital for veterans in Calgary, also located in a business district, received similar criticism from western Opposition members.

Mr. Mackenzie said he agreed with many of the criticisms of the location of the Christie Street hospital, but the extension was required without delay to accommodate men returning from overseas. It was speedier to make the extension, and this action also would permit economy in staff. But, after the war, it should be the aim to have a new hospital.

In Calgary, a new hospital would be finished in September.

W. R. Macdonald (Lib. Brantford City) said he agreed the Christie Street building was unsuitable for a hospital, and he would like to see the $500,000 for an extension spent on a new hospital at a better site. But the extension was being built to meet an emergency condition.

Several members suggested that the military hospitals now being built should be fitted into the general hospital scheme of the Dominion so they would be of value to communities after the war.

Lack Of Fuel

TORONTO, July 15—(CP)—O. C. Sturdy of the Federal Munitions Department said yesterday that 1,700 Ontario and Quebec industries will be closed next winter because of lack of fuel or heavy restriction on the use of coal.

Nixon Is Ready To Assume More Of Costs

PARRY SOUND, July 15. — The Nixon Government is prepared to assume an ever-increasing share of the costs of education in the period that lies ahead, Premier Harry Nixon told 600 Parry Sound Liberals in the Strand Theatre here last night. He sooke in the interests of Dr. Mickey Armstrong, Liberal candidate for Parry Sound riding.

Coupled with his statement on education was Mr. Nixon's pledge to extend Hydro service as soon as restrictions on the use of metals are lifted. He estimated that in the nine years of Liberal administraiton the Hydro users of Ontario had been saved $125,000,000.

Drew's 'Co-operation.'

Speaking of Opposition Leader George Drew's pledge to co-operate with Ottawa, the Premier remarked that "the Drew method of co-operation appears to be highly destructive." Mr. Nixon asserted that he would continue to co-operate with Ottawa in the future as in the past.

Arthur G. Slaght, M.P. for Parry Sound, denounced Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew for "three and a half years of constant criticism of Canada's war effort." He declared that Mr. Drew sought to have the Bren gun contract cancelled and wrote a magazine article about it, "for which he received $200." Mr. Slaght said it was any man's right to voice constructive criticism, but Mr. Drew, for political purposes, had chosen to constantly belittle and decry the war effort of Canada from the outset.

Turning to the C.C.F., Mr. Slaght quoted from Hansard excerpts from speeches made by C.C.F. members of the House of Commons shortly after the outbreak of war. In these addresses, the C.C.F went on record as being wholly against Canada's military participation in the war.

Shameful Attitude.

"When any one from that party solicits your vote, ask him to explain, if he can, that shameful attitude taken at a time of Britain's greatest peril," said Mr. Slaght.

The speaker said it was an insult to the fathers and mothers of the Ontario boys overseas for the Progressive Conservatives to suggest that the wishes of the active service members would not be expressed by those who held the proxies."

"I throw this back in their teeth," he declared amid applause.

Several hours earlier Mr. Nixon spoke at Gravenhurst, where Frank Kelly was given an acclamation as Libeal candidate for the riding of Muskoka. The Premier spoke to 350 men and women, who suffered in the extreme heat. He reviewed the financial and social service record of the Government since 1934.

Postwar Plan For Ontario Pledged By Drew

TORONTO, July 1' — A pledge to establish a "real" social security and rehabilitation committee, comprising the best brains of the community, to plan for post-war employment of people from the services and war industry, was made last night by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew at an organizaion meeting in High Park, the riding he will contest on Aug 4.

To a record crowd of 250 volunteer workers who turned out to launch plans for the riding campaign, Mr. Drew disclosed that after waiting months for the first meeting of a so-called rehabilitation committee, established by the last Legislature, notification that it would assemble was followed within 48 hours by notice of the calling of the election.

paign, Mr. Drew disclosed that after

"There was no intention on the part of this Government at any time to plan for social security or rehabilitation, declared Mr. Drew.

The calling of the first meeting of this committee, after they had already had decided to dissolve the House and call this election, was merely typical of the cynical disreguard for the welfare of the members of the armed forces and the munitions makers which the characterized this Governent.

"On their record no one has any reason to believe that this Government will take any effective steps of any kind to meet our most critical domestic problem. We have placed ourselves on record in clearly worded resolutions demanding positive action. And we have undertaken that as soon as we are called upon to form a Government we will take immediate steps to create a real social security and rehabilitation committee which will draw upon the very best brains of the Province and will bring to its assistance outstanding representatives of labor, of agriculture, of the veterans and of every other group of our community."

No more important job faced the Province, declared Mr. Drew, than the planning for the employment of the young men and women of the services as they return to civil life and of the war workers whose labor today makes winning the war possible. In Britain plans had already been laid for postwar works and they were planning a brighter and better Britain. The necessary public works to make this possible were already being planned.

There was nothing before the people to indicate that Ontario's Government had done anything to date except the establishment of a committee which waited months and didn't meet. Yet, he said, the decision had to be made whether to plan for a static or a dynamic Ontario, to assume that the period of expansion was passed or to believe that the greatest growth still lies ahead. The Progressive Conservative Party believed that the greatest days for Ontario were yet to come, but that sound planning must be launched to make them possible.

Axis Views Situation As Extremely Serious

LONDON, July 15 —(AP)— The Vichy radio depicted the situation of the Axis in Sicily today as "extremely serious."

Quoting Berlin and Rome reports, the radio declared that "further infiltration attempts must be checked in order to avoid endangering Axis defensive positions in the Cantania Plain."

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army forces "are debouching in masses on the Catania Plain and have strong artillery, tank and air support," said the broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

The Rome communique, recorded by the Associated Press from a broadcast, asserted, however, that Allied pressure finally was being contained by Axis troops, and that strong Allied attacks had been repulsed. Parachute troops which had landed in the Catania Plain were wiped out, the bulletin claimed.

RAIN FORCES CANCELLATION OF LADIES LAWN BOWLING TOURNEY

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

Sired in Scotland, Eugene P. Gray's steady two-year-old Fighting Scot took the measure of a field of four juvenile trotters in the $3,703 National Stake at North Randall Park, Cleveland, yesterday, winning a straight-heat victory with driver Tommy Berry assisting.

The Scot won the first heat of the trotting races by five lengths and the second by two, besting the first choice A. L. Derby entry of Yankee Maid and Rilda Mite. When the Bellows Falls, Vt., colt moved up to challenge Yankee Maid in the initial heat, the Maid broke gait, while Rilda Mite lost the lead in the final mile, going into a late break.

A long-shot came through in the $1,000 Tanglewood Farm Stake for 2:15 trotters when Princess Mite, owned by O. C. Adelman, Mt. Vernon, O., won the third and fourth miles after Chuck Signal and War Glory took the first and second rounds respectively. Bob Plaxico drove the Princess, who was a 20-1 gamble.

Four heats also were raced in the $1,000 Edwards Stake for 11 class pacers, won by Supreme Hal, who took the third and fourth rounds.

Members of Same Class.

Five members of the team representing No. 1 Command R.C.A.F., Toronto, who won the Senior O.H.A. championship last winter, are members of the same class of the Elementary Flying Training School at Sky Harbor, Goderich. Four of 'em are former N.H.L. players, Douglas McQuaig, Detroit Red Wings; Walle Wilson and Norman McAtee, Boston Bruins, and John McCreedy, Toronto Leafs. The fifth is Murray Henderson, former Toronto amateur puckist.

Seven Supervisors.

According to Philip Phelan, War Services Secretary at Toronto, the Knights of Columbus already has seven supervisors with the Canadian troops in Sicily along with representatives of other auxiliary services and programs of sports and entertainment are under way without delay. Sports organizers from Ontario include J. W. Walsh of Kitchener.

Jack Portland, sturdy hockeyist who first used his weight with his home-town team of Collingwood, has thrown in his lot with the Canadian (Active) Army, joining the Provost Corps at Montreal, where he turned pro with Montreal Canadiens back in 1933.

Daily Double Of $1,621.40

Eighteen holders of the daily double at Suffolk Downs yesterday received the largest payment of the New England season when each cashed in to the extent of $1,621.40. Bus Girl was the winner of the opener at 8-1 while the second winner was Quick Baker, a maiden which the mutuels returned 41-1.

McCarthy Still Quiet

Manager Joe McCarthy, who piloted the American League outfit to a 5-3 victory over the National Leaguers in the all-star clash at Philadelphia, was still uncommunicative last night on the reason why he ignored his Yankee celebrities either in the starting line-up or as substitutes. The incredible plan of leaving out of the fray all members of the team that has won seven pennants in eight years and is now leading the league had all but McCarthy talking. "We won, so what?" he opined.

34 Days Of Racing

Four of the major associations of New York state will sponsor the 34 days of harness racing at Empire City track commencing July 29. Three days of the meeting, Aug. 10-12, will be taken over exclusively by the Goshen Mile Track Association for special cards which will include the classic $40,000 Hambletonian for three-year-old trotters. This feature is dated Aug. 11.

22 Rinks Are Entered In Tournament

As for the Ladies' Open Rink tourament, sponsored by the ladies of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, and was scheduled for yesterday afternoon and evening is concerned, it will go down on the club records as "unfinished business".

The heavy rain that came around five oclock and lasted until about 7.30 left the greens in such a wet condition that the committee was forced to cancel the tournament and refund the entry fee. This is not the first time that this has happened and the committee was far seeing enough to insert in the rules a clause covering just such an occasion.

It was not the biggest entry that our ladies have had but Lindsay, Port Hope, All Saint's and our own club made up twenty-two entries.

In the first round there was some mighty fine bowling and we believe that if the rain had not of halted the second round, when it was half way through, that the spectators would have seen some real exciting finishes.

Of course, there will be the aftermaths of the cancelled tournament. What might have happened if the rain had not come. We can hear something like this: "well, we won our first game and were two up in this one, we would have won alright" or maybe this—"We had had just four more ends to go, and were we bowling. Oh, yes, we intended to fill the Duffus Cup alright', and so it will go on our on and on.

Mr. F. Dearborn, who was pinch-hitting for President R. F. Downey made a short speech and welcomed all. Mrs. Beatty also welcomed the bowlers and said that she hoped that the best "man" would win.

But our ladies tournament was not the only one that was rained out. Over at Uxbridge the same thing happened, only they never got started the second game and our information is that the sky was so dark that they put on the lights at 4.30 o'clock. It was a men's treble tournament and a visiting team had the honor of scoring a possible nine.

The Peterborough rinks were: R. Hopkins, J. Fitzpatrick H. Freeman, skip.

C. Williamson, R. Burns, G. Gimblett, skip.

The Cobourgh tourney was also rained out.

The Military Training Centre ball club, after absorbing a rather unexpected beating at the hands of the 4th Battery the other night will be stepping on all eight tonight when they meet Andy Delpellaro's Combines in a league game at Riverside Park. The Soldiers who had first place all to themelves before that reverse now find themselves tied with Genelecs and so they will be gunning for a win tonight to open up a lead again. Combines too are anxious to get back to their winning ways after losing a couple of games and they will battle the Soldiers to the last ditch in the hope of grabbing off a victory that will keep them up near the top. Johnnie Walker whose relief pitching Tuesday night stopped the Battery cold after they had won the game at the expense of Jack Wilson is the probable starter for the Soldiers, although Tom Parsons might be given a crack at the Combines. Either Sid Craig or Freddy Elliott will get the call for the Combines with Pat Calladine behind the bat. Combines cracked up the last time they met the Military Training Centre club but declare that they will be a different club on this occasion. With only half a game separating the first four teams, every game has an important effect on the standing so this Soldiers-Combines clash should be a peppery affair.

Peterborough is to have three representatives in the Quebec provincial championship meet at Verdun, Quebec., on July 28, Swim Coach Gord Minty announces, adding that he is hopeful of the local trio making a good showing, although the competition will be keen. Young Billy Lech, has entered in the junior 100 yards breast stroke competition, the style of swimming in which Peterborough used to score when Al Marshall, now in the R.C.A.F. was competing. The youngster has been showing good form in training and Coach Minty is counting upon him giving an excellent account of himself. Entered in the senior men's 100 yards breast stroke and also in the back stroke event is Gordon Gildner while Andy Brown will compete in the men's 100 yards free style event. Coach Minty will accompany the Peterborough squad to Verdun and hopes to bring back a trophy or two as a result of the eastern jaunt.

Whipper Coming Back

The announcement that Whipper Billy Watson is coming back to Peterborough next Monday night to battle with Toar Wilson, the fighting Marine will be received with satisfaction by Peterborough wrestling fans. Watson made a real hit with the crowd here Monday night with his speed, cleverness and all-round skill and the local followers of the game will welcome the chance to see the Toronto speedster in action again. For a big boy, he is one of the fastest grapplers that has been seen performing here. As for his opponent Morgan, the leatherneck is powerful, fast and courageous and anybody who saw him battle ponderous Jerry Monohan or the pugnacious Bunny Dunlop knows that he will make the British Empire champion cook with gas to get a decision over him. The Marine gave away many pounds in those brawls but he won both of them in convincing style and the Whipper had better come here prepared for a busy evening. There is nothing about Morgan that resembles a pushover. Frank Tunney is not satisfied with giving Peterborough such an attraction in the main bout. He is in addition bringing the celebrated John Katan, one of the best of the current crop of mat artists here as a semi-final battler. Katan has been piling up quite a record and he is a powerful and capable grappler who is tough enough to make few of the boys anxious to go looking for him.

Athletes apparently got no favors when their draft numbers are up in the United States. Howie Pollet, crack southpaw of the St. Louis Cards had been selected as one of the pitchers for Tuesday night's All-Star game but the American armed services grabbed him over night and he was ordered to report Tuesday morning for induction into the army. They didn't even give him a day's extension to take part in the annual classic. We are not so tough over here where athletes are shoved into staff jobs in the armed services all over the country to hold them because of their proficiency in hockey, football or even softball. This column is strongly in favor of sports for military organization but the practice of hanging on to able-bodied young men for months and even years after they should have hit the trail for overseas, simply because of their athletic ability, is not good for the morale of the armed services and is unfair to the war effort, to the soldier athletes themselves and to the thousands of other young Canadians who get no such favors when they put on their country's uniform.

From An Umpire, Too

When an umpire comes out with a plea for officials to be jockeyed by players that, neighbors, is news...Ken Colling who has performed for years as a baseball arbitrator has the following in his Belleville sport column: "The other day an ardent softball fan complained regarding the strictness of local umpires during softball games at the Fair Grounds. "The fans today want to hear bench jockeying and players giving the opposition and umps the verbal blast. It shows such players are in the game, on their toes and battling. I do not suggest that insulting or derogatory remarks are necessary or to be tolerated, but jockeying in ball has become part and parcel of the game," stated the fan as he wants to know why there aren't more players with fight in them today. There is much to what this fan says. What has kept the Brooklyn Dodgers on the sport pages for these years back except their bench and field jockeying. Of course if the players take chances and overstep the mark of reason they can expect to pay the penalty, but umpires also should remember the public don't pay to see them wave players out of a game without some good reason. Even then an umpire can still be respected by not hearing too much, especially if the remarks aren't being hurled too strenuously at the arbiter. Wrestlers hurl all sorts of taunts even at the fans and see the following the grunters play to every Wednesday night."

* * * * * *

So old Bobo Newsom has been sold down the river. The Brooklyn Dodgers have traded the veteran to the St. Louis Browns for a couple of ancient heavers, Archie McKain and Fred Ostermueller, neither of whom has made much of a dent in the win column this season. Of course this is not a new experience with Newsom. He has made something like 17 moves in his big league career but to be parceled off to the Brownies for a pair of dobutful vintage hurlers after winning nine games as against four losses is humiliating, that's what it is, humiliating. And Bobo who has been disposed of because of the recent storm in the Brooklyn camp when Durocher suspended the stormy petrel for "general insubordination" is kicking over the traces. He says he has had one of the dirtiest deals in baseball and flatly declares he won't report to St. Louis. All of which adds up to the departure of the old timer from the big league scene. He'll have to play ball with St. Louis or else. However we have a suspicion that a lot of the fans will string along with the colorful Newsom. He's a great pitcher and in spite of his fauts the followers of the game like him.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 15—(CP)—Little Sydney Wooderson, fast approaching his amazing pre-war form, ran Britain's fastest mile of this war at a London revival of the British Games, then went on to beat the mark by a couple of days later.

Running at Manchester, the bespectacled speedster hit the tape in four minutes, 11 seconds, to beat a British Army sergeant instructor, Harry Brown, by 50 yards. He ran 2.8 seconds slower than that to win the British Games mile by a yard from Doug. Wilson, London youngster who had a previous victory over Wooderson.

A 20,000 crowd watched Sydney at White City under conditions all against fast running. Wooderson, as is his custom, took the lead from the crack of the pistol and never lost it. Wilson made a great effort on the back stretch but couldn't make up the deficit.

More than 200 athletes competed in the games, which included relays as well as races from the 100-yard dash to two miles.

All this running revived talk of a four-minute mile and Fred Appleby, Britain's greatest distance runner of 40 years back, is one who believes it will be achieved. (Holder of the world's mile record of 4:04.6 is Gunder Haegg, Swedish fireman now touring the United States.)

"Forget any method of training we know at present," Appleby told a London sport columnist. "Given the necessary brawn, pluck and speed, the problem simply boils down to the need to find 10 yards every quarter mile. One stride extra on each 110 yards would do the trick.

"I think it can be done by mental application and the adoption of a system calling for a special effort on a special diet which has not been exploited up to now."

Within the next couple of months, sport in Britain will complete a collection of £1,000,000 (approximately $4,450,000) that has been going on since the start of the war for the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance Fund.

Billiards leads the individual sports total with £74,155, followed by golf with £59,771, soccer £55,122, darts £46,688 and greyhound racing £44,461.

That's considered an amazing contribution for a tax-plagued country at war the last four years.

Canada's Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, has been re-elected president of the Football Association. He sent a message from Ottawa to the recent annual meeting of the Association, congratulating it on helping to keep up morale of the British people through its professional soccer activities.

LOVE FROM SCOTLAND

EDINBURGH — (CP). — Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Anderson of the First Army in North Africa surprised a Scottish woman by answering a letter she sent to him in the desert. "It so encourages me and my men," he wrote "to know that the love and good wishes of you all at home sustain and strengthen us all the time."

NEWARK BEARS WIN TWO GAMES WHEN TORONTO LEAFS ARE IDLE

Buffalo Bisons Even Up With Montreal

(By The Associated Press)

If the leading Toronto Maple Leafs remain idle long enough, the second-place Newark Bears may be able to do something about whittling down that fate edge held by the Canadian club.

The Bears picked up a full game on the Leafs yesterday, thanks to a double-barrelled triumph over Syracuse Chiefs as the Leafs' game with Rochester was postponed.

The scores were 6-4 and 8-4, the second game being featured by an eight-run uprising in the sixth inning at the expense of three Chief hurlers, with Lynn Nelson charged with the loss eventually. Steve Roser, who gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth, received credit for his seventh win.

The first game marked the eighth victory of the season for Pitcher Jim Davis, although he needed Phil Page's tight relief pitching the last three innings to save the day. Mike Schultz was tagged with the loss.

The Jersey City club, behind crafty five-hit pitching by Ken Trinkle, defeated Baltimore Orioles, 4-2, but had to wait until the eighth inning to do it. The little Giants broke a tie in that frame, scoring twice on Hudson's double, a three-base wild throw by Sczepkowski on Torres' sacrifice, and a double by Drew.

The victory gave the Jersey City club a four-out-of-five game edge in the series.

Clouting three Montreal pitchers for 17 hits, Buffalo Bisons scored an 11-3 triumph to earn an even break in their series.

Jack Tising kept the Royals pretty well under control most of the time, easing up in the late innings after the game was on ice. He gave up seven hits, three of them coming in the seventh inning to account for two runs.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 15—(CP)— The game of cricket presents a challenge for biological research. Snapshots sternly rejects the challenge; but it is curious why offspring of cricketers so frequently follow in pappy's footsteps, showing a definite liking for white flannels with intervals for tea. The fact that cricket is almost exclusively a family affair is given added proof by the roster of the Toronto St. Simon's eleven which has five Paynes, four Smiths and the Killeg twins. The Paynes are all related and so are the Smiths. This condition is general wherever cricket is played in Canada. Find a father who hits his boundaries regularly and the odds are that before father retires you'll find junior at the wicket hitting fours and sixes with obvious delight.

Predictions, Unlimited

Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan: "If the National Hockey League operates next winter the brand of hockey will be inferior—just as is the ball being played in the major leagues. The teams will be comprised of players under military age and those who are unfit for military service. At first glance that might seem a dismal outlook but as long as the competition is keen, you can be sure sport-hungry fans won't mind."

Incidentally:

Bill Mjogdalen, big lineman imported from the United States football market by Regina Roughriders before the war, now is reported to be a major in the U.S. Army in the South Pacific . . . Bob Fritz, another imported grid star who made his mark in Canada as coach and star halfback of Winnipeg Blue Bombers' 1935 Canadian champions, is well on his way to becoming an R.C.A.F. pilot at Davidson, Sask Bob always had a gift for $10 words but he surpassed himself at Davidson in this interview with a Winnipeg Free Press writer: "My training so far has inculcated in me a sincere and all-encompassing respect and admiration for the boys with their wings up." . . . . Girl caddies at the Radio Broadcasters International Golf Tournament at St. Catharines, Ont., on Sunday will be sartorially perfect, wearing the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack on their backs as head adornments.

Newsom Traded To St. Louis For 2 Pitchers

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Fireworks still are popping among the Brooklyn Dodgers and that loud noise you heard last night was Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom exploding as he was bounced out of the Brooklyn baseball parlor.

The latest repercussions from the Dodgers' family feud were a statement by Branch Rickey, president of the club, that he would support Manager Leo Durocher to the limit and an announcement that Newsom, the cause celebre of last week's rebellion, had been traded to St. Louis Browns for a pair of antiquated southpaws, Fritz Ostermueller and Archie McKain.

Newsom, never at loss for words, roared in defiance:

"I don't want to play in St. Louis. I won't play in St. Louis and I'm not going to report.

Will Quit First

"I got the dirtiest deal any ball player ever got. I've been the boat all the way through this thing. I guess I'll have to quit and I will quit before reporting to St. Louis."

Whether or not the boisterous Bobo goes through with his threat remains to be seen. Changing uniforms is no novelty to him for even before today he was the most traded pitcher in the big leagues and, in fact, during 13 seasons in the National and American leagues had been with the Browns, Brooklyn and Washington twice each.

Newsom, if he reports, should help the Browns. He won 20 games for them in both 1938 and 1939 and in 1940 he won 21 and lost only 5 in leading Detroit to the American League pennant.

His pitching this year has been the most consistent of any of the Dodger hurlers and his present record of nine victories and four defeats is one of the best in the National League. Although the Dodgers need southpaws, Ostermueller and McKain cannot be expected to match Newsom's work.

But Rickey felt either Durocher or Newsom would have to go as the result of the insurrection of the players last Saturday, when they revolted because Newsom had been suspended for what the manager later termed "general insubordination" and more specifically described as refusal to follow pitching instructions.

However, the blow-up apparently has blasted any Brooklyn hopes of winning the National League pennant.

He's Top Pitcher In Majors

Here is Orval Grove, star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, who is the hottest flinger in the major leagues today. Grove, who won only four games against six losses last year, has turned in seven straight victories this year without a defeat. His most recent effort was a 1-0, one-hit shutout of the Yanks. Grove is 6 feet 3 inches tall and hails from Mineral, Kan.

Lack Of Funds Starts Skating Queen On Road To Movie Stardom

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Canadian.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif —Miss Belita Gladys Olive Lyne Jepson-Turner athletic English society girl, her fashionable mother and her French maid, were stranded in New York city without a cent four years ago.

To-day, this same tall, blonde girl b sks in filmdom acclaim as a new Sonja Henie and is quite reconciled to the necessity of having to earn her own way until the war is over and the family income is thawed out in London.

Belita came to the U. S. seeking treatment for a back injury, sustained in a fall on the ice of St. Moritz, Switzerland. Then the war broke out and British currency regulations forbade the export of money. The Jepson-Turner family had extensive investments in Argentina and from them she had an independent income via a London banking house.

The news soon followed that the family estate at Hampshire had been taken over by the government for military purposes. Her father, a mapor in th eBritish army, wrote that he was back in active sevice. Her two brothers, Capt. B. W. Jepson-Turner and Maj. R. L. Jepson-Turner, went into the service.

So there was no more income—and no longer a family home.

Belita could do a dozen different things. She could dance in ballets, skate wit hconsiderable skill, swim, play a good game of tennis, paint, ski, and, in fact, do most anything a well-bred English society girl could be expected to do.

She earned her first American dollars as an exhibition skater during the intermissions at the National league hockey games in New York city. It was a bare existence for herself. mother and the maid.

When the hockey season ended, she had to hustle a little harder. Ice Capades was being organized in New York city. Belita skated right into top billing. The troupe toured the nation and wound up a 42-week road trip in Hollywood.

Her skating attracted a producer's attention. He was convinced that she had possibilities for the movies. "Silver Skates" was her first starring vehicle, in which she was co-starred with Singer Kenny Baker. Her second skating production is on the studio schedule under a contract for two ice pictures a year.

Both of Belita's brothers have become officers with the British Eighth Army. One, Capt. R. L. Jepson-Turner, lost an arm in the North African campaign and was awarded the D.S.O. and advanced to the rank of a major.

Now Belita doesn't care much what happens to the family's investments in Argentina. She's doing all right in Hollywood.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — The A. A. U. handbook won't list any new broad jumping records established by sports writers in July, 1943, but from here it seems that the boys have made some remarkably long leaps at conclusions about what Branch Rickey would say to Leo Durocher and vice versa .... We don't know what "de ravolution" in Brooklyn amounted to, nor what Leo actually said about resigning but anybody who gave the matter a serious second thought realized that Rickey would have to stand back to his manager as long as possible .... The general impression when neither Branch nor Leo turned up at the All-Star game Tuesday was that they were holding their discussion privately while the scribes were in Philadelphia.

Short thought.

If Rickey did give Durocher the heave-ho, or let him resign, he'd be on the spot himself the rest of the season .... any new manager would have to cure the dissension on the club and get the skidding bus back into the pennant fight—two tough jobs .... So if Branch let Durocher out with the no more ceremony .... He's only a hired hand, too.

Shorter thought.

Rickey was laid up yesterday with indigestion .... Wonder if he swallowed some of those stories about the Dodgers? .... or some of Durocher's words .... or maybe his own pride?

One minute sport page.

If Gunder Haegg returns to Sweden by plane instead of by tanker, he will likely make his farewell appearance at Yankeke Stadium about August 21 instead of at New Orleans. And he may try for a mile record at Princeton as a build-up for the last show .... Luis Angel Firpo plans to send his amateur heavy weight, Abel Cestac, to the United States this Fall in hopes of building him into a heavyweight title contender. Rancher Firpo says he's had an invitation from Jack Dempsey, but the fight mob might appreciate it more if he left Cestac at home and shipped a couple of steers instead.

Kennedy Fails

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Gerhard Kennedy of Winnipeg, present Manitoba open champion, carded an 83 and failed to qualify in the preliminary round of the Provincial Amateur Golf tournament yesterday. LAC. Harold Eidsvig of Winnipeg led a field of 75 with a par 72, followed by Allan Boes, Ken Harvey and George Cotton, each with 75.

40 Innings No Score

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(AP)—After a run of 40 innings without a score against him, Pitcher Al Brazle of Sacramento found himself sold to the St. Louis Cardinals for cash and a pitcher. Brazle set what has been called a modern Pacific Coast League record.

Reese Discharged

CAMP CAMPBELL, Ky.—(AP)—Because he was found to be over 38 years of age, Cpl. Jimmy Reese, former major leaguer, has been discharged from the U.S. Army, it was announced here yesterday. But Reese, who formerly performed for St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants, is not returning to baseball as he has been assigned to supervise the camp's Red Cross recreational program.

Drew Plan Said Too Costly By McArthur

TORONTO, July 15—Continued extension, as Provincial revenues permit, of grants to schools on a basis under which more needy schools receive a greater proportion than areas able to bear a bigger cost share, was urged last night in a radio address by Hon. Duncan McArthur, Minister of Education, instead of the Progressive Conservative proposal of Provincial assumption of one-half public school costs.

Pointing out that such grants have increased $1,000,000 in the past two years and are 70 per cent greater than in 1930, Dr. McArthur revealed that there are some townships with an assessment available per pupil of more than 350,000 while others have less than $250. of assessment for such purposes. In an effort to equitably aid all schools, the Province distributed the grants where greatest need existed; for instance, the grant paid on the basis of attendance to poorest school sections was $6 per pupil, and to the richest sections, $1.50.

Might Require $25,000,000.

No matter was more intimately related to the welfare of the people than that of education, Dr. McArthur submitted, but none should be utilzed less for the extension of glittering promises, where he asked, would money come from to meet the promises of Progressive Conservative leader George Drew and C. C. F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe? There might be $25,000,000 required. And facing a possible period of declining revenues, with the war still to be paid for over many years, no more serious harm could be done than to attain a position from which there must be retreat. Stability of school grants was vital to local school boards; without such stability they could not plan soundly.

True, he said, there were states in Australia, as Mr. Drew said, which paid more than 50 per cent of school costs. But the conditions provided that the central authority employed the teachers as civil servants, and allocated them to the schools. Was Ontario, he said, prepared to assume such a condition. The little red school house was still a symbol of democratic self-government and it was a truism that the closer the governing body was to the people, the better was that government.

Training Program Begun

Faced with the revelation of the number of men turned down by the armed forces for physical or mental ill-health and studying the increase of juvenile delinquency, Ontario's Department of Education had acted, not promised he declared. An Ontario Youth Training program had been launched, with $250,000 set aside for its needs. Federal authorities, becoming interested, had entered the discussions until now the program had become nationwide.

Similarly, another committee had been set up to study plans for postwar rehabiliation of men returning from the services. As background for this committee, the Province had launched a War Emergency Training Program which had turned out half the 1,000,000 men trained for special war jobs. Today it was examining every available method of employment, co-operating with the various other Government departments such as Highways, Lands and Forests and Mines to ascertain the extent to which employment could be found for men, in addition to its plan for training under a widefold scheme which already involved planning to utilize large buildings for training centres. Plans for training hundreds of instructors were already under preparation.

In keeping with this program, he said, the Government was also studying such matters as the possible extent of mineral developments, the application of new methods of production, the utilization of new materials, the erection of public buildings—in respect to which it was already discussing with municipalities what buildings could be erected and what work could be posponed to provide postwar employment.

How It Looked At The Beginning hour."

(This report said units of the 8th Army were advancing both along the coast towards Catania and inland toward the important Axis air base at Gerbini. Radio Algiers said Catania airdrome had been attacked from the air and sea twice in the past 24 hours.)

Fall of Catania Imminent.

The fall of Catania, Sicily's second largest city, was reported imminent last night by Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press war correspondent in Algiers.

His dispatch reported the airfield of that key city on the east coast of the island was subjected to a heavy naval bombardment on Tuesday and that the airdrome was immobilized.

Catania is 25 miles north-east of Augusta, which yesterday's Allied communique announced was captured on Tuesday. In the course of the advance that saw Augusta fall, Canadian and American troops met just outside Ragusa and also captured that town.

The Canadians also took the town of Modica, an important highway junction.

Axis resistance still was sporadic and the swiftly-spreading tentacles of the invaders already have enveloped more than 12,000 prisoners, it was announced last night.

There were indications, however, that a great battle, possibly with strong forces of tanks slugging it out, now impends on the rolling Catania Plain.

(The Canadian Division is supported by a tank-equipped Quebec regiment, according to Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent in Sicily.)

Here are located many air fields, all grouped around the inland city of Gerbini.

The elite Nazi Herman Goering Division has dug in on these plains it was reported by Associated Press correspondent Paul Kern Lee in a dispatch yesterday from "aboard a British cruiser in Catania Bay."

Lee reported Royal Navy warships were shelling the villages of Lentini and Carlentin on the road to Catania. A core of Axis resistance has developed around these villages, Lee said, but added that new forces of parachute and glider troops landed north of both towns on Tuesday night and a "cleanup of the entire area is expected shortly."

Lee's dispatch said Axis air intererence has been noticeably less bothersome in the past two days, although it still brings forth an ear-splitting barrage from anti-aircraft guns on frequent occasions.

Spotters ashore pick targets for the British naval units patrolling "in great strength" along Sicily's eastern coast, Lee said.

Although Lee reported Lentini still resisting, other dispatches indicated Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's battle-tried Eighth Army, advancing up the coastal road, already may have occupied that objective and be standing on the edge of the plain.

(The Algiers radio said Wednesday night that the Allies had driven a wedge into the defences of Catania.)

To the southwest, an American spearhead, striking inland from the narrow strip held by Gen. George S. Patton's United States 7th Army along the lower coast, has advanced 15 miles toward Caltagirone, southwestern gateway to the Catania plain.

Thus, it appeared that on this rolling territory the first major battle for control of Sicily may be fought.

Observers here expressed belief that the continuing advance of the British, Canadian and American armies would force the Italians and Germans either to launch a determined counter-assault momentarily or face the possibility of evacuating the island within a week or 10 days.

Nutcracker Strategy

These observers said it appeared obvious that an Allied nutcracker strategy was beginning to shape up, with the 8th Army, securely covered by both warships and overwhelming numbers of Allied planes, pushing relentlessly northward to cut off Axis escape and the Americans pressing on the western jaw.

While the American column still was at least 30 miles distant from the western edge of the Catania Plain, the general direction of its thrust implied an Allied plan aimed at smacking the Catania defenders from the rear. This column hit a German unit at Niscemi, only a few miles from Caltagirone.

The Americans, meeting more resistance than the British and Canadians also were taking more prisoners, 8,000 of the 12,000 total falling to them in their push inland and northwestward along the coast toward Agrigento.

ROSENEATH

Love Essential For Perfection Society Told

ROSENEATH, July 15 (ENS).—The essentials in the perfect pattern for Christian womanhood were summed up in one word, "Love," by Mrs. M. C. Fisher of Gore's Landing in her address as guest speaker at the annual "At Home" of the W.M.S. held on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fisher analyzed love as patience, kindness, generosity, humility, unselfishness and sincerity, dwelt on the virtues of each, and summed it up as the greatest of all things, greater than faith, and the motive of all great sacrifices.

Mrs. Fisher was introduced by the president, Mrs. R. Crego, who presided, and Mrs. G. L. Tucker welcomed the guests.

The meeting was held in the Town Hall, and representatives were present from Fenella W.M.S., Centenary W.A., St. James' Anglican Church W.A., Alderville United Church, Roseneath W.A., and Roseneath W.I. All W.M.S. members were in attendance.

A short musical program was presided over by Mrs. D. Brisbin, and included piano solo, "The Dream of the Shepherdess," by Miss Betty McMillan; piano solo, "On Wings of Song," by Miss Adelaine Mouncey; piano duet, "Two Guitars" by Misses Clarice and Betty Atkinson, and a vocal duet, "Is It Thine?" by Misses Margaret and Clarice Atkinson.

Ships To Carry More

Gnr. McCracken has been overseas for two years, and his brother-in-law, Gnr. Martin, has been over since October, 1942.

Papers Want War News

WASHINGTON, July 14 — (AP) —President Roy Roberts of the American Society of Newspaper editors said yesterday at meeting of advisory committee to the office of wartime information that they are "not interested in propaganda," but "in getting more war news to the public."

Charter Needs No Endorsement

LONDON, July 15 (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today the Atlantic Charter "was not a treaty requiring ratification or any formal endorsement of a constitutional character on either side of the Atlantic."

The prime minister's statement was made in reply to a question from the floor by Maurice Petherick (Conservative), who asked whether the charter, unratified by the United States Senate, "has any binding force on the United States or on Great Britain in view of the dangers to peace treaties which might follow the war."

Mr. Churchill replied in the negative when Mr. Petherick asked if the prime minister would start negotiations for amendment of the charter in view of "the apprehension which exists in this and Allied countries that some of its clauses will gravely hamper freedom of action of the United Nations in settling the terms of peace."

"It was a statement of broad views and principles which are our common guide in our forward march," Mr. Churchill said.

Mr. Petherick referred particularly to the first two clauses of the charter.

The first two points of the Atlantic Charter provide:

1. They (Great Britain and the United States) seek no territorial or other aggrandizement.

2. No territorial changes that do not accord with the "freely-expressed wishes of the peoples concerned."

VOLUNTEERS.

Several Peterborough men volunteered their time as entertainers at the Outboard Marine picnic held on Saturday. The weight lifting team was made up of Joseph McGuire, Albert Blondin, Clifford McInroy, Stanley McBride, and Joseph Zumerick and was a decided success. Young and old enjoyed the efforts of the clowns, Mitchell Grieves, J. White and "Al" Richmond.

GRAIN DAMAGED.

Spring grain in section of Clarke and Hope Townships was damaged by the heavy rain and wind which thundered over the district Wednesday evening.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. William Newman of Lorneville celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their wedding with their immediate relatives Wednesday night. Mr. Newman has spent considerable of his time in this district during the last month assisting F. C. Paterson in contracting with farmers for the planting of milkweed.

STRUCK BY BUS

Two-year-old Nancy Butler was knocked down and sustained bruises but was not seriously injured when she ran in front of a city bus on Albert street Wednesday. The bus was in charge of Ivan E. Cunningham, 7 Grandview Avenue, who told police he had no chance to avert the accident.

POLICE DO WELL

The city police department is not doing badly in the fishing business. Sgt. John Thompson succeeded in landing three nice muskies on Tuesday evening and Wednesday, getting his near the mouth of Steamboat Channel, down the Otonbaee. Officer C. J. McGillen came up with a pair on Wednesday afternoon but the scene of his successful fishing is so far a military secret.

Heigh, R.R. 2, Peterborough; Wilfred More, R.R. 6, Peterborough; and Leslie J. Hardy, 271 Wescott Street.

RANGERS RECRUITS.

Five Peterborough boys enlisted in the Prince of Wales Rangers (R.F.) this week. Their names are: Ralph Douglas Mackie, 499 McDonnel; Edward Booth Chalmers, 208 McDonnel; James Douglas Miller, 83 James; Donald Bliney Whitney, 340 Aylmer; and William David Johnston, R.R. 5.

FIRE REPORT.

A child who was playing under the bridge at Victoria Avenue at the north end of town Wednesday morning set fire to some dry grass and the Fire Department was called to the scene. At 4.50 p.m. a chimney fire occurred at the residence of R. Banham, 271 Simcoe Street, but caused no damage. At five o'clock children playing with matches in the garage at 59 McDonnel Street, home of Basil Hall, set fire to a collection of rubbish, which resulted in damage estimated at $10 to property in the garage. At 3 a.m. this morning there was a short circuit in the wiring of an electric sign of the Kingan Hardware Co., 167 Simcoe Street, but no damage resulted.

Military Honors Given Soldier Drowned Sunday In Lake Mazinaw

Military and civilian honors were accorded the late Quartermaster Sergeant W. C. Caverley, of C. A. (B). T. C. No 32, yesterday at one of the most impressive funeral services ever held in the village of Madoc.

Q M.S. Caverley, weapon training instructor at the Training Centre, lost his life in a drowning accident at Lake Mazinaw, 50 miles north of Madoc, last Sunday. He was spending his leave wtih his family at the lake when the accident occurred.

A private family service was held at the home of the deceased followed by a public service at the Madoc United Church. Hundreds of people crowded into the church for the service which was conducted by Rev. A. Poulter, Minister of church, assisted by Capt. D. W. DeMille, Protestant Padre of the Training Centre.

Following the service, the funeral procession moved through the village to the highway. Veterans and Oddfellows formed the Guard-of-Honor, while the pall bearers, six fellow warrant officers marched alongside the funeral coach.

The procession proceeded to the Foxboro Cenetery where interment was held. At the graveside, the Oddfellows conducted their service followed by military honors. A firing party from the training centre, marched to the grave. The bugler sounded "Last Post" and "Reveille."

Pallbearers were R.Q.M.S. P. H. Tilley, C.S M. W. E. Donaldson, C.S.M. R. Ross, C. S.M. W. E. R. Naylor, Q.M.S. D. J. Champagne, Q.M S. H. L. Ashwin. The party of soldiers representing C. A. (B), T. C. No. 32, was headed by Lieut. J. Kincaid and R S M.. McKenna.

Germans Rush Defence Line

MADRID, July 15—(AP)—The railways of Southern France and Northern Italy have been practically monopolized since the invasion of Sicily by the movement of Axis military supplies toward Southern Italy and Todt organization workers to the Po Valley and Florence, recently returned from that region reported.

The invasion resulted in German orders to speed up two long-planned northern defence lines—in the northern Apennines and along the Po Valley from Ferrara to the Alps at Nice, the travellers said.

They declared that until recently both the Po Valley and Appennines defence lines had been left to the Italian army and labor units working with German experts of the Todt organization, but that now Todt construction crews are being rushed from the "Atlantic wall" fortifications into Northern Italy.

The travellers said this move apparently was inspired by the German conviction that if the Sicilian offensive leads the Allies to believe Italy is soft and ripe for invasion their next push will be straight into Mussolini's mainland.

Reports from Naples concerning incidents in Catania immediately prior to the Allied invasion of Sicily indicated the importance of the foodstuffs which the Allies are taking with them for the civil population.

During the heavy bombings which preceded the landings, these reports said, Allied bombers scored a direct hit on the big flour mill at Palermo which turns out most of the flour and bread for the island.

Catania and other cities depended on bi-weekly rail shipments of bread from Palermo, and when breadshops were forced to close as a result of the bombing, angry street demonstrations developed in Catania, said the reports.

$61,000 Mark Passed For War Victims

It is about thirty-one months since the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fcnd first tbegan to operate on behalf of the sufferers from enemy air raids attacks over Britain. Since that time, not one business day has passed but money has been deposited in the bank to the credit of the fund, and this to-date has holled up the splendid total of $61,017.39, which makes an average of very close to the $2,000 mark for each month the fund has been in operation.

This would seem an appropriate time to remind all those of the fact, that this fund is operated purely in the name of the citizens of this city and district, and that every cent contributed goes for the purpose it has been given, for all services, day by day, month in and out have been given as a contribution to the cause, and all necessary expenses without which no fund of this kind can operate, have likewise been given in the same manner.

Get Together Club.

In the spring of 1941, a group known as the Get Together Club was organized with Miss Nina Thompson as a moving spirit, for the purpose of holding small social events, etc., through which the fund would be enriched by the work and contributions of its members.

That this small group has met with a good measure of success is veidenced by the fact that with the contribution appearing to their credit to-day through Mrs. William Youdell, they have now raised in all the fine sum of $242.00, and right at this moment are engaged in another effort by the sale of tickets for a draw on a quilt donated by Mrs. Youdell, the proceeds of which will also come to the fund.

This latest donaion of $16.00 was made through small parties held by Mrs. G. Kiff, Miss N. Thompson, Mrs. Babbs, Miss Kitson and Mrs. Youdell, Miss Thompson giving her home on London Street for three of the parties.

Back once again, the tiny tots of the Primary Class at Bridgenorth United Church Sunday School continue their good work for the fund with another donation of $2.00, many such having been received from them previously placing them well in the forefront as helpers for the fund amongst those of such tender years as they themselves are.

The penny boxes at the Canadian Bank of Commerce have been steady in their support for the fund ever since they were first placed in circulation, the latest contribution coming through them is listed to-day in an amount of $3.75.

Rangers Practise Loading Of Troops

It can make a lot of difference to a company of soldiers how speedily they can get in and out of trucks and set up defensive positions around them when the moment of danger is at hand. At times like these a minute saved may mean a life saved—or several lives.

The importance of speed in manoeuvres of this kind was demonstrated in a drill staged Tuesday night by the Prince of Wales Rangers (RF) at their weekly parade.

Using six trucks, at a given signal the men of the battalion rushed to the rear of the trucks to jump aboard, and the driver and his assistant simultaneously ran back from the cab to let down the tailgate. The first man aboard had to climb up but successive soldiers are pulled up by their rifles by those who have gone ahead of them, and in this way the entire contingent of a truck is embarked in a matter of seconds.

On arrival at the stopping place the men pile out of their truck in a hasty but well-co-ordinated movement and set up their Bren guns and take their designated positions with a minimum of confusion. They arranged themselves in such order that the troop-carrier itself is afforded ample protection from all sides by their fire-power.

Pleads Guilty Stealing Car

"I don't know why I do those things; I just have to do them," said Norman Robert Bookhout, 22, of castledon, Ont., after he had pleaded guilty in police court this morning to stealing an automobile, the property of Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick.

The car was stolen from behind a service station on Charlotte street where it had been parked by the owner. It was recovered in Hamilton a day or two afterward and Bookhout was arrested by Hamilton police and brought back here for trial.

The youth told Magistrate E. A. Gee that he had been overseas with the Canadian active service force from 1940 until early this year.

"I had a very bad record overseas," he said, "and when they tried to find the reason for it they sent me to an English asylum. Afterward I was discharged from the army as not being responsible for my actions."

Bookhout added that he would like to be sent to the Ontario Hospital at Whitby.

At the suggestion of Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., the accused was remanded a week for sentence.

Premier Nixon Here July 31

Premier Harry C. Nixon has included Peterborough in his campaign itinerary. He will speak here at the Brock Street Summer Gardens on Saturday night, July 31. A provincial-wide broadcast of his speech between 9.30 and 10 o'clock has been arranged.

Mr. Nixon will arrive in the city by C.N.R. at 5.07 p.m. from Toronto, to support the candidature of Liberal representative, Captain A. L. Elliott.

OBITUARIES

JAMES FLEMING

The funeral of James Fleming, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, 48 Aylmer street, who died early Wednesday morning was held the same afternoon from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home at 3 o'clock to St. Peter's Cemetery, Rev. J. J. O'Brien conducted the services at the graveside.

He leaves to mournhis loss, his parents, one sister Carole, one brother Bobbie, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gerard and M. and Mrs. B. Fleming.

PATRICK BURKE.

Patrick Burke, who lived for more than 60 years in Peterborough County, but who has resided at 26 Tracey Street in Toronto for several years, died in St. Michael's Hospital on Wednesday night. He was in his 82nd year.

Born in Douro, he was the son of the late John Burke and Mary McMahon, and after he grew up he worked in Peterborough for several years. The late Mr. Burke moved to Toronto 20 years ago and he has been retired for the past 10.

Surviving are four sons, F. P. Burke of Peterborough, John, Joseph, and Maurice of Toronto, and one daughter, Mrs. O. W. Rowe of Midland. There are three sisters, Mrs. Daniel O'Brien and Mrs. William Guerin of Peterborough, and Mrs. John O'Brien of Edmonton, and one brother, John Burke of Peterborough. His wife died some years ago.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 8:45 from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to the Church of the Sacred Heart for Requiem Mass at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

R. WILLIAMSON BURGESS

The funeral of R. Williamson Burgess was held on Monday from the family residence in Belmont Township, with service conducted by Rev. E. E. Pugsley. Interment was in Norwood Cemetery.

Mr. Burgess, a life-long resident on the farm in Belmont Township, died at his home last Friday after a sudden illness. He was 74 years old.

Born the son of the late Robert Burgess and Nancy Ann Kempt, who were pioneer residents of Belmont Township, he was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and later of the United Church. He was also a life member of the Havelock Masonic Lodge.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Katherine Annie Buck, and a daughter Ruth. Surviving also are one sister, Miss Edith Burgess and a brother John.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. W. Cross, E. McLaughlin, Chas. McConnell, Harry Morgan, A. Wilde and W. G. Barrie.

Floral bearers were Messrs W. Burgess, Perrin Rork, H. P. Kempt, W. E. Pakenham, G. H. Dawson, L. P. Cann, J. Cross, Wm. Thompson, Arthur Beamish, Wilford Buck and H. J. Ford.

Potato Theft Results In Jail Term

William Doherty, former resident of Toronto and veteran of the present war was sentenced by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning to a months' imprisonment in the county jail after he had been convicted on a charge of stealing a quantity of new potatoes, the property of Joseph Dean of the Capitol Grill.

"This was apparently the culmination of two weeks' spree" commented Magistrate Gee in imposing sentence.

Joseph Dean swore that Doherty had been working for him for several months as a cook and waiter and that he had been away some time on "a spree". Witness said that he had three bags of new potatoes in the furnace room of his establishment and last Thursday morning found the potatoes gone and a trail of spilled tubers leading to a gap in the fence between the rear of his grill and the A. and P. yard.

Gordon Gunsolus testified that on going to the C. D. S. parking lot for his car on the night of Wednesday, July 14, he had seen a bag of potatoes east of the fence between the paking lot and the A. and P. yard. He had gone to report the matter to the police and on returning to the scene said that the potatoes had been taken through a hole in the fence and were then in the other yard.

Helped Pick Up Potatoes

Donald Conway, 16, said that the had been in his father's car parked in the rear of the A and P. store, waiting for his father and had helped Doherty pick up some of the loose potatoes and put them in a paper bag.

James Conway, father of the previous witness identified Doherty as the man who had tried to sell him a bag of new potatoes for $1.50. The offer had been made in the beverage room of the Hotel Champlain and Doherty had taken the witness out to where the potatoes were in the A. and P. yard. Conway said he declined to buy them because the price was so low to make him suspicious.

Harry Spargo testified that Doherty had tried to sell him a bag of potatoes for $1.25 a bgg and Constable Leo Murphy told of the arrival of the police on the scene and the arrest of Doherty.

Joseph Dean, recalled, said that the bag of potatoes shown in court was similar to the bags in his cellar that had been taken.

Cook In The Army

Doherty, who said that he had been overseas for two years and nine months of the present war as a cook, swore that he had not taken the potatoes from the furnace room and had no recollection of trying to sell them.

"I had been drinking" he said" and it is possible that I saw the potatoes in the yard and tried to sell them." The accused said that he didn't know anything about the other two bags that Dean said had been stolen.

"I couldn't have sold them" he said" I didn't have any money on me when I was arrested.

"We can only speculate as to the fate of the other two bags" commented Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr K. C.

Doherty's record was produced and it showed only a conviction for vagrancy in Winnipeg in 1914.

"That was for stealing a ride on a train when I was a kid" Doherty explained.

In imposing sentence, Magistrate Gee remarked that drink had evidently been the cause of the theft of potatoes. He had been drinking for a couple of weeks and his money had run out" he said.

Request Refused

Topeka, Kas., July 15 (AP)

ED NELLIS, member of the County Rationing Board, explains why the board refused to allow an 82-year-old woman to buy a rationed bicycle. "She wanted it to travel, to sell her book 'My 39 Years of Hardships in Kansas.' We thought riding a bicycle at her age would make the fortieth year the hardest."

Council Formed To Aid Returning Men

As an intermediate step of local organization for the assistance of service men returning from the war, the Peterborough Rehabilitation Council was formed at a meeting of interested citizens last night.

Officers appointed on the recommendation of a nominating committee were:

President: D. G. H. Melton.
Vice-President: Alderman Sands.
Secretary: Robert E. Layfield.
Executive: George H. Cutmore, James E. Girven, R. R. Faryon, Fred Hills, G. S. Matthews, Captain D. A. Loomis and Chief Gimblett.

The nominating committee was appointed some weeks ago when Bass Dawson of the Department of Pensions and National Health outlined the general purpose of planning for the home-coming of the men on service in the war, and the setting up of machinery to be of help to them in their transition to peaceful occupation and pursuits.

It was then explained that the Department of Pensions and National Health has enacted various pieces of legislation designed for rehabilitation of the service men who will be the veterans of this war. The reinstatement in Civilian Occupation Act was passed in 1942, Veterans' Land Act, 1942; Vocational Training Co-ordination Act of 1942; a Post-Discharge Re-establishment Order with various amendments by the Department.

Name Adopted.

The name Peterborough Rehabilitation Council was adopted, as one of the many similar councils which are being organized throughout the country to assist the Department in being ready to assist men of the various services as they arrive home from time to time and especially when general demobilization takes place after the war. These facts were explained by Mr. Dawson at the inceptional meeting when a group of citizens responded to the appeal of the Department of Pensions and National Health.

The executive has authority to augment its personnel in the appointing of sub-committees to deal with details which will be assigned to them.

The present members were asked to study the legislation that has already been passed, and the next meeting of the Council will take place in three or four weeks.

Winnipeg M.P. To Speak Here

The Rev. Stanley Knowles, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre will be in Peterborough to speak in the interests of Bruce Johnston, C.C.F. candidate for Peterborough West, at the Co-operative Hall, at 8:15 p.m., Friday, July 16.

Mr. Knowles was secretary and provincial organizer for C.C.F. in Manitoba, and polled the largest vote ever recorded in Winnipeg North Centre, when he ran to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Woodsworth's death.

Loud speaking equipment will be available for the outside are in case of an overflow crowd.

Bridge Off Balance

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 15 — (CP)—There was a time when the North Branch Bridge— hand-operated by a capstan mechanism— could be easily swung by one man. Now, harder to swing clear of river traffic, town employees believe the old structure has sagged under the weight of motor traffic and has been put off its delicate balance.

Chocolate Ration Cut

LONDON, July 15—(CP)—British civilians are facing another chocolate ration cut in order that a reserve may be built up to help feed starving children in Europe after the war, the Food Ministry reported yesterday.

Flier Injured Overseas

PO. Douglas J. Quirt, who has been serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas, has been seriously injured in a flying accident while on active service on July 11, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quirt, 425 Sheridan Street. The telegram stated that he had suffered a fractured vertebrae. PO. Quirt graduated from Moncton in 1941, and served on Atlantic patrol before going overseas. There are three other brothers in the forces: PO. J. H. Quirt, with the R.C.A.F. in Canada, is an older brother; Reginald, with an anti-tank unit overseas, and the youngest brother, Robert, is in training with the R.C.N.V.R.

Lightning Hits Radio Aerial

A bolt of lightning played some strange pranks when it struck the radio aerial on the home of George Emery, 485 Rogers street, during Wednesday evening's sharp thunderstorm.

The aerial completely disappeared, part of the cornice of the house was knocked off and then the lightning was grounded through a Hydro wire and down a pole on the street. Fortunately the house did not take fire and no one was injured. Mr. Emery had a narrow escape, however, for the bottom of a laundry tub in the room in which he was sitting was scorched and blackened.

All the fuses in the house lighting system were blown and telephone and several radio sets in the neighborhood were damaged by the bolt.

The bright flash, described by several eye-witnesses as a ball of fire was seen in all parts of the city and the tremendous thunder clap that followed it closely was felt everywhere.

Kitchener Survey Finds T.B. Cases

Ten active cases of tuberculosis were discovered in a recent X-ray examination of 7,000 Kitchener industrial employees, and an additional ten persons are undergoing further examination with the possibility that some of them may have to receive care in sanitoriums.

This condition was disclosed in a survey whose incomplete results were reported to the Board of Health, a fact of some local interest in association with the discussion at the meeting of the Peterborough Board of Health this week.

Dr. J. W. Fraser, Kitchener M.O.H., said: "Some persons were never more surprised in their lives to learn they had tuberculosis. All these cases were found in an early stage." The examination included 8,700 industrial employees. Dr. Fraser said the control of tuberculosis would mean an X-ray of every person over 15 or 16 years every five or six years.

Distribution Of Beer Is Said Unfair

Peterborough's quota of beer and its distribution is taking Alderman Swanston to Toronto Friday with a request for some reasonable consideration of the men engaged in wartime production.

"I understand that the quantity of beer the city is now allowed doesn't last much more than an hour or so," Alderman Swanston said. "Suppose the two local vendor places run out of stock say by 11 o'clock in the morning, that means the factory workers have not had a chance to get any, and that sort of thing can go on from day to day.

Surely there must be some way of arranging the sale and distribution so that the men wearing the factory buttons are going to get as good, if not actually better, a chance as the people who have plenty of time on their hands, uptown merchants, women, visitors, people from the district.

On the face of it, that's not a fair distribution if all these folks are going to get a preference over the factory workers, because that is what it amounts to.

I've been talking to some of the men, and they are really annoyed. They are entitled to buy beer the same as other people. I can't see why the people in the vending offices cannot arrange this thing so that the factory workers will be on par with those around town, many of them doing no work at all. Some of the men tell me they feel they are penalized by their work, and they could go on from week to week and never get a chance to buy a case of beer. They don't want to knock off work to get uptown and line up for a supply, but some of them have been doing it, and that means absenteeism from important war industries."

A department foreman of a local plant told the Examiner that he had missed several of his men one day recently, and he thought they might be at the brewery warehouse. Just to verify his opinion, he went up to the Water street bureau and sure enough there were his helpers and about 40 from another local plant.

"I'm on the side of the men," he said, "and they should get some consideration. People are coming in here from around the district, local business men and women and so on, they all can get it because they're not doing anything important enough to keep them from standing in line two or three hours to get beer. And the brewery people pass it out to them without any thought of the fellows who are working in the war plants. Whatever the quota is, and I haven't the least idea, something has got to be done about this question, because there is too much lost time and it could get worse.

"Why shouldn't it be rationed right at the retail vendors and give the boys a break. They don't want the whole stock or anything like that, but it peeves them to see these other people beating them to it every day in the week."

MILLBROOK

Three Brothers Are In Service

MILLBROOK, July 15 (ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Trick are the first parents, locally, to have three sons now overseas with the armed forces. Mervan, the eldest of the family, enlisted as a bandsman with the Midland Regiment, and was for some time in the West before being sent to England; William and Gordon arrived more recently in the Old Land, the latter being now a despatch rider, and his brother with an infantry division.

Sergeant Earle Edworthy, who has been for two years in England, having enlisted with the S. D. and G. Highlanders, arrived back in Canada last week for a special course, and is at present having two weeks' furlough with his mother, Mrs. F. L. Edworthy. His father, a veteran of the last world war, is now C. S. M. Edworthy, of the Training Centre, Peterborough.

Recent visitors with Mrs. L. A. Abbott, whose husband, the late John Abbott, was a veteran of the first world war, were Troope A. E. Barron, of Camp Borden, and Mrs. Barron, of Toronto, the latter Mrs. Abbott's only daughter. Her only son, Corporal Hugh Abbott, has been overseas for over two years now.

LAW Esther Might, R. C. A. F., (W.D.) of Hamilton, was home for the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Might.

Major Gordon Armstrong, who has been back in Canada for a special course, now completed, with Mrs. Armstrong and their two children, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. H. R. Armstrong.

Bonarlaw News

LAC Elwood Haggerty and his bride arrived from North Battleford on Friday. They will spend a week in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miles, Mrs. Jordan Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Welman, Mrs. Dave Wellman and Charlie, Miss Megan Kew and Elwyn, spent Sunday at Chard's Bridge.

Mrs. F. Hinds received word from her son LAC Kenneth Willman that he was married. LAC Willman has been stationed in Canada for nearly two years. He has two brothers overseas.

Mrs. Gordon Miles received word from her husband, Pte. Gordon Miles, on Friday that he had arrived at a new post somewhere in Canada.

Mr. anl Mrs William Fair of St. Catharines spent the past week visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Moncrief and friends in Millbrook.

51 Boys Attend Camp Kawartha

Camp Kawartha for boys is having a banner season this year and to date has been accommodating as many boys as its facilities are equipped to handle. The opening week saw 49 youngsters in camp, and this week there are 51. In the coming week it is anticipated that as many as 52 boys will be on hand.

For the fourth, fifth and sixth weeks there are a few vacancies as yet unfilled, but registrations are still coming in, and there is little question that the camp will be as well attended in the second half of its session as in the first half.

Food rationing is being coped with successfully at the camp. There are adequate supplies, and careful planning of the meals has made it possible to ensure the boys getting their full quota of vitamins.

Hastings News

Mrs. Russel King and son Garnet of Stewart Valley, Sask., are spending a few weeks with friends and relatives at Hastings.

Guests on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Basil Johnston were: Miss Ferne Preston, Mr. and Mrs. William Preston of Peterborough, Miss Evelyn Rigby, Havelock and Mr. Marvyn Preston.

Miss Ida Wilcox of Peterborough is having a holiday with her sister Mrs. L. E. Kelly.

Mrs. Bert Preston and Mrs. Lottie Oliver were Sunday evening guests with Mrs. L. E. Stinson.

A large number from here attended the Orange Walk on Monday at Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hycke and May were visitors on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. G. Johnston.

Misses Clarina and Margaret Scriver of Kitchener are spending their summer holidays with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Scriver.

Miss Mary Fleming of Campbellford spent the week-end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Fleming.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. Right now simple anemia may be undermining the strength and resistance your daughter needs so badly. Don't wait — get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Seymour—Wells

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. G. A. Wolfe at St. Peter's Cathedral of Maxine Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Wells to Jack Seymour, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Seymour. The bride wore a street-length frock of white lace matching hat and shoulder veil and a corsage of red roses. Her sister, Miss Dorine Wells attended her, in a blue sheer dress and white hat. The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Douglas Gledhill. After a reception the couple left for a honeymoon at Chemong Lake.

Soldiers Enjoy Dance At Brock Arena

Soldiers of C. A. (B.) T. C. No. 32 were the guests of the Citizens' Committee, the Womens Voluntary Services and over 300 young ladies Tuesday night at a dance held in the Brock Street Arena.

It was a gala affair and everyone had an enjoyable time. The dance started at nine o'clock and continued until midngiht. The girls, many of them war workers in industrial plants in this city, volunteered to attend the dance and were greatly appreciated by the soldiers.

The dance was arranged by the Citizens' Committee and six members of the Women's Voluntary Services working in co-operation with Lieut. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D. Music was supplied by "The Melody Men," who kindly donated their services and the soldiers showed their appreciation to the orchestra by giving three cheers at the conclusion of the dance.

Mrs. J. K. Hughes, who heads the Entertainment Committee, supervised the organization of the dance. Capt. D. W. DeMille, Protestant Padre at the Training Centre, assisted in running the dance.

Appreciaion was also shown the management of the Brock Street Arena for their co-operation.

Naval Auxiliary To Hold Tag Day

Mrs. E. Wand, president, was in the chair for the July meeting of the Peterborough and District Women's Auxiliary to the Navy held in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening. Plans for the tag day which will be held this year on September 4 were discussed, and Mrs. E. Ainsley was appointed convener. The date of the tag day has been advanced a month over last year, because of the fact that a much larger number of boys have joined the navy and been sent overseas in the past year and more time will be required for the preparation and mailing of ditty-bags. It was urged at the meeting that mothers of boys in the R. C. N. or the R. C. N. V. R. send the names and addresses of their sons, as soon as possible to Mrs Fred Craig, on Water Street, before September.

There was some discussion about the holding of showers to collect articles for the ditty bags, and anyone interested in holding one of these showers should get in touch with Mrs. Wand.

A report was given on the recently held garden party, and it was found that $110.65 had been made on the raffle of the autograph quilt. The next meeting will be held the second Wednesday in August at the Y. W. C. A. and it is hoped that as many members as possible will attend.

Draped Bathing Dress

Rayon jersey, which is practically sunproof and impervious to any kind of water, is the fabric in this bathing dress. Note the draped bodice with its smart decollete neckline.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS year's bathing dresses deserve the softer name: They aren't swim suits at all, but really dresses. The tops of many of them can't be distinguished from the bodice of evening gowns, really, and many dress fabrics are used for these sea costumes.

In choosing rayon bathing dresses, hold out for a model which has a label guaranteeing the fabric to have a high degree of resistance to sun fading, to deterioration after much dunking in salt or fresh, or chlorinated water.

MARRIAGE LAW'S REPEAL LEAVES YOUTHS FREE TO WRECK LIVES

California Couples Need Not Wait Three Days After Getting License Before Knot Is Tied

CALIFORNIA has repealed its hasty marriage law and couples need no longer wait three days before marriage license applications are granted.

What a pity! For if there were any legal way of securing earthly felicity, it would be by forcing amorous young people to take time to consider what they are about to do when they make their marriage vows, and to decide whether they really want to take each other for better or worse for a lifetime, or only for dining and dancing. So it is bad news to hear that the last life-saving station has been closed, and that foolish, sentimental youngsters have been left free to wreck their lives at the office of the nearest Justice of the Peace.

Time Essence of Happiness

Time is of the essence of happiness in marriage. Given a full moon, a saxophone sobbing in the distance and a few cocktails, and any boy and girl can think themselves in love and that they were made for each other. Hundreds of thousands of them have done so and rushed into marriages with strangers of whom they knew nothing, except that the girl had on a white dress and the boy possessed a strong right arm.

And it didn't take them as long to recover from their temporary infatuation as it did to get over a bad cold and to realize that they had let themselves in for a lifetime of misery. If marriage licenses had return coupons attached to them, many newlyweds would come back from their bridal tour on different trains.

This is because they had never taken time before to really give each other the onceover. They had never seen each other except when they were dressed to kill and when they had on their party clothes and their party manners. They had never gotten acquainted. Neither one knew what the other really thought, or believed, or what hopes or ambitions or purposes animated him or her. They didn't even know what were the tastes and habits and hobbies and peeves of the other.

Minus Love Talk, Conversation Dull

The young husband got the shock of his life when he first saw Angelina with her complexion off and her hair in curlers and discovered how much of her good looks she bought at the drug store, instead of their being the gift of God. He also found, to his surprise, that when they cut out the love talk they had precious little to say to each other; that she took only lukewarm interest in the details of the grocery trade, and that when he tried to tell her how the war should be conducted she yawned in his face.

And when it was borne in on him that she was allergic to the kind of food he liked, and that she preferred looking in shop windows to gazing on the wonders of Nature, and that she respected Papa's opinion more than his, he began to wonder why he didn't investigate the workings of her mind before marriage as carefully as he would have the engine of an automobile before he bought it.

And on her part Angelina is equally surprised to find that Percival is not the romantic hero of her girlish dreams, but just a plain, ordinary he-man. She had thought that he was a big, strong creature, superior to all the vicissitudes of life, and, lo and behold he swears a blue streak if his collar button rolls under the bureau, and says things that no man should say to his wife if dinner is ten minutes late, or the soup has too much salt in it.

She had thought she would spend the balance of her life having him hold her hand and make poetic love to her, and he has dropped all love-making at the altar and she has to wangel a compliment out of him. And he derides her clubs and laughs at her hats, and when she realizes that she has to walk on eggs to avoid stepping on his prejudices and vanities and starting something, she wonders why she did it.

Hazards of Hurried Marriage Always Great

And if the ordinary husband and wife, who have gone through the probation stage of what we call an engagement, know so little of each other that they don't even find out that they have nothing in common, consider the hazards the foolhardy souls take who marry on the spur of the moment, as so many young people are doing now in these days of war marriages. Boy meets girl at a U.S.O., or a canteen, or they pick each other up on the street. They have a few drinks together and then rush around to a quick-order marriage license bureau and the fell deed is done.

They know nothing of each other's pasts or presents, nothing of each other's families or backgrounds, nothing of each other's temperaments and dispositions. They have no material with which to build a house of happiness, and the end of almost all of these marriages is bound to be misery. Nothing but a miracle could save them, and God doesn't waste His time saving fools from their folly.

So it is a pity that the time limit on getting married should be speeded up instead of of lengthened. If it took three weeks instead of three minutes to get a marriage license, it would save a lot of divorce.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q. I received coupons for only ten pounds of canning sugar, yet I applied for two persons. What should I do about it?

A. You hould get in touch with your Local Ration Board office right away and give them the particulars. They will check your application on file and advise you.

Q. We have just taken a new hired man on our farm. He has no ration book at all. What should we do?

A. Your new man should apply at once to your Local Ration Board office for a ration book.

Q. We are spending a week at a summer hotel. How many coupons covering sugar, tea, butter and meat is the management entitled to take from our ration books?

A. For seven days stay the hotel is required to take one butter and two meat coupons from each person's ration book, but no sugar or tea coupons need be surrendered for only a week's visit....... For those who are hotel guests for two weeks, the hotel management must collect one sugar, one tea, two butter and four meat coupons from each guest's ration book .... For each succeeding week or two weeks, coupons must be similarly surrendered.

Q. Wher do I apply for a baby's ration book

A. By presenting the baby's birth certificate at your Local Ration Board office, you will receive a ration book for the baby.

Marvella Pearls

The simple summer frock of printed crepe with its lowe neckline and short sleeves; the tiara hat of moss rosebuds, the string of handsome synthetic pearls, create a bride costume.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS pretty girl is dressed in a fashion which many are choosing to replace the white satin and tulle of other wedding days. The trend now is to get your man while you can (or is that the same as always?) and wear for the ceremony an ensemble easily got together, and one which will be useful in the trousseau.

The traditional bride ornament has always been pearls; here we have man-made pearls which are faithful replicas of the real thing, and which are quite as desirable, perennially popular for wear with everything from the bridal gown to the knit pullover. One, two and three-strand pearl bead necklaces are equally favored.

Have You A Family Who Raid the Ice-Box?

By MARY MOORE.

The fundamental things such as eating, sleeping and keeping clean are just the same in your house as they are in mine.

This week I'm thinking I have to find some variations for serving my unrationed meats—for fried liver, and kidney and onion stew and baked hearts are becoming too familiar—I, Emem, may rapidly lose caste.

The liver loaf I've described below should be called Mock Pate de Fois Gras to give it the glamour it deserves for it is at its best when cold and we're at the peak of the season when delicious cold tidbits in the refrigerator are most appreciated.

I think a home where the family is allowed to raid the ice- box is a success, because it is the heart of the establi hment and keeps the other departments running.

Let your family be ice-box raiders. My selections for to-day give them ideal prey.

LIVER LOAF (Or Mock Pate de Fois Gras).

One pound liver, (calves' liver is best, but pork and baby beef serve quite nicely), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon butter, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, ¼ teaspoon of red pepper, ¼ teaspoon of allspice, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 eggs. Wipe liver with cold damp cloth. Now there are two methods of preparing the liver: (1) It may either be pounded with steak-pounder enough so that it can be forced through a sieve or (2) it may be parboiled just barely enough to "set" it so it may be forced through grinder. Whichever method you use as soon as liver is reduced to pulp blend butter and seasonings with it. Add the eggs, well beaten. Force through coarse sieve (this gives the finished loaf a uniform smoothness). Put mixture in greased mould. Stand the mould in pan of hot water. Cook in hot oven of 400 degrees Fahr. for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold as Mock Pate de Fois Gras for sandwiches or canapes when it is at its best.

I'm going to jump from meat to dessert and the reason is obvious—it's such a good dessert. It's cool sounding; it's good when you have a meatless first course, for it contains 2 eggs; it can be made ahead of time; it can be stored and stolen.

LEMON SPONGE PUDDING.

One cup sugar, 1 tablespoon of flour, pinch of salt, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup milk, rind and juice of 1 lemon, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Sift the flour, sugar and salt and blend with the beaten egg yolks. Add the milk, lemon juice and rind, beating thoroughly. Melt butter and add. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in pudding dish stood in pan of hot water for ¾ hour in moderate oven of 350 degrees Fahr. Serve cold.

SPANISH KIDNEY BEANS.

You will need 2½ cups of boiled kidney beans which require 1¼ cups dry beans cooked 2 hours after soaking, ¼ lb. bacon, 1 cup stewed tomatoes, 1 onion chopped. Place a layer of beans in greased baking dish. Sprinkle with some of the chopped bacon, tomatoes and onion. Repeat until all ingredients are used. Bake in slow oven of 300 degrees Fahr. until bacon is cooked and crisp. Serves from 4 to 6 people—or only about 3 if they're starved after swimming, etc.

Jellied Vegetables Salad

This looks as if the chef at the Waldorf-Astoria produced it.

Two and one-quarter tablespoons gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cup boiling water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup celery, cut in pieces, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup boiled new peas or drained canned peas. Soak gelatin in cold water 10 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Stir in the vegetables and mix thoroughly. Turn into a mould (or individual moulds) dipped in cold water. Chill. Remove from moulds to a bed of crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with cooked salad dressing (see below) and garnish with celery and radish roses.

Salad Dressing (Boiled)

One-half teaspoon mustard, 1½ teaspoons each salt, sugar and flour, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, few grains cayenne, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1½ tablespoons butter. Mix mustard, salt, sugar, flour, paprika and cayenne. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Add milk and vinegar. Cook over hot water, stirring frequently, until thick. Add butter. Cook and stir until butter is melted. Keep cool in covered jar.

I am giving you the following mayonnaise because it is unusual and is very delicious on cold roast beef.

Potato Mayonnaise

One-half cup cold mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons olive oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon horseradish, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon each salt, mustard, sugar. Mix in order given and serve with cold roast beef or veal.

Lemon Syrup

Boil 2 cups sugar in 2 cups water with grated rind of 6 lemons for 5 minutes. Stand off heat. Strain into it the juice from 6 lemons. Store in covered jar in refrigerator and use about 2 tablespoons of it for each 8 oz. glass of lemonade.

Mint leaves, leftover raspberry or strawberry juice or jam or jelly may be added to vary it. Ginger ale may be used to dilute it in place of water, and of course ice should be added.

Lemon syrup is a very handy beverage essence to have on hand besides supplying Vitamin C in appreciable quantities if the jar is kept well covered. (See note re saccharin).

Chocolate Syrup

Eight squares unsweetened chocolate, 3½ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon salt. Put chocolate in saucepan. Set that pan in large pan of boiling water. Heat until chocolate melts. Add sugar and salt. Blend well. Add 3 cups boiling water slowly. Boil until a thin syrup is formed—which takes about 6 minutes. Pour into jar cover and keep cool.

Good for beverages, sauce over ice cream or plain puddings.

Note On Saccharin

Saccharin may be used to replace some of the sugar in both the above syrups; replace one cup of the sugar in either recipe with 12½-grain saccharin tablets.

By MARY MOORE

Question: Would you be kind enough to send me any recipes you might have for cakes cookies, or cup cakes in which you use—in place of butter.

Could you also give me the recipe for Salisbury steak?

Thanking you, Mrs. A. B. Bennett.

Answer: The product you mention may be used in place of butter in any of your recipes for cakes, cookies and cup cakes—the taste is merely changed—not hurt in any way.

I am gving you standard cake, cookie and cup cake recipes using shortening in place of buter.

STANDARD CAKE

One-half cup shortening, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 well-beaten egg yolks, 3 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 stiffly beaten egg whites .Cream the shortening vanilla and sugar together until light and fluffy. Continue creaming while adding the yolks slowly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternatively with the milk to the creamed mixture. Bat in the dry ingredients. Folld in beaten egg whites. Turn into lightly greased pan. For a layer cake, bake n moderate oven of 365 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes; for loaf cake bake at 325 for 40 to 45 minutes.

CRISP COOKIES Refrigerator

One cup shortening, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 2 cups sugar (either browh or white), 2 eggs, separated, 4 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup milk.

Mix ingredients by creaming the shortening and sugar and vanilla together very well, and adding the well- beaten eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately, while creaming. Sift the flour, bakng powder and salt together and add alternatively with the mlk to the cream mixture. Form dough into a roll and wrap roll in wax paper and chill. Cut off thn slices and bake in moderate hot oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for from 10 to 12 minutes.

CUPCAKES

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 1¾ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening, sugar, and eggs together until lght and fluffy. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt and add alternatively with milk to creamed mxture. Add vanilla. Beat thoroughly. Turn into greased cupcake pans, or paper cups and bake in moderately hot oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes.

We hope these recipes suit you, and that through them you will see that butter can be replaced with shortening in almost any recipe—except where the particular nourishing qualities of butter are desired.

SALISBURY STEAKS

One pound inexpensive steak, 2 eggs, ½ cup soft bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, one-third cup milk, 2 tbs. chopped onon, 2 tablespoons flour. Beat eggs and mix with meat, bread crumbs, milk, salt and pepper. Brown onions in fat in frying pan; add to meat mixture. Roll into rolls about the size of a duck egg and sprinkle with flour. Place on greased baking pan, and if desired cover each 'steak' with half strip of bacon; bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 15 mnutes, then reduce heat to 310 and baste 'steaks' with ½ cup boiling water—they require from 30 to 40 minutes—depending on whether you like them done rare, medium or well done. Make gravy with pan gravy by making it up to 2 cups by adding boiling water, and stirring in four tablespoons flour which have been made to a paste with ½ cup cold water. Strain thickened gravy over steaks and garnish with cress or parsley.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: I am sending you this recipe because I am surprised that more readers don't send you recipes for fish. You say that fish is often expensive — I do not find it so because I use a lot of herring—I have developed the knack of removing the small bones intact and the flesh can be used for anything that is made up.

Mrs. Finlay's Fish Hash Supreme.

Two cups cold flaked fish (lake herring will do nicely), ½ cup salt pork diced, ¾ cup onion diced, 1 cup diced cooked beets, 2½ cups diced boiled potatoes, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup water, 4 tablespoons vinegar in which 1 clove of garlic has stood for 15 minutes. Mix the vinegar and fish flakes. Fry the pork to a golden brown, add the onion, and cook to a gold yellow. Add all of the ingredtents and lastly pour over the ¼ cup water. Cover and let cook slowly. Stir occasionally until thoroughly heated through and the flavors are blended.—Mrs. Finlay.

Note: Other flaked fish such as tuna and salmon and haddock may be used for this—but this is the best wartime idea.—Mrs. F.

I think we should put herring to better us. too—thanks for this excellent dish — I wish more readers would send us their economical ideas using fish.

Fashions

A VERSATILE JUMPER

The gayest and most versatile style of the season is Pattern 9094 by Marian Martin. The becoming jumper can double as a sundress, with blouse omitted. See the pretty sweetheart neckline...the partway back buttoning. Blouse has choice of long or short sleeves.

Pattern 9094 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16, jumper requires 3¼ yards 35-inch; blouse, 2 yards contrast.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

The affairs of this day may be expected to move at high tempo, with possibly much excitement, commotion and thrills, in whatever direction the energies, resources, opportuities and ambitions may be turned by powerful planetary influence. Both practical, business, industrial and everyday affairs are under high pressure for constructive action and the personal life runs in quite as decisive, dramatic and spectacular grooves. In fact the romantic and emotional may be the inspiration for heightened activity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of exciting and dramatic adventures, creating high tension and excitement both in the home and business associations. In the latter it is advised to push all matters to decisive goals as there is prospect of constructive and lucrative work by quick and determined attack. In the realm of the emotional or affectional life there may be sudden and unforeseen developements, with celebration, parties or other exciting functions, giving great joy and gratification, albeit much domestic tumult, annoyance, or friction.

A child born on this day may have much skill and ability in practical matters, with much to be gained by its skill, determination and enterprise. Its emotional or affectional life may be just as dramatic anr exciting, possibly with some storms and stresses.

Cavan News

Mrs. MacNewton and baby Lynn, have returned home to Toronto after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Tinney Lindsay, called on friends in Cavan Thursday.

Mrs. Jas. Kennedy is visiting friends at Burk's Falls.

Those who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. L. Larmer of Oshawa, were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Larmer, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Larmer, Mr. Orme Larmer and daughter, Misses Mary and Margaret, Ed. Larmer, Mrs. F. Smitr, Mrs. Melville Ball, Mrs. Wm. Larmer and M L. M. Fallis.

Mrs. A. J. Henderson spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Fallis.

The customers of Mr. David White, will be interested to learn, that he had a Grain Thrower installed in his Threshing Mill, by Mr. Herman Jacobi, of Waterloo. Mr. Jacobi accompanied by his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Quickfall, remained over night the guests of Mr. and Mrs. White

Don't Be Afraid of the Age of 40

FORTY HARVEST OF LIFE

Just as surely as the wheat is harvested in the autumn, so an adult's life comes into fulfilment at the age of forty.

So many people fear that approaching age—they think it is the beginning of the end of their life. In reality, it is the beginning of a fuller and newer life—a life rich with the knowledge acquired from the younger years.

Few great men achieved their works of genius before forty. Handel wrote "The Messiah" when 56. Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" came at 46, Leonardo painted the "Mona Lisa" at 54.

Forty brings maturity and with maturity ability to enjoy life to a greater degree.

Look ahead to forty. It is the age you will enjoy if you are prepared.

Our 32-page booklet, written by the eminent Professor Walter B. Pitkin, points the way to activities and joys which lie ahead for those who can make a new, vivid life begin at forty.

Life can surely begin then!

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service for your copy of LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU CAN AFFORD IT

WHEN YOU have plenty of reentries to your hand, in the form of probable trick winning high cards, you can afford to present the declarer a trick in your long suit by leading away from its honors against his No Trump game. The trick lost thereby can be regained probably through your establishing one or more low cards. But if the contract against which you are leading is a suit, the waste of a high card cannot be regained, as the declarer probably will ruff your little ones after they are established.

North: ♠ Q 8 7 6 ♥ Q 3 ♦ K J 7 5 ♣ J 9 2

West: ♠ K J ♥ K J 10 7 2 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ 6 4 3

East: ♠ 10 9 5 ♥ 9 8 ♦ 9 6 3 2 ♣ Q 10 7 5

South: ♠ A 4 3 2 ♥ A 6 5 4 ♦ Q 8 ♣ A K 8

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	2♥	2♠
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3♠
Pass	3 NT

That was bad bidding, as the hands belongs in 4-Spades, but at two tables South got into 3-No Trumps. One of them made it because West feared leading from his heart K, and so opened the club 6—bad bridge when his own hand was that strong. South was able, there, to build up three tricks in spades, three in clubs, two in diamonds and one in hearts for his game.

West at the other No Trump table led his heart J, giving the Q a trick. A bit later, when he scored with his spade K, he knocked out the last heart stopper of South. Shortly after that he was in with his diamond A whereupon he took three hearts to set the contract.

Normal results came at several tables, where South made exactly 4-Spades because West led a club. Those declarers lost one trick each in diamonds, spades and hearts. Top for South was also at a 4-Spade contract, but an extra trick got made because West led his heart J. That prevented any heart losers at all, nothing being dropped except one trick in spades and one in diamonds. One losing heart was ruffed and one parked on a diamond.

It would be hard to find a better example of how that lead away from a tenace in a long suit would pay against a No Trump and prove costly against a suit.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A 8 ♥ Q J 8 7 4 3 2 ♦ A 9 ♣ 9 7

West: ♠ 4 2 ♥ A 10 6 5 ♦ 10 4 2 ♣ K J 6 5

East: ♠ Q J 9 7 6 5 ♥ 9 ♦ K 8 7 6 3 ♣ 8

South: ♠ K 10 3 ♥ K ♦ Q J 5 ♣ A Q 10 4 3 2

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West leads the 4 of the spades which his partner has bid, South scoring with the K and returning the heart K, how can West figure out the best defense against the 3-No Trump contract?

R.C.A.F. Squadrons In Africa To Help Out

A number of Wellington bomber squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force recently arrived in North Africa to add their momentum to the steadily increasing attack on the "soft underside" of Europe. Members of the crew pictured ABOVE may even now be fighitng over Sicily. LEFT to RIGHT they are: Sergt. J. D. Little, Bridgewater, N.S.; Sergt. M. R. Ball, Fort Frances, Ont.; Sergt. H. N. Osmond, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Sergt. J. G. Denis, Montreal; Sergt. G. C. Morris, Timmins, Ont.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 16 — (CP). — You'd never know, to look at young Johnson of Melton Mawbray, England, just back from a fighter sweep, that he's one of Britain's top-scoring fighter pilots. At lease you wouldn't until you heard his concise answers to interrogation. Then his crisp manner explains to some extent why he wears the D.S.O., D.F.C. and Bar.

James Edgar Johnson is the wing commander at 27 of an R.C.A.F. Spitfire wing in Fighter Command. The wing includes the Canadian Wolf, Red Indian, and Oshawa squadrons, and since Johnson took it over last March he has destroyed eight enemy aircraft. All his 17 victims have been shot down over enemy or enemy-occupied territory.

His victims, as was the case in the score of the late Wing Cmdr. Paddy Finucane, nave all been fighters, either ME 109's or FW 190's. He has had no chance of combat with German bombers which are easier targets for fighter pilots but from the way Johnson's Canadians are piling up the scores of their own his technique must be being passed on.

Flt. Lt. Sydney Clayton, D.S.O., D.F.C., D.F.M., one of the R.A.F.'s most brilliant Mosquito navigators, is learning to fly. After taking part in more than 100 sorties, including some of the most daring daylight raids o the war, he could have said "good-bye" to operational lying and settled down to some less adventurous job on the ground. But instead he is setting out, at 27, on the most exciting phase of his flying career as an embryo pilot.

"I'm tired of being a passenger," he said. "It's time I learned to fly these things myself."

Sqdn. Ldr. R. G. Ralston, D.S.O., D.F.M., has been his pilot on more than three-quarters of his operational flights. Both were sergeants when they paired up. The famous "tunnel-sealing" Mosquito exploit near Paris last December was a Ralston-and-Clayton act. That time they "skidded" a bomb into the mouth of a tunnel and raced to the other end and dropped another blocking the entrance just after a train had disappeared inside.

Ace Russian pilots are coming straight to Britain from the Soviet battlefront to inspect and test the types of British aircraft they and their comrades of the Red Air Force will fly against the enemy. One R.A.F. officer who worked with the Russians said: "I dont know much about Russian aircraft, but if they are as good as the Russian airmen they must be terrific."

PO. Paul Goranson of Vancouver and a group of his R.C.A.F. artist colleagues are in England recording in paintings and drawings the activities of Canadian airmen overseas. Their works will be used for historicl records, gallery displays and reproductions.

Goranson's works show the fliers in their aircraft, being briefed and interrogated, lying around their quarters and coming home at nights from neighboring towns when there are no operations.

Gliders Took Part In Invasion Too

This giant British glider used in invasion training in England is the sort which carried troops to Sicily. Here British ground crew members move the plane along the runway, just before it was towed upon a flight in training for coming invasion.

Bancroft Holds Annual Orange Walk

BANCROFT, July 15 — (ENS). —The annual Orange Celebration was held in Bancroft, Monday, July 12th with throngs of people congregating in the village for the event from all outlaying districts. Several lodges from nearby villages formed in with the local lodge No. 624 to swell the Parade which formed up at the northern end of the village and marched through on Main street to the Agricultural grounds where the events of the day were carried out. The procession was lead by the usual "King Billie" on his white horse, traditional of the Battle of the Boyne. Weather was most appropriate for the day with somewhat overcast sky screening at least a part of the intense heat from the throngs of people assembled at the grounds.

The programme during the afternoon consisted of races, soft ball, contests and speeches. Mr. Graham, Grand Orange Organizer from Kingston, was present for occasion and took part in the parade. H. M. Price of Bancroft was in charge of the local lodge No. 624 assisted by County Master H. L. Tanner. Monday evening the young folks were entertained with a grand ball in the Agricultural Hall, Troubador Orchestra supplying the music.

Wins Gold Medal

Miss Margaret Kellar, thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Kellar, Sr., of Bancroft was the proud winner of the Hastings County Gold Medal this year. Although Margaret passed her examinations on her year's work she qualified for the medal by trying the Departmental examinations in Bancroft as did 87 other pupils throughout the twenty townships in the North of Hastings County under the jurisdiction of Public School Inspector H. H. Loucks.

Personals

Mr. A. M. Adams of Belleville who is holidaying at his cottage on Jamieson Lake near Detlor had angler's luck last week when he landed a large small mouthed bass measuring eighteen inches in length, thirteen inches in girth and weighing four and a half pounds. Although larger fish of the bass species are occasionally caught this one of Mr. Adam's is no usual run.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullett of Toronto are visiting in town at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mullett and Misses Alice and Edith Mullett of Bancroft.

Mr. Chauncey Ray of Timmins spent the week-end in Bancroft visiting his wife L.A.W. Margaret Ray and her friend L.A.W. Joan Bloss all visiting at the home of the Misses Mulletts.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Blatherwick, Bobbie, and Mrs. S. S. Blatherwick are holidaying this week at Trout Lake at the Wiggins' cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods of Madoc spent over the week-end with friends in Bancroft.

A car owned by Mr. George Garrison of the village and parked in their driveway undertook to do some robot driving Saturday and backed out across the highway into the fence of C. W. Mullett, damaging the fence slightly but car was not harmed.

Mr. Norman Myers and Mr. Stoucks of Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania spent over the week-end in Bancroft guests of Mr. and Mrs G. W. Jones.

Ross Kingyens held an auction sale of store equipment Saturday afternoon in Bancroft at the premises in the Rouse block and recently vacated by Mrs. C. O. Fuller.

Mr. Albert Vardy arrived home Monday on furlough and will spend two weeks visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vardy of Bronson.

500 Canadian Naval Men In Convoy Units

By LOUIS V. HUNTER,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 14 — (CP Cable) — It was estimated to-day that 500 Canadian naval men took part in the Sicilian landings as members of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Royal Navy and combined operations units.

There were no casualties in the two R. C. N. flotillas which have returned to port, an R. C. N. spokesman announced to-day. Other flotillas have not yet returned.

Some of the Canadian seamen ferried in British troops who were part of the first wave of the invad-forces to move onto beaches in the south-eastern corner of Sicily.

Veterans of Dieppe.

The majority of the Canadian seamen were veterans of the Dieppe and North African landings last summer and autumn and were perfectly trained for their task. They came from all parts of Canada.

Besides the complete Royal Canadian navy flotillas there were many Canadians serving in Royal Navy units. They were included in the 500 total.

The first picture of the part these stalwart sons of the Dominion played was brought back from Sicily by Lt. Cmdr. E. H. Bartlett, R. C. N., of Toronto, press relation officer who was ashore briefly on Sicily.

The Canadian sailors were not perturbed when they were briefed for the landings a few days before the assault. Gathered informally on the decks of ships carrying them where they were going and when the landing was scheduled.

Briefing officers used a map of Sicily set up on a board on deck to illustrate the plan of operations. There was not a murmer from the men when they learned what was coming. They continued to puff nonchalantly on thier cigarets and pipes. But when told Canadian soldiers would be part of the invading force they "were simply delighted."

The story of Petty Officer E. H. Randall of Halifax shows how well trained these Canadians were. Although his assault craft was not under fire a heavy sea was running when a line fouled the propeller, forcing him to drop behind.

In the darkness he attempted to clear the stern but realized he would not be able to, so he decided to continue with one engine and by skilful manoeuvring was in the exact position he was supposed to be at the proper time.

Here are the names of some of the Canadians in the naval end of the landings:

Among the Ottawa men were AB R. R. Bisson, Street; AB. A. H. Costain, G. Lavergne.

There were also Sub. Lt. R. J. Crothers, 11 Sydenham street, Kingston, Ont.; AB. J. W. Larkman, Lakefield, Ont.; AB. G. Doran, 31 Grove street, Belleville, Ont.

The Hamilton boys included Leading Seaman J. D. Crooks; AB. G. G. Feggaro, Sub.-Lt. (Eng.) W. Scarlett, AB. H. W. Woof, AB. E. Miller.

Others included Motor Mechanic R. H. Osborne, 18 Dufferin St., Welland, Ont.; Motor Mechanic J. Riley, 606 Dundas street, Galt, Ont.; Sub.-Lt. K. Kidder, Wawa, Ont.

FREE FROM RHEUMATIC PAIN BACKACHE; PRAISES SYNTONA

Condition Followed Six Years' Suffering With Stomach Disorders. Got Bad Dizzy Spells; Very Nervous and Always Felt Tired. Tells of Grand Relief.

Time and again, many men and women, rejoicing in the good results obtained by taking Syntona Herbal Compound have declared: "Syntona helped me when I needed it most—It is the first medicine that ever gave me any real relief." That, for example, is the experience of Mr. George Bell, 312 York Street, London, Ontario, who said:

MR. GEORGE BELL

"In the past 6 years I have had a lot of stomach trouble. An hour or so after my meals I would get gassy pains with heartburn and belching up of hot, sour liquids. I would have a heavy, full, bloated sensation and often felt sick and nauseated. At times I got bad dizzy spels with spots darting before my eyes and my tongue was always coated.

"More recently I developed a dull, aching pain across the small of my back and rheumatic pains settled in my limbs, joints and muscles. I often felt stiff and sore all over. I became very nervous and wasn't sleeping at all well at night, so I felt tired all the time.

"I had been reading about Syntona, but didn't take it very seriously until some very good friends advised me to try it. Then I got some and I wasn't taking it very long when my stomach felt better. I found my food was digesting without giving me those awful gassy pains, sourness or heartburn. My bowels became more active. The dizziness and spots before my eyes stopped troubling me and I began to feel better all over. So, I kept on taking it until now I am also free from the rheumatic pains and backache. I am getting sound sleep at night and get up mornings feeling fully rested. As a result I am able to do my day's work without coming home feeling all fagged out as I used to."

Go to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Naples Left By Bombers Ruined City

Great Mainland Port Smoking Ruins After 24-Hour Attack

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN NORTH AFRICA, July 16—(AP)—The great Italian mainland port of Naples lay in smoking ruins today, crushed under the same staggering Allied airial assault that virtually wiped Messina from the soil of Sicily the previous day.

Twenty-four solid hours of bombardment by the heaviest bomber formations from North Africa left Naples, fountainhead of enemy reinforcements and supplies for Sicily, a blazing inferno, its arsenal all but demolished and smoke rising more than 20,000 feet over the stricken city.

The Allied aerial offensive was spreading deep into Italy itself. While Naples was bearing the brunt of yesterday's smashing atack, bombers from the Middle East tore into two important enemy airdromes in Southern Italy by daylight and heavy R. A. F. Lancasters swung down over the Alps from Britain to pulverize communications in Northern Italy.

Enemy Scourged

Medium bombers and fighter-bombers scourged the enemy in Sicily by night and day, raking road and rail communications and giving tight overhead protections to Allied forces fighting in the South and East of the Island. Sixteen enemy aircraft were restored during the day, an Allied announcement said, against the loss

Two Regiments Receive Colors

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 16 — (CP Cable). — Men of the Royal Regiment of Canada and the South Saskatchewan Regiment to-day received Colors from the King at an impressive ceremony attended by the Queen, Vincent Masey, Canadian High Commissioner, and most of the senior Canadian Army officers still in Britain.

It was the first presentation of Colors to either of the 2 battalions which have reformed their ranks since they took part in last August's Canadian raid on Dieppe.

Many of the battle-dressed soldiers who marched proudly past Their Majesties had been in England only a few months.

The King in the uniform of a Field-Marshal spoke to troops lining three sides of a square, expressing confidence that the tradition of the battalions would be upheld by these men who had "well earned" their Colors.

With the Queen, Mr. Massey, Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Commander of the Canadian 1st Army Corps, and Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Commander of a Canadian Division, the King walked up and down the lines, stopping from time to time for a personal word with the men. Several soldiers wore decorations the King gave them last year for gallantry at Dieppe.

Said In Command

Major-General Gay Simonds, 39, of Kingston, who is believed to be in command of the Canadian First Division now fighting in Sicily.

M.-Gen. Simonds Believed Canadian O.C.

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — While there has been no official indication of the identity of the commander of the Canadian troops in Sicily there is a general speculation that he is Maj-Gen. Guy Simonds, 39, of Kingston, Ont.

Dispatches from Sicily have disclosed that the Canadian 1st division is taking part in the campaign. Officially there has been no announcement recently to indicate who is commanding the division but a review of the changes in commands point to Gen. Simonds.

It has been the policy of the Defence Department not to reveal the particular divisions officers command. It was presumed, however, that Maj.-Gen. H. L. N. Salmon of Winnipeg and Toronto, was in command of the First Division when he was killed in an airplane crash a few month ago. It was then reported that Gen. Simond's had been transferred from another division to General Salmon's.

As a brigadier Gen. Simonds went to North Africa and saw the 8th Army in action. He was called back to England from North Africa, made a general and put in command of a division.

Born in England, Gen. Simonds came to Canada as a youngster. He was educated at Ashbury College and the Royal Military College and then joined the permanent army as an artilleryman.

65 Bags Of Mail Lost

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — Postmaster General Mulock last night told the Commons that out of 14,536 bags of letters to the armed forces overseas in the calendar year 1942 only 65 bags were lost by enemy action. There were 125,017 bags of tobacco, of which 3,109 were lost and 295,000 parcels, of which 3,187 were lost.

Reds Launch Offensive In Orel Area

Two-Pronged Assault Is Driving On The Orel Sector

By WILLIAM McGAFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 16—(AP)—The Russians struck fresh blows at the Germans today from points 37 miles north and 25 miles east of Orel, sending elements of 10 Nazi divisions reeling back and scattered in rain-soaked forests and fields.

Other Red divisions whittled down the minor German gains in the Belgorod bulge some 165 miles to the south and repulsed all fresh enemy attacks which continued at a furious pace, dispatches said.

German tank losses had reached the enormous toll of 3,052; 1,686 planes had been destroyed; and upwards of 54,000 men had been killed or captured in the 12 day battle of attrition, on the basis of official Russian estimates.

(The German communique persisted in calling the Russian offensive north and east of Orel "relief attacks" but said the drive was on a 90 mile front between Orel and Sukninichi. The Berlin broadcast claimed 530 Russian tanks and 49 planes were destroyed there yesterday. The Nazi command asserted that their Army made additional gains north of Belgorod and encircled a strong Soviet group. Russian counter-attacks were said to have weakened.)

In a special communique last night announcing the counter-offensive launched three days ago, the Russians said their swift thrusts north and east of Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow, had resulted in a 28-mile advance that recaptured 110 towns, left more than 12,000 Germans dead and destroyed 109 Nazi tanks, 294 planes and 47 guns besides capturing piles of supplies.

Driven In 28 Miles

The special bulletin said the column attacking from the north of Orel had penetrated 28 miles into the German line to within 18 miles of the Orel-Bryansk Railway and the other column driving from the east had pushed ahead 15 miles on an 18-mile front to within 28 miles of the city.

In the Belgorod area at the southern end of the active front, where the Nazis registered minor gains at the start of their offensive on July 5, the Russians said the Germans threw more men and tanks into the fighting in a renewed effort to crack the Red army's defences but declared the attacks had been repulsed.

The Russians said their counter-attacks had been repulsed.

The Russians said their counter-offensive began at dawn with a heavy artillery barrage and that German defences in the Orel sector had been broken at several points by 2 p.m.

Rout 10 Divisions.

Infantry, supported by tanks and planes, then surged into the breaches, routing 10 Nazi divisions in three days of savage fighting.

In attacking the Orel sector, the Russians drove on one of the strongest-defended positions behind the German lines.

Canadians Were Terrific General Montgomery Says

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

AN ADVANCED 8TH ARMY POST IN SICILY, July 15—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—In an interview with Canadian war correspondents, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery said "the Canadians were terrific on the beaches and in the attack inland" and told us of the latest successes in the remarkable advance of his 8th Army.

He said Augusta had fallen, and leading British formations on the Canadians' right flank were 60 miles into Sicily. Vizzini, 25 miles west of the Gulf of Augusta on the east coast of the island, also has been captured.

In the north, in the direction of Catania, the 8th Army is meeting German troops for the first time here.

Granted Interviews

We had spent the night in a camp of the 8th Army and Gen. Montgomery happened to be there. This morning (Thursday) he granted interviews to Peter Stursberg of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and myself.

We were the first correspondents to talk with the 8th army commander in Sicily.

Grimy and dusty after three days of racing around in the heat, with scarcely any sleep, we hadn't had our clothes off since the landing.

We went into the General's desert under an olive tree, probably the most bedraggled looking correspondents he has seen.

Italian Editor Attacks Leaders

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, July 16 — (AP) — Fascist Editor Roberto R. Farinacci, making the first open attack on Italian military leadership since the start of the war, demanded a change in generals and a shake-up in the Fascist party hierarchy last night, dispatches from Rome disclosed.

Writing in the newspaper Regime Fascista, the former party secretary demanded that Italy's best forces be rushed to Sicily along with the most able, prepared and resolute leaders.

Attacking what he described as useless elements in the Fascist hierarchy, Farinacci called for a "hierarchy of values, a hierachy that knows how to give the people a little sunshine after so much bitterness."

Sole Hope of Italy's Survival Lies In Quitting War Italian People Are Informed

German Divisions Are Smashed Before Attack Begun

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, in NORTH AFRICA, July 16—(AP)—The hard-punching British 8th Army was reported within 15 miles of Catania in a northward surge up the Sicilian coast today after falling upon two German armoured divisions and severely mauling them.

Allied Hearquarters announced the capture of 12 more towns, as Britons, Canadians and Americans advanced all along their moon-shaped front and more than 20,000 prisoners were in Allied hands when Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's veterans administered another whipping to the Herman Goering and 15th German armoured divsions.

A Canadian Prize

Vizzini, one of the towns captured, is believed to be a Canadian prize. It was captured in fierce fighting, changing hands several times before the enemy was finally thrown out.

It could not be ascertained whether the Canadians stormed the town alone or with help from British units of the 8th Army.

Vizzini is an important road junction 17 miles north of Ragusa where tht Canadians were last reported officially.

The American 7th Army, seizing a number of towns on the western sector, some of them of the greatest strategic importance, had taken nearly 16,000 of the prisoners.

This time Gen. Montgomery fell upon the Germans north of Lentini, where the Axis had gathered important armor for a strong counter-attack, and smashed them back.

Observers believed the enemy had staked his all on counter-attack.

Fight Rearguard Actions

With an "appreciable number of tanks" already in Sicily, observers were confident that the German tank forces would be dealt with, and that thereafter the enemy would be obliged to fight a defensive rearguard action while conducting a withdrawal from the Island.

The Axis appeared powerless to keep the Allied fleet in check as it gave strong seaward support to Montgomery's right flank and bombarded the enemy's coastal positions at will.

The 15th German Armored Division was believed to be a collection of German units which had been assembled to go to Tunisia before its fall. It was then given the name of the enemy division that was wiped out in the Tunisian fighting.

Another hot struggle also was reported inland about 25 miles from the east coast at Vizzini, one of the newly-captured towns.

Changed Hands Several Times.

This town on a vital second line of communications upon which the Axis had been obliged to fall back, changed hands several times before British forces got it securely in their control.

Continuation of the advance from Vizzini would quickly menace the towns of Militello and Scordia at the wastern entrance of the Catania plain. At Lentini British troops al-

Germany Beaten Is Claim Of General Giraud

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — Gen. Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French Army in North and West Africa and joint chairman of the French Committee for National Liberation, said today at a press conference here that "Germany is defeated; all that is left is for her to admit defeat."

Speaking in French throughout his long meeting with correspondents in the Parliament Building, he said:—

"I want a strong French Army, as strong as possible, to march into France with our American, British and Canadian friends and liberate my country; and then go on into Germany to free all French prisoners of war and civilians drafted for work."

Frontier on the Rhine

Paraphrasing the words of Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Gen. Giraud said:—

"Canadians:— Remember that your frontier is not at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. Your frontier is on the Rhine."

"The situation at the present is good," the general said.

"I predict that Sicily is going to be a serious setback for the Germans. But Sicily, you must remember, is only the first part of the first act of the play in which Canadians will have a still greater part to play.

"I cannot predict when the war will be over. I know it will end with the total collapse of Germany and Japan.

Italy Collapsing.

"I am not mentioning Italy. Italy is already collapsing."

Die For Mussolini Or Live For Civilization

LONDON, July 16—(CP). — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt today gave Italy her choice—to surrender honorably, or be blasted out of the war.

In a virtual ultimatum, the Allied leaders said the time has come for the Italian people "to decide whether Italians shall die for Mussolini and Hitler—or live for Italy and civilization."

The statement added: "The skies over Italy are dominated by the vast air armadas of the United States and Great Britain," and "Italy's sea coasts are threatened by the greatest accumulation of British and Allied sea power ever concentrated in the Mediterranean."

In a joint statement issued simultaneously from 10 Downing Street and the White House at Washington at 7 a.m., EDT, the two United Nations' leaders told the people of Italy that the sole hope of Italy's survival "lies in honorable capitulation to the overwhelming power of the military forces of the United Nations."

"If you continue to tolerate the Fascist regime which serves the evil power of the Nazis, you must suffer the consequences of your own choice," the statement said.

With Allied forces sweeping across Sicily toward the Italian mainland, the British Prime Minister and the President in their message broadcast to Italy from Algiers and other adjucent Allied points, said they could take no satisfaction in invading Italian soil and bringing the tragic devastation of war home to the Italian people.

Planes Attack 10 German Subs

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP).—In a series of anti-submarine battles in the North Atlantic, the planes of a single baby aircraft carrier recently successfully attacked 10 German submarines, definitely destroying two and probably destroying eight others, and delivered two convoys safely across the Atlantic.

The story of the carrier, officially designated only as "carrier B," was told by the Navy Department today.

Altogether, the carrier's accomplishments included attacks on 11 submarines with 10 sunk or possibly sunk, dispersing of two wolf packs which struck at two different times at war-laden cargo ships the capture of 41 German prisoners and the safe delivery of the vital war goods. One submarine got away.

"All ships in the convoys protected by escort carrier 'B' reached their destinations undamaged," the Navy announced. "It is believed this second record of defence and attack over a similar period of time has not been equalled by any other vessel in the history of anti-submarine warfare."

Italion People Are Ready For Revolt

Roosevelt-Churchill Ultimatum Comes At Right Time for Great Masses of People

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Roosevelt - Churchill ultimatum to the people of Italy is an astutely logical development, delivered with what appears to be fine timing.

The Italian public as a whole never had its heart in this war. The country was swept into the conflict by Mussolini's sudden treachery against France and, once caught in the mill - race, couldn't get out.

Back as far as the fateful Munich conference, when the power-mad but pusillanimous Duce was beginning to sniff the Hitlerian heels, I found in Italy a widespread feeling of abhorrence for the Nazi leader and his works. The average Italian had no use for Hitler, and decidedly had no intention of going to war to support him.

Even then there was a great undercurrent of unrest and resentment at the repression of the dictatorship. The people lived in constant fear— so much so that they were afraid to speak their minds openly, and so suffered in silence.

Their trouble was that they had no champion to lead them in revolt against Mussolini.

Since then, however, there has been a change in Italy. The royal house seems to have made a recovery in the esteem of the public, and the old king has been asserting himself.

Coincidentally, we have seen the curious spectacle of Italian staff officers coolly surrendering en bloc in Sicily, and their soldiers happily following suit. Obviously many of the Roman troops had no intention of resisting the invasion but, on the contrary, welcomed it. That's not because they are unwilling to fight for their country but because it's clear to them that they aren't battling for the fatherland but are merely providing cannon fodder for Hitler.

So it is into such an atmosphere that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have pitched their ultimatum.

O course, the pressure from Hitler is great, and he has many troops and secret police in Italy to maintain his power. That is calculated to have a restraining influence on a lot of folk. Still, there can be no question that a large percentage of the people are ready for revolt and only need a strong leader to set them marching.

Italian Tanks Are A Joke

Observers Amazed At Inadequacy Of Equipment

By JOHN GUNTHER
Representing the Combined U.S. Press

COMMAND POST OF THE 15th ARMY GROUP, Sicily, July 16 — Italian aircraft is mostly out of date, Italian tanks are a joke and Italian artillery is ludicrous—this is the price the Italian people are paying for their "efficient" leadership.

Expert British and American observers advancing into Sicily continue to be amazed at what they called the pitiful inadequacy of Italian material and equipment. Even the food supplies for the troops are bad.

Ration boxes were found with a thin layer of provision on top and a pile of gravel underneath. Tins of meat were opened and found to be rotted and cans of soup are dish water.

In former days many right wing folk in Britain and the United States were inclined to be sympathetic to Mussolini and Fascism, largely because they thought the Italian regime was "efficient," but now manifest corruption and inefficiency so ate their way into Il Duce's Italy that the Italian army is not even capable of feeding and equipping its own soldiers.

The reasons for this are: First, Italy, was governed not merely by one bureaucracy but by two, the Fascist party on top of regular civil service. This made for a fantastic duplication of effort, bad administration and corruption. Second, in the Fascist set-up every man was complete boss to those below him and complete slave to those above.

Allied officers haven't seen a decent Italian gun yet. The Italians are good mechanics and brave soldiers but go into battle in tanks that are literal death traps. One hit and they burst into flames.

One Of Largest Convoys Guided Safely Across

By STANLEY MANTROP
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, July 16 — (CP). — Nearly six months have passed since German naval chiefs announced their all-out submarine campaign against Allied shipping on Atlantic sea lanes, but according to sailors in port yesterday, the U-boat menace has not only decreased, but in some areas has almost disappeared.

Canadian naval men who arrived here said their ships had recently guided one of the largest convoys of the war across the Atlantic to England and had not only made the crossing without the loss of a ship but without the sign of a U-boat or even an alarm.

Their submarine detectors had picked up the tell-tale "pings' indicating the presence of U-boats in the area, but none of them made an appearance despite the fact the ships dotted the horizon "like a lot of cattle on a range.'

convoys these days," one of the sailors said. "The ships are too well guarded by the Canadian and United States Navies."

Sailors said the new type aircraft carrier escort whose planes now form an "umbrella" for the ships has also proved its usefulness in convoy work and the deck-berthed planes had more than once kept lurking submarines at a safe distance.

Ship's officers said they believed the threat of an Allied invasion of the Continent had kept most of the submarines bottled up near England and off the invasion coasts where they hoped for "bigger prey" when the invasion fleet sailed.

Great Lakes sailors, too, report a lessening of submarine attacks along the Atlantic seaboard and off the Canadian East Coast where last year U-boats were a serious menace. "The recent voyages have been as peaceful as crossing the Lakes," they said.

Motor Works In France Knocked Out

Northern Italy Is Again Attacked By R.A.F. Bombers

LONDON, July 16 — (CP). — Halifax bombers of the R. A. F. attacked the Peugeot Motor Vehicle Works at Montbeliard in northern France last night, the Air Ministry announced today, and Lancasters swung across the Alps to pummel targets in northern Italy.

Halifax bombers of the R.C.A.F. Bomber Group participated in the Peugeot assault at the cost of one bomber, the R.C.A.F. headquarters announced. R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes attacked air fields and railway targets in France and Germany, without loss.

The Peugeot Works produce two ton trucks and the output was second only to that of the Renault plant before the latter was flattened by air attack.

The plant is reported to turn out between 6,000 and 8,000 trucks a year and employs 10,000 men.

In Eastern France

Montbeliard is located about 10 miles south of Belford in Eastern France, near the Swiss border and the German radio said in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press the raiders had violated Swiss territory.

In Italy the Lancasters blasted an electric transformer and switching station; the announcement said, but the site of the attack was not given.

Auxiliary raids by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Intruders on airfields and railways in Germany, France and the Low Countries also were reported.

Seven Bombers Missing

Seven bombers were listed as missing. One enemy plane was shot down.

The communique said weather over Montebeliard was clear and preliminary reports indicated the attack was "concentrated and effective."

Canadians Fly Under Doolittle

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — The R.C.A.F. disclosed officially to-day that the Wellington bomber squadrons recently moved to North Africa from Britain and now helping soften Axis resistance in Sicily constitute a bomber "wing" under Maj.-Gen. James Doolittle, Chief of the North African Strategical Air Force.

One of the squadrons in the wing is the French-Canadian Allouette squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. Joseph W. St. Pierre of St. Eustache, Que., and another is commanded by Wing Cmdr. Georges Ray, D.F.C., of Westmount, Que.

To-day's announcement that the Canadian bomber squadrons constitute a "wing" did not say just how many R.C.A.F. units are in North Africa, but it is known that a wing normally consists of three squadrons.

It has been known for some days that the Canadian squadrons formed part of the force led by Gen. Doolittle. In making the formal announcement to-day the Air Force said:

"The R.C.A.F. is proud that in the Sicilian campaign in which all participants are co-operating in perfect teamwork, grouping of the various air units in different sectors has resulted in our bomber squadrons coming within the command allotted to Gen. Doolittle.

"All Canadians have warm admiration for Gen. Doolittle who so gallantly and successfully led an American bomber force in the famous attack on Tokyo.

"The supreme command of air operations in the Mediterranean is, of course, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder of the R.A.F."

the Italian press generally was reported to have resulted in mounting pessimism and apathy among the Italian people.

Typical of the attitude of the press was the admission by Corriere Della Sera that the battle for Sicily goes far beyond the question whether the island could be held. It could be of "decisive importance to the outcome of the war for Europe," the paper said.

In words which observers found reminiscent of declarations that came from France shortly before her fall, the newspaper dwelt upon "the decisively superior sea and air forces" of the Allies.

In recent days the press has given the Italians a fairly clear picture of the situation and has told them that it is critical. These warnings, following initial attempts to give an optimistic impresson, apparently have resulted in apathy.

Refuses To Take Action

Reliable information through Italian circles is that the current feeling of merely waiting for developments without taking political action extends even to the royal family.

Well informed diplomatic circles believe that King Victor Emmanuel, who might inspire some popular action by taking independent steps to alter the Fascist regime, is determined to let developments take their course.

The big question yet to be determined is the Italian reaction should Sicily fall. The island has been considered the base of the country's defence, and Mussolini regarded it as so strong in 1937 that he declared "not one soldier" could land there.

Persons who know Italy well believe that Sicily's fall would come close to immobilizing the country without further direct attack upon it.

the United States to see President Roosevelt and military authorities in connection with supplying the French army in North Africa with arms.

He had been glad to accept Prime Minister Mackenzie King's invitation to visit Canada "where everybody, French or English-speaking, when he thinks of France thinks of freedom.'

"I learned what freedom means when I was in a military prison in Germany.

"In Germany I have seen slavery. National socialism is not to be entirely condemned but it is fundamentally wrong because its basic principle is domination.

Germany of Evil.

"I have lived, and was glad to live, in Germany for a considerable time. But the Germany I went back to the last time was a Germany of evil."

Recalling the collapse of France in June, 1940, Gen. Giraud said everybody in France thought Britain was also "finished."

But Britain had not capitulated.

"In the last war, we had the 'miracle of the Marne,' in this war, we had the 'miracle of the Channel'."

The General said he had seen orders given by the German High Command for the Russian campaign. The Germans were to have taken Russia in six weeks. Three weeks after the start of the campaign, they had expected, there would be a collapse of the political regime in Russia.

"Gentlemen, the (Russian) campaign started June 22, 1941, and today is July 16, 1943.

ready were fighting at the southern edge of the plain.

The immediate prize is Catania and to-day's communique reported the 8th Army as making "further progress against German troops who desperately contested every inch of the ground."

("The real and true decision for the island will be reached in a new battle which has already virtually started on the Catania plain," said the Rome radio.)

"Severe losses were inflicted upon the enemy" by the American 7th Army of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, which "advanced several miles across difficult hill country and captured further important positions," the communique added.

Although the headquarters bulletin said the "speed of the advance is very satisfactory" it called attention to the limiting factor of Allied support and supporting weapons at this stage of the operations.

Division In Reserve

The reorganized Herman Goering tank division of the Germans had suffered heavy losses in attempting to oppose the British push toward Catania, headquarters reports said, but the German 15th Armored Division was known to be in reserve.

However, observers expressed the opinion that the enemy, with only limited and doubtful forces at his disposal, had staked most of his resources in this effort to hold the Allies south of Catania and that his defences were disintegrating.

They expressed confidence that with "an appreciable number of tanks" already in Sicily the Allies would be able to deal satisfactorily with any counter-attack the enemy might mount.

In addition it was said Allied airborne and sea-borne reinforcements were likely to arrive, and strong naval forces continued to support the British right flank from the sea.

In their latest action, British warships again shelled Catania, and a destroyer accounted for another enemy motor torpedo boat.

The 12 towns listed as captured by the communique included several already known to be in Allied hands. They were:

Canicattini, Comiso, Campobello, Palma in Montechiaro, Sortino, Modica and Riesti.

Canicatti, Niscemi, Vizzini, Vittoria, Campobello and Palm Dei Montechiaro were captured in the American sector of the front.

The taking of Vizzini put Gen. Patton's Americans astride the central highway connecting the Axis eastern and western front. Vizzini is on the slopes of the Iblei mountains and about 25 miles west of Augusta.

The Allies' famous one-two punch, delivered by the R. A. F.'s sturdy Wellingtons at night and by American flying Fortresses in daylight was employed to give Naples a tremendous battering.

The 24-hour bombardment was described here as comparable to the previous day's R. A. F.—R. C. A. F.—U. S. A A F. "annihilation" attack on Messina, gateway to the Italian mainland, which literally destroyed an area two miles long and one mile wide.

Aerial photographs showed an ammunition train had exploded in the Messina port area. Docks, warehouses and locomotives sheds still were seen burning furiously on the

18,000 Taken Prisoners By Invasion Army

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 16—(AP)—The Allied invasion armies in Sicily have taken a total of more than 18,000 prisoners, it was announced today.

(An Algiers radio broadcast heard in London by The Associated Press at 6 a.m. eastern war time declared that "the Allies are advancing in every sector" of the Sicilian front.

Advices from the battle area said the British (and Canadian) 8th Army, moving up the Eastern Sicilian coast from Augusta, was continuing a steady advance toward the Catania plain.

The area into which the British and Canadains are moving is veined with many streams which might possibly be of advantage to the Axis defenders.

(A Berlin broadcast heard in London said that whole districts of the Port of Catania, toward which the British and Canadians are fighting their way, are in flames as a result of heavy Allied bombardments from the air and sea.)

Bertrand Steals Convention

PLANTAGENET, Ont., July 16—(CP)—E. O. Bertrand, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Prescott county since 1929, last night was named Liberal candidate for the county in the forthcoming provincial general election by a majority of only eight votes, and said he would formally resign his federal seat by July 28.

Mr. Bertrand polled 96 votes, against 88 votes given Aurelien Belanger, member of the last Ontario Legislature for Prescott, who has held that office since 1934.

Mr. Bertrand added he had allowed his name to go before the Prescott Liberal Association convention because many people had urged him to stand, and not because he had been "kicked out" of Ottawa.

"At first," he said, "I did not like the proposition, but after those who had brought pressure on me had consulted with political officers both in Toronto and Ottawa and still urged me, I accepted."

If he were defeated in the provincial election, the county was at liberty to "choose again," he said.

Mr. Belanger said Mr. Bertrand had "let his constituents down" by entering the provincial field, and had "failed the trust" placed in him by the electors."

"If you do not give me your support this time, my political career is finished," Mr. Belanger said. "I do not think it right for you to select another when I have represented you for nine years with honor, dignity and perseverance."

neck of land that sticks out within three miles of the Italian peninsula.

"You get the impression that the whole of Sicily is slowly burning up," said a crewman of a bomber, one of hundreds that swept the Island from dawn to dusk. "Targets are becoming scarcer by the hour."

Aerial Resistance Decreasing

It was officially announced that Enemy aerial resistance was decreasing by the hour. "Very few enemy aircraft were seen during the day and few attempted to fight although our fighters and bombers flew back and forth at will, strafing transport and communications," an announcement said.

Besides the Royal arsenal and torpedo factoy at Naples direct hits were reported on depots, storage buildings, a roundhouse and on a railroad overpass in an area mushrooming with fires and explosions. The last two waves of bombers were unable to observe results because of smoke. Four of 23 enemy interceptors were shot down.

"We plunked our eggs in anyway," said one flier. "I'm sure glad I wasn't on the Naples platform waiting for a train."

Defenders Surprised.

A squadron commander said his formation caught the Naples defenders "completely by surprise."

Demoralizing forays by Allied fighters caused damage to four enemy merchant ships at Termini, destroyed scores of railroad cars and trucks, and damaged stations, barracks and bridges.

Medium bombers in two strong waves dropped almost 100 tons of explosives on the rity and port of Palmero. They reported that a blanket of fire spread over the city during the four hours the raids persisted.

Paterno, an Eastern Sicilian town near Catania, which is the next objective of the British 8th Army, received a severe blasting. "I could see fires caused by my own bombs spring up, and in the distance there were three or four fires in Catania," said a returning pilot.

Allied coastal aircraft sank or severely damaged at least 20,000 tons of enemy shipping within 24 hours One large merchantman was torpedoed off the north coast of Sardinia.

Airdrome Bombed.

The daylight attack from the middle east struck the main airdrome and two smaller fields at Foggia in Southern Italy raosing many fires and explosions. A communique said three enemy craft were left burning at one field and that bombs fell among 12 other craft. Hangars, workshops and administration buildings were heavily hit.

On the trip into Italy the bombers

Heavy Losses Inflicted Upon Enemy

Allied Lines Joined On 100-Mile Front Forces Move Forward

Allied Headquarters, North Africa, July 16—(AP)—Fighting Allied forces battled forward today in a solid line more than 100 miles long in Southeastern Sicily, with British and Canadian units of the famous 8th army driving toward Catania on the east coast and the Americans forging out from strong hill positions on the left flank.

The war bulletin declared fighting was proceeding, especially along the eastern coast where the 8th Army, advancing on Catania, nevertheless made further progress.

At the same time in the western or American sector severe losses were being inflicted upon the enemy.

The captured towns, some of which already had been known through front-line dispatches to be in the Allied fold, were listed as follows:

Canicattini, Comiso, Biscari, Canicatti, Bagni, Vizzini, Vittoria, Niscemi, Campobello, Palma Di Montechiaro, Sortino, Modica and Riesi.

Catania airfield again was heavily bombarded by British naval craft.

(Last night William Stewart, Canadian Press War Correspondent at an Allied command post in North Africa, reported that conditions favorable for an advance prevailed generally along the Sicilian front.

(He also reported Canadians were occupying an important sector between the United States forces on one side and British troops on the others, adding however that complete details of the Canadian participation there were lacking.)

Paving the way for this rapid advance were British and American parachute and air-borne forces, swooping out of the skies and knocking out centres of enemy resistance.

Frontline dispatches report the enemy still had not developed resistance on the scale the invaders had expected and for which they had been prepared.

Surrendering In Droves

(Stewart reported last night that Axis air opposition over Sicily remained inconsequential and that Italian troops were still showing little resistance, surrendering "in droves.")

Today the 8th Army, of which the Canadian 1st Division forms a part, is reported driving along the coast toward Lentini after repulsing a German tank attack that carried almost to the captured point of Augusta, and following the subduing of Melilli, southwest of Augusta, and Brucoli, four miles to the north.

At Lentini, in the foothills at the edge of Catania plain, the German-Italian defenders are reported massing to bar the Allied surge toward Catania, Sicily's second largest city and half-way point on the route up the east coast to Messina, Axis supply doorway to the island.

Cauture of Lentini, only 13 miles from Catania, and Carlentini nearby would place the Allied forces in position for a massive assault on Catania.

Kiska Again Shelled

Washington, July 16 (AP)

THE Navy Department announced today a small American warship shelled Japanese defences on Kiska Island again Thursday in the fifth attack within 10 days.

Previously enemy installations on the Western Aleutians Island had been bombarded by American warships July 6, 9, 11 and 14. Gertrude Cove has been the objective in four of those assaults.

strewed incendiaries over the countryside, and upon the return journey reported seeing forest fires at Metaponto on the Gulf of Taranto. Four oil fires also were started. One plane was missing from the middle east raids.

A British communique offered scant details of the long flight made by its four-engined Lancasters to hit Northern Italy, saying merely that an electric transformer and switching staiton were attacked. The purpose of the raid apparently was to upset communicaitons between the Northern Italian industrial areas and the invaded Southern region.

(An Italian communique reported that Naples, Foggia and Genoa were raided by Allied planes. As there was no mention of an attack on Genoa in Allied dispatches, it was possible that the Lancasters dropped their bombs on or near that Northern city. The Italians said their fighters shot down four four-engined Allied planes over Naples).

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 16 — (CP). — Wheat futures failed to retain the early gains on Thursday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and closed ⅜ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Buying during a moderately active session was credited to United States interests and shippers. No export business in Canadian wheat or flour was reported.

Shippers took approximately 200,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern in the cash wheat market. Light offerings confined transactions in higher grades to odd cars. No important sales were confirmed in the cash coarse grains.

Sharp price declines were recorded in rye futures which ranged 2½ to 2¼ cents a bushel lower.

Canadians Were

I had to borrow a wedge cap from an officer before the interview because I had lost my own and was wearing an Italian Solar Topi which I had picked up from a captured enemy position.

I didn't think the General would appreciate such headgear.

I also remembered Gen. Montgomery's teetotal rules and dropped into a handy brush my water bottle full of Chianti wine.

He shook hands with us, smiled and said:

"I am delighted to see Canadians here. I am always glad to have Canadians around. I knew them well in England, you know."

I recalled a manoeuvre which he had directed, called the "Tiger Exercise," more than a year ago, when he was the commander of Britain's southeast coast. The Canadian Corps participated in the manoeuvre and marched nearly 300 miles in 10 days, one of the toughest the Canadians ever were on.

"Oh, yes, you were on that one," he exclaimed.

The general looked a little weary from the long drives over these terrible, dusty roads but he was most affable and in great form. He sat down on the steps of his caravan, a big truck fitted out especially for him and in which he rode from El Alamein into Tunis. He was in shorts and a bush shirt.

In his hand he carried his famous black beret and a green commando beret.

"They just gave me this commando beret," he said, "nice isn't it?"

I asked him how he felt the operation was going generally and he said: "I am satisfied."

He repeated this and went on:

"I am very pleased indeed to have Canadians under my command. They have done well. In fact, they were terrific on the beaches and in the attack on the island.

"The trouble is they have been cooped up on ships for so long. You have to be "careful" how you treat troops like these. They aren't used to the sun—it's pretty hot here."

To emphasize it, he held out his bare arms with the dark suntan, and said: "That's from a year in the desert."

The General talked freely. His face was tanned by the wind and sun, just leather. He kept fingering his new beret.

"I know the Canadians are sorry they haven't had much fighting here because the Italian's have been running so fast," he said, "but theey'll get a belly full before they're through."

Gen. Montgomery told then of the fall of Augusta and the push northward toward Catania.

Hit Them Hard

"We have really hit them for six," he said, using a cricket expression that means about the same as hitting a homerun in baseball.

"We have hit them with terrific concentration of force in this operation," he added.

Asked how long he thought the campaign might last, he threw up his hands. Then, after a pause, he said;

"Oh I can't say. It may take a month, but then, again, it may take six months—or it may take two weeks."

He got up from the steps.

"I must go now. There are things to do."

He waved his beret—the new one—and the interview was over.

BAD FOREST FIRES.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A dozen or more forest fires were raging last night over a 15-mile front in Newfoundland Bonavista North district after virtually wiping out one small community.

Vote Refused To Strikers

TORONTO, July 16 —(CP)—Mr. Justice G. J. Gillanders, in a judgment in the Ontario Labor Court at Osgoode Hall today, ruled that employees now on the payroll of the Babcock-Wilcox and Goldie-McCulloch Co. at Galt will vote to determine their collective bargaining agency.

The vote will be between the local union of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) which made application for recognition as the collective bargaining agency, and an employees association.

Mr. Justice Gillanders said that the 240 employees of the firm still on strike will not be eligible to vote as he considered the strike unlawful as grievances were still under consideration by a conciliation board when it was called.

The firm is one of eight in Galt involved in a strike by members of the U.S.W.A. The strike began May 21.

Canadians Take Italian Town

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 16 —(CP Cable). — Vizzini, one of 12 Sicilian towns reported to-day to have fallen to the Allies, was taken presumably by the Canadians.

There is no doubt, at least, that the Canadians participated in the storming of the town with British units of the 8th Army.

Vizzini, an important road junction 17 miles north of Ragusa and 30 miles west of Augusta, is on the line the Canadians have followed since landing in Sicily. They have advanced approximately 47 miles from Pachino Peninsula, first north and west of Ragusa where they joined American forces and then northward to Vizzini.

Vizzini was taken by storm after changing hands several times. Both sides counter-attacked repeatedly, Finally the enemy was thrown out.

Jap Force Is Outwitted At Own Game

Gateway To Salamaua Falls To Allies In Surprise Attack

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 16 — (AP).—Outwitting the wily Japanese at his own jungle game of stealing up from behind, Australian and American fighters possessed the Mubo gateway to Salamaua today after wiping out 950 surprised defenders in a brilliant New Guinea manoeuvre.

The abrupt collapse of hill positions bestride which the Japanese for months barred the way along the jungle track leading to their Salamaua air base, 12 miles to the north, was announced in a communique which also recorded a spectacular air victory.

Over Rendova Island in the central Solomons, 45 Japanese planes were shot down out of a formation of approximately 80 while on nearby New Georgia Allied jungle fighters edged still closer to the enemy's key air base of Munda.

Just Used Jap Tactics

The selfsame tactics the Japanese employed with such bewildering success against the badly outnumbered British in the Malay Peninsula campaign before the fall of Singapore—infiltration to the rear—proved their undoing at Mubo.

After Australians and Americans conquered southeastern New Guinea in mid-January by destroying a Japanese army of 15,000 Australians had moved through the jungle north more than 150 miles toward Salamaua. But they found the Japanese entrenched on Observation Hill, Green Hill, the Pimple and other Mubo strongpoints. From spring until the current offensive, it was a stalemate.

Today's communique from Allied headquarters disclosed that the Americans who moved inland from Nassau Bay joined the Australians July 10 at Buigap Creek, cutting communications and isolating the Japanese on Observation and Green Hills.

Observation Hill was overrun after 106 tons of bombs fell among its demoralized defenders in less than 45 minutes from Allied planes. From front and rear, other enemy defences at Mubo were stormed.

"Our ground forces have now cleared the Mubo area of all organized enemy resistance and are pressing on Komiatum (five miles from Salamaua)," the communique said, adding, "approximately 950 enemy troops were destroyed. Our losses were light.'

Planes Shot Down.

The sky fight over the Central Solomons, where the Japanese have expended more than 260 planes since the current offensive started, found the Allies shooting down more planes than they had in the air, tackling the 27 enemy bombers and their escort of between 50 and 60 Zeros. Against the 45 downed, the Allies lost three planes, and Allies' Solomons losses to date are under 50.

The focal point of the Solomons drive, the Munda air base on New Georgia, was further menaced and isolated. Throwing off an enemy counter-attack, Allied troops moved through the jungles still nearer Munda's defences.

In inter-island waters above Munda, one Japanese merchant ship was sunk, a second left aflame, two barges sunk and a third set on fire by roving medium bombers.

On the enemy's garrison of Bairoko, supply port for Munda on the Kula Gulf, a heavy force of dive-bombers poured 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombs yesterday. Across the gulf, 54 tons of bombs were spilled on Vila, Kolombangara Island.

The communique to-day also disclosed that in the second navy battle in the Kula Gulf July 13, the United States destroyer Gwin was damaged so severely she sank later while being towed to port. She was the third American warship lost in Kula Gulf actions. Japanese losses in the two battles have been reported at least 13 and probably 17 cruisers and destroyers.

Bracken Asks Chance For Farmers, Army

COBOURG, July 16 (ENS).—John Bracken was the guest speaker on Thursday at a meeting of the Cobourg Rotary Club at which guests were members of the Kinsmen Club, the Town Council and the two candidates in the coming election, John Callahan, K.C., Liberal, and William Goodfellow, Progressive Conservative. Reuben Freeman presided.

In welcoming Mr. Bracken, Mayor John Burnet, who is a strong Liberal, declared that he wished Mr. Bracken a pleasant journey during his campaign trip, but said that he was not in a position to wish him a successful trip, and that such a one-sided wish was perhaps an admission of his own political creed. Mr. Bracken humorously replied that he had always understood that a confession was the usual prelude to a conversion and that perhaps such was the case in regard to Mayor Burnet.

Thirty-seven years ago he had left Ontario for the West, Mr. Bracken stated. He advised the two candidates for Northumberland that the secret of a long political service was an intelligent electorate. When he took up Progressive Conservative banner last December he entered a larger field and set out to familiarize himself with Canada and its problems. For the past four months he had been travelling about the Dominion and what he had seen made him prouder than ever that he was a Canadian, declared the speaker.

Interesting Period.

"We are living in the most interesting and challenging period that the world had ever seen. Our philosophy was challenged by one which we couldn't accept. This is a time of great decisions being made. Ours is a three-fold challenge: to win the war; to make an enduring peace and to make the world better for the common man.

"Two-thirds of our best men went to war 25 years ago and we are now sending as many to this war. We are in the midst of another war which we do not know how long it will last or how many will come back. We know that we have stopped losing the war and have started winning it. However, we do know the cost. Up until the beginning of this year, the war has cost as much as fifty years of Confederation, and that includes the cost of the last war. This is five thousand millions or five times the cost of relief during ten years of depression. Half of that must be raised by taxes," he declared.

There were two kinds of soldiers, he continued, the one in uniform and the one in civilian garb. The one in uniform had a greater task to perform but he had to have the help of the man in civilian life. The last peace was only an armistice but this time there would have to be an international police force so that no nation could re-arm behind the backs of the other nations. It would be necessary to eradicate the false doctrines of 80 million people who thought that they were a superior race. Until that was done, common sense dictated that there would have to be some kind of international police force.

Must Improve.

The world which the boys would return to, should be better than it was before, possessing the things that were best and minus the ills that existed before. The old world was not fair to labor or private enterprise. The farmers never got a square deal. The farmers were one-third of the population with only one-sixth of the income. It was a duty for all to see that all men had the chance to earn a living. Ten years ago there were a million on relief. When the war was over there would be a half million coming back and some 900,000 now in war industries would stop working. Where were the jobs going to be obtained and would the government have to provide them? he asked. It should not be done as Stalin had done it by liquidating all classes except one or as Hitler and Mussolini had done it.

"Our way must be better," he declared.

"We must be fair to private enterprise for it was from them that investments came. The solution to our post-war problems is work for all, fair wages, decent living conditions and a fair deal for private enterprise. Today we have much that was not possessed by the world of yetserday. We have prostituted the lessons of science and mechanized arts, to the arts of war because of the false philosophy of one nation and we had no choice but to combat it if we were to survive. We must win the war and win the peace, a peace if not for a thousand years, at least for much longer than the 25 years of the last one. Let us be worthy of the words of Churchill when he said of another country, 'This was their greatest hour'," he concluded.

Judge J. C. M. German introduced Mr. Bracken, and the vote of thanks was moved by Dr. Austin Allen, president of the Cobourg Kinsmen Club.

Here's The Crew Of Canada's First Lancaster Bomber

When the first Lancaster bomber built in Canada goes into action against the enemy, these young Canadians will form its crew. Shown as they arrived at Rockcliffe airport, near Ottawa, after an overnight hop from Britain, they are fresh from operations overseas. In a few days they will fly the bomber overseas and into actual combat. LEFT to RIGHT, they are: Sergt. I. Baczinsky, of Brandon, Man.; Flight Sergt. R. K. Burgar, of Traynor, Sask.; Pilot Officer Steve Boczar of Saskatoon, pilot; Squadron Leader R. J. Lane, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Victoria, B.C., in command of the crew; Pilot Officer J. Carrere, of Cochrane, Ont., and Sergt. R. S. Webb, of Glenavon, Sask. Two other members of the crew arrived separately.

S.A. Sends Shipment

COBOURG, July 16—(ENS)—The Red Shield during the month of June sent to headquarters in Toronto 5 baby layettes, 13 men's sweaters, 41 pairs of socks, four pairs of gloves, one pair wristlets, three quilts, one hospital throw, 6 children's sweaters, five children's dresses and slips, five pairs of pants and shirtwaists and also used clothing.

Sheep Losses Mount

DUNDALK, Ont., July 16 (CP)—Sheep losses are mounting in the southern section of Proton township despite the fact that two dogs caught chasing sheep, have been destroyed. Two lambs have been killed, and three injured since last week.

Fly Paper Gets Cat

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 16 — (CP). — Tabby cats and fly paper do not mix, or, at least, they should not. It took two of his customers and Ed. Thomas, Belleville tobacconist, to free the unwary feline that reached too far to swat a nap-disturbing fly, and wound up—literally—in the fly paper.

Skunk Acts Politely

KINGSTON, Ont. July 16—(CP)—Gill Purcell, of Lansdowne, caught a skunk in his bare hands the other night, and can still wear his skunk-hunting clothes. He was attracted by a noise in his farm granary, reached into a feed bin and grasped a furry object. Luckily he had grasped it in such a way as to render its usual defence useless.

TACK EATER

DICK GREEN doesn't exactly eat tacks, but he takes a mouthful every few minutes, drives about 5,000 into every chesterfield. For eating, Dick says, "Kellogg's Corn Flakes is everybody's favourite in our house. They're delicious anytime. I often have a bowl after working late. And my wife likes 'em because they're ready in 30 seconds, don't leave pots and pans for her to wash. Kellogg's Corn Flakes are economical too." Get some tomorrow.

First "Ops" Trip Upsets Willis More Than Shooting Down Plane

LONDON, July 16. — (R.C.A.F. News Service)— Thrills experienced when he shot down a Me. 110, first reported May 17, 1943, didn't disturb a 20-year-old tail-gunner, Flight Sergeant Grant Willis, 305 Reid St., Peterborough, Ontario, nearly as much as a child of his first operational trip, when 11 FW. 190's trailed his kite.

With 25 sorties to his credit, the young airman who worked in an Oshawa, Ont., motor plant before joining the R. C. A. F. is credited with shooting down a Me. 110 from the rear turret of a Halifax bomber when he flew with Canada's crack Moose squadron, in a raid on the Ruhr coal and iron town of Bochum. The squadron is led by W. C. Tiny Ferris, D. F. C., of Edmonton.

"About 50 miles from the target as we were going in our mid-under gunner, Sgt. Tommy Dimma, 463 Albert Street, Ottawa, told us there was a kite underneath and we soon identified it as a Me. 110," said Grant, who doesn't bother carrying good luck charms on his hazardous air missions.

Got a Chance.

"Our mid-under then informed us that Jerry was starting to pull his nose up to come in to attack and our skipper, S. L. B. E. Harriss, 506 Hinkle Street, Clovis, New Mexico, made a diving turn to port. That brought Jerry where I could get a 'prang' at him.

"We both opened fire about the same time but his shots went low and under our port wing. We fired about 2,000 rounds in a three-second burst and three of the crew saw tracers entering the fighter's nose, starboard motor and cockpit.

"Then we saw smoke streaming from his starboard motor and as he kept coming up at us he turned right over on his back and went into a dive. We lost sight of him for a few seconds due to ground haze but then we saw the kite explode on the ground."

Missed Opportunity.

On Willis' first trip — a raid on the Nazi submarine base of Lorient —11 FW. 190s encountered his aircraft, five joining in an exchange of fire, while the other six stood by and watched proceedings.

"Five of them came at us from the starboard quarter above and when we fired into the group, they broke away, said Willis. "They came at us again from the same direction and we exchanged fire with no damage done. After that we watched all 11 of them trailing us but doing nothing about it."

"I still can't figure why they didn't gang up because, if they had come at us from different directions, it probably would have been just too bad.

Grade 21 Cheese Lots

CAMPBELLFORD, July 16. — (ENS). — Only one lot of cheese went below the 93 score at Campbelford on Thursday when James L. Irwin of the Federal Grading Staff, Bileville, graded a total of 21 lots representing 1,977 boxes. There were two lots of 95's, 10 of 94's, and 9 of 93's. C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying for Ontario, and J. M. Bain, Chief Dairy Instructor or Western and Central Ontario, were visitors at the grading station during the day.

Airmen, Workers Swell Populace In Belleville

By CLAUDE TICE
Canadian Press Correspondent

BELLEVILLE, July 16 — (CP). —Belleville has become a city of airmen and war workers since the present war began.

It is encompassed by air fields for a radius of 25 miles, the largest being the R.C.A.F. station at nearby Trenton while others are: No. 5 Initial Training School of the R.C.A.F. on the outskirts of the city in the former Ontario School for the Deaf which was turned over to the Air Force about three years ago; the Mountain View Bombing and Gunnery School at Picton; and the beam station on the site of old Camp Rathbun, used in the First Great War for training pilots.

Industrial Workers Come

Not only has the population been increased by airmen permanently situated at the various schools bringing their families here to live, but industrial workers have come to work in the several industrial plants which are operating at capacity.

Chief industrial plant is that of the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation's biggest Canadian subsidiary. Its peacetime manufacture of radios, casters, Alemite castings for automobiles and other accessories now form a minor part of the production which centres on flame throwers and dimout lamps while secret devices are made in quantity.

Two hardware plants— the Corbin Lock Co. and the Belleville Sargent Co.—make locks, bolts, frames and so on for ships of the Canadian Navy. These plants are operating 24 hours a day.

Many Plants.

Two Government-subsidized firms Reliance Tool and Aircraft Co. and Universal Moulded Products, Ltd., are assisting in aircraft manufacture. Reliance manufactures tools for Canadian plants in quantity, while the other plant makes plywood for aircraft. Tre Stephens Adamson Factory makes conveyers for mines and is months behind its orders. The Mead Johnson Co. which manufactures baby food, has turned its attention to products which will improve the health of soldiers at home and overseas.

The American Optical plant manufactures lenses of a secret nature for use by the armed forces.

The population has increased by about 3,000 since the war began, and housing conditions are a matter of concern to the City Council. Every home is occupied by one or more families while some people are living in trailers on vacant lots.

Cheese Production Drops By 150 Boxes

CAMPBELLFORD, July 16 (ENS) —Production of cheese had dropped nearly 150 boxes below the offerings made during the first week of July when the Campbellford Cheese Board held its second meeting of the month Thursday night.

A total of 2,568 cases of white were sold by thirty-one factories and ten buyers divided the offerings at the ceiling price 20 cents f.o.b. shipping point. Several salesmen complained of delays in receiving cheques covering consignments of cheese to Montreal and this was explained by the fact cheese weights had to be re-checked on reaching that port. Admitting the inconvenience caused to producers buyers declared they would do everything possible to expedite payments.

Factories boarded as follows: Avonbank, 121; Beaver, 93; Brae, 39; Crow Bay, 110; Cedar Creek, 96; Empire, 91; Hoards, 92; Ideal, 49; I.X.L., 29; Kimberley, 64; Menie, 137; Percy (Warkworth), 85; Rylstone, 155; Stanwood, 44; Trent Bridge, 95; Trent Valley, 159; Woodlands, 83; Maple Leaf, 108; Bobcaygeon, 70; Burnley, 108; Daisy D, 95; Indian River, 58; Kilarney, 73; Ormonde, 75; Pine Grove, 78; Selwyn, 52; Silverwoods, 67; Warsaw, 75; Warminster, 57; Oakdale, 24; Port Perry Creameries, 86.

Tuberculosis In Peterborough

The Board of Health has expressed its concern at the increase of tuberculosis in this city. For several reasons this disease is more common in industrial cities than it is in rural communities, and when it shows signs of increase it is well to take steps to prevent infection on a large scale. And, as always in matters of public health, the first steps must be taken by citizens themselves. The spread of tuberculosis may be checked if people will only behave sensibly about it.

* * *

To begin with, tuberculosis must not be regarded with fear. Taken in its early stages, the disease may be treated successfully and expeditiously. Anyone who thinks that he has tuberculosis should go to his physician at once. If he has it he can then be put under treatment which may last for a very few months, after which he will be in good health. But if he avoids going to the doctor, either through fear or in the hope that he condition will right itself, he may find at last that he needs treatment which will take two or more years. Fear of "knowing the worst" leads many people to deceive themselves and others until concealment is no longer possible, by which time the disease has gained a firm hold. Tuberculosis is frequently aggravated by this sort of fearful neglect.

It must be recognized also that neglect of tuberculosis is extremely unfair to others. Members of the family of the infected man or woman, and his fellow-workers, are placed in danger by his failure to cope with his early infection. Some of this neglect is caused by the widespread belief that most people have tuberculosis at some time in their lives, and that they get over it without specific treatment. This belief has foundation in fact, but it is not to be counted upon; the man or woman who has become clinically tuberculous will not recover in any miraculous way, but must have treatment as early as the disease can be detected. Many people put off seeing the doctor in the hope that they will recover of their own volition, fearing that the disease will take them away from work and bring hardship on their dependents. This is a short-sighted view; if the disease develops the period of absence from work will be increased many times.

* * *

Tuberculosis may be fought in the home by ensuring good household hygiene. Cleanliness is important, and so is fresh air. Unnecessary crowding should be avoided, particularly in sleeping quarters. A good diet should be provided for all members of the family, and it is particularly important that workers in industry should have a good lunch to take to work, and a substantial and nourishing meal in the evening. A man or woman who is doing a full shift in industry needs more than a few sandwiches and a slice of pie or cake in the lunch-box, and it should be somebody's responsibility to see that good food is provided every day. The box should always contain a hot drink or a bottle of milk, something of a specifically nourishing character such as meat or cheese, something in the way of fruit or raw vegetables, and sweet things if these are wanted. A meal out of a lunch-box should be just as ample and varied in character as a meal at the home table.

Proper rest is a safeguard against all disease, and tuberculosis in particular. Men and women who work hard must have enough sleep, and sleep of good enough quality, to refresh and restore them. Persistent broken rest decreases resistance, and is a good reason for consulting a physician.

Finally, our unpleasant national habit of spitting carelessly in the streets does much to spread tuberculosis, and it should be discouraged by strong exercise of popular opinion. Spitting is a dirty and unsanitary self-indulgence.

* * *

To many of our readers this will seem to be a gratuitous lecture on the ordinary uses of decent people. But there are thousands of people who either are not aware of the things which we have mentioned, or are indifferent to them. Only by hammering away at obvious rules of health and decent living can we make sure that they are known to everyone. Many people still cling, quite needlessly, to ways of living which are the direct causes of tuberculosis, and until they break their bad habits the disease will persist and increase. In this, as in so many diseases, fear and ignorance are the able allies of germs.

Death Of Cissie Loftus

The death of Cecilia Loftus in her sixty-seventh year will undoubtedly cause many people to exclaim—"I thought she was older", for her career on the stage covered more than fifty years. She first appeared on the stage when she was thirteen, and the charm of her personality won her an immediate success. She was one of the best loved players of her time

And yet she never depended on mere exploitation of her personality for her effects. She was a notable actress, and an artist through and through. She possessed, moreover, the most astounding talent for mimicry which living theatregoers have ever seen. Most mimics are bores. Cissie Loftus was an exception and a delight. Her mimicry of famous persons was more than clever imitation; it was caricature and criticism of a high order. She was a woman of unusual insight into human nature, and she captured not only the outward eccentricities of those she mimicked, but the inner feeling which gave rise to those personalities.

At fifteen she was married to Justin Huntley McCarthy, best known as the author of If I Were King. So early did she appear as a married woman that we have come to thing of her, quite wrongly, as an old woman. Now, when the curtain has fallen we find that she was younger than the part she played so well and so delightfully

Churchill The Playgoer

Apparently this paper and the Ottawa Journal are of one mind on the necessity for sensible and civilized recreation. Not long ago we commented on the fact that Mr. Churchill had taken an evening off to see Arsenic and Old Lace, the humorous murder play; we said that we thought that the Prime Minister, whose burdens are heavy, would bear them better as a result of his brief escape into a world where crime is a matter of comedy, and not of deadly earnest. Now the Journal makes pointed comment on the news that he recently took two evenings off to see two new plays by Noel Coward. This is what it says:

"Our Minister of Munitions, Mr. Howe, and our Navy Minister, Mr. Macdonald, and our Resources Minister, Mr. Gibson, occasionally take time out for a game of golf (we believe in being courteous and calling it that, anyway); but too many of the others just beat a path from their homes to their offices, act as if they thought the world would stop revolving on its axis were they to dare take an hour off to relax.

"This theory of indispensability is nonsense. If any single one of these gentlemen were to drop dead it would be a loss; but it wouldn't be such a loss as to lose the war or to affect its course in the slightest. The real loss is in people who try to do too much and end up by doing too little."

The Ottawa paper is near enough to these highly-placed gentlemen to know what they do; we have no such knowledge, and thus we cannot speak. But we know that the rank and file—those of us who are doing our jobs as well as we can, and such war work as we can crowd into our spare moments—are the better for a break and a jollification of some kind. Nobody wants to encourage slacking on the job, but a brief spell of relaxation and refreshment can do nothing but good. If Winston Churchill can do it, so can the rest of us. We are glad to hear that he went to two plays by Noel Coward. We hope he laughed a lot. His ability to laugh was one of our greatest assets in the days when things looked blackest.

A war expert says that the battle against Axis air-forces is a mere matter of mathematics. Meaning that we must subtract faster than they multiply, presumably.

The Speaker has ruled that M.P.s must wear their coats in the House of Commons. Presumably this was to preserve a measure of decency, as some of the members do not seem able to keep their shirts on.

Cost-of-Living Index

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

MR. Ilsley's statement on the cost-of-living index in the House of Commons recently served to emphasize the fact that very few people know how the Bureau of Statistics arrives at the index. There has been a strong and often expressed opinion, particularly among housewives, that the index is not a true reflection of living costs. To the extent that the index takes little account of shifting food prices in some instances, this opinion is correct. The index cannot possibly be a complete guide to living costs; it is used and intended as a point of reference.

AS Mr. Ilsley pointed out, the index is a measure of the month to month changes in the cost of living of the average Canadian wage-earner's family. In 1937 and 1938 the Bureau made a study of the living expenses of nearly 1,500 Canadian families. These families were specially picked as typical wage-earning families; each consisted of a husband and wife and one child or more. The average number of people in the family was 4.6, and the average family income was $1,453 a year. Officials from the Bureau asked these families to keep a careful record of their expenditures during the 12 month from October 1937 to September 1938. It was on the basis of these records that the Bureau knew how much importance to give to the various kinds of food, clothing, recreation, and all other things that come into the family budget. They divided the cost of living up into six main groups and found that they occupied the following proportions of the average living expenses of the families that were surveyed: food 31 per cent, fuel and light 6 per cent, housing 10 per cent, clothing 12 per cent, home furnishings and services 9 per cent, miscellaneous items 23 per cent.

IT HAS been argued that conditions have changed a good deal since that budget was prepared in 1937 and 1938. There are some goods that cannot be bought today, and the purchase of other goods is limited by rationing. However, the Bureau takes such changes as these into account. For example, automobile tires and tubes, steel frying pans, and bananas have been removed from the index since they are no longer regularly available. The weighting given to tea, sugar and motor operating costs has been reduced on account of rationing. Some changes in buying habits are so small as to have a negligible effect on the index, and in such cases, of course, there is no point in making adjustment. It should also be understood that when the Bureau takes an item from the index, that does not mean that the total living expenditures have been reduced. The amount of money that was formerly spent on these articles is regarded as being distributed among other items in the index.

LET us revert for a moment to one of the most frequently expressed criticism of the index. Many people want to know how it can possibly be maintained that the cost of living has only gone up 17 per cent during the war in view of the rise which has taken place in foods. They point to stewing beef which has risen by 78 per cent, lard which has risen 73 per cent, round steak which has risen by 68 per cent during the war, and so on.

It is perfectly true that these particular foods have risen by that amount, but it should be remembered that they represent only a small part of the cost of living. All foods put together represent less than a third of the cost-of-living index, and while some foods have risen substantially, other foods such as bread, sugar, etc., have remained steady, and milk has actually declined in price. These are important foods, and occupy a much larger part of the weekly family budget than many of those foods which have risen in price.

ALL foods are not in the cost-of-living index; those that are have risen by 31.8 per cent since the beginning of the war. This is a substantial rise, most of which occurred before the application of the price ceiling. It is also the part of the cost of living of which the housewife is particularly aware since she sees the effect of it upon her allowance for housekeeping expenses. The other items, which in many households are paid by the husband, have not risen by anything like this amount since the beginning of the war. Fuel and light have risen by 14.1 per cent, housing by 7.4 per cent, clothing by 20.3 per cent, home furnishings and services by 16.7 pr cent, and miscellaneous items by 6.8 per cent. The total index has risen by 17.6 per cent since August, 1939, out of this only 2.2 per cent since the establishment of the ceiling.

The point to be emphasized here is that the cost of food has risen by more than the other groups in the index, and the cost of certain particular food items has risen by a good deal more than the cost of food as a whole. Many people tend to regard the cost of living as just the cost of food. They forget that the cost of living also includes rent, and clothing, and electric light, and life insurance, and doctors' bills, and many other needs which have increased in price a great deal less than has food.

So when the lady of the house indignantly complains that the cost of living, by which she means the cost of the food, has risen more than the published index would lead one to believe, she is undoubtedly correct. However, this rise can only be regarded as another of war's costs which must be borne.

A Bible Message

What profiteth the graven image, that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, and a teacher of lies, that the maker of his work trusteth therein, to make dumb idols? Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him. (Hab. 2: 18-20.)

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else. (Isa. 45: 5, 6.)

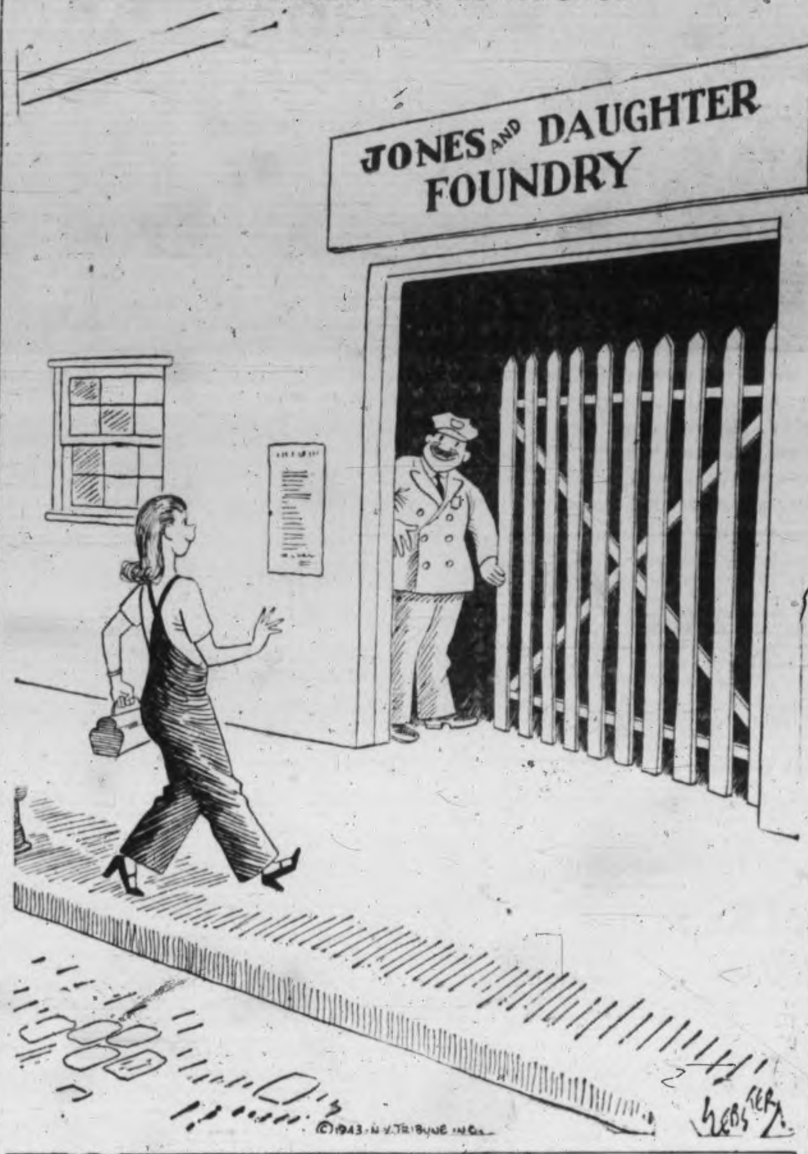
THE THRILL THAT COMES ONCE



Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 16 (CP)—There is more talk than ever in Washington of American commercial airlines being forced to follow the example of Canada and other countries in establishing a government-backed monopoly for foreign routes, particularly trans-Atlantic routes. The companies are dead set against it, preferring open competition among themselves and all others.

As an indication of how much interest there is in the development of commercial aviation after the war, it need only be mentioned there now are on file with the civil aernautics board nearly 200 applications to start new air routes and services, most of them domestic but many to the four corners of the world.

Wendell L. Willkie, according to those who know him best, now is convinced he can win the Republican nomination for president next year.

One of the reasons for his optimism is the remarkable sale of his book, "One World," an account of his round-the-world trip last year. A recent survey by the New York Times showed Willkie's book topping sales in 13 of 14 cities across the country. The exception was St. Louis which was more interested in a new cook book.

You can add cork to the long list of commodities in which the United States is seeking self-sufficiency as a result of the war. The U-boat has shut off the North American continent from Mediterranean cork supplies, only to spur developments to grow it in California, Arizona, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. At least 60,000 young trees are growing in these states and some property owners plan to plant as much as 1,000 acres in cork trees.

A cork tree must be 20 years old before the bark is ready for the first stripping.

Washington is all speculation about the reception that Congressmen and Senators are getting from the folks back home, now that Congress has recessed for seven weeks.

Will they return as determined as ever to block and tear down the domestic policies of President Roosevelt? Or are they finding that their constituents don't think much of those tactics and are telling them so? Are the people demanding politics as usual or a truce in wartime, even with 1944 elections just around the corner?

Washington would dearly like to know the answer,—in advance of the reassembly of Congress.

Our First Day in Peipei

OUR house in Peipei was not so lovable, though Peipei was a lovable little place. Indeed I wish I were still in Peipei; it was a miniature of the whole wartime life.

When we came down from the muddy lane to enter our house for the first time we heard a lot of noises like machine-gunning. What were machine guns doing in Peipei? There was a sucession of ta-ta-ta-ta's as we explored the empty echoing rooms. Here we were going to stay until the victory was won and we would march down the Yangtze. For the time being we would live here and help and work and hear ta-ta-ta-ta—until the victory was won. Let there be a ta-ta-ta-ta all day long, since there was a war on and we were willing to accept everything.

We were not excited about the house, but rather at settling down finally. We dragged in our baggage and started to put up the beds. We untied the bedding and scrubbed the beds, and then they looked extremely comfortable. It was five when we got through and we wanted to relax. But there was a carpet of mud on the floor; the chairs were still in disorderly positions; the suitcases were everywhere; and we needed water, candles, basins, stove, and every other thing that made a home. Ah, the beginning of work. Everyone was extremely cheerful. We took a few looks from the window. We did not know the streets, the houses, not even the direction. How was Peipei? How far? How large? We could see the green mound with a house in front of us and a road. The machine-gunning had stopped. There were trumpet calls. Where were we? "Put up the mosquito nets." I did so, standing on a not-very strong windowsill. It was dark and I could see little mounds of green and a few acres of farms from the window. It would be better to get the house tidied up first and then look around, so we did and cleaned the tables and hammered nails and tied strings as if we had known the house for a long time. The outside and Peipei should stay out of our mind for the moment!

Mr. Wang of the Ministry of Education came in, in the midst of all this. We were all anxious to see him as we remembered well his humorous articles in the magazines. He was just like his writing. His eyes disappeared when he smiled, and there was that deep, warm, loud voice when he laughed. He welcomed us to Peipei in a very formal and yet most sincere way. And we all felt that we would like Peipei in spite of the machine-gunning. He asked us to dinner, since we did not have fuel or food and no particular desire to eat at home.... We brought our flashlights, locked our doors, and went to town.

It was a good ten-minute walk from our home, and we joined Mr. Wang at his house which was a block from town. The road was then more crowded, and we got into the "city limit," which consisted of three main streets. It was already dark, but people hadn't lighted the vegetable oil lamps. We got a very vague idea of what the town looked like and to our great delight we counted five bookstores, probably due to the presence of the Fu Tan University across the river. We turned at some point and went into the restaurant which was already very full of customers. We went up the shaky and narrow stairway and landed in a small room all by ourselves.... We sat around the table. It was too impossibly dark to talk or eat. We heard that electricity would come on sometime and we waited for it. Suddenly there was a universal "Ah!" and claps of hands and, believe it or not, it was the electricity! Our room became very bright, which no doubt was due to the contrast of the inky darkness we had had a minute ago. Peipei was naive and simple and full of fun.

The dinner was sumptuous, too sumptuous for Peipei and for the ta-ta-ta. It was the best dinner we had in Peipei.... The walk back was beautiful. There were no street lamps and the circles of light from our flashlights guided us home. It was cool and dark and when we got home we lighted the candles. Our house was too far out of town to have electricity installed, but there was good news that in September it would be possible. We went to bed early, strangely excited, and our neighbour, Mrs. Yang, promised to wake us up in case of an air raid.—From "Dawn Over Chungking," by Adel, Anor, and Meimei Lin (New York: John Day).

Letter To The Editor

TRAVELLING TONSIL CLINIC

Editor Examiner;

Sir,—The following interesting letter has been received from Fred D. Peake of Toronto Public Schools.—

"Many Canadian citizens are making donations and sacrifices to build up the youth of our country, but we know of no more worthy or important work than the annual tonsil clinic carried on by Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner since 1937 at the request of the Red Cross.

I have had the privilege of accompanying Dr. Faulkner's party on two trips through our far north country. This year our former Minister of Health was fortunate in securing the services of Dr. A. G. McPhedran of Toronto, his personal physician, and Dr. Joseph Chant of Belleville, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, who has been chief surgeon since the clinic started, and has always been most willing to give his services and time to the cause. Dr. Anderson of Bancroft, also extended his helping hand and seemed most willing to help the boys and girls in his locality to regain good health.

On July 5th at Coe Hill, Dr. Faulkner and his party removed tonsils and adenoids from 27 boys and girls, who through no fault of theirs were unable to have the operation through lack of the necessary funds at the present time. The doctor concerned made no charge for their services. Their main concern is to build up strong boys and girls in the north where the land is poor and where these young Canadians have not the city advantages.

We were all delighted with the scenery in this part of Ontario. The lakes, rivers and evergreen trees were pleasing to the eye and the streams seemed to be well supplied with game fish.

At Coe Hill, Mr. W. Norman Gilroy, a former Reeve of the township of Wollaston for 7 years, gave the whole party a lovely speckled trout dinner. Mr. Chas. Rollins- Ex-Warden of Hastings County, and also of Coe Hill, gave us 16 speckled trout that we enjoyed the next morning at Chandos Lake, a very pretty summer resort about 8 miles from Coe Hill and owned by Mrs. Helen McCoy. The work was also carried on at Apsley where 25 boys and girls were operated on, 15 at Wilberforce, 27 at Haliburton and 17 at Whitney during the week.

I would like to mention in particular the splendid work of the Red Cross nurses who helped until all the boys and girls were able to be moved back home in safety. The parents are very grateful to Dr. Faulkner and his party and they sincerely hope that the clinic may be made permanent.

We have had a very acceptable surprise at Apsley where the Red Cross nurses provided us with a chicken salad luncheon. At Haliburton the Red Cross Hospital Board gave all the members of the clinic a lake-trout supper with wild strawberry pie, at Drag Lake Lodge, a beautiful summer resort. In addition to this we were served lunch at the Red Cross Hospital at Haliburton. This saved valuable time. Dr. Jamieson kindly contributed her time by assisting with the anesthetic while Rev. Mr. Smith worked strenuously helping with the patients.

We came on the main highway from Haliburton to Whitney. This included 40 miles through Algonquin Park where we observed several deer near the road. We stayed with Mrs. De Chaine at Whitney, where everyone is made welcome and her home-cooking is a specialty. We recommend this tourist home as 100 per cent for home comforts and good food.

We think it would be a worthy cause for any government to make this kind of clinic province-wide.

At present a record is being kept showing the progress of the children after their operation."

Davis-McConnell Bridal Vows at "The Evergreens"

A charming summer wedding took place on Wednesday, July 14, at "The Evergreens," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McConnel of Percy, when their elder daughter, Elizabeth Uldean, became the bride of Nelson Earl, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Omemee. The Rev. J. E. Glover officiated.

The house was decorated with white phlox, American beauty roses, and ferns, with pink and white streamers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a street length dress of blue sheer, with fitted bodice, with inserts of chantilly lace. It had a round neckline, and elbow length sleeves, shirred at the elbow, and the full skirt was softly gathered. A shoulder length veil, of embrodiered white tulle, was formed in cap effect, with tiny bands of white buds encircling the head. She wore a three strand pearl necklace and a corsage of pink roses.

Olive Windrem of Omemee, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, wearing a torquoise silk jersey, fashioned with full bodice and skirt, fitted at the waist. She wore a white hat with turquoise veil and corsage of pink roses.

The groom was supported by Boyd H. Windrem, his brother-in-law.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the immediate relatives. Mrs. McConnel, the bride's mother received in a gown of navy blue revelation crepe with a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Davis, the groom's mother, received in a soldier blue sheer crepe gown with a corsage of white carnations.

A buffet lunch was served by Dorothy Dyell and Hazel Davis of Peterborough, and Julia McConnel.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Davis left by motor for a short honeymoon to Belleville and points east. The bride travelled in a two-piece silk linene suit, white shoes, hat, and purse, and corsage of pink roses.

On their return they will live on the groom's farm at Omemee.

There were 25 guests present. Among them were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. J. G. Latta of Plainfield and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Franks of Omemee.

Woodcock—Yatton

MARMORA, July 15—(ENS). — The wedding took place at Actinolite on Tuesday evening, July 13, of Mrs. Annie Yatton of Marmora, and Phillip Wesley Woodcock, also of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Merritt Price.

After the wedding a chicken dinner was served at the Huyck Hotel, Tweed, by Proprietor and Mrs. T. E. Potts.

Upon their arrival back in Marmora, many of their friends gave them a gay and enjoyable evening, and joined in wishing them many years of happiness.

Black-Foster Vows At Campbellcroft

Garden Hill United Church, was the scene last Saturday of the wedding of Helen Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Foster, Campbellcroft, to John Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Black, St. Mary's. Rev. P. F. Gardiner performed the ceremony and the church was decorated with candelabra with white tapers and standards of Madonna lilies and delphinium. Mr. William Wickett supplied the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Margaret Tatum of Hamilton sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked beautiful in a gown of white mousseline de soie, touched with embroidery and net. Her long embroidered net veil caught with a Mary Queen of Scots headdress edged with pearls had been worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her flowers were a cascade of pink carnations, swansonia and fern. A sunburst of pearls gift of her grandmother, completed the bride's ensemble.

Attending her was Miss Margaret Roy, a college friend, and Miss Margaret McElroy, her cousin, in gowns of embossed taffeta, shell pink and turquoise, respectively, and picture hats of matching shades, Both carried nosegags of roses and violets.

The best man was Mr. Donald Graham, a college friend of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Lloyd Dunbar and Mr. Stewart Gray.

At the reception, in Greenwood Towers, Port Hope guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in midnight blue crepe, with matching hat and a corsage of scarlet and gold roses. With her was the groom's mother, in orchid sheer, white hat and a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Black left on a short wedding trip before taking up residence in Winnipeg. To travel the bride donned a printed green silk crepe ensemble, large black picture hat, and a corsage of white roses.

Campbellford Man Wed In Toronto

CAMPBELLFORD, July 16 — (ENS) — A wedding of local interest took place in Toronto at Roger's Presbyterian Church on Saturday, July 3 when Marion Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, Oakcrost Avenue, Toronto, became the bride of Leading Aircraftman Peter Winstanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Winstanley of Campbellford. Rev. W. E. Vesey officiated and the wedding music was played by Jack Russell, R. C. N. V. R. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white satin, with bodies of white lace and full skirt. Her veil of fine lace caught to a headdress of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of red roses and baby's breath. The attendants, Kathaleen Armstrong and Ruth Doran, were frocked alike in short powder blue silk jersey dresses. Their flowers were pink roses. Cpl. Charles Shaw assisted the groom and the ushers were John Britton and Frank Barrett. At the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Armstrong received in a flowered chiffon dress while the groom's mother assisted in a pink sheer. Both had corsages of white carnations. Following a honeymoon in Muskoka the newly weds will reside in Oshawa. For travelling the bride donned a green polka dot suit with white accessories.

Barlow-Gaffney Vows at Marmora

MARMORA, July 16—(ENS)—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning at the Rectory of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, when Lorraine Josephine Gaffney daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Gaffney of Deloro was united in marriage to Maurice George Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Barlow also of Deloro. Rev. H. J. Farrell performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a particularly striking street length ensemble of gold silk jersey with matching hat, chocolate brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Ford Wooodhouse, her sister, atended her in an attractive street length ensemble of robin's egg blue crepe with matching hat white accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. Jack Mebiodan of Deloro was best man. Following the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after which the young couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and Fort Erie.

DOROTHY DIX

MEN CAN'T SAY "NO". THAT'S WHY WOMEN DON'T POP QUESTION.

Girls Refuse to Marry with Same Ease As They Decline Dish Not to Their Taste.

Dear Miss Dix: Sometime before I became a member of the army I met a girl very casually at the home of a friend. She made so little impression upon me that I can't even remember what she looks like, and I never gave her another thought until a few months ago when she started writing to me and urging me to answer her letter, which I have done occasionally. She seems to think she is very much in love with me and I am afraid that she takes it for granted that we are engaged, although I have not intended to lead her to think that.

What would you do in a case like this? Do you think it is possible to fall in love with a person through correspondence? I am uncertain as to just how I feel about her and don't want to hurt her feelings. Should I tell her plainly that I will have to wait until I can know her personally before promosing to marry her? Why do you think that she should love me so much after only seeing me one time?

A PUZZLED SOLDIER.

Men Won't Say No

Answer: Well, Puzzled Soldier, after reading your letter I know why men have fought tooth and toenail against giving women the right to take the initiative in courtship, and especially why they have refused women the privilege of popping the question. It is because they knew that men would never have the intestinal fortitude to say NO when a woman said: "Will you be mine?"

Centuries of experience have enabled women to refuse to carry a man who didn't appeal to them as a husband, with no more ado about it than they would decline a dish that wasn't their taste, but apparently men think that they would be bound to marry any woman who asked for their hearts and hands and pocketbooks, pretty please. Which doesn't say much for either men's judgment or courage.

Coming down to your own case, Soldier, if ever a man was in dire need of a Guardian Angel, or a chaperon, you are he. For you seem to be falling an easy victim to the wiles of the most determined husband-hunter any man ever encountered, and she will get you if you don't watch out.

Think it over, Man, and use your head a little. Here is a girl you have never seen but once and then only for a short time. You had such a brief acquaintance with her you don't even remember what she looks like. Yet she forces a correspondence on you without any lead from you. She pretends to be in love with you and to think that she is engaged to you, though you have given her no reason for that, either. Can't you see that she wants to marry and has no boy friend at home, so she is taking a long shot at you And she is no more in love with you than you are with her. And if you let her get away with such holdup tactics and drag you to the altar, you will deserve what you get.

Of course, you are homesick and lonesome and lovesick, but even granting all of that, you shouldn't be such an easy comeon as that. Wait. There will be plenty of nice girls still left when the war is over, among whom you can have your pick instead of being picked.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Girls, and sometime very young girls, are having to fill many responsible positions vacated by men who have been called to the army. Many of these girls do not seem to realize that there is such a thing as business etiquette, and it is very disconcerting and annoying to their employers to have them flout every rule of shop

SOLDIERS DEFEAT THE COMBINES TO TAKE LEAD OF CITY LEAGUE

New Foeman To Meet Whipper Here

Whipper Billy Watson will wrestle here again next Monday night in the Brock Street Arena. The Whipper is being brought back by request of the majority of fans who saw him take the measure of Irish Pat Flanagan the other night. The British Empire champion proved he has the stuff that makes a champion and was one too many even for the brilliant and fine-conditioned Pat. Next Monday night Watson will meet an even tougher foe, however, in the famous Housepainter Hogan. Hogan has a great reputation on the Pacific Coast where he has walked rough-shod over the best in California. The Housepainter is now in the U.S. Navy and is getting off specially for this and another match in Canada. A rough and rugged athlete, Hogan backs up from no one on a wrestling mat and never having met the Whipper before has only one idea and that is that he will wring Billy out like a dishcloth and hang him up in jig time.

Those who saw the Whipper the other night, however, will give Billy at least an even chance, even recognizing the Housepainter's great reputation.

A New Enemy

Wins Highest Award For Rifle Shooting

MARMORA, July 16—(ENS). — Hugh O'Connor of Copper Cliff visited relatives in Marmora last week and received the congratulations of his friends here on winning the Dominion Marksmen's Expert Shield, highest award for shooting with a small bore rifle. Mr. O'Connor is a member of Copper Cliff Marksmen's Club, and only three of fifty-five were successful in the tests. To be successful, a contestant has to score a possible 100 at prone shooting, 98 of a possible 100 sitting or kneeling, and 95 out of a possible 100 standing.

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—A recent visitor to these precincts was Mrs. Violet Jean McClatchey, of Bartlesville, Okla., by way of South Orange, N.J., who stopped to put in a few good words for the common copper cent....She says that when 200,000 women bowlers start contributing coppers, they mount up, and as chairman of the war service committee of the Women's International Bowling Congress, she wants to keep the change pouring in. Last year the W.I.B.C. bought a bomber plane for the air forces, and "adopted" it crew....The girls found they had some money left over, so they bought an ambulance which will be presented to the army soon, probably at Columbus, O....They expect to pay for "one or more" ambulance planes at $80,000 each.

Impressive as these figures look, what really stirs Mrs. McClatchey's enthusiasm is the fact that a large part of the money comes from pennies dropped in the "kitty" for misses, splits, etc., during bowling matches.

Changing the subject as far as possible, the boys who came down from Buffalo for the All-Star baseball game say that Sen. Jim Mead is really steamed up over his idea of having the army and navy play football in some metropolitan centre where a lot of people would pay to see it....Wonder if he might be thinking of that big Buffalo Stadium that never has been clear full?

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Riding along on the crest of a four-game winning streak Manager Ted Johnston's Genelecs will clash with the Switch Gear club tonight in a City League battle at Riverside Park, starting at 7 o'clock. The last time the two clubs met the Switch Gear battlers nosed out the Genelecs 9 to 8 in a fighting game and Manager Chambers' outfit would be delighted to repeat the feat on this occasion, especially as they need a victory to keep within playoff range. Genelecs, too, want a victory to keep pace with the Soldiers who took over first place again last night by defeating the Combines. Terry Woods may be the Genelec pitcher, although Manager Johnston may decide to toss in Ronnie Akers who has won three games in a row for the club from the big plant. Manager Chambers has made no announcement as to his choice for tonight. It was Gene Reynolds who went the route against the Genelecs the last time out. There is keen rivalry between the two clubs and the tussle should be of the peppery variety.

* * * * * *

The Johnson Motor girls who nearly pulled one of the big surprises of the season Monday night when after having been badly walloped by Brintons a few nights before they came back so effectively that the carpet-makers were able to eke out a win by the narrow margin of one run will be in action again tonight at the Ashburnham Bowl. Their opponents will be the Generals and this should work up into quite a tussle. The near-win Monday night was the kind of encouragement the Outboard Marines needed and they should turn in their best effort of the season against the Generals as a result. If they do the C.G.E. girls will have to step to town to come through with a win. The pitching choices look like Lillian Fowler for the Outboard Marines and Pat Wilson for the Generals. The game will get away at 7 o'clock sharp.

Real Test For The Whip

Whipper Bill Watson will be here in the main bout of next Monday's big wrestling show at the Brock Street Summer Gardens but his opponent will not be Toar Morgan, the Fighting Marine, as was first intimated. Promoter Frank Tunney had a chance to secure an unusual attraction for Monday night and jumped at the opportunity so Peterborough fans will get the benefit of his decision. One of the biggest wrestling names on the Pacific Coast is that of the rough-riding Housepainter Hogan who has been spilling all and sundry in major mat clashes in California. Hogan is now a member of the United States Navy but he obtained leave to stage a bout in Canada. Tunney has taken advantage of this visit to book him for clash here with the Whipper and so it is all arranged for Monday night, the Watson-Morgan bout having been deferred for the time being to pave the way for the appearance of the rugged and durable Hogan. The two grapplers have never met but the Housepainter declares that he has flattened a lot of tough babies and sees no reason why he should not do the same with the British Empire champion. Local followers of the game predict, that unless Hogan is as good as he thinks he is, he is in for a rude awakening when he gets into the ring with the Whipper. It has all the earmarks of a bout crammed full of action and the international angle will add a lot of interest to the clash. Tunney is certainly giving Peterborough the benefit of a lot of big-time wrestling and building up a patronage here that promises to make the grunting and groaning business a permanent fixture in the sport scene.

Positions are changing over night in the City Softball League as the playoffs draw nearer. By beating the Combines last night the Military Training Centre took over sole possession of the top shelf with six victories as against three defeats. Close at their heels are Genelecs who can climb up on even terms with the Soldiers if they can knock off Switch Gear in tonight's battle. Manager Ted Johnston's team have won five games and been beaten three times. The 4th Battery team who have two games fewer than the leaders are third with four wins and three defeats, the Combines are fourth with three wins and three losses, the Switch Gear fifth with two wins and three defeats and the Cardinals in the cellar with no wins so far this season. Incidentally Secretary Scates announces that playing certificates of all the clubs must be handed in at once as the lists have to be sent into the O.A.S.A. not later than July 20. Clubs are asked to pay attention to this important bit of business without delay.

Here Was A Nice Duel

St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians came up with one of the smartest contests of the season in the American League yesterday. It was a pitching duel between Steve Sundra for the Brownies and Jim Bagby for the Tribe and the former won by 2 runs to 1 in a game in which all three runs were the result of homers. Vern Stephens, sensational Brownie shortstop who is having a great year won the argument when he socked a homer with a teammate on the bases. The one Cleveland run was also produced by a circuit clout from the bat of Ken Keltner. Sundra only yielded four hits in winning his seventh victory of the season while Bagby who has also won seven games but has suffered nine defeats held the Brownies to six blows. Both teams played errorless ball behind that de luxe pitching. It was a classic, that argument. Another feature of the American League card yesterday was the capture by Orval Grove of his eighth win of the season. The sensational young righthander who has not been beaten in the current campaign pitched a five-hitter as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 7 to 4. At Washington Alex Carrasquell came through with his tenth win as the Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox by 4 to 3 when he relieved Earl Wynn and Washington came from behind, aided by a two-run homer by Bob Johnston to win the argument.

* * * * * *

Maurice Van Robays, recalled by Pittsburg from the Toronto Leafs celebrated his return to the majors by slamming a double and two singles in a game against the Cards, the Corsairs winning 4 to 3. Lanier and Dixon did the pitching for the losers and Klinger went the route for the Pirates. He weakened in the ninth when the Cards scored two runs and had the equalizer on second but recovered in time to fan pinch-hitter Demaree for the third out. The Card defeat enabled the idle Dodgers to gain half a game on the leaders who had won six straight before being tripped up by the Pirates. The Phillies had a field day at the expense of the New York Giants. Dick Barrett pitched effective ball to hold the New Yorkers to seven hits while the Phillies cashed in on their own blows to make each one good for a run. They drove Rube Fischer out of there early. Elmer Riddle's winning streak was kicked in the slats by the Chicago Cubs who beat the Reds 8 to 0 last night. The Cubs bunched hits on Riddle in the third inning, getting four singles and a triple in a row and that was enough for the Red ace who up to last night had won 11 games and lost only four.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: A feature of last night's game was that the Soldiers drove in five of their nine runs on long flies to the outfield. ....Another was that winning pitcher Johnnie Walker struck out six men and also walked half a dozen while Freddy Elliott did not fan a batter or issue a base on balls....The Soldiers have only one game left to play in the regular schedule. Combines on the other hand have four to go and the Battery three....Old Luke Hamlin turned in a slick bit of pitching last night to defeat the Buffalo Bisons 3 to 1 for his 13th triumph of the year....Promoter Frank Tunney is giving Peterborough quite a card for the Monday night show....In addition to the main bout between Whipper Billy Watson and Housepainter Hogan he has matched the pugnacious Al Dunlop with Pat Flanagan and will send the new Golden Greek, George Tofalos in against the speedy Joe Maich of Brantford... There should be plenty of action on that card....Of the ten wrestlers who took part in the bill at the Maple Leaf Gardens last night,

Seesaw Battle Score Tied Several Times

Soldiers took over sole possession of first place in the City League race again Thursday night when they defeated the Combines in an interesting tussle at Riverside Park by 9 runs to 5. The loss sent the Combines down to fourth spot in the loop standing.

It was a see-saw battle, with the score tied several times. In fact the teams were on even footing with four runs each at the end of the sixth and even after the Soldiers had opened out a lead with a three-run splurge in the next frame, Andy Delpellaro's outfit scored a run in the eighth and had the bases full with only one out before the Soldiers got the situation under control. Then they cinched the verdict with two more runs in the ninth.

Johnnie Walker pitched the entire game for the winners and held the Combines to six hits but he gave six bases on balls and this generosity got him into trouble on a number of occasions. Walker however struck out six of the losers, some of the strikeouts coming in the clutch.

Freddy Elliott went the route for the Combines and in spite of allowing 14 hits made it a battle because he did not issue a single pass.

Howie Dalton and Tom Parsons led the Soldiers at the plate with three hits each. One of Parsons' blows was one of the longest homers of the season. Caccavella with two doubles was the only loser to get more than one hit.

Parsons covered a lot of ground in centre field to pull in six flies for the winners. A fast play by McKerrigan on a rap deflected by Dalton was a fielding gem by the Soldiers.

Dalton opened for the Training Centre with a single to right. McIlveen singled to centre and when McCormick threw high to third Dalton scored all the way from first and McIlveen went to third. McKerrigan flied to McCormick, scoring McIlveen. Parsons flied to Brockley and Taylor to McCormick.

The Combines evened it up in their half. Currie walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Nicholls fanned. Brockley singled scoring Currie. McCormick singled to left and when the ball got away from McIlveen, Brockley scored and the batter reached second. Calladine walked but the next two were easy.

The score remained 2-2 until the fifth when the Military Training Centre went in front again. Morgan singled to left but was forced at second on Herrick's tap to Currie. Walker flied to Murduff. Dalton also drove a long high one to right which Murduff dropped and Herrick scored. McIlveen popped to Elliott. The Soldiers made it 4 to 2 in the first of the sixth. McKerrigan singled to centre, Parsons to left and Taylor bunted safely filling the bases. Anderson forced Parsons at third, McKerrigan scoring. Morgan forced Taylor at third on a tap to Currie and Herrick also hit to the third baseman, forcing Anderson.

It was all tied up by the time the Combines finished their end of the innings. Calladine walked but was forced at second by Murduff after Girard had fanned. Caccavella doubled to left, sending Murduff to third. Elliott singled to right, scoring Murduff and Caccavella went home with the tying run when Currie's fly to left got away from McIlveen. Nicholls flied to McKerrigan.

Soldiers broke up the game in the seventh. Walker start-d it with a single to left and Dalton sliced another past Currie as he came in for a bunt. McIlveen sacrificed the pair along. McKerrigan flied to Murduff and when the right fielder's throw got away from Calladine, Walker scored and Dalton also registered on the play. Parsons drove a mammoth homer to deep left centre and the Soldiers were three in front. Taylor popped for the third out.

Combines made a bid in the last of the eighth. Girard walked and after Murduff had flied out to Parsons, Caccavella doubled to right centre. Elliott hit to Morgan who tried for Girard at the plate but lost him. Currie walked, filling the bases but Nicholls struck out and Brockley forced Currie at second.

The winners made sure in the pulling the Soldiers out of a whole. ninth. Dalton, McIlveen and McKerrigan all bunted safely in succession to fill the bases and then Parsons and Taylor flied to deep centre field, Dalton and McIlveen scoring after the catches. Anderson tapped to Elliott.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A general order was issued yesterday for the guidance of all club members throughout the province from the Hamilton headquarters of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, the memorandum covering playoffs, registration of players, recommendation of umpires, and local league schedules.

All players' certificates are to be signed not later than to-day and are to be forwarded to the Ontario secretary before July 20. Eligible players are those residing within a district prior to February 1, with the exception of members of the armed forces, bank employees and students. Winners are to be declared in the Senior A series on a date to be set by the O.A.S.A. executive committee and in Senior B series on or before August 29. Local league winners in all other series are to be established August 15. League schedules are to be revised(if necessary, to meet these dates and local playoffs must also conform to the 2 general arrangements. Local secretaries are asked to submit recommendations of umpires to handle O.A.S.A. games and the arbiters will be issued with an identification card.
